This woman says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved her life.

Mme. Emma Chatel, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I want to tell you that without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I would not be alive. For months I suffered with painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the feminine organs. Doctors could do nothing for me, and said I must submit to an operation as I had a tumor. One of my cousins advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had cured her.

"I did so and now I have no pain and am entirely cured. Your remedy is deserving of great praise."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Humble Folk

By C. B. LEWIS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

In a way they had been engaged for a year or more, Tom Salters and Linda Green—in a way, I say, because the humble people living in the coves or scattered cabins on the sides and crests of the southern mountains do not speak of "engagements."

It is taken for granted that when a "young feller" "hangs around" the cabin of a mountaineer possessing a marriageable daughter he has matrimony in view, and when the nearest neighbors are called in to see the couple jump the broomstick or stand up before a traveling preacher to be made one there is no surprise and little comment.

The father of Linda Breen had no questions to ask of Tom Salters. He had known his father for years. Tom had as yet no questions to ask of Linda's sire. Neither Linda nor her mother had referred to the subject. Many times when Joe Breen and the young man were out hunting squirrels or walking to the village together Tom would suddenly say without preface:

"Reckon me'n Linda better git hitched."

And the father of Linda would throw away the old quid, bite off another and after chewing away for a couple of minutes would reply:

"Yes, I reckon."

That evening the father would have a few words to say to the mother in private, and at a later hour she would casually remark to the daughter:

"Tom Salters wants you, and I reckon you'll be goin' in a few days."

Nineteen times out of twenty the marriage would follow. There would be a new squat of land taken up, a new pole-cabin built, and another family would go on making mountain history. But in this case no marriage followed. It was all on account of the arrival of Tom Salter's uncle from a village in the lowlands. He was in business down there and wanted help, so he had come for Tom.

Tom had no education, but he had native wit. He was known to be a "right smart" young man. The uncle talked of a broader field, a chance for education and a rise in the world. Linda must wait. At the end of a year or two Tom could come back and marry her and take her away.

And in the twilight of a summer's evening Tom and Linda sat on a log in front of her father's cabin, a space of a foot between them. Both looked into vacancy, and he told her of the plan.

He talked in a jerky, disjointed way, but she understood as well as if he had been a silver tongued orator. He had asked for her hand. He meant to marry her. He had no thought of disloyalty. The road seemed straight and plain to him, and he did not dream that there was a knife at her heart as she listened.

Men will never understand how far-reaching woman's intuition is. The girl followed Tom's words, and yet she saw months and months and months ahead of them.

Two or three times she instinctively reached out her hand as if to detain him, but drew it back without his having observed the action. Two or three times there were tears in her eyes, but she took care that he should not see them.

"Well, what do you reckon?" he asked us he had finished and the silence had lasted for a long minute.

"Better go, I reckon," was the reply.

What other answer could she have made, a tousled, barefooted, ignorant girl of the mountains, and yet would her woman's pride seek to detain him when he had proposed the separation?

They sat together for five minutes longer, and then they separated, she to enter the cabin and seek its darkest corner to let her tears flow and be to shake hands with her father and mother and bid them goodby.

It may be said of the lovers that both could "write a scrawl or two and both could read a scrawl or two," so scrawls passed between them. They were weekly at first, and then there were longer intervals. If Tom did not write, Linda could not answer. Then one day there came a neighbor who had seen Tom in person in his new field.

The speaker did not mean to wound or bruise, but he had seen a new Tom Salters, one who was no longer of those on the mountains. He had forgotten the crags and peaks for the streets of the town.

When the man had departed Linda's mother wanted to look her in the eyes. Linda wanted to do the same by her mother. Instead of so doing both turned their heads away. They said nothing of Tom.

What happened was all simple and natural. Tom Salters had entered upon a new life. It offered numberless attractions to the young man who had never traveled ten miles from the cabin in which he had been born, and it was but natural that he should soon begin to forget the old life and all that he had left behind.

His scrawls were indited at longer intervals and finally ceased altogether. He came to almost ignore the few mountain men he had known in other days. They looked at his new clothes, noted his speech and walk and went away shaking their heads. In their opinion this was rank disloyalty to the mountains.

By and by there came another messenger to the cabin in the cove where Linda waited. Again there was no desire to wound or bruise, but simply to impart news. Tom Salters was "shining up" to a handsome young girl down there in the town.

He had become almost a gentleman. No matter how right smart he had been before leaving home, he had surely become right smarter after his life among townsfolk. He would never return. He would marry and settle down where he was.

All this and much more Linda listened to with her elbows on her knees and her head in her hands. She sat thus after the caller had departed, and her mother dared not break the silence. It was Linda herself who broke it at last by lifting her head and quietly saying:

"I never reckoned on his comin' back. We hain't goin' to speak of him no mo'."

The mother crossed the room and patted the daughter on the shoulder, and the incident was closed. Mr. Breen was not even informed of the gossip.

Linda had not sung for months. She began singing now. She had not rambled from the cabin for weeks. She now began taking long walks. Laughter came to her lips once more, and when she stopped at the little post-office and was told that there was no letter her smile was not replaced by a look of disappointment.

"Linda's forgot about Tom and is gittin' perter than ever," remarked the father to the mother one evening as they sat alone.

The mother did not answer. She looked at him in contempt. As a mother she knew that Linda was simply breaking her heart. The true woman suffers most when she laughs most. She was watching Linda. There was an undefined fear that the girl's reckless spirit might lead to tragedy.

Weeks passed, however, and nothing happened—nothing except that Linda grew pale cheeked and thin, and a note of defiance rang in her laughter. She was suffering and yet defying the pain.

Then came a crisis. She was a mile down the mountain road one day, seated on a bowlder where she had often sat before watching the highway winding down into the lowlands and the busy world she knew not of, when a human figure came into view half a mile below. She recognized it even at that distance. A blush came to her cheek, and her eyes flashed. Tom Salters was coming back at last.

She saw that he was dressed as she had last seen him and that he walked with weary step and dejected attitude. Until he was within a quarter of a mile the girl was blushing and trembling and ready to raise her hand and shout a glad welcome. Then she became a thing of stone, except that she moved her eyes to note his progress. He did not discover her until he was within a hundred feet. Then he dropped the satchel he was carrying and sprang forward, her name on his lips.

The girl slightly inclined her head, but there was ice in her look.

"And you won't shake hands! You won't howdy! You won't say"—

She motioned to him to sit at her feet, and in a weary, hopeless way he obeyed. He waited a long minute and then in a husky voice began:

"I have come back to stay. I was a fool to go away. I was bo'n up yere, an' I might have knowed I wasn't fitten for down there. Mebbe somebody told you that I tried to be one of 'em. Yes, I did. I wore shoes. I wore store clothes. I tried to talk like 'em an' act like 'em, but I wasn't fitten. I thought I might be, but I never could be. Won't you speak to me, Linda?"

"Go on," she replied, still without looking at him.

"Mebbe—mebbe somebody from up yere told you about—about a gal down there. Yes, there was one. I fell in love with her, an' she—she made fun of me. She laughed at me. An', Linda, the fellers mocked me an' put upon me an' made game of me. I dun couldn't stand it no mo', an' so I have come back—come back to you—all. Won't you speak to me?"

For two minutes the girl sat and looked down the road as she had looked before. Then she rose, passed Tom and went up the road—went slowly up the road toward home and never looked back.

Unlearned, unlettered and ignorant of the ways of the world, she had the heart of the highest woman in the land, and she demanded expiation for a lover's disloyalty. Her mother read in her face what had happened and simply put an arm around her and whispered:

"There, there, child—by and by."

One evening three months later Linda sat in the moonlight on the same old log at the door. Again her elbows were on her knees and her face in her hands. By and by some one knelt before her and lifted her head and looked into her eyes and said:

"Can't you do it now, Linda?"

"Yes, I reckon," she replied as she gave him her hand.

And that, too, was "just like a woman!"

Funeral For Part of Finger.

A funeral much out of the ordinary was held in Littleton, Colo., a few days ago, when a full sized and quite expensive coffin was used in which to bury half of a man's finger and a piece of his scalp not larger than a dollar. A hearse was used and there were pallbearers. The section of finger and piece of scalp were all that could be found of Luther Hockman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hockman, who was blown to bits in the recent explosion in the naval torpedo station house of the Du Pont Powder Company at Louvier.

MAGISTRATE SPEAKS FOR ZAM-BUK

Magistrate Perry, of Goldfields, B.C., believes in making a good thing known. Writing of Zam-Buk, the great household balm, he says:—"After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years' standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for. I would certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in his home." The magistrate is quite right. Every home needs Zam-Buk! Unequalled for cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, blood poisoning and all skin diseases. All stores and druggists sell it at 50 cents a box. Sure cure for piles.

DON'T NEGLECT THAT SORE!

A Chicago man has just died from blood poisoning arising from neglect of a small sore. Don't neglect a cut, a patch of eczema, or an open sore of any kind. The air is full of poison germs, waiting to start up their evil results in neglected sores, wounds, etc. In Zam-Buk is safety. Zam-Buk is so highly antiseptic that applied to any skin disease or injury it makes blood poisoning impossible. In using Zam-Buk you have three processes going on at once for Zam-Buk is healing soothing and antiseptic. Try it without delay.

A GENUINE OFFER.

TEST ZAM-BUK AT OUR EXPENSE!

We appreciate the position taken by the man or woman who says:—"If your preparation is what you claim, you should have no objection to letting us try it before spending our money on it." To every person taking this view we say, send one cent stamp (to pay return postage) and name and date of this paper to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and we will mail you a free trial box of Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is purely herbal, suitable for the delicate skin of little children, yet powerful enough to heal chronic sores of long years' standing. All druggists and stores, 50c. per box, 3 for $1.25.

NOTES OF ANIMALS.

The Theory of One Writer About the Origin of Music.

Music did not have its birth "when Jubal struck the corded shell," as ignorant humanity has been led to suppose.

Music originated in the cry of the peacock, the bleat of the goat and the croak of the frog. According to an interesting article on the relationship between music and emotion, which appears in the Annals of Psychical Science, Dr. Henry Fotherby, the writer, also suggests that the appreciation of time and rhythm in music may be due to the rhythmic shock of the heart beat on the circulation.

The nerves, he says, may play an important part in the appreciation of musical sounds, and he points out the connection between the nerves and music by the tendancy to express music when heard by movements of the head and arms and sometimes by the trunk and legs.

Dr. Fotherby gives a feasible reason for the fact that the lower notes of the scale have always been employed to describe anger, fear and reverence, while the treble notes have been associated with sunshine, light-heartedness, sociability and love. The lower notes associate themselves with the growls of wild beasts, the moan of the wind in the forest, the roar of thunder. The upper notes imitate the songs of birds, the chirp of the grasshopper, the hum of insect life.

"The Hindoo note Sa, corresponding with our C," says Dr. Fotherby, "is the note of the peacock. Ri, our D, was the note of the lowing of an ox. These were always attributed to wonder and terror.

"Ga, or E, Ma, or F, were the cries of the goat and the crane respectively and were associated with compassion and love.

"Ni, or B, Dha, or A, were the notes of the elephant and the frog, the former associated with compassion and the latter with disgust or alarm."

SEAGOING SANITARIUM.

Ship For Invalids Undertaken by Builders of Mauretania.

According to the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna, a company is being formed to provide a floating sanitarium for invalids likely to derive benefit from a sea voyage, but whose requirements are not at all or only imperfectly met by a voyage on ordinary vessels. An English firm, builders of the Mauretania, have undertaken to build for $500,000 a vessel specially designed for invalids and devoted entirely to their needs.

Whereas ordinary vessels are obliged to follow a pre-established course and to take storm and sunshine as they may come, the floating sanitarium would go in search of good weather, seek shelter from bad weather and consult solely the welfare of its invalid passengers. The ship is to be designed to contain a swimming bath, hydrotherapeutic institutes and a hall for gymnastics and other exercises. All cabins are to be constructed so as to afford their occupants a maximum of direct light and air. The Adriatic and in particular the Austrian Riviera and the Dalmatian coasts are contemplated as the usual cruising ground of the new vessel.

Melancholy Thought.

When a man really gives his thoughts up chiefly to eatables and drinkables he generally ceases to think of anything else after awhile. It is related in an old book on French cookery that Fontenelle, a French author of the early part of the eighteenth century belonging to the school of the precieuses, or literary exquisites, was found one beautiful morning lying at ease on the slope of a hill.

In the valley was a large flock of sheep. They skipped about daintily, waiting for their guardian to take them home. A friend of Fontenelle surprised him gazing meditatively upon these sheep.

"Aha!" said the friend. "The amiable philosopher ponders without doubt upon the vicissitudes of life."

"Y-yes," said Fontenelle, "I had been carefully looking over this flock, and I said to myself, 'It is possible that among these 900 sheep there is not one tender leg of mutton!'"

Quite Modest.

"You took retainers from both husband and wife in this divorce case," said the court severely.

"Your honor," said the accused attorney, "let me explain. I was first retained by the man."

"No impropriety in that."

"Then, conscious that the husband had secured legal talent of such high order, I deemed it fair that the wife should have an equal show."

THE "LAST SUPPER."

Singular Story of the Masterpiece of Leonardo da Vinci.

Moldering away on the wall of the old monastery in Milan, Italy, hangs the famous "Last Supper" of Leonardo da Vinci. Like every masterpiece, the painting required many years of patient labor, and as a result of that labor it is perfect in its naturalness of expression and sublime in its story of love. In addition to these qualities, it has an incident in its history that contributes not a little toward making it the great teacher that it is.

It is said that the artist, in painting the faces of the apostles, studied the countenances of good men whom he knew. When, however, he was ready to paint the face of Jesus in the picture he could find none that would satisfy his conception. The face that would serve as a model for the face of Christ must be dignified in its simplicity and majestic in its sweetness. After several years of careful search the painter happened to meet one, Pietro Bandinelli, a choir boy of exquisite voice, belonging to the cathedral. Being struck by the beautiful features and tender manner that bespoke an angelic soul, the artist induced the boy to be the study for the painting of the face of Jesus.

All was done most carefully and reverently, but the picture was as yet incomplete, for the face of Judas was absent. Again, the painter, with the zeal of a true lover of his art, set about in search of a countenance that might serve for the face of the traitor. Some years passed before his search was rewarded and the picture finally completed. As the artist was about to dismiss the miserable and degraded wretch who had been his awful choice the man looked up at him and said, "You have painted me before." Horrified and dumb with amazement, the painter learned that the man was Pietro Bandinelli. During those intervening years Pietro had been at Rome studying music, had met with evil companions, had given himself up to drinking and gambling, had fallen into shameful dissipation and crime. The face that now was the model for the face of Judas had once been the model for the face of Christ.

A LOST JOKE.

Would Be Imitator of a Witty Man Made a Ludicrous Finish.

Congressman Quarles used to tell this: "I was a guest of a leading banker at dinner, one of your New York giants of finance, who had invited nearly a score of us to eat a bit, drink a bit and swap notions. Everything was lovely until the fifth course. The waiter was bringing in what appeared on the menu as 'langue fumee aux episards,' what we common old roustabouts call smoked beef tongue with spinach—and my favorite dish. He tripped at the door and spilled the tongue and greens on the carpet. The host, equal to the occasion, relieved us all, especially the waiter, by saying jovially: 'There's no harm done, gentlemen. 'Tis merely a lapsus linguae.' It was about the cleverest play of words I ever heard.

"Among the guests was a Broadway merchant, up from the gutter, worth about $3,000,000 and proud of his vocabulary, which was not unlike Mrs. Malaprop's," continued Quarles. "He shook with merriment at the banker's wit. The happy effect induced him to give a dinner the following week, with about the same guests, and, as I happened to learn afterward, he had directed his servant to let fall a piece of roast beef on the floor. The servant faithfully performed his part. Down went a splendid first cut, weighing about fifteen pounds, the delicious juices spattering everywhere. We all felt hurt at the accident. Some even groaned. 'Be not uneasy, my friends,' chirruped the would be witty host, 'tis only a lapsus linguae.'"

Snagging Salmon in Alaska.

I saw Indians on the Chilcat river fishing day and night. The fisherman walked along the bank carrying a pole on the end of which was a barbless steel hook.

Tossing the hook end of the pole into the stream, he turned it so that the elbow rested on the bottom. Then he gently drew the pole back and forth, and when he felt a fish strike the shaft he knew that a salmon was probably crossing over the pole, so he gave it a quick jerk, drove the hook into the fish's side and hauled it up on the bank.

This is called snagging salmon.—Forest and Stream.

Work It Out.

A man buys a pair of shoes for $3 and hands the shoemaker a ten dollar bill. The shoemaker goes to a grocer next door to have the bill changed and then gives his customer $7 change. After the latter has gone the grocer rushes in and declares that the ten dollar bill was a counterfeit. The shoemaker gives him five good one dollar bills, a two dollar bill and $3 in change for it. How much has the shoemaker lost?

The Daring Pike.

The boldness of a pike is very extraordinary. I have seen one follow a bait within a foot of the spot where I have been standing, and the head keeper of Richmond park assured me that he was once washing his hand at the side of a boat in the great pond in that park when a pike made a dart at it and he had but just time to withdraw it.

A gentleman now residing in Weybridge, in Surrey, informed me that, walking one day by the side of the river Wey near that town, he saw a large pike in a shallow creek. He immediately pulled off his coat, tucked up his shirt sleeves and went into the water to intercept the return of the fish to the river and to endeavor to throw it upon the bank by getting his hands under it.

During this attempt the pike, finding he could not make his escape, seized one of the arms of the gentleman and lacerated it so much that the wound took a month to heal.—London Fishing Gazette.

He Caught O'Connell.

Daniel O'Connell, the famous orator, when taking a ride in the neighborhood of his house had occasion to ask an urchin to open a gate for him. The little fellow complied with much alacrity and looked up with such an honest pleasure at rendering the slight service that O'Connell said:

"When I see you again I'll give you sixpence."

Riding briskly on, he soon forgot the incident and fell to thinking of graver matters, when, after traveling some miles, he found his path obstructed by some fallen timber, which a boy was stoutly endeavoring to remove. On looking more closely he discovered it to be the same boy he had met in the morning.

"What!" cried he. "How do you come to be here now?"

"You said, sir, the next time you seen me you'd give me sixpence," said the little fellow, wiping the perspiration from his brow.

The Very Thing.

The old gentleman poked his nose in and out of the mysterious corners of the furniture shop.

"By the way," he said suddenly, "my daughter has just started to—er—have a young man come calling, and I suppose I really ought to get a pretty sofa for them to make love on."

"Most certainly, sir!" responded the suave shopman. "And here, I think, I have the very thing you need. It is called 'Cupid's Retreat' and is specially suited for courting couples."

"Specially suited?" repeated the old gentleman. "Well, what is its particular good point?"

"Why, sir, the particular good point is this—the pretty covering you see before you is guaranteed to wear off in just one year."

"And what on earth's the use of that?" asked the old gent.

"Why, sir, because it leaves displayed a card upon which are written the words, 'Time to get married!' Neat, isn't it?"—London Answers.

Sure of Water.

Sir Joseph Prestwich had bought in 1864 a small estate near Sevenoaks, on which he built a residence, but it was high up on a dry and treeless chalk down. Where was water to be found?

So confident was Prestwich in respect of water supply that he at once engaged an old well digger to sink a well 168 feet deep. The boring proceeded, but when a depth of 166 feet was reached the two workmen went to the city and sought an interview with their employer, whom they found at his desk. They explained that there was no sign of water and that in their opinion it was useless to bore to a greater depth. "Go on," was the quiet rejoinder. "You will come upon water tomorrow. You are within two feet of it." Next day it proved exactly as Prestwich had foretold, and ever after, among many of the denizens of the valley, he had the reputation, much to his amusement, of not being quite "canny."—"Life and Letters of Sir Joseph Prestwich."

Plato's Theology.

It is difficult to say what idea Plato had of the Deity. The best scholars in the world have been trying to settle the question for centuries without having reached anything like an agreement. But it is clear that he believed in a supreme power and intelligence, which he seems to make synonymous with "wisdom" and "goodness." Whether he considered the Deity to be "personal" or "impersonal" it is impossible to say. Plato taught the doctrine of future retribution and exonerates God from all responsibility for physical and moral evil.

THE OLD BROKEN RECORD.

How dear to this heart is the phonograph's singing!
What fond recollections my memory stir!
Sweet Jane does the winding and turns on the music,
While I sit and tell her the tunes I prefer.

But, oh, how it tears my nerve system to tatters;
Oh, how it deranges my comfort and bliss,
When Jane idly slips on an old broken record
Which reels off a song that sounds something like this:

"The old oaka-ka-ka—bucka-bucka-bucka—

For often when callers appear on the scene
And topics are scarce it is truly a pleasure
To bring out our dear little talking machine.

The time passes quickly, and every one's happy;
The phonograph pleases till Jane, so remiss,
Forgets about winding the works of the treasure,
Which drawls out a tune that goes something like this:

A GERMAN SATIRE.

The Egyptian Life and the End Page of the Herring.

The experiments of men of science sometimes furnish amusement to those who are not particularly interested in the slow, minute and apparently insignificant investigations by means of which important physical facts are learned. It is interesting to know that if we cut off the tails of forty successive generations of mice at their birth not one mouse, even in the fourth generation, will be born without a tail. But when the mas of science was engaged in cutting off the baby mice's tails all the world laughed at him. The slow experiments to test the possibility that by degrees an animal may change its habitat—a land animal taking to water, and so on—were thus amusingly satirised in Germany:

Somd time ago Herr Professor Schlitser, the eminent biologist who is making experiments relative to the changes of habitat made by animals, captured a live herring. He took the fish home and kept it in a large vat of salt water. Every morning the professor dipped out of this vat half a teaspoonful of salt water and replaced it with an equal amount of fresh water.

The herring survived and passed his days apparently in the best of spirits. In the course of time the water in the tank was rendered completely fresh. Not a grain of salt was left in it. And still the herring remained cheerful and in good health. Next the herr professor began to deprive the fish, little by little, of the fresh water element in which he lived. In this also he was successful, and after a time the herring gamboled around in a perfectly dry tank.

The herr professor next put the fish in a birdcage, and the intelligent creature continued to thrive. But one day the herr professor noticed that something seemed to be the matter with his pet.

He had forgotten to give it anything to drink.

Thereupon he put a dish of water in the cage.

The next morning, when the herr professor came to look at his fish, a melancholy sight met his gaze. The herring had fallen head first into the dish of water and had been drowned.

THE MAN KILLING CAMEL.

A Turk's Consideration For the Brute's Future Owner.

There had come with us from Hebron a Turkish soldier riding a young camel whose virtues he boasted and indeed exhibited—the clean limbs, the stride and the docility of the beast. It seemed a worthy camel—a camel of excellent humor and of disguished promise—and it was much coveted by the way. At night, as the custom is, the man was used to sleeping close to his beast, the winds being chill, but now at Rafieh, while the mules were unloading and the cook was coaxing his fire, he tethered the camel, flung his saddle on the sand and went off to the mud barracks to hobnob with the Egyptian frontier guard. I was presently alarmed by the cook's outcry and a rising excitement in camp. The docile camel was viciously trampling his master's saddle, stupidly believing that he was engaged in his master's murder—a savage and dreadful attack, a rearing and heavy plunge.

"What!" ejaculated the Turk when he was informed of this. "Have I cherished a man killer?"

The camel was heartily beaten and reduced to his knees, whereupon his doubled fore leg was tied so that he could rise but with difficulty, and we withdrew to observe his behavior, for his master was not yet convinced. Rise he did, a persistent, silent effort, and cautiously approached the saddle, which he attacked as savagely as before, but now with one hoof.

"I have had a narrow escape," said the Turk. "My camel would have killed me tonight. By God and Mohammed, the prophet of God," he swore, "I will sell the beast in the bazaar at Beersheba."

I inquired concerning the future owner's prospect of long life.

"He is in God's hands," was the answer.—Norman Duncan in Harper's Magazine.

A Great Way Off.

Mr. William Miles, late verger of Rochester cathedral and the original of Mr. Tope in "Edwin Drood," was a great favorite with the late Dean Hole. On one anniversary of the verger's birthday, after a pleasant greeting, the dean asked:

"How many children did your mother have?"

"Oh, I am the eldest of twelve!" replied Mr. Miles.

"Then," said the genial dean, "you never saw your youngest brother."

"Oh, yes, I did!" answered Miles.

"What! With ten miles between you?" said the dean chaffingly.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Pole Discovery Must Be Proved.

Over their lunch the fishermen, at ease in the bobbing boat, talked about Peary.

"Why doesn't he just lie about it—come back and say he's reached the north pole and let it go at that? It would save a lot of money."

"Yes, it would save money, but Peary must bring back proof."

"How can he bring back proof?"

"With his camera. It is like this. Only at the north pole would the shadow of a bullet suspended from a string describe in a day's time a perfect circle. Everywhere else the shadow would be elliptical. Well, Peary, if he ever gets to the pole, will hang up his bullet and photograph an arc of his circle. He won't photograph the whole thing, because at the north pole a full day is six months long. The arc, though, will tell the story to scientists. It will be the proof that no fake has been worked."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Queen's Love of Animals.

I love all animals, even spiders. They spin so cleverly and are such excellent mothers. Besides, they are musical. My friend the Swedish composer Hallstrom told me that for a long time he had two spiders which would let themselves down from the ceiling by long threads when he played and station themselves on the piano to hear the music. Of ants and bees I will not speak. One who does not love them is so stupid that I have nothing to say to him. Even wasps are not as black as they are painted. For snakes only I have no liking. They terrify me. But my aversion is doubtless due to the fact that I have not studied them enough. It seems to me impossible not to love an animal whose innocence and goodness one has accurately comprehended.—Carmen Sylva in Century.

A Noiseless Room.

For many physical researches a perfectly noiseless room is a desideratum. If such could be devised it would open out new possibilities of research. At the University of Utrecht the problem has been apparently successfully solved by the room designed by Zwaardemaker. The walls and ceiling of the room are eleven inches thick and are formed of six separate layers. The first consists of a feltlike material of horsehair known as trichopiease. This is followed by a layer of porous stone isolated from the floor by sheet lead. An air space of about an inch is followed by wood and then a course of ground cork and sand. The final layer is of specially prepared ground cork known as korkstein.—London Globe.

"Stage fright" is surely among the most mysterious of sudden seizures. It begins when the actor or speaker thinks "they are not interested in me." It ends when he determines "I will, by [illegible]."—London Chronicle.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a great advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative capacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of fair claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response from the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

W. R. Stratton.

STICKING TO THE POINT.

The Question That Won a Good Position For a Boy.

A lawyer wanted an apprentice and placed an advertisement in the local paper. A number of boys replied, so he gathered them all together in his office at once and looked them over. He found it pretty hard to make a choice, but at length a happy idea struck him.

"Once upon a time," he said, "a farmer was very much annoyed by a huge rat that made a very comfortable living by feeding upon his grain and other products. He tried traps of all kinds to catch it, but the wily rodent evaded them all and apparently enjoyed the game of hide and seek that the farmer had devised for its recreation. One day, however, as the farmer turned the corner of a haystack, carrying a gun in his hand, he spied the troublesome rodent at the edge of the hay. Instantly raising his gun, he fired, but the blazing gun wad dropped among the hay"—

Here the lawyer stopped, and, looking at the boys, he said, "If any of you want to ask a question, write it on a piece of paper." Each did as suggested, and here are some of the questions that were asked:

"Did he set the hay on fire?"

"Was the stack burned to the ground?"

"Did the farmer have his hay insured?"

"Was the fire engine near at hand?"

"Was the rat killed?"

The boy that asked the last question was chosen because he stuck to the point.

LOWERING THE FLAG.

The Regulation Method of Half Masting the Colors.

The method of showing honor to the dead through the position of the flag, placing it at half mast—it is termed in naval circles, in the army, at half staff—is described in article 41, paragraph 428, of the United States army regulations as follows:

"Where the flag is displayed at half staff it is lowered to that position from the top of the staff. It is afterward hoisted to the top before it is finally lowered."

"At military posts," said a sergeant of the army recruiting station, "where the flag staff is planted in the ground it is usually in two sections and about eighty feet high. When the flag is placed at half staff it is customary to lower it to the middle of the upper section, which in this case is considered the staff. At forts and other posts where flags are on top of buildings the flag, when placed at half staff, is hanging from the middle of the staff, the central point of the flag, the lower corner of star section coinciding with a point midway between the top and bottom of the staff."

"When a flag is placed at half mast in the navy," said a lieutenant of the United States naval recruiting station, "the distance between the top of the flag and the top of the mast is made to equal approximately the distance between the bottom of the flag and the base of the mast."

A Greater Wonder.

An inspector was examining a very youthful class of Scotch boys, and among other subjects he requested the teacher to ask her pupils a few questions in nature knowledge. Desiring her class to do her honor, she decided upon the simple subject, "Chickens."

"Now, children," she said, "I want you to tell me something very wonderful about chickens."

"How they get out of their shells," promptly responded one little fellow.

"Well," said the teacher, "that is of course wonderful, but I mean something more wonderful still."

There was a silence for a few seconds. Then up spoke little Johnny. "Please, ma'am, it's mair wonderful hoo they ever got intae their shells."

Ready For the Dollar.

Marjorie, aged nine, had not been having very satisfactory reports from school. Her father finally said, "Marjorie, for the first hundred you get I'll give you a dollar." Time went on, and the reward could not be claimed. One day the child was taken violently ill. Her mother sent for the doctor. When he had gone Marjorie said, "Mamma, am I very ill?"

"No, dear; your temperature is a little over a hundred, but the doctor thinks you will be all right in a day or so."

Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears.

"Now, mamma, I can have my dollar. Papa said he would give it to me if I could get a hundred in anything."—Delineator.

Woman's Way.

When a man goes out to buy a collar he comes back with a collar and perhaps a necktie or two. When a woman starts out to buy a collar she returns exhausted with a new silk waist, a pair of gloves, some skirt binding, a cake of soap, a paper of pins, some window curtains, a sewing machine and a refrigerator.

Realism.

"Advertisements on the scenery!" exclaimed the star. "That's carrying commercialism really too far."

"It isn't commercialism," exclaimed the manager. "We want the scene to look like a real meadow, don't we?"—London Tit-Bits.

Anxious.

"I feel uneasy about my money."

"Why, I didn't know you had any."

"I haven't. That's the reason I feel uneasy."

"Did you see where a man found sight through an attack of hysterics?"

"For heaven's sake, don't mention that before my wife, for she wants another 'Merry Widow,' and I can't see it."

HOW TO CURE A HEADACHE

To attempt to cure a headache by taking a "headache powder," is like trying to stop a leak in the roof by putting a pan under the dripping water. Chronic headaches are caused by poisoned blood. The blood is poisoned by tissue waste, undigested food and other impurities remaining too long in the system. These poisons are not promptly eliminated because of sick liver, bowels, skin or kidneys.

If the bowels do not move regularly—if there is pain in the back showing kidney trouble—if the skin is sallow or disfigured with pimples—it shows clearly what is causing the headache.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure headaches because they cure the cause of headaches. "Fruit-a-tives" act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin. "Fruit-a-tives" keep the system free of poisons.

"Fruit-a-tives" come in two sizes—25c and 50c. If your dealer does not have them write to Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

QUEER EXPRESSIONS.

Used by Those Who Wish to Swear Without Being Profane.

Pseudo swear words are of strange and wondrous kind, and great ingenuity is used in thinking them up. Of course "darn" and "durn's" parentage is not hard to guess, but such expressions as "geewillikins," "golly" and "gosh," when used as substitutes for profane words, are harder to trace.

A southerner once was heard to use in the course of a single description the expressions "dog bite 'em," "gosh all fishhooks," "dad rat 'em" and "jumpin' gee whiz."

From a man who lives in Connecticut come these expressions: "Great horned toads and firecrackers," "gum swat," "gol dast it" and "by the tarnal bowwows."

A Pennsylvanian is responsible for the expression "sacrificial pollywogs," the meaning of which is not exactly clear. Many Hoosiers swear "by gravy," and the exclamation "jiminy krauts" is common in some parts of the country. A Chicago man relieves his overwrought feelings after missing a shot in billiards by shouting "sacred camels" and "monk of the forest."

The Germans like to make remarks about thunder and lightning when they wish to be real naughty, the Frenchmen take to little sayings about a "thousand cannons" or some large number of "thunders," and sailors are credited with great oaths embodying the "great horn spoon" or a willingness to "shiver my timbers," but probably the American who wishes to swear without being profane finds as many queer expressions as any one.

GOLD AND SILVER.

The Process of Assaying Both Metals Is Identical.

The process of assaying gold and silver is identical. The metal is first put through a highly heated furnace and melted, the sample for assay being dipped out while the metal is in a liquid state. Next the sample is thrown into a vessel of cold water, when granulation ensues. Taken from the cold bath, it is boiled in sulphuric acid, the silver dissolving, while the gold is precipitated to the bottom, where it is caught in proper receptacles.

The acid is now drawn off and the metal placed in another vessel laid with sheet lead, the bottom being plates of copper. Chemical action now sets in, the acid, copper and lead being in a ferment. While the gold is being precipitated the silver, if there be any in the sample under test, is being deposited in thin metallic sheets on what before the fermentation set in were the copper plates, but which have now been transformed into blue vitriol or sulphate of copper.

After the metals have all been deposited they are gathered up and with the impurities still remaining pressed into cakes by a hydraulic machine which has a pressure of 200 tons. Again it is melted (the gold and silver each in separate vats, of course), the pure metal being again deposited and the impurities, aided by chemical action, left floating on the top. The next and last process runs the metals into ingots ready for the markets of the world.

Making a Dictionary.

When Johnson got his famous dictionary started he calculated that with six assistants he could complete the task in three years. It took him nine years instead. He received the small recompense of $7,500 and had to pay his assistants out of that.

Webster worked twenty-four years before his dictionary made its bow to the world. Webster was very punctilious in his definitions and so painstaking that it was a wonder he completed the work when he did.

The words which give the compiler of a dictionary the most trouble are the little one syllable Saxon words. Their history extends back into the Saxon period, and their meaning has become twisted in many directions. Words with pedigrees are the hardest to trace.

A Remarkable Lady Athlete.

Apropos of the article which we recently published on feats of lady cricksters, it will probably interest many readers to learn that Miss Mabel Bryant, one of the best lady hockey-players in England, is equally skilful at cricket. She can not only score well against men's bowling, but is a very good bowler herself. In a cricket match some time ago she made 234 "Not out," which, we fancy, must be a record score for any lady player. In the same match Miss Bryant also accounted for ten wickets, carrying away a piece of one of the stumps she broke in bowling as a memento. Miss Bryant is now at Liverpool Physical Training College, and teaches the games there.

"THE WARD."

Toronto's Famous Slum Is a Picturesque Quarter By Night.

The average citizen strolling through St. John's Ward, Toronto's slum and foreign section, at night, would have been amazed at the cosmopolitan aspect it is assuming.

On one street corner stood a half dozen pushcarts, manned by swarthy sons of Italy, selling dairy ice cream, one cent a cone; long-whiskered Hebrews selling bananas and other fruits by the cent's worth, and hundreds of the denizens of the ward surrounding these pushcart merchants and purchasing their wares. Along comes a pedlar whose wealth permits him to be the owner of a wagon drawn by a sorry-looking beast, which one might mistake for a horse were he in a hurry, and this wealthy pedlar has a dozen or so watermelons in his wagon, which he cuts into slices at a cent a slice. The next thing one notices is a crowd of women, some well dressed, others in shabby clothes, surrounding someone outside of a small store, and on investigation one finds a man with a box of fish, which the women are purchasing. Those that can afford it buy a box of fish, and for those who cannot afford a whole fish, the merchant will sell a half or quarter.

The most interesting sight of all is the chicken merchant, who has as an ally a rabbi ready to kill the fowl for his customers, and this merchant also sells portions of a fowl to those who cannot purchase a whole.

The butcher shops, of which there are a dozen or so in the district bounded by Yonge and University and Queen and College streets, are all filled with women, who are purchasing their supply of meat, as the Hebrews do all their cooking on Friday for the Sabbath and the people have not the time to do any shopping on Friday.

Then one notices the number of ice cream parlors which abound in this district, which are all crowded with perspiring people eating ice cream and drinking ice cold soda water in their efforts to get a little relief from the terrible heat of the district. In going through this district one must not be too fastidious, as the wardites are not fastidious people, and walk around these hot nights with as little clothing on them as the law allows, and allowance can be made for this when it will be remembered there are about 20,000 people living in an area which should not shelter more than 5,000 at the most, and notwithstanding the overcrowding there is very little sickness in the district.

Among the nationalities reported in the ward are Turks, Russians, Pollocks, Italians, Jews, Roumanians, Macedonians, Sicilians, Negroes, Frenchmen and Germans.

SWEAT SHOP LABOR.

Conditions In Canada Vie With the Worst Found Abroad.

Harrowing were the details brought out in a recent discussion of the "sweating system in the City of Toronto" at the Labor Temple of that city by representatives of the Ministerial Association, the Labor Council, and the United Garment Workers of America.

Instances were cited by several speakers, where clothing shops were having clothing made in filthy coups, where men and women were crowded into close sweltering quarters with but one lavatory for both sexes, and where wages were outrageously low. This was why the United Garment Workers' Union were putting up such a hard fight to force the clothing manufacturers to have all their work done under one roof, as against farming sections of a garment out to be made under sweat shop conditions. The contract system was deplored because it reduced the rate of operators' wages to the life lide and forced these conditions. In many factories in the city children under 14 years of age were employed. Wages were so low that parents found it necessary to permit their children to work to keep starvation away. Great difficulty was being encountered in trying to persuade the Government to enlarge the Factory Act so as to include tenement houses, where the greatest evil existed.

In many places garments were being made in filthy quarters, where men, women and children sleep, cook and eat, and sometimes when the weather was frigid these poor unfortunates were compelled to use the clothing they were working upon to cover themselves.

A certain low grade of foreigners had been responsible for reductions in prices of cloak-making, on account of the miserable conditions under which they lived. Efforts were being made to organise these and improve their mode of living.

Drowned Pastor Was Fighter.

Rev. C. B. Brown of Beamsville, the victim of the Jordan drowning accident a short time ago, was particularly noted for his strong denunciation of the gambling evil, and one night last winter, holding that the officers of the law had not been as active as they should be, he personally raided a turkey raffle being held at a farmhouse near Beamsville.

He went through with the case to the end, and his evidence convicted the guilty ones. There haven't been any raffles around Beamsville since, it is said.

Mr. Brown's death, a St. Catharines man who was there declares, was due to his refusal to take a dare. He had swam across the harbor several times and the boys who were swimming with him dared him to cross again. The doctor who was called said that his heart probably gave out. His wife witnessed the drowning.

Commandeered Eggs.

Fredericton soldiers, returning from the Quebec tercentenary, commandeered a basket containing eight dozen eggs, and devoured the lot. The eggs were the property of a traveler for a Fredericton wholesale house, who made an unsuccessful effort to collect pay from them. The soldier boys claim that they were without food since leaving Quebec, and took the eggs to appease their hunger.

BREATHE HELP FOR CATARRH

Druggist Wm. Madill Having Splendid Reports From Hyomei Users.

It's the poison germs in the air you breathe that creates and feeds catarrh. Hyomei simply catches these germs on their way to work and destroys them. The first breath of Hyomei air kills all catarrhal poison.

This makes the air you are breathing inward helpful, it goes on its way through the air passages, bronchial tubes and lungs charged with germ destroying power that cannot be resisted, it soothes and heals the wounded and inflamed membrane.

That is why Hyomei is so instantly helpful for any distress of the breathing organs, colds, croup, bronchitis, asthma or dreaded pneumonia, they are the germ life that Hyomei kills.

Complete guaranteed outfit $1.00. Sold by Wm. Madill, talk to him about it.

Lascelles Made a Chief.

The last night of his stay on the Plains of Abraham by the flickering light of camp fires and with all the strange ceremonial attending such occasions, Mr. Frank Lascelles, master of the pageants, was initiated as a Chief of the Iroquois. The presentation of the Wampum necklace, the feather and the head dress, with the christening of the new chief Tehonikonraka, the man of resources, was followed by the initiation dance, after which several of Mr. Lascelles' assistants were made minor chiefs.

By some extraordinary merging of east and west the ceremonial and the merry-making concluded with the singing by Indians and white men of "Auld Lang Syne" around the flag.

MR. BORDEN APPEARS IN LONDON

Conservative Leader Has Audience of Five Thousand.

SAYS LITTLE OF POLICY

Full of Criticism of Laurier Administration, Mr. Borden Fails to Give Definite Outline of What He Proposes to Do If Elected—Laurier Also In London—Bourassa Appears on Stump.

London, Ont., Sept. 23.—The paths of the Premier and the leader of the Opposition crossed last night, and while Sir Wilfrid Laurier was resting here preparatory to starting for Clinton to-day, Mr. Borden was addressing a meeting of his supporters in the Princess Skating Rink. All the resources of Conservatism in Western Ontario had been called upon to provide a reception for Mr. Borden which would offset the effects of the Premier's tour, and the result was a gathering numbering about 5,000 and a welcome which was most cordial. It might have been expected that with such an opportunity the Conservative leader would devote some of his time to explaining what his policy, constructive or otherwise, is, but the large audience, though listening intently throughout, listened in vain for the illumination desired. The Halifax platform was scarcely mentioned, and beyond a vague definition of the attitude of the party towards protection there was nothing to indicate what Mr. Borden proposed to substitute for the policy to which he devotes so much criticism. If the speech last night suggested anything it was that the leader of the Opposition is very sore as the result of the Premier's sting. Time and again he complained of what he called the flippancy of Sir Wilfrid, and he even went so far as to assert that the Premier had made dishonorable statements.

Accompanying Mr. Borden were Premier Roblin; Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary for Ontario; Attorney-General Bowser of British Columbia; Hon. Adam Beck, Hon. J. O. Reaume. Messrs. Roblin and Bowser spoke at such inordinate length that Mr Hanna was almost crowded out of the program.

Major Beattie, who was the first speaker, predicted that on the night of Oct. 26 Mr. Borden would be Premier.

Among the prominent Conservatives on the platform and in the audience were: Hon. Adam Beck, Sir John Carling, Alex. F. McLaren, ex-M.P., Stratford; J. E. Armstrong, ex-M.P., Hon. Dr Reaume, ex-Mayor Judd, T G. Meredith, T. W. Crothers, candidate in West Elgin.

ITALIANS SEEK REVENGE.

Black Hand Body Burn Out New York Tenement.

New York, Sept. 23.—One man was seriously hurt, a dozen or more were rescued from almost certain death by policemen and firemen and the lives of a hundred more were imperilled when members of a back hand band yesterday sought to avenge two of their fellows who are now serving terms in prison.

The two men were convicted recently of attempting to blackmail tenants in the big apartment house at 333 East 113th street. Almost immediately after they had been sentenced, other persons living in the house received letters bearing the black hand signature and warning them that the house would be destroyed. Early yesterday a passing policeman saw smoke pouring from the street door and opened it to find the hall a mass of flames.

Nicola Devilo became panic-stricken when he heard the flames roaring up through the halls and sprang through a three-storey window to the street.

CAN HAVE FULL SECTION.

South African Veterans Are Entitled to 640 Acres In All.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—A committee of the South African Veterans' Association waited upon Mr. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Interior, yesterday and ascertained that by living six months on each half section, a veteran can secure not only the 320 acres of special land grant, but also homestead and pre-emption of 320 acres additional.

The committee as the result of the interview will report to the association that it is advisable that, as the act now stands, enabling as it does a veteran to hold his land until June 20, 1911, without being obliged to perform settlement duties upon it, the value of a veteran's right of 320 acres can reasonably be computed at $8 an acre.

The committee will likewise strongly recommend that any veteran who can should, even at personal inconvenience to himself, locate his land this autumn.

MR. KING'S SUCCESSOR.

Mr. F. A. Acland to Be Deputy Minister of Labor.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King's successor as Deputy Minister of Labor will be Mr. F. A. Acland, the present secretary of the Department.

Mr. Acland has frequently acted as Deputy Minister during Mr. King's absence from the capital. His appointment as Deputy Minister will probably be put through at the next meeting of the Cabinet.

This was agreed to by E. M. Bury, for Laird, and the sitting set for Friday.

Elkhorn, Man., Sept. 23.—Michael Segar, manager of Lambeth and Earls store here, was shot and killed by a burglar early yesterday morning.

Sagar entered the store at 3.30 for the purpose of securing a gun for a hunting party and was shot down by a burglar, who was evidently looting the store and was surprised in the act. The man escaped.

There are some good horses for the speeding events at the Lindsay Fair. Nearly a dozen entries have already been handed in to the secretary and each race will be contested to a finish, judging by the entries. THE MILLBROOK REPORTER, Conservative, has the following to say:—

At a Liberal Convention in Peterborough on Saturday week, Hon. J. R. Stratton was selected as the candidate to contest the West Riding at the coming federal election, Mr. R. R. Hall resigning on account of private business affairs. As we have said in these columns heretofore Mr. Stratton is not down and out of public notice. He is a politician from the ground up, a right good fellow who does not forget his old friends and who knows how to create new ones. More than that he has the courage of his convictions and the wisdom that knows how to get there. Should the present government be returned and J.R. also, it is dollars to doughnuts that he will be on the treasury benches before long, for to our mind there are not a half dozen statesmen in Ontario on that side of politics who can measure up to Mr. Stratton in the essentials of an all around administrator.

PETERBOROUGH HEIRS RECEIVE SHARES OF FUNDS OF ESTATE OF LATE DR. CAMPBELL, BUFFALO

A partial settlement of the estate of the late Dr. Campbell of Buffalo has been recently made, in which heirs in Peterborough and in Peterborough county received their shares of the estate. Mr. S. W. Lowry, son of the late Mrs. John Lowry, formerly of Warsaw, has been in Buffalo during the past few days in connection with the business of the estate, returning on the midnight train.

In the division of a portion of the funds, shares come to Mr. John H. Campbell, who lives in Douro, near Nassau, and to the family of Mrs. John Lowry, the majority of whom reside in Peterborough. While in Buffalo Mr. Lowry met a relative from Montreal whom he had not previously heard of, and who was also entitled to a portion of the funds from the disposal of the estate. Litigation along other lines has to be completed before the matter has been finally disposed of.

Mr. Lowry was fortunate while in the Bison City to hear Wm. Jennings Bryan, the Democratic candidate, who held a monster meeting in Humboldt Park on Monday night.

Opening Of New St. George's Church At Village Of Hastings

The opening of the new St. George's Church, Hastings, was most enthusiastically observed on Sunday last by three special services attended by large congregations. Rev. Rural Dean Allen of Millbrook and Rev. A. J. Reid of Campbellford were the special preachers.

The Rural Deanery service was held Monday evening, at which Dr. Langfeldt preached.

The session of the chapter was held at the parsonage, the Rural Dean presiding.

The next meeting of the Chapter will be held in Grafton in January in connection with the dedication of the new Church of St. George's, now in course of erection.

Corner Stone Of The New Baptist Church To Be Laid About Oct. 15th

Work is being rapidly pushed forward on the new Park street Baptist church. The excavation for the foundation has been completed, and the contract for the stone work has been let to Contractor Sherwood, which insures that it will be properly done. He begins his labour on Monday of next week.

Mr. T. G. Gillespie has supervision over the work. The stone foundation of the new church will extend some feet from the surface, and it is expected the corner-stone will be laid about October 15.

The contract for the brick work will be let next week.

MANY BUSH FIRES

Mr. Louis Mendel Tells of Ravages Made Near Indian River—Earth On Fire Below The Surface

BURNING OF THE PINES

Mr. Louis Mendel was at Indian River yesterday on a business trip, and he reports that bush fires are still actively creeping through forests and swamps in that vicinity. Below the surface of the ground in a peat-like stratum the fires are eating their way steadily from bush to bush and from tree to tree. Mr. Mendel saw the flames on several occasions shoot up a large pine tree and almost immediately destroy the leaves. The fires are, therefore, working great havoc in that district, although no dwelling houses or other buildings are in danger.

MR. F. E. WILSON SHIPPING PEAS FROM SPRINGVILLE

Mr. F. E. Wilson, the Springville grain dealer, has moved his storehouse at Kendry station about 150 feet east. He is shipping large quantities of peas this week. On Monday he shipped almost 1,000 bags and to-day he sent out another large cargo.

NEW RAILS BEING LAID IN G.T.R. YARD BY THE SECTION MEN

Mr. Chas. Mitchell, roadmaster on the G.T.R., is in the city in charge of some general repair work at which he has a large gang of men engaged. They are all sectionmen and are to-day beginning the work of laying new ties in the yard. The old ones have seen rather long and constant use, and the new rails will add considerably to the general condition of the yard.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL STUDENTS ARE HUNTING BUGS, BEETLES, ET AL.

Strange stories are being told about the searchings of the Normalites for bugs, beetles, insects, etc., and even centipedes. These little pests and frightners of women are used in the study of entomology, and hence the students of the Normal School have to hunt them for their own use. It is hoped they will broaden their efforts and begin a regular campaign against certain bugs and flies that are a bane to the human race. It has been asked how the girls will manage to secure the required specimens when it is generally known that they are afraid even of a cricket.

DEMAND FOR FARM ASSISTANTS HAS NOW REACHED THE MINIMUM

The demand that the farmers of this country have been making for hired help has now reached its minimum. There have been very few requests of late for either farm help or domestics. The expected condition has arrived and those who secured places early in the year will have a good chance to hold them through the winter, though their wages may be decreased. At the same time the farmers are at present tied up in their fall work and will be unable to accomplish much before a good rain. After that there will be a rush of hard work, when hired help will be needed. But it has been noticed that the farmers generally wait until the last minute before they engage the help they need.

THE OTONABEE BOYS TO PUT ON GOOD ATHLETIC MEET SOON

DEATH SENTENCE PASSED UPON "CROOKED-NECK" SMITH, FORMER BOOK AGENT IN PETERBOROUGH

"Crooked-neck" Smith was found guilty of murder yesterday in Montreal, and was sentenced to be hanged on November 27th.

In the early summer Smith and three friends had been attending the races in Montreal. He and his pal, Mike Malone, had a quarrel over the division of their gambling gains, and each threatened to have vengeance. Smith returned to an opium joint, where he found Malone, and, wtihout the slightest warning, shot him dead. He then escaped to New York, but later on returned and gave himself up to the police. Justice Trenholme was the presiding Judge.

Many citizens in Peterborough will remember "Crooked-neck" Smith, as he was here a few years ago acting in the capacity of a book agent.

Bush Fires Raging In The Vicinity Of Mount Julian

Examiner Special

Mount Julian, Sept. 23. —Residents near Mount Julian have been fighting desperately with bush fires which sprung up on the north side of the Mount on the day following the Viamede disaster. Mr. John McCauley headed a party of men with teams, and for several days water was drawn from the lake and poured on the flames. On Tuesday apparently the last spark was extinguished, and the firefighters are able to rest, free from the constant dread of being burned out of house and home.

Increase Of $50.00 In Salary Of Caretaker Of The City Buildings

The Property Committee of the City Council at a meeting held yesterday afternoon decided to increase the salary of Robert Wilson, caretaker of the city buildings, to $575, in view of the fact that he will this year have to look after the furnace in the city buildings. His salary at present is $525, and he asked the committee for an increase of $100 in view of the increased work. The committee considered that amount too large and decided to cut the increase in two.

It was felt that a greater remuneration should be given this year because of the fact that S. Wainwright, formerly engineer of the fire department, had been looking after the furnace last year and had been paid $75 for the work. Now this duty will fall upon the caretaker, and although the committee considered that it was a part of his regular work as detailed in the contract, they felt that an increase of $50 was justified.

On motion of Ald. Morgan and Gillespie, the increase of $50 was decided upon, and on motion of the same two aldermen, the caretaker who given two weeks' leave of absence commencing to-day.

There were present at the meeting Ald. Bradburn, chairman, Ald. Johnston, Gillespie and Morgan.

EGG-O-SEE CO. FAILS

Placed in Hands of Creditors—Headquarters at Chicago and Factories at Buffalo and Quincy

ASSETS ABOUT $1,500,000

Examiner Special

Chicago, Sept. 23. — The Egg-o-See Cereal Co., with headquarters in Chicago, and factories in Buffalo, N. Y., and Quincy, Ill., has been placed in the hands of a committee of creditors. The assets are valued by the company at $1,500,000, but the creditors are said to regard them as about equal to the indebtedness. The receivership appointed for A. Booth & Co., the Fish Trust, recently, is said to have precipitated the appointment of the committee.

ACCIDENTS TO BLUE STREAK AND MISS FIDGETY

"Miss Fidgety" rammed "Blue Streak" during the meter boat race on the bay Saturday and the latter turned over, and was towed ashore by the police patrol boat. "Miss Fidgety's" crew claim that "Blue Streak" crossed her bow and that the accident was unavoidable.

An Argo working boat afterward picked up hold in "Miss Fidgety's" hull, and another Argo crew ran into a dinghy, the crew of which escaped in a motor boat. To put a finishing touch on the afternoon's accidents, the frost float at the Argo clubhouse broke loose and sank. Captain Joe Wright was on the float at the time and was thrown into the "drink," from which he clambered, none the worse for his ducking.

AN ORGANIZATION OF THE AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS

At a meeting held at the Tate Taylor Optical Rooms last evening the organization of a Peterborough Camera Club was consummated. Lists will be left at Louis Mendel's photo studio, the stores of Messrs. McDermid & Jury and Wm. Madill, druggists, and the Tate, Taylor Optical Company's office, and any amateur who wishes to join may go there and sign. Mayor Rush occupied the chair and everyone present was enthusiastically in favour of organising at once. The meeting adjourned to meet Friday evening, Oct. 2nd, at 8 p.m., when officers will be elected.

THE ANNUAL HARVEST FESTIVAL SERVICE AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

The annual harvest festival will be held at St. Luke's Church to-night at 8 o'clock. Rev. W. H. Heeney, M.A., vicar of Holy Trinity Church, Barrie, one of the most eloquent divines within the Anglican Church, is the special preacher. The church is beautifully decorated with grains, vegetables, fruit and flowers, and the choir have prepared special music under the instructions of Mr. R. Gibbon. The offertory will be for missions. Revs. Wm. Major of All Saints', J. H. Teney, of Omemee, and E. W. Pickford of Norwood, will also be present.

This afternoon Fire Chief Howard had his men and the fire engine at Matthews pork packing establishment to see that the engine was still in working order. A large crowd assembled to see the test, which was most satisfactory.

SMOOTH STRANGER MAKES ATTEMPT TO WORK A FLIM-FLAM GAME ON VICTORIA COUNTY FARMERS; HE HAS CHEAP SUITS TO SELL THEM

Lindsay, Sept. 23.—Special—Chief Vincent is on the track of a new "skin game," which a slick stranger has been operating in the neighbourhood, and of which many farmers have been the victims. After making extensive enquiries the chief has decided that the game is "fake" from beginning to end, and many have been swindled out of their hard earned money. His method of procedure is something like this.

A prosperous farmer is approached in the confidential air that these rogues find it easy to assume. The ever-ready samples—in this case it has been of cloth for suits—is produced and Mr. Farmer is advised that he is going to have the opportunity of his life to secure a cheap and still reliable suit of clothes. The man says he represents a tailoring firm in Montreal.

"These are samples of $15 and $20 suits," he says, "producing samples of cloth that 'look good' to the prospective buyer, but they never have been advertised. To make them popular we are selling an entire suit for exactly one half price, but mind you, we are selling only one suit to each family."

The customer usually "bites," and his measurements taken and an address, which happens to be very vague left behind, together with the assurance that the suit will be sent inside of sixty days, and this is the most important point from the "fakirs" standpoint, five dollars or so is collected, merely as an "assurance of good faith."

Inquiries of the Montreal police show that there was no such a tailoring business there, and that the thing looked queer. Strange to say, not one complaint has been made from those who have been "stung." People don't like to admit it.

SHORTAGE OF CARS AT MAPLE CREEK PREVENTS SHIPMENTS OF CATTLE FROM THAT DISTRICT; MR. FRED DAVIDSON SPEAKS OF THE CONDITIONS

Mr. J. Fred Davidson, of Maple Creek, Sask., and formerly of Peterborough, in an interview with a Winnipeg Free Press reporter, complains of the shortage of cars for the removal of cattle from his district. Mr. Davidson stated that when he left Maple Creek Thursday there were 1,000 head of cattle ready to ship and no cars were available. He, with others, had offered to take box cars, but was informed that these were harder to obtain than cattle cars. Not only were there no cars then to be had, but the agents seemed unable to give them a definite date on which there would be cars. Mr. Davidson stated that during the summer the supply of cars was very fair, enough to meet all the requirements of the shippers, in fact there had been no trouble in that respect until very recently. There are, according to Mr. Davidson, probably 1,500 head, over and above the 1,000 mentioned, to come out of that district this fall and also a large number of sheep from both Maple Creek and Crane Lake. Cattle have done remarkably well this season, for though there has been little rain there has been plenty of well cured grass, and except in rare instances there has been plenty of water in the lakes and streams. The cattle are fat and the fat is firm and will carry better than when they are fed on lush grass in a wet season. Prices have been steady and fairly satisfactory.

The car service department at Winnipeg being asked as to the reason of the shortage of cars at Maple Creek stated that it was due to the delay in the transportation of the large number of cattle trains going east at the time the bridges were burned. These cars were held up for two or three days, then had to go to Montreal and return and this has occasioned the delay and the shortage, but they expect to have a full supply of cattle cars again next week.

KING IN NORTH WATERLOO.

William Lyon Mackenzie King, late Deputy Minister of Labour in the Dominion Government, shows the pluck of his grandsire, Wm. Lyon Mackenzie, for years the stormy petrel of Canadian politics and the father of responsible government in Canada. The grand father did not hesitate to pit himself in the cause of popular rights, against principalities and powers and political wickedness in high places; and the grandson resigns a lucrative position, in which, by the way, he has done yeoman work, to pit himself against as redoubtable a political foe as Jos. Seagram, ex-M.P., who carried North Waterloo in 1904 by 300 majority. Mr. King has accepted the Liberal nomination in North Waterloo, having resigned the position of Deputy Minister of Labour, editor of the Labour Gazette, and Registrar of the Board of Conciliation and Investigation. Mr. King in taking this action shows not only a high courage, but affords an evidence that public life has attractions for, and affords opportunities for service, to young men who are not moved by impulses of opportunism or hope of profit. Mr. King resigns what is called a "sure thing," an assured position, to enter the lists against Mr. Seagram, a wealthy distiller, and an adverse Conservative majority of 300 odd. If Mr. King wins he will be in a position to continue the eminently important services he has given in the interests of labour and industrial peace one of the prime conditions of industrial prosperity.

LIBERAL GOVERNMENT AND MANUFACTURES.

From daily observation and experience we know that the manufacturing industries of Canada have prospered abundingly under the tariff policy of the Liberal Government which has helped industrial operation by cheapening the price of raw material; but more striking evidence is presented in statistics which enables one to concentrate the view upon manufacturing progress. According to statistics published by the Census and Statistics Burchu, of the Liberal Government in 1907, based upon the census of 1901 and the intercensal inquiry made in 1906 it is evident that astonishing progress has been made in Canadian manufacturing industries.

In 1900 the capital invested in manufacturing establishments in Canada amounted to $446,916,487; in 1905 the capital invested in Canadian manufacturing establishments had increased to a total of $833,916,155; that is, it had nearly doubled in five years.

In 1900 the wages paid to labour in factories amounted to $113,249,350; in 1905 this had grown to $162,155,578.

In 1900 the value of the output of Canadian factories totalled $481,053,375. In 1905, this had increased to $706,446,578, and by the way, it may be recalled that in increased out-put, Peterborough led the Dominion.

It does not need and has not needed figures like these to convince the people that under the Liberal Government employers of labour in factories and those employed in labour in factories enjoyed prosperity. They felt it in their pockets; it was evident in improved homes—thousands of them owned homes—in increased comfort of living and industrial contentment. It is true that for a short time past there has been a lull; but even with the quieter conditions that prevail, which are regarded as only temporary and are steadily improving, the condition of those interested in, and to a certain extent depending upon manufacturing activity, though not quite as satisfactory as a year or two ago, are infinitely superior to the state of disheartening stagnation that prevailed in the dank days that preceded the advent to power of the Liberal Government. This is confirmed by another evidence of the prosperity of manufacturing industries under Liberal rule, as offered by a contrast of our industrial exports. In 1896 Canadian manufactured products were exported to the value of $9,365,381. In 1908 the export of manufactured products had grown over three-fold—to $28,507,124.

Does any thinking elector feel for a minute that conditions would be improved by substituting another set of rulers? Does not every thinking elector feel that he would be serving the best interests of manufacturing, and all other industry in Canada by responding to the appeal—

Vote for the Liberal Government and Industrial Prosperity.

Cement manufacturers propose forming a combination. Natural enough. Cement has a way of forming a combine.

IN THE WORLD'S OPEN MARKET

From the articles in some of the Conservative papers, especially those of the high protectionist wing, it might be supposed that the Laurier Government had entirely neglected the development of manufacturing in Canada, and that in effect Liberalism on its economic side was hostile to industrial development. The census statistics prove how absurd this suggestion is. There is, however, an even better standard of measurement and that is provided by the books of the Customs Department, which show how the manufacturers of Canada can care for themselves against all comers in the world's open markets. The export statistics of manufactured products tell the story. The Conservatives were in power from 1878 till 1896. In 1878 Canada sent into the world's markets (that is exported) manufactured articles to the value of $4,127,000. Eighteen years later, in 1896, the total was a trifle more than doubled—$9,365,000. Then the terrible Grits came in, who were to close the factories. In ten years the export of manufactured products had risen to $24,561,000, and since 1906 the figure of manufactured exports have grown to $28,507,124, three times greater than in 1906, and the variety was much greater than in Conservative times. Take iron and steel and machinery, for example. We sent abroad $549,000 worth, including $166,000 of machinery, at the end of Conservative rule. In the fiscal year ending June, 1906, which is taken because the date of ending the country's trade year was changed in 1907, we exported iron and steel or manufactures thereof to the value of $1,269,000. Here are some other items of manufactured goods exported:

	1896.	1906.
Cottons... ... ...$	809,000	$ 1,246,000
Paper...	3,593	1,971,000
Boots and shoes ...	75,000	133,000
Leather...	1,907,848	1,864,000
Agricultural implements...	593,000	2,497,000
Musical instruments...	342,000	281,000
Bacon and hams	4,381,000	12,086,000
Wood pulp...	675,000	3,478,000
Whiskey...	374,000	943,000
Copper in ore and pigs...	194,000	7,149,000
Nickel...	486,000	2,166,000
Silver and silver ore...	1,595,000	4,310,000
Pig lead...		118,000

These schedules show that, generally speaking, the metal and mineral industries have greatly flourished under Liberal rule, and that the cotton trade has also done very well. In such lines as the manufacture of bacon, of agricultural implements, of machinery, of paper, and of other products in which Ontario workmen and capitalists are specially interested, there has been enormous expansion. The truth is that with the sole exception of the woollen trade all sections of the industries of Canada have done more business and made more money under the moderate Fielding tariff than under the boasted National Policy. That is why the factory workers and factory owners will vote for Fielding and tariff stability.

HELPED CANADIAN INDUSTRIES

A Conservative journal remarks that the New York Sun joins in the appeal to "let Laurier finish his work," and adds that the Canadian Premier is entitled to sympathy from the United States on the ground that the United States has doubled its exports to Canada "as a result of Laurier's tinkering with the tariff." The increased imports from the United States are nearly all composed of raw material used by Canadian manufacturers. A direct result of the policy of the Liberal Government adding Canadian industries by cheapening raw material used, by removing the duty has been to give our manufacturing industries a boom they never enjoyed before. In 1878, before the N. P. was in force, the exports of Canadian manufactured goods amounted to $4,127,000. The N. P. was devised and put into force with the specific object of booming Canadian industries. It had full play for eighteen years under Conservative management, yet the exports of Canadian manufactured products had increased to only $9,365,000 in 1896 or had a trifle more than doubled in eighteen years. In 1896 the terrible "Grits," who, according to Sir Charles Tupper, were to wipe our manufacturing industries off the earth, came into power. The tariff was adjusted in order to help the manufacturers, by cheapening their raw material. What was the result? The export of Canadian manufactured products jumped from $9,365,000 in the last year of Conservative rule to $24,561,000 ten years later, and two years later to $28,507,124. More detailed evidence of reasons why manufacturers and working men will support the Liberal Government and tariff stability is to be found in the article in another column—"In the World's Open Markets."

LIBERAL CANDIDATE IN THE EAST.

In the Weekly Examiner will be found the address to the electors of Mr. E. A. Tanner, candidate in the Liberal interest for the representation in Parliament of East Peterborough. A word of introduction might be supplied, though Mr. Tanner is well known and respected wherever known for his high qualities of character, and his energy and aggressiveness insure that he will make himself better known with the coming weeks of the campaign. Mr. Tanner is comparatively a young man, but old enough to be in the maturity of the natural good common sense that nature has endowed him with. He is on the sunny side of 40—39 years of age—having been born in Peterborough, Feb. 18th, 1869. He is a Presbyterian in religion, and is a Past Master in the Masonic Order. He has served his home village as chairman of the Finance Committee in the Village Council, and Reeve of the village, and chairman of the Board of Trade. He was educated in the Public and High Schools of Peterborough and Lakefield. He has been active and successful in advancing the interests of Lakefield and vicinity. He is well equipped to make an excellent representative of East Peterborough, and, if successful in the present contest, he will make himself useful to the riding by the exercise of the same ability and enterprise that have marked the successful management of his own business, and the exercise of his local representative duties. Vote for Tanner, the Liberal Government, the larger Canada and the well represented East Peterborough.

CANADA'S TRADE.

(Toronto Star.)

Every patriotic Canadian rejoices in the phenomenal prosperity that our country has enjoyed in recent years, and points with pride to the vast expansion of our industry and commerce. It would be absurd to argue that this growth has been entirely because our national affairs were administered by a Liberal Government. It is due in the main to the splendid opportunities which this country presents to enterprise and thrift, to the vast natural resources from which labour and skill may draw almost unlimited wealth.

Nevertheless, it is true that wise government, encouraging industry, promoting trade, and securing desirable immigration, will immensely aid such development and prosperity. Striking evidence of this is found in the remarkable progress made since the people turned dissatisfied from Conservative mismanagement, and placed the control of their public affairs in the hands of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his associates.

The total trade of the Dominion, that is, the aggregate of the value of the imports and exports of all kinds, money included, taken for the alternate years of the last twelve fiscal years of Conservative administration, is set out in the following table compiled from the latest report of the Department of Trade and Commerce:

Under Conservative Regime.

1888...	189,965,778
1890...	236,592,861
1892...	227,591,105
1894...	227,354,021
1896...	228,272,279

These figures show a substantial advance, but nothing like what is shown by the figures for the alternate years of the twelve years that have elapsed since, during which a Liberal Government has been doing all in its power to promote the country's welfare. Here are the corresponding figures for this term:

Under Liberal Regime.

1900...	367,237,528
1902	414,431,881
1904...	464,985,567
1906	546,947,437
1908...	638,380,291

Political economists used to argue that a country was disadvantaged by exporting more goods than it imported. The theory is not generally accepted now, but in any case, it could not apply to a new country into which was pouring a desirable immigration, because the mass of imports would include the possessions of the new comers, and also much of the capital in the form of both money and material which came to be used in the opening up and development of the country's resources.

Therefore Canada may well be congratulated upon the magnitude of her imports as well as upon her surplus products which we send to other countries. It we take the merchandise imports for the periods above set out, but choosing years at wider intervals for the sake of shortening our table, we obtain the following statement:

1. Under the Conservative regime.

1892...	115,160,413
1896...	103,361,161

2. Under Liberal Administration.

1900...	$112,506,578
1908...	351,825,024

Everyone will admit that there is evidence of prosperity in the exporting of a large surplus of the country's products, but it must be remembered that very rapid growth tends to lessen this surplus, because so much of what is produced is needed to supply the wants of new comers before the results of their labours are available. It is necessary to bear this in mind, to realize how much of prosperity is indicated by the figures in the latter of the following tables, which are for the same years as those just set out. They represent the total exports of merchandise of all kinds from the Dominion:

1. Under the Conservative regime.

1892...	106,936,044
1896...	112,985,180

2. Under Liberal Administration.

1900...	$177,776,644
1908...	266,368,952

The lesson is obvious. It is simply that the methods adopted by the Liberal party for the encouragement of useful immigration, the facilitating of industry, the opening up of opportunities for agriculture and other wealth-producing operations, have all been more successful and effective than the policies which they replaced. It would be folly to abandon these methods, either to return to the old conditions of comparative stagnation, or to experiment with any new schemes which have not yet been even clearly formulated or explained.

UNFAIRLY PRESENTED.

The Mail and Empire is, to employ a generous euphemism, misleading. It says that in 1896 the Conservative Government collected from the people $27,700,000, and in 1898 the Liberal Government collected $73,000,000, and that therefore the Liberal Government has added $45,300,000 to the tax bill. This is not fairly put. The Government did not add this amount; the people added it themselves. Customs duties are collected on imported goods at a certain percentage. The customs tax would not be paid if the goods were not imported. The goods would not be imported if the people would not buy them. It is, therefore, increased purchases by the people that have swollen the revenue. If the people were to complain of the increased taxation, they have only themselves to blame. With the advent of the Liberal Government, better times came; the people were more prosperous; they got better wages; they had more money and they spent more money; consequently they purchased more largely of the goods which the merchants imported, thus increasing the customs revenue. The Mail and Empire says that, thus, since 1896, the people have paid 252 millions more in taxes than they would have paid had the Conservative scale of taxation been paid. This is a rude contradiction of the facts. The Conservative scale of taxation was between two and three per cent. higher than prevailed under Liberal rule, but the Liberal rate brought more revenue because the people were more prosperous, had more money and spent more money. The organ presents its case unfairly.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mackenzie King may not be a blue ribboner, but he is going to make mighty efforts to break North Waterloo of the "Seagram" habit.

In the twelve months ending with June 30, 1896, the crowning year of Conservative rule, the exports of Canadian farm products amounted to fifty an done-half millions dollars. In the nine months which made up the short fiscal year ending with March 31, 1907, the value of farm products exported was $91,400000. Thus in three-quarters of the year 1907 our exports in this one line were 80 per cent. greater than they were for the full fiscal year of 1896.

Corney Burns, of the locals, is in Toronto and has been successful in making the arrangements. The St. Andrew's who cleaned up the City Amateur League in handy fashion, have a decidedly fast team and this season succeeded in capturing the scalps of the International League leaders. They are confident of win- ning and will have their strongest line up available for the games. The first of the series will be played here on Saturday at three o'clock at River- side Park. The fans will, no doubt, be glad to welcome back Clements, Murphy, Anderson, O'Brien and the other old favourites, who will be here to play for the Petes. The lat- ter will also have the services of Harry Burridge, who caught for them last season and who this year has made a most successful debut in pro- fessional company with the Youngs- town team of the Pennsylvania and Ohio League. His work will be watched with interest by the fans. Clements will likely be called upon to do the slab work for Peterbor- ough, while Curran or Montieth will be on the firing line for the Saints. It will be a great game and will, no doubt, attract a large crowd to the pretty grounds across the river.

DAVE BELAND WINS AT QUEBEC

Runs the 100 Yards in 10 Flat—Wants Match With McGrath.

Dave Beland, writing from Quebec to a member of the Examiner staff, expresses the desire to arrange a match between Fred McGrath and himself. He states that the beat Donald Buddo of Montreal on Saturday, and that the time as published was a mistake. It was ten flat, and not 10 3-5, as stated.

A Quebec despatch says: Some most important entries were made, includ- ing F L Lukeman, M.A.A.A., and Dave Beland, Zouave A.A.A., all of whom went to England to compete at the Olympic games, besides a large list of athletes from different clubs in Mont- real and Quebec, all of whom helped to make the various events, which were thirteen in number, closely con- tested and intensely interesting. Mon- treal were the chief prize winners and showed excellent form and experience, but some of the local men did some good sprinting, and in no matter what event they were entered their showing was always creditable.

The chief races of the meet were the three-mile event and the 100 yards race between D. Beland, Zouave A.A. A. and Dr. Buddo, M.A.A.A. The lat- ter event was won by Beland in 10 3-5 seconds.

A BIG RUGBY MEETING TO-NIGHT

City League Teams are Asked to have Representatives Present.

All those interested in the City Rugby League are asked to be pres- ent at the meeting in the Examiner office at 7.30 o'clock, when the con- stitution of the league will be dis- cussed and adopted. It is important that every team which expects to enter either the senior or junior series will be represented to-night. The meeting is being called early in order not to conflict with the wrest- ling match.

BOB FITZSIMMONS TRIMS A BIG LUMBERJACK

Beat His Man in Three Rounds, Almost Knocking Him Out

Benson Mines, Sept. 22.—Bob Fitz- simmons, former champion of the world, went into the ring against a fight ing French-Canadian lumberjack, named Jim Paul, here last night, and gave him a good beating in three fast rounds. Paul, who is the terror of all the lumber camps of the north woods, was considered invincible by his friends.

Starting in viciously with the rough and tumble tactics which have made him famous all over the north country, Paul was first sent to the floor with a right to the jaw. Re- covering, the woodsman angered the old man with a cut across the face, and Fitz sent him to the knees dazed, time just saving him from a knock- out.

And right here let it be said that the I.P., for its own good, if for no other, should keep its hands off and let the O.R.F.U. run the youngsters. There never was a league yet that could give its undivided attention to a senior series and make anything of the youngsters on the side.—To- ronto Telegram.

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER

It might be casually mentioned for the benefit of our Chambers street con- temporary that the Mysterious Mr. "E." of The Examiner is not being import- d as an addition to the Exam- in r hockey team.

If those Giants were to hit the to- boggan slide now it would cause more grief in Gotham than a panic on Wall street.

Battling Nelson is getting $1,250 a week as a result of his fighting abil- ity. And yet many a worthy citizen comes home and trims his wife, and gets nothing but a police court re- cord.

Hassan Abdallah isn't the only Syr- ian who has struck Peterborough that has been interested in the mat game. Other Eastern gentlemen have spent enough time in our fair city to dis- pose of a few Turkish rugs.

The Peterborough Hockey Club will put on a play, "All the Comforts of a Home." Nowadays hockey players haven't any homes. Money talks, and home ties have a dumb part.

If the Syrian who is to meet Hur- tubise to-night lasts as long as his name the spectators may count on a hard-fought bout.

Lindsay is to have another Marathon race in connection with the village fair this week. First thing Mud- ville knows some one will revive the carpet ball game there and the town will hit into the athletic world with a bang.

One of these days the Inter-Provin- cial and the O.R.F.U. will find that they have killed Rugby in Ontario by their scrapping. Peterborough is bet- ter out of both organizations.

J. J Hayes, the American long dis- tance runner, who was awarded first place in the Olympic Marathon, is busy writing to the papers how to train for and win Marathons. If he could explain his unsportsmanlike protest against Dorando his printer's ink might do him some good.

It is too bad that Smoke, the Che- mong runner, did not come to the front sooner. He might have obtain- ed a place in Tom Longboat's cigar store.

An American despatch says that Frank Gotch expects to pull off some- thing in the near future. Doubtless someone's leg or arm is what he means.

Our old college chum Dave Beland has done the 100 yards at Quebec in ten seconds flat. Does flat in this case mean on the level?

His garments were gleaming in pur- ple and gold.
And the sheen of his eyes was like stars on the seas,

Sporting Comment

The Indian, Smoke, dropped into town this morning from Peterbor- ough. He will run here on Saturday and incidentally it might be men- tioned that Smoke will be in town for good. W. H. Simpson is looking after him and the Indian will be well trained.—Lindsay Warder.

Manager W. B. Naylor, of Mont- real, who is looking after Hassan Ab- dallah, arrived this morning, confi- dent that his man will put it over Hurtubise to-night, although he real- izes that it will be a big task. The Easterner, he says, is a very hard proposition, and he is delighted with the showing that he has made since his arrival on this continent, a few weeks ago.

Mr. A. C. Yokome has been agreed upon as referee. He acted in a simil- ar capacity in the Hurtubise-Ken- nedy bout last spring and gave every satisfaction, and will doubtless prove equally so on this occasion.

A record crowd will see the bout, which should be one of the hardest and most spectacular ever seen in this city, which is going some when the recent matches between Rogers and Mohl are taken into considera- tion. Lovers of wrestling cannot af- ford to miss the struggle and by the way the advance sale of seats looks not many are going to pass up the match.

RUGBY

The Collegiate Institute Rugby Club had its first practice of the season at the Nicholls Oval yesterday after- noon when a big bunch of players was out in uniform, and under the watch- ful eye of Dr. A. W. McPherson went through a lively practice. There is plenty of material at the school for a fast team, provided the pupils re- main faithful to the Collegiate and hold allegiance to it as more import- ant than to outside clubs. If such is the case the P. C. I. will be able to put a strong team in the junior ser- ies of the City League.

• • • •

The Crescents Rugby Club will hold a practice on Friday afternoon at 4.15 and on Saturday morning at 10 at Boswell's field, Charlotte street west. The following players are expected to be out in uniform—Meldrum, Lay- field, Mills, Lewis, Quinlan, Leahey, Matthews, Perks, Burritt, Wallis, Gil- bert, Munro, Gibson, Giroux, Fortye Dean, Corkery, McCabe, Hayes, Ra- kin, Ackerman.

Ever see such a muddle as the rival union, the I.P. and the O.R.F.U., have made of the junior and intermediate teams in Ontario? They don't know where they're at, and the public are beginning to not care a continental. Talk about too many cooks spoiling the broth, but too many unions are sounding the death-knell of the Rugby game in this Ontario of ours.

MR. JOHN PERRAULT.

Mr. John Perrault, 385 Davidson street, Boulevard St. Paul, near Montreal, Canada, writes:

"I have been a bicyclist for over five years, and last spring I caught cold and did not take anything for it, for I thought it was not bad enough, but it came to catarrh. I was so discouraged that I didn't know what to do. I could not sleep; I always felt tired and troubled.

"Finally I began to take Peruna. After I had taken one bottle I felt better. I took another one, and now I am well. I would like to always feel as I do to-day. I often recommend Peruna to my friends."

Close Confinement.

Mr. G. W. Woodbury, Rogers, Ohio, formerly Captain and Center of the Hiram College Basket Ball Team, writes:

"There are times in the life of every student when excessive study and too close confinement and attention to the object in view will tell on your health.

"I have found that when body and mind alike are weary and refuse to work, a few doses of Peruna restores lost strength and invigorates one quicker and more permanently than anything I know.

"It gives one nerves of iron and muscles of steel, and assists the mental activities together with the physical to a wonderful degree."

The athlete knows the importance of being in fine form. Peruna is a valuable assistant to anyone who wishes to keep himself in vigorous health every day.

A SUCCESSFUL SKIDOO NIGHT

Large Crowd in Attendance—Those Who Captured Prizes

Skiddoo night at the roller rink was a decided success. It exceeded all expectations and goes to prove that roller skating is still very popular in Peterborough. It is also strong evidence in favour of Prof. Genno's and Miss Patterson's management. Skiddoo night was to have been on the 23rd, but had to be changed to last night on account of other attractions. Nevertheless a most gratifying crowd of spectators turned out, as well as some 350 skaters. From start to finish everybody had fun, and the 23 selections furnished by the band delighted the skaters. Those who won the races and prizes were as follows: Mr. Hays, Miss Howden, Mr. Billington, Mr. Collins, Miss O'Dette, Miss Ray, Mr. Williams, Miss Schultz, Mr. Tovay, Mr. Terril, Miss Marshall, Miss Kenneally, Miss Cavanagh, Mr. Lunz, Miss King.

Mr. Belleghem and Miss Steve captured the prize for graceful skating.

Mr. Davis won the mile race.

Mr. Smith won the one-mile boys' race.

A lady's race was on the programme but the girls were too bashful to start.

Mr. Michael O'Brien, of Peterborough, Separate School Inspector, was in town on Monday on a tour of inspection of the local Separate schools.

Of course the inspector found the schools in excellent condition, and still up to the high standard of efficiency they have always maintained. —Lindsay Post.

A Cement Convention And Exhibition To Be Inaugurated

To be Held in Toronto Next February—Mr. J. M. Kilbourn on The Committee

THE PLANS ARE EXTENSIVE

Montreal, Sept. 23.—Special.—At a recent meeting of the executive of the Canadian Cement and Concrete Association, final plans were made for the holding of a convention and exhibition at Toronto in the first week in February next year. Already extensive plans are being made. Some of the highest authorities on cement and concrete will be invited from England and the United States to address the assembly, and a complete programme of papers on cement and concrete topics will be read. The exhibit will comprise machinery for the manufacture of cement and cement products, cement testing appliances, building supplies, cement and all its products and all associated lines, and will be the first of its kind to be held in Canada.

The arrangements for the coming convention are in charge of some of the most prominent men associated with the industry in Canada, and include Mr. Kennedy Stinson, of Montreal; Mr. J M Kilbourn, of the Lakefield Portland Cement Co., Montreal; Mr. T L Dates, San Portland Cement Co., Owen Sound; Mr. Gustave Kahn, Trussed Concrete Steel Co., Toronto; Mr. W H Fuller, Ideal Concrete Machinery Co., London; Mr. C H Thompson, Canadian Art Stone Co., Toronto, and others.

STONY LAKE AT ITS BEST JUST NOW; WEATHER AND SCENERY DELIGHTFUL

Local people who have been spending a few days at Stony Lake, say that the weather conditions there have been perfect and that they have never had a more enjoyable visit. The smoke from the bush fires instead of detracting from the beauty of the scenery, has indeed enhanced it. A number of the cottages are still open, including those of Mr. Ackerman, Mr. Hopkins, Dr. Race, Mr. D W Dumble and others. Were it not for the fact that there is no boat service to depend on at this time of the year it is likely that more cottages would be open, as there never has been a more delightful September at the lake. As it is a number of the sojourners have made preparation to stay until the end of the month or longer. Fishing is reported as being extremely good.

TWO BROTHERS OF THE BRIDE PERFORM MARRIAGE CEREMONY

A very pretty wedding was celebrated yesterday morning at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, when Miss Maggie O'Leary was united in marriage to Mr. John W. Holdship, of Montreal. The ceremony was begun at nine o'clock, and was somewhat out of the ordinary from the fact that two of the bride's brothers assisted in the celebration of the nuptial mass. Rev. P. J. O'Leary said the mass, and was assisted by Rev. Michael O'Leary, Rev. W. J. Kielty, parish priest of Douro, was present in the sanctuary. The bride was attired in a handsome suit of gray, brocaded silk trimmed all over lace and silk tassels. She was attended by Miss Mary McCaffery, of Armadale, Toronto, who wore a very becoming suit of mauve silk trimmed with all over lace and ribbon. Mr. Maurice O'Leary, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride's travelling suit was of green lady's cloth with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Holdship left on the noon C. P. R. train for her new home in Montreal. A large number of the friends of the bride gathered at the station to bid her farewell and to wish her every happiness in her married life.

After the ceremony at the church about fifty guests assembled at the home of the bride's mother, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served. Among those who were invited were Rev. Father Kielty, Rev. Father P. J. O'Leary, Rev. Father Michael O'Leary and Mrs. Kelly and Miss Holdship, of Ottawa, sisters of the groom; Mr. John O'Leary and Mrs. Milcensky, of Jackson, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barry, of Hastings.

NEW SONGS THAT YOU WILL LIKE

The Jerome Remick Music Publishing Company is turning out many catchy songs these days, and not a few of them are genuine hits. One of these is being sung by Miss Carrie Reynolds of the Imperial Opera Company, which is playing at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto. The name of it is "I Want Some One to Call Me Dearie," and it has met with favour by all who have heard it. The fact that it is whistled on the streets proves its popularity. A dainty little love ballad that should be given a place on every piano is entitled "I'd Like to Lock You in My Heart and Throw the Key Away." It is sung in the "Hoydens," winning many encores. If you like to keep up with the new music, Williams and Van Alstyne are out with a catchy novelty in "You Want Some One to Love You." Another that deserves mention and will appeal to lovers of lighter opera music is "I'm Growing Fond of You" as sung in the "Hoydens." The latest march song off the Remick press is "When Jack Comes Sailing Home Again."

A New Cement Walk Finally Promised For Market Square

A new granolithic pavement is one improvement which will likely be made to the market in the near future. To-day Engineer Hay commenced taking measurements for this work which it is understood will be completed this season. The Board of Works have apparently recognized the fact that the old walk was so dilapidated that it was an actual menace to pedestrians. A wide walk will be appreciated not only by the people of the city but also by the many farmers who bring in their produce every Saturday.

SOME INTERESTING FARM STATISTICS

Canada Exported 234,719 Eggs to England in 1906

From The Canadian Dairyman.

The following statistics of the principal field crops of Ontario for 1908 show the acreage as computed from individual returns made by farmers to the Ontario Bureau of Industries, and the yield as estimated by a large and experienced staff of correspondents embracing every township. The wheat area is practically the same as that of 1907, but the yield is estimated at nearly a million bushels in excess of the final returns of last year. The area in barley shows a shrinkage of about five per cent., and is over a million bushels short of the crop of 1907. The poor crop of oats in 1907 caused a falling off in the area of 1908 of over five per cent., or 158,000 acres; the yield, however, shows an estimated increase of about 15,000,000 bushels, the yield per acre being seven bushels in excess of 1907 and equal to the average of the previous 26 years. The areas in rye and peas show substantial increases, but they are still below the annual averages. The bean crop differs but little from that of 1907. There is a slight reduction in the hay area, but the yield harvested a quarter of a ton to the acre over the light crop of last year. The following are the figures for 1908, in comparison with 1907 and the average of the previous 26 years, 1882-1907:

APPLICATION FROM COUPLE IN ENGLAND FOR FARM WORK HERE

Mr. Geo. Howson, the local immigration agent, has received a communication from a London agency, asking if he can place a young married couple in Canada. They are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Catchpole. They would like to secure a place preferably on a farm where they could work together, but this failing, they are willing to work separately. The husband is not only a handy man about a farm, but he is an experienced sailmaker. Anybody who desires to secure these people can do so by writing to the local agent.

SOME INTERESTING FARM STATISTICS

Canada Exported 231,79 Eggs to England in 1906

From The Canadian Dairyman.

The following statistics of the principal field crops of Ontario for 1908 show the acreage as computed from individual returns made by farmers to the Ontario Bureau of Industries, and the yield as estimated by a large and experienced staff of correspondents embracing every township. The wheat area is practically the same as that of 1907, but the yield is estimated at nearly a million bushels in excess of the final returns of last year. The area in barley shows a shrinkage of about five per cent., and is over a million bushels short of the crop of 1907. The poor crop of oats in 1907 caused a falling off in the area of 1908 of over five per cent., or 158,000 acres; the yield, however, shows an estimated increase of about 15,000,000 bushels, the yield per acre being seven bushels in excess of 1907 and equal to the average of the previous 26 years. The areas in rye and peas show substantial increases, but they are still below the annual averages. The bean crop differs but little from that of 1907. There is a slight reduction in the hay area, but the yield harvested a quarter of a ton to the acre over the light crop of last year. The following are the figures for 1908, in comparison with 1907 and the average of the previous 26 years, 1882-1907:

In the company were Charles M Hayes, president; Frank W Morse, vice-president and general manager; Alfred W Smithers, a director of the company from London, England, and W E Davis, passenger traffic manager, Montreal. The railway men travelled north from the Twin Cities over the Great Northern and the Canadian Northern and spent a portion of the morning looking over the city. A call was made at the office of Wm. White, of the Canadian Pacific, after which a brief inspection was made of the surroundings of the C.P.R. Depot. At 11 o'clock the travellers returned to their cars at the Canadian Northern and left for a brief trip eastward over the line of the National Transcontinental.

Mr. Morse stated that no announcement would be made by Mr. Hayes with reference to the progress which the company expected to make in getting the new line under operation in addition to the statements which had been already issued. The regular passenger service would go into effect to-day, in accordance with the announcement made by the passenger department. There were now on the way west for the service of the company 1,000 new freight cars an order for this number having been placed some time ago. This would bring the total number of cars in the possession of the Grand Trunk Pacific up to 7,592. Of these 5,197 were box cars and the company would be perfectly prepared in this respect to handle the business which they would be called on to look after when the line was brought under operation. Twenty new passenger cars were also on the way west, which, with those which were already in the possession of the company in the west, would be sufficient for the demands of the passenger department. In this list there were included several dining and sleeping cars as well as day coaches. There were six locomotives available for business, which would be sufficient for the work of the fall. Other locomotives were under order and would be forwarded from time to time.

Press Excursion

In order that they may have the opportunity of securing their information at first hand, it is understood to be the intention of the passenger department of the company to organize an excursion for the newspaper men of the city and to take them over the line as far west as the track is under operation. This party will leave for the west during the latter part of this week and will be away from the city for two or three days.

Officials of the company state that the shipments of grain at points on the line have already begun and within a few days the rush will be at the highest. There will be no difficulty, however, in affording accommodation in this respect to all shippers, cars being provided at all points for farmers who wish to ship direct.

YOUNG OWL CAUGHT IN JACKSON PARK

Claire Callander Secures It—An Object Of Interest

The Surplus Of Peterborough Fair Will Be More Than $1,000; A Meeting On Monday Night

President R H Leary of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is still wearing that broad smile which refuses to vacate the premises. Nothing this year prevented the directors from coming within sight of the castles of their dreams and they will probably have a tidy surplus when everything is settled up that will have to be written in four figures.

The president has been in the northern part of the country during the past few days, purchasing horses, and only returned last night. He desires on behalf of the directors to heartily thank the citizens of Peterborough as well as all those who attended from the country, or who exhibited, for their contribution to the success of the fair.

"We are going to have a meeting next Monday night," he said, "and I think we will find that our surplus is more than $1,000. Our entry money is very large. We want all our accounts to be in the hands of the secretary before that night."

The meeting will be held in Storey & Campbell's store, Water street, and members of the Directorate are requested to be present.

With a surplus of $1,000, the Directors have excellent opportunities of making next year's exhibition equal to the best of them in the smaller cities of Ontario.

Hon. Senator Cox To Lay Corner Stone Of New Methodist Church

Within the next month the corner stones of two new city churches will be laid. Hon Senator Cox has accepted the invitation of the Church Board to lay the corner stone of the new St. James Methodist Church, the contract of which was let to Messrs. Finnie & Gordon, contractors, some days ago.

The ceremony of laying the corner stone will take place early in the month of October, the final date not yet having been decided upon.

The corner stone of the new Park street Baptist Church will also be laid in October.

BYERSVILLE HAS A DREAM OF A SEPARATE CORPORATION

Byersville, which at one time known as "Shacktown," but which now boasts of many fine dwelling houses, has aspirations of becoming a separate community. To one acquainted with the place as it was found a few years ago, and who has been absent in the interim, the change that has been gradually made is really surprising. There is not a shack to be found on any of the new streets which have been opened up in that district, and the population has made rapid increases.

One of the residents of Byersville states that it should be a separate corporation. Perhaps he was only enjoying a pipe dream, but the fact remains that there has sprung up just outside the city's limits a thriving little place that boasts of a post-office, an increasing population and a fine collection of houses. All the neighbours are united in their pride of this settlement, and it may be that the idea of arranging their own affairs may be realized at some future date.

COLD SPRINGS FIRE DESTROYS BARN, GRAIN AND IMPLEMENTS

On Friday morning of last week about ten o'clock a fire broke out on the farm of Mr. James Thompson, near Cold Springs. Mr. Harris, of Gore's Landing was threshing Mr. Thompson's grain with his new machine and had part of the work done when the fire broke out, and before it was put out had burned the large barn 100x42 feet, with a wing 34x36 feet, and about 1000 bushels of oats, 300 bushels of peas, 80 bushels of barley and 40 tons of hay, with a cutter, mower, binder and 30 hens.

CY. YOUNG'S DEPARTURE FROM THE SMOKY CITY

Pittsburg, Sept. 24.—"Young Cy" Young, hero of the recent seventeen inning, 1 to 0 game with Brooklyn here, will not again be seen in Pittsburg uniform, according to advices from the Pittsburg team.

Young has been sent home for the rest of the season, and the Press, the official organ of the Pittsburg ball club here, after announcing that the famous pitcher had been allowed to go home for the season, says: "Manager Clarke is not counting on Young's services at all in the East, and it is not likely that he will don a Pirate uniform again. Only once or twice since joining the Pirates has he shown any signs of the form which made him famous when he broke into Boston a few years ago."

This statement, while inspired, has caused much wonder among the Pittsburg fans, who thought that Young's feat of holding Brooklyn seventeen innings without a run, and scoring the only and winning run himself might be considered good "form."

It is understood that Clarke and Young had a warm clinch at the depot the night the team left for the East.

For some time past Young has suffered with rheumatism in his right shoulder, although a left-hander. Every time that Young wound up he suffered great pain. His friends here declare that there is little doubt but that with a winter's rest this rheumatism could be eliminated, as it is not chronic.

WATER IN STONY LAKE IS RISING RAPIDLY

Up 8 Inches in One Week—Normal at Buckhorn and Balsam Lake.

Notwithstanding the dry weather it is a remarkable fact that Stony Lake has risen eight inches during the past week. The water in Balsam Lake is remaining steady, as well as that at Buckhorn. A slight decrease in the height is noticeable at Bobcaygeon, owing to the construction of the dam there.

The fact that Stony Lake has risen so remarkably is due, of course, to the conservation of the waters in the north.

VETERANS' LAND GRANTS TO BE READY THIS WEEK

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—Special. — The warrants which will entitle the South African veterans to their scripts for western land will be issued by the militia council towards the end of this week, and the Department of Interior will be in a position to issue scripts very soon. A committee of the Veterans' Association waited on the secretary of the militia council yesterday afternoon to urge that the warrants be issued as soon as possible. The veteran makes a claim for the land to the Militia Department. The department decides whether the claim is a just one, and if it is a warrant is sent over to the Department of the Interior entitling the latter to issue the script.

THE "NATIONAL POLICY" AND A NATIONAL POLICY

One of the mottoes on the occasion of Hon. Mr. Foster's visit to Welland read: "Thirtieth anniversary of the policy that made Canada." That is of course the "National policy." It didn't do much towards Canada-making during the eighteen years of Conservative rule and the twelve of Mr. Foster's rule as Finance Minister. It did this much, however: It provided an average deficit of $250,000 during Mr. Foster's 12 years. If the "N. P." made Canada it didn't show to much advantage during the 18 years of Conservative rule. The Liberal Government came into power. Mr. Fielding took it in hand, lopped off the mouldering branches, revised the deficit-breeding N. P. tariff in the interest of manufacturers, gave it stability and converted it into a revenue-producing medium, under which the country has enjoyed a prosperity as magnificently palpable as stagnation was sadly evident under Conservative application of the undiluted N.P. There's little virtue in a name; the thing that works, the policy that pays, is what counts. The Liberal policy of results and good results at that, is the true National Policy.

SCORES HIS ALLIES

Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, seems to wish to take to himself all the credit of the scandal policy which he is thrusting forward in support of his claim to the confidence of the electors. He has no confidence in his allies who did the most of the mud-raking in parliament. It must seem peculiar to many of the Conservative rank and file that Mr. Borden has not at his back in this campaign and on the platform with him Messrs. Foster, Fowler, Bennett, Lethbridge, Cockshutt and Bergeron, et al., who were specially prominent in the slander campaign. Is it to be inferred that in case of his very improbable success at the polls, Mr. Borden is preparing to side-track all these gentlemen in the formation of his cabinet as he is side-tracking them now in this stumping tour? It be has grown ashamed of them his tenderness of conscience comes rather late. He did not repudiate their course in parliament. Now he scorns his allies in parliament off the stump in the campaign.

THE MAN BEHIND THE RUM

Mr. Borden is indignantly earnest in denying that Bayne, who dispensed money and rum wholesale in Colchester, N.S., in the interests of the Conservative candidate, Mr. Stanfield, had any official connection with the Conservative party. Bayne has been committed for trial on the above charge, and now the Conservatives of Colchester are passing the hat to raise a fund for his defence. Yet the Conservatives claim that Bayne was playing the game off his own bat. If he had wealth enough that he could afford to hand out money at the rate of $43,000 per constituency and whiskey at the rate of 5,000 gallons per riding, surely he can scrape together a few hundred dollars to pay his lawyer's fees. And it, as has been alleged, he did it all on his own hook, and it, as is alleged, his doing it was detrimental to the party then why should the party care whether he has any lawyer or not? Taking up a subscription to defend him in court is the last link necessary to tie the Conservative party managers up to Mr. Bayne. It there lingered in the public mind any doubt of their connection with him it is removed by the spectacle of them contributing to surround him with a legal bodyguard. Mr. Borden may, the Edmonton Bulletin remarks, denounce corruption in generalities, the News may warble the iridescent virtues of its new-found object, the Mail may swear the innocence of every man between Mr. Borden and the prisoner; but the public conviction remains that this anxiety to defend Bayne is at bottom an alarm lest his prosecution should reveal the man who stands behind him.

The Magistrate in committing Bayne for trial summed up the accompanying and underlying circumstances which give rise to this public conviction. Speaking of the money used by Bayne he said:

"There is, in my mind, considerable evidence to show it came out of a general fund.

"One witness swore that Bayne said if he (Bayne) had been in Truro, he (Bayne) would have got him (the witness) some money.

"Another witness says that Bayne said there was some money for Five Islands. All showing, to my mind, that it was not Bayne's private funds but party money he was using.

"There appears to be but the one course open to me, namely, to commit this man for trial under this evidence; and I will now make a warrant to that effect."

The man behind Bayne and his rum is on the anxious seat.

THE OPENING OF THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Traffic on the great transcontinental railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific, has begun upon the completed line, 866 miles west of Winnipeg. This marks a new era in the development of Canada—the West directly, and incidentally the East. This beginning of traffic denotes the beginning of the benefits which will come from the operation of the completed line, whose construction is being pushed rapidly both east and west. Even this comparatively short stretch of 866 miles will play an important part in the opening up of immense new fertile areas and the development of incalculable natural resources. Lands of wide expanse, hitherto valueless because inaccessible, will be tamed to the plough. They will become the homes of millions and create a new market for the manufactured products of the East. Both East and West want the completion of this great line in the interests of both. Let the Liberal Government complete the work. Mr. Borden, in the role of opportunist, now says that if returned to power he will finish the railway. His attitude of hostility in the past towards this line, his "alternative" policy of utilizing portions of the line as links, shows how luke-warm he is to the great project. In the interests of the growth and expansion of Canada, the G. T. P. must be completed, and nobody will take the same interest and show the same energy as the Liberal Government, which conceived it and put into motion the machinery for its construction. Canada would not be the Canada of to-day but for the building and operation of the Canadian Pacific. The Grand Trunk Pacific will do even a greater work than a line which the developed resources of Canada have helped to become, as it is, one of the greatest railway systems in the world. The new line will stretch from ocean to ocean and pass in the East through the fertile and resourceful belt of Central New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, bringing into commercial touch millions of acres of heretofore dormant lands with great resources. When one contemplates the result in New Ontario of the opening up of the country by a hundred miles of railway conceived and constructed by the Ross Government, one can hardly realize the possibility of the opening up of a stretch of 1,800 miles of virgin country. The riches of the Cobalt may be multiplied by the score, or, if not, in kind, equivalent sources of wealth will be discovered and provided with facilities of development. Mr. Borden and his party opposed this policy. Now, when he wants office, he seeks to propitiate public opinion by saying that he will complete a great railway line with which he is not in sympathy. To apply the words of the song — "Trust him not, he is fooling thee."

THE ROBLIN TELEPHONE SYSTEM.

The Toronto Telegram (Conservative) tells how government ownership, which Mr. Borden is advocating, with the help of Hon. R.J.P. Roblin, is working under the brilliant management of Mr. Roblin himself, in connection with the Manitoba Government-owned system. The Telegram says: The Roblin Government telephone system is being extended throughout the farming districts in the vicinity of the village of Oakville, a few miles east of Portage la Prairie. There would be nothing special in the above sentence were it not for the fact that the farmers are being taxed for $30 per year for connection, whereas the Bell rate was only $24.

This is government ownership under Roblin, Rogers, Colin H., and that brilliant statesman, Jim Howden. This is the bunch that travelled from one end of the Province to the other, telling the people that the Bell Company were robbing them, and that if they were returned the Roblin Government would provide a government telephone system, and Bell prices would be cut in two. Farmers were told by these gentlemen that they would get their 'phones at $12, and possibly as low as $10. Every citizen in this Province knows this is true. We know that a reference to the 'phone deal is not necessary, and would not refer to it had we not been forcibly reminded a few days ago by a follower of the present Government, that the News was not doing its duty, and, after listening some time to a vigourous roast of the Government, our friend addressed us thus: "Why don't you give them ——, they deserve it." Well, perhaps they do, but we will be more interested in watching our friend and keeping track of him about election time, to see whether he will give the Government the hot roast he would like us to mete out to them.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Dominion Elections: Official nominations, October 19th; Polling, October 26th.

The Welland Telegraph in the simplicity of its soul describes Hon. Geo. E. Foster as "to-day the chief lieutenant of the leader of the party." Mr. Borden has a queer way of showing it. He keeps Mr. Foster in the background; puts him in charge of a muck-raking fatigue party, —assigns him to the latrine line.

THE BRITISH PREFERENCE.

(Toronto Star.)

For several years prior to 1903 there was an agitation in Canada in favour of modifying the tariff so as to give a preference to the manufactures of the United Kingdom. In 1903 Mr., now Sir Louis Davies, then a prominent member of the Liberal Opposition at Ottawa, moved a resolution declaring that the tariff ought to be framed so that articles imported mainly from Great Britain should bear a low rate of duty. The Conservative Government met this resolution with an amendment to the effect that Canada should give a preference to British imports "if and when" Great Britain gave a preference to the products of Canada. The amendment was carried. It meant bringing the movement to a standstill, for Great Britain could not give a preference to Canada without abandoning free trade, a result which, as the most fervent protectionist would admit, could not be accomplished without many years of agitation.

As soon as the Liberals were returned to power, the tariff was modified so as to give an unconditional and substantial preference to British imports. The policy was denounced for two reasons that were inconsistent and mutually destructive. It was said that the preference was a sham, and would be of no value to the manufacturers of the United Kingdom; and it was also said that the reduction of the duty would let in such a flood of British manufactures that Canadian industries would be ruined. In other words, it was contended that there would be an increase of British imports, and likewise that there would not, and the Canadian Government was blamed for both the calamities.

Previous to the preference there had been a decline in British imports from $51,679,672 in 1903 to $29,401,188 in 1897. Since that time the British imports have risen from $29,401,188 to $94,904,546. It is true that imports from the United States have also increased rapidly, but it must be remembered that our imports from the United States are largely free goods, used as raw material for our own industries, and are evidences of the growth of those industries. The Financial Chronicle of Montreal points out that in the ten years there was an increase of 194.5 p.c. in imports from Great Britain, as compared with 173.5 p.c. in purchases from the United States and with 178.5 p.c. in total buyings from abroad. "When it is considered that during the preceding decade Dominion imports in general remained almost stationary, while there was an actual decrease of more than one-third in Canada's imports from the Motherland, and an increase of over one-quarter in takings from the United States, it is difficult to gainsay that the preference has had considerable effect."

Quite as remarkable has been the increase of Canadian exports to Great Britain. It may be argued that this is not due to the preferential tariff, because Great Britain gives no preference to Canadian products. But, although there is no preference enacted by law, there is a preference by custom, sentiment and the goodwill of British customers, and these have undoubtedly operated in favour of Canada. The preference given by the Canadian tariff attracted attention in Great Britain and was one of the leading topics of discussion in the English press during the summer of 1897. From 1897 to 1908 the exports of Canadian products to Great Britain increased in value from $77,227,502 to $124,484,156.

The Canadian Government has declined to interfere in the domestic politics of Great Britain by demanding that she shall adopt protection, but has asked that if a protective tariff be adopted, Canadian imports shall be imported upon specially favourable terms. The representatives of Canada have also intimated that if Great Britain shall give such preferential treatment to Canada, the Canadian tariff will be amended so as to favour still further the manufacturers of Great Britain.

It must not be forgotten that the Canadian preferential tariff not only favours the United Kingdom, but is a substantial measure of relief to the Canadian consumers. For this reason it is highly popular in the Canadian West, and its continuance was advocated by the farmers who appeared before the Tariff Commission two years ago.

INDEPENDENT COMMENDATION

The Farmer's Sun, in commenting upon the increase in national expenditure, says: "Any fair-minded and well-informed man will admit that the Government has a good deal to show for the money expended by it. It would be strange with the annual expenditure increased by $46,000,00 in eleven years, if no beneficial result could be pointed to as a consequence. Harbours and channels have been improved and the postal service has been strengthened and extended. In some other directions, not referred to by the speakers at Niagara Falls, good work has been done. The adoption of the preferential tariff has, by its appeal to British sentiment, undoubtedly helped our export trade to Great Britain. This trade has been still further extended by the work of commercial agents, who are keeping Canadian products constantly before the attention of the British consumer; by the improvement in the quality of our cheese following upon the demonstrations given by the Dairy Division in the value of cool-curing, and by the work of the Fruit Division in restricting the fraudulent packing of fruit. A most valuable work has been done through the Railway Commission in reducing freight rates on cattle, grain, meats, and perishable fruits."

EQUAL RIGHTS.

The Farmers' Sun says:

For most of the expenditure (Dominion) on public works there is no possible justification. This is true of the millions spent on the Trent Valley Canal. It is true also of the millions in the aggregate, expended on the building of wharves for fishing villages in Nova Scotia, docks for summer cottages on Lake Simcoe.

For sweeping criticism like this there is no possible justification. In another place on this page is found reproduced the Sun's commendation of the Government's expenditure in providing improved and extended transportation facilities. The Trent Canal is a most important link in the chain of transportation between the West and the seaboard, and a necessary element in the moving of western wheat with the necessary rapidity to insure the best prices and the best results. If the money spent on the Trent Canal since its inception were divided among the people of Canada, it would give each man, woman and child about one dollar. It is probable that the saving in freight on one season's grain carrying on the Trent Canal will represent a saving in freight charges equivalent to the interest at three per cent. upon six millions of dollars. As to the money wasted in wharves in small places; that, in fairness, can be justified. The money spent is the money of the people, contributed by the people. The money spent on great improvements like Montreal harbour accommodates the people indirectly, but does not provide accommodation for local purposes and for individuals in communities that are as much entitled to a small share of the public funds they help to create, as the port of Montreal or Halifax or St. John's. The expenditure of money on small wharves to accommodate obscure and remote sections is as justifiable on principle as rural mail delivery, which is a concession of the right of remote and sparsely settled sections to have as far as practicable the same privilege of free mail delivery as a large city. The interests of a little internal waters lake landing are as dear and as important to them as are those of a great harbour are to those concerned.

WHAT BEAUTIFUL HAIR!

How often do we hear that exclamation of a certain woman's hair or a certain man's hair.

A prominent scientist and hair specialist emphatically states, and has proven, that any man or woman can have luxuriant, lustrous hair, by using a famous prescription called Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is now made and sold in Canada. Wm. Medill, the druggist, is the agent in Peterborough, and the readers of the Examiner can buy from him for only 50 cents a large bottle.

Wm. Medill knows that Parisian Sage will beautify the hair, cure dandruff and stop falling hair, and that caused he sells it under a guarantee to cure or money back.

If you cannot obtain Parisian Sage where you live, you can get a bottle for 50 cents from Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., express charges prepaid.

BORDEN WARMLY RECEIVED.

Toronto Conservatives Unite to Give Him Big Reception.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—R. L. Borden and Premier R. P. Roblin of Manitoba joining forces in an attack upon The Globe, and the Conservative leader's defence of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, the candidate in North Toronto, were the outstanding features of the big Conservative mass meeting in Massey Hall last night. The Opposition leader also reiterated his party's graft charges against the Government, while the Premier of Manitoba devoted the whole of his address to a heated tirade against The Globe, its editor-in-chief, and its president. Mr. Roblin was the last speaker, and the tumult with which his address ended contrasted strongly with the hearty but less noisy greeting extended to Mr. Borden.

R. L. Borden was in better form, it was said, than he has appeared yet in this campaign, and many doubted if he had ever made a better speech. It was a fighting address, with plenty of snap and fire and more aggressive than Mr. Borden is usually credited with giving.

"Canada should at all times retain absolute and complete control of immigration, and the Government made a false step when it handed over to Japan the control of immigration from that country."

We ought to manufacture all the articles which can be reasonably and usefully manufactured in this country. We don't believe in sending our raw material abroad and then sending our good Canadian money to foreign countries to buy articles made out of the raw material of this country, bringing our people into competition with the pauper and unfair labor of other countries.

I have known Mr. Foster for 12 years and I have yet to hear of one public act of that gentleman which was not honest, straightforward, creditable to himself and creditable to this country.

Even if everything said of Mr. Foster by the editor of The Globe were true, I would esteem him above that same gentleman who, on the Sabbath Day preaches righteousness and every other day defends the wrong.

Attorney-General Bowser of British Columbia was warmly greeted. The keynote of his address was voiced in the sentence:

"I appeal to the laboring man to stand by the west in this agitation. We are going to keep it up till the people of this country come to understand that we are dealing with the question in the interest of the white people of Canada."

Premier Roblin discussed Manitoba questions and wound up with a spirited attack upon The Globe.

One In Every 38 a Pauper.

London, Sept. 24.—One person in every 38 of the population of England and Wales is a pauper, according to the Government returns on the condition of pauperism on Jan. 1, 1908.

The number of casual paupers was then the highest on record and the number of able-bodied men relieved at public expense, owing to the fact that they were out of work and for other causes, showed an increase of 22 per cent., as compared with 1907.

One noticeable feature of the report is that far more married couples without children than married couples who have children, have been relieved.

Labor For Bryan.

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 24.—With but one dissenting voice the members of the Workingmen's Federation of the State of New York, in session at Convention Hall yesterday, endorsed the Democratic party.

DOCTOR FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cramps, Colic, Summer Complaints and all Fluxes of the Bowels are recognized by everyone as exceedingly dangerous.

These diseases are too serious, too rapidly fatal, for you to experiment with cheap and dangerous imitations of the genuine Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, a remedy that has been used in thousands of homes during the past sixty-three years.

When you ask for Dr. Fowler's be sure you get it. Don't let some unscrupulous druggist palm off a cheap imitation on you.

Mrs. G. Helmer, Newington, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for diarrhoea and never found any other to equal it.

There are many imitations, but none so good as Dr. Fowler's.

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 24.—Visions of mutilated limbs and rows of corpses flew before the imagination of several score of people on board a Chatham, Wallaceburg & Lake Erie electric car bound for the annual Kent fair, as the trolley pole flew off while the car was passing the C.P.R. tracks at Raleigh street on Tuesday afternoon, and when the fast express from the west hove in sight around a bend coming at a pretty fast clip. Passengers, including girls, jumped from the windows and rushed out of the door, but due to an interlocking system the railroad train was stopped before it arrived at the crossing.

Bremen, Sept. 24.—The report of the North German Lloyd Steamship Co., covering six months, which has been issued, shows a falling off of about $2,750,000, as compared with the same period last year. This decrease is mainly due to the diminished traffic from the United States.

HOUSE FAT—A VITAL PROBLEM

Shall a fat woman decide during the sweltering evenings of midsummer to sit on the porch corseted and asphyxiated but presentable; or shall she take off her harness and garner a little comfort at the expense of a few pounds more of house fat?

Here is a problem as momentous as Hamlet's "To be or not to be."

Hamlet ended where he began, however, whereas fat folks can solve their hot weather problem; they can reduce.

This does not mean hard work through exercise or a course of ascetic dieting, though. It does not mean one must take a chance of ruining his stomach with "secret" advertised "remedies." All one has to do is take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime of the following simple harmless mixture: 1-2 ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 1 3-4 ounces Syrup Simplex, and in a reasonable time the loss of fat should amount to 12, or even 16 ounces a day. This home method of reducing flesh quickly and safely gets results without disturbing one's regular diet or the formation of wrinkles, and these advantages, combined with the fact that any druggist will fill it for a small sum, make this receipt unique.

Local Opera Company Propose to Put On "Mikado" Here

A company of local amateurs being formed under the direction of Mr. R. J. Dewy, proposes to put on Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado" at an early date, and arrangements are in progress for the production on a grand scale of one of the big Daly operas by the same company. It is likely that a company from Peterborough will also enter for Earl Grey's shield competition to be held in Ottawa next February.

Meeting to be Held on Sept. 29th—By-law to Raise Debentures

There will be a special meeting of the County Council held here Tuesday night, Sept. 29, for the purpose of giving the final reading to a bylaw to raise $8,000 by debentures to pay for the several bridges being built this year. While here, Warden Thompson will likely call the Council together in regular session to discuss the matter of school boundaries in the township of Douro. The solicitor has been instructed to look into the matter so that the Council can deal with it intelligently. It is also probable that the Finance Committee will meet next Tuesday to deal with all outstanding accounts against the county.

MISCALLED "HAIR TONICS"

Most Hair Preparations are Merely Scalp Irritants, of no value

Most hair preparations are merely scalp irritants, misnamed hair tonics. When hair is brittle, lustreless, and begins to fall out, the dandruff germ is getting in its deadly work at the root, sapping the vitality. Since science discovered that dandruff is a germ disease there has been only one preparation put on the market that will actually destroy the dandruff germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It quickly reduces scalp fever, destroys the germ, and the falling hair stops and hair grows luxuriantly. Ask your druggist for Herpicide. It allays itching instantly and permits the hair to grow. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. McDermid & Jury and the Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

Closeness Of God Revealed In Process Of Nature In Providing Of Food For Man

Eloquent Sermon Delivered by Rev. W. B. Heeney at St. Luke's Harvest Festival Services

OTHER MINISTERS ASSIST

Appropriately decorated in accordance with the autumn season and the special nature of the Harvest Thanksgiving service, St. Luke's Church last night contained a large audience who listened with interest to the earnest words spoken by the Rev. W. B. Heeney, M.A., Vicar of Holy Trinity Church, Barrie. His sermon was a fervent appeal to the congregation to return thanks to God for the good gifts He had bestowed upon our country and our people.

The windows, the porch and other conspicuous places in the church were laden with the products of the soil, illustrative of the works of Nature in the benevolent production of food, as Rev. Mr. Heeney remarked in the course of his sermon. "It comes from those mysterious forces in Nature which we call God, or leave them unexplained."

Rev. Wm. Major, of All Saints', and Rev. Mr. Teeney, of Omemee, were present and assisted in the preliminary portion of the services. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, the rector, referred to the death this week of one of the most prominent workers in the Anglican Church — Archbishop Carmichael, of Montreal. It was regrettable that in such a time for thanksgiving that he should have passed away. Music appropriate to the service was sung, as well as a solo beautifully rendered by Miss King.

Dependence on Nature

Rev. Mr. Heeney founded his eloquent sermon upon the words found in Deuteronomy 4:1—"That ye may live and go and possess the land which the Lord God of your forefathers giveth thee," as well as "Praise ye the Lord," a text appearing so often in the Psalms. Beginning his sermon he presented a beautiful word picture of a scene which he had in the month of August the good fortune to witness from the edge of a village near the place where he lives. Standing on the edge of a fertile valley he could see for a distance of twenty miles towards the hills where the Nottawasaga loses itself in the great Georgian Bay.

"The space between was one magnificent stretch of ripening grain, with a cluster of houses to mark a village here and there. It was one of the grandest prospects that the eyes of man ever looked upon."

In another district he learned that scarcely any rain had fallen since the month of May, and that the crops were practically a failure, pointing out that man cannot live without the assistance of God manifested in the works of nature. The Grecian heathen of old recognized that all about them was Deity. God was everywhere. Later the Hebrews taught God to the world by means of the Bible, and all down through the ages from Adam in Eden we see the closeness of God in the process of nature, and the works of man in producing the harvests.

A Great Canada

Rev. Mr. Heeney then pointed out how the patriots of old used to describe in such glowing terms the promised land, which, when compared with Canada was merely a speck on the map. Canada was a land that have an area of 200,000,000 acres to the cultivation of wheat, and with 800,000,000 acres of forest lands for the production of lumber and pulp. Its cod fisheries and its salmon fisheries were unsurpassed in the world, and in its galaxy of provinces Ontario stands out pre-eminent. Cape Breton has its chain of lakes and rivers, Nova Scotia its coal mines, Quebec its lumber, but Ontario has them all. Do we show our gratitude properly?

"Not only are our natural resources illimitable, but we have a history and a literature to live for. We have poets, novelists and historians that we should feel proud of," said Mr. Heeney, "and all these are possessed by the descendants of the two greatest nations in the world—the Anglo-Saxons and the French."

Canadians have a duty to perform in the beautifying of their homes, which are too often neglected. They allow rubbish to accumulate where flowers should bloom or grass grow.

"Babies are too often left lying on the dusty book shelves, unread and unknown," said the speaker emphatically in referring to a great privilege abused. He also exhorted the congregation to refrain from intemperance in intoxicating liquors and the curse of gambling which "is pervading almost every town and city" in the Dominion. Life means mission, he said in closing, and mission placed in our hands by God means endeavouring to further the knowledge of Him.

MEMBER OF CHAMPION BASEBALL TEAM NOW VISITING IN THE CITY

Mr. Walter Jayes, Buffalo, a well known ball player who has made a name for himself with Wilmington, Del., team this year, is in the city the guest of his uncle, Mr. John Jayes, of the Munro House. Walter played centre field for the fast Wilmington team until he injured his arm and was forced to drop out for a time. Previous to that he led in batting averages with 326 to his credit.

Frequent reports of his work were published during the season, which showed him to be one of the best all round players in the district. The Wilmington team won the championship of their district by a good margin.

Mr. Walter Jayes' home is in Buffalo, but his vocation as a ball player keeps him away from the Big City during the greater part of the year. He is here to spend a week or so with his friends. Mr. Wm. Jayes, son of Mr. John Jayes, Toronto, is also in the city. He will return home to-morrow.

DIRECTORY OF MUCH VALUE

Desbarats Newspaper Directory for 1908 Issued—Is Of Interest to Business Men

INDUSTRIES ARE MENTIONED

Printers Ink in their "Elite Directory of Advertising Agents in America" compiled by Mr. Arthur Koppell, manager of the Eastern Department of the Publishers' Commercial Union, Temple Court, New York, in its limited list of agencies of high standing gives two for Canada, one of which is the Desbarats Advertising Agency of Montreal. This Agency has just issued a second edition of the Desbarats Newspaper Directory. The Directory is of exceptional interest, as the information is very full and complete. Besides the usual matter, a complete list is given of the industries in each town and city. The compilation of this list no doubt involved a great amount of labour, but it adds very greatly to the value of the publication. As the Desbarats Agency has had a very successful experience, their advertisers including many of the most successful business firms in the country, their method of doing business evidently commends itself to shrewd business men and the Directory which contains over three hundred pages will surely prove of great value to advertisers throughout the country. We are informed that the publishers will send a copy to any business concern of good standing, who is either engaged in advertising, or who contemplates an advertising campaign, on receipt of request with 25 cents enclosed for cost of postage, etc. The regular price is $5.00. The offices of the agency are at 42 Victoria Square, Montreal.

LAWN BOWLING

The lawn bowlers of the city are greatly indebted to Mr. Robt. Neill for his kindness in donating a pair of bowls for competition among first year players. The games will start on Friday, Sept. 25, and the preliminary round must be played by Wednesday, the 30th, as time is short.

The players can arrange to play their games to suit best, but must keep in mind the time limit. All games not played by that date, Sept. 30, will be counted as defaulted. Come along, boys, the water is fine.

Following is the draw:

PRICE OF HAY IS STILL UNCHANGED

Farmers Draw Goods Into the City While Inactivity Reigns on Farm

It was reported by an expressman to-day that the farmers had boosted the price of hay several dollars a ton, but inquiry proved otherwise. There was an unusually large number of loads brought in to-day, and the tendency was to lower the price. In fact, there were few sold at $14, the best prices being $13.50 and $13. Farmers are busy drawing goods into town these days, as there is not much progress being made on the farms. They are also bringing in grain in much larger quantities.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 656 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. LARGE BUSH FIRES AT KIRKFIELD

Dense Clouds of Smoke From Burning Black Muck

The smoke from bush fires is very dense along the G.T.R. in the neighbourhood of Kirkfield. A gentleman who has recently been travelling in that district states that in many places the black muck has been burned down to the marl and that it is practically impossible to extinguish it. The smoke from this black muck, as it is called, is very heavy, and spreads over the whole country. It is said that these burning bushes make a very fine sight in the evening when the rest of the country has been overspread with the pall of night.

MORE PRAISE FOR THE PAPERS

Mr. W. A. Bailey Says They Are Covers For Deceit of Grafters and Fraud

Mr. W. A. Bailey is at it again, and evidently Mr. Bailey has been "hog" again for the tone of his latest communication to the Chief of Police is indignant and somewhat sorrowful. This is what the chief found on a post card in his mail this morning:

Sir,—The man who cut the hay on my lot spoke to me on Sunday night, saying that he would pay me some day, but he had some money that he could not get in. Always the same tale in this country, nothing but robbery and imposition. The policy of slander of your newspapers is simply a cloak to cover the cunning and deceit of grafters and frauds.

Yours obediently,
W. A. BAILEY.

SEPTEMBER TAKES CAKE FOR DROUGHT

Average Rainfall in This Month Six Times As Great

The month of September of the present year will go down to meteorological history as one of the driest on record. In the three weeks which have passed scarcely more than a trace over half an inch of rain has fallen. There was a fall on Friday last, but just as hope of a good shower seemed on the point of realization, the fall stopped short with the meagre result of .03 inches.

Even the month of August, with its long dry days, left September in the shade. There was a fairly steady fall throughout the month, reaching a total of 2.83 inches.

Driest of the dry

But it is when one comes to compare September with previous Septembers that one is led to regard it as one of the driest of the dry. In the first twenty-three days of the same month last year 2.75 inches fell, or five times as much as during the present month. The same period of the year previous gave a little less—2.34 inches.

Out of these twenty-three days last year, there were fourteen on which rain fell and in 1906 the days of rainfall numbered ten. There were three damp days this month.

The average rainfall for September for the last twenty years, it may be added, runs about 3.30, or over six times as much as during the twenty-three days which have passed in the present month.

CRITICIZE POLICIES

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I have read with mixed feelings of indignation and contempt the evaporation of the local Conservative paper, which pursues a policy of slander and misrepresentation against Mr. Stratton. By all means let us criticise the policies of the respective parties, but let us refrain from personalities. Mr. Stratton has always been a good friend to this constituency. He has helped both friend and foe alike and is the most popular man in the city. Let us all help to have him elected.

Beauty in Footwear

Beauty in Footwear does not of necessity mean fine quality, delicate finish, stylish cut, for many styles are beautiful, not because they are made of silk-like material in an exquisite finish and in the latest creation of style — no! not at all. Shoes that are neat, comfortable, and made of seasonable weight leather in a seasonable, comfortable style, are beautiful in every sense of the word. Fall weather, for as long back as the oldest of us can remember, has been and we all believe will be yet, chilly, wet and murky, i.e., the latter end of the season. Why not be sensible in your foot dress as well as in the rest of your wardrobe? Buy substantial waterproof shoes in a style that induces foot comfort. Give this a moment's thought and see the following line of Women's Tan Shoes:—

Women's Fall Tan Shoes

Made of Tan Russia Calf Leather in college cut, Blucher lace, common sense heels. These shoes are particularly adapted for the Fall weather — the soles are medium heavy. Regular $3.50 values. Just opened up a brand new lot..... 2.95

ADAMS' GLOVE SALE AN OVERFLOW

An Early Morning Snap That Brought Out the Women in Large Numbers

The Sample Kid Glove Sale announced in the Examiner to take place this morning at the Ladies' Furnishing Store of Mr. T. Harry Adams, George street, was the attraction on the street between 9.00 and 11 o'clock. Such a spontaneous response to the extra glove values offered by this firm must have proved as gratifying a testimony to the bona fide character of Adams' glove sales as the proprietor could have wished. It was a fact that $1, $1.25 and $1.50 Paris kid gloves were sold at 60c a pair. They were so eagerly snapped up by the hundreds of ladies who crowded round the counters that the lot was well cleared out before 11 o'clock. Additional salesladies were required to assist during the rush.

A FRUIT SOCIAL AND A CONCERT

Held in Connection With Cold Springs Sunday School

The Cold Springs Union Sunday School of Otonabee held a fruit social and concert last night in their new hall, which proved a success. About one hundred and twenty-five were present, the proceeds going towards the decorating of the hall. The programme was a delightful one, Mr. J. John, of Peterborough, contributed several selections which were of a particularly interesting character and highly appreciated. Mr. Cooper, organ tuner, of Peterborough gave a number of humourous songs and recitations, for which he was given a warm reception. Mr. Wesson Hanbidge sang splendidly two solos. The concert and social was altogether a success and assisted much towards the completion and adornment of the new hall.

ROUSING OPENING MEETING OF MR. STRATTON'S CAMPAIGN

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting of South Harvey Electors —Public Issues Were Presented by Messrs. Hall and Stratton

A large and enthusiastic meeting greeted Mr. Stratton Wednesday night at Flynn's School House, Harvey. Among the large audience the ladies were well represented.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Charles Allen, an old and warm supporter of Mr. Stratton, who is nearly eighty years of age and had walked six miles to attend the meeting.

Mr. Allen in introducing Mr. Hall as the first speaker, remarked that he had voted for Mr. Stratton at every election he had contested in the past twenty-five years, and he hoped to be spared to poll another vote for him on Oct. 26th. No man who had ever represented West Peterborough had ever looked after its interests as well as Mr. Stratton had done, whether of a political, municipal or personal character. He could always be counted on for a kindly act to political friends or foes. There was practically only one opinion as to the man who should be chosen to represent West Peterborough.

Mr. Hall

Mr. R. R. Hall, on rising to speak, was greeted very heartily. He said that it was an exceedingly great pleasure to meet the electors of the Township of Harvey again, and he desired to take the opportunity of thanking them for the support given to himself and the Laurier Government during the last election. They would have noticed that owing to business reasons he had found it necessary to retire. He had laid the matter before Mr. Stratton and had told him that the hearts of the people of West Peterborough were in the right place, and that it was his (Mr. Stratton's) duty to become the candidate. (Applause.) They would all agree that in this regard they had certainly got the right man in the right place. (Mr. Hall then referred to the important place Dominion issues were occupying in the minds of the people at the present time. We had a country of which we might well be proud. Canada composes one-third of the area of the British Empire, is larger than the United States and is nearly as large as the whole continent of Europe, which supports a population of over 350 millions of people, as compared with 7,000,000, the total population of the Dominion. The possibilities for the growth and development of the country are very great, and, the speaker said, we had therefore to consider the serious necessity of selecting as a representative a man who would best be fitted to assist the Government in carrying out the details of the policy that had already advanced Canada to so high a position among the nations of the world. (Applause.) Consider what the Government had already done. Here was a country great in extent, and of rich natural resources. From the mouth of the River St. Lawrence to the head of Lake Superior was a distance of 2,384 miles. The distance from Halifax to Vancouver was greater than from Halifax to London, England. What were we to do with this immense area to develop its resources, and to make homes for the millions of people who would one day populate it? The first thing was the problem of transportation, and the Government had dealt with it intelligently and satisfactorily. Was it not right that a Government that was progressive and honest, should make such a question part of its national policy? The Liberal Government had done more towards the development of transportation facilities in the past twelve years than had ever been accomplished previously. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway project had been launched by the Government, and was the most business-like and economical way of dealing with this difficult question that could be devised. But they had not confined their attention to the question of railway transportation alone. The deepening of the St. Lawrence route, the improving of the Welland Canal, and the erecting of large grain elevators at Port Colborne, were all steps taken in increasing the facilities for developing western trade. Trade conditions with the Mother Country had also been materially assisted. The establishment of cold storage warehouses at shipping points, the providing of refrigerator cars by the railways, and the equipping of ocean-going vessels with cold storage plants, were means of insuring the delivery of dairy products, butter, eggs, poultry, etc., in the markets of the Mother Country, in perfect condition. As a result, Canada's trade with Britain had increased by leaps and bounds. In eighteen years of Conservative rule, Canada's total trade increase was only $66,000,000, whereas after twelve years of Liberal administration the total increase was $110,000,000. In eighteen years of Conservative government the total trade with Great Britain had increased $16,000,000, whereas under the Laurier Administration it had increased, in twelve years, $130,000,000. But should not such a Government be given the opportunity of completing labours so nobly conceived and so well carried on? It has been the result of wise and intelligent direction of public affairs, and it therefore was a duty the electors owed to themselves to see that able and business-like representatives were sent to Ottawa to insure the proper completion of the work. Mr. Hall concluded by pointing out that in Mr. Stratton the electors would have a representative who, by his devotion to the business interests of Peterborough, and by the successful conduct of the various projects with which he had been associated, was amply qualified to serve the best interests of Canada, and of West Peterborough, in the House of Commons.

Mr. Stratton

Mr. Stratton was glad to see so many electors present. Harvey had always treated him kindly and he hoped that the past cordial relations under Provincial representation would be continued under the Dominion. He was glad to see the ladies on his side as they always had been. Without the help of the ladies no party could win. The importance of electing a representative to meet their requirements and the conditions of the country was an important matter. Canada was over three and one-quarter million square miles in area. The British Empire was only eleven and one-half millions, so that Canada was one-third of the whole Empire, and the selection of a representative should be given due consideration. Quebec was one-third bigger than Germany; Ontario was larger than France; Labrador was of the size of Austria. The British Isles would hardly cover the smallest western province, Saskatchewan was as big as France; Alberta was equal in size to Germany, and one could make two Germanies out of British Columbia, and the Yukon, with Mackenzie River, Athabaska and the Maritime Provinces, still unaccounted for. Therefore the member that would give his consideration to the constituency he helps to represent Canada—had his share in looking after interests of the greatest magnitude and importance.

Mr. Stratton dealt with what had been accomplished by the Liberal Administration for Canada at large and West Peterborough in particular. He showed how the trade of Canada had grown by leaps and bounds; he showed how the revenue had increased under a lessened tariff rate; he pointed out that in 18 years the Conservatives had added one hundred and eighteen millions to the public debt, while in 12 years the Liberals had only increased the public liabilities by five millions. He showed how the last three years of Conservative rule had resulted in an aggregate deficit of six million dollars, while the surpluses of the Liberals in eleven years had amounted to one hundred and thirteen millions of dollars. He showed how the country had progressed under twelve years of Liberal rule; how our industries had expanded; how the exports of the products of Canadian factories had increased from nine millions in 1896, to twenty-eight millions in 1908; how mining products had grown from eight millions to thirty-nine millions; forest products from twenty-seven millions to forty-four millions; how Canadian products of farm, factory and forest had reached the magnificent total of two hundred and forty-seven millions, from one hundred and nine millions in 1896.

After dealing with many other subjects, an enthusiastic and successful meeting concluded by the audience standing and singing, "God Save the King."

ANOTHER TRIUMPH FOR THE PREMIER

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Speaks Before Three Thousand at Clinton.

EXTRAORDINARY CAMPAIGN

Premier Says It Is the Most Remarkable He Has Ever Seen—Conservatives Have Absolutely No Policy —Imperial Unity and Local Autonomy the Foundation of the Liberal Party.

Clinton, Sept. 24.—The first rain that has fallen over this magnificent county of Huron threatened to fall lightly as Sir Wilfrid Laurier stepped forward yesterday afternoon to address 3,000 people from Huron, Bruce and Perth.

Sir Wilfrid was in good form and his voice could be well heard to the outskirts of the crowd. He was aggressive, though covering practically the same ground as in initial speech of the campaign at Niagara Falls.

Proceeding he said: "I have devoted my life to make a nation out of the scattered elements which comprise the population of this Dominion."

Dealing with the school question the Premier pointed out that in the elements which comprised the peoples of the country there were differences of opinion, custom and religion. The people move in different grooves. Fair concession was the sacrifice every citizen must make upon the altar of his common country.

The Premier dismissed with scorn the attacks of the Opposition. The campaign he described as the most extraordinary he had ever known, for they had the sorry spectacle of seeing the Conservative party appealing to the country without a policy to place before the people. They cried scandal, scandal, scandal, and yet had never framed a single charge against the Government or any member of the Administration. Dealing with the contention that the Government had abandoned its pledges, particularly that with regard to the reservation of land for the settlers, he effectively contrasted the policy of Sir John Macdonald's administration with that of the present Government. He also drew a striking picture of of some of the achievements of the Government in the matter of transportation and the development of the trade of the country.

"Our policy," he said, "has been to have every possible and due consideration for our rights as Canadians, and every possible and due consideration of our duties and obligations as British subjects. Our policy has been Imperial unity based on local autonomy. This is the principle for which we are fighting at the present time. This is the principle which I commend to my fellow-countrymen."

A splendid address, dealing with the transportation question, will also be delivered by Hon. Geo. P. Graham.

Land For Steel Trust.

Windsor, Sept. 24.—Major B. H. Rothwell, a Detroit real estate dealer, but formerly of Bradford, Ont., secured an option on 75 acres of land below Sandwich for New York parties, and it is believed the purchase of the property will be made as a site for a big blast furnace likely to be operated by a corporation friendly to the steel trust. The option is to run to Dec. 1 and calls for $60,000, if executed.

Alleges Cowardice.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24.—A telegram from Fort Wrangel, Alaska, says:

Capt. Wagner, of the bark Star of Bengal, which was wrecked on Coronation Island with a loss of 110 lives, charges the captains of the tugs Kyak and Hattie Gage, who cut loose from him, with rank cowardice. The captain was unconscious for an hour after the disaster.

May Be Murderers.

Nicola, B.C., Sept. 24.—John Kies and Harold Green are two men arrested here on a charge of having murdered the hotelkeeper Thomet a month ago at Midway, B.C. They have been tracked from camp to camp and were arrested Tuesday.

Trainmen's Picnic.

Berlin, Sept. 24.—Toronto, York, London, and St. Thomas people came yesterday, between 700 and 800 strong, to celebrate in Berlin's beautiful park the 25th anniversary of the organization of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Collegiate Principal Transferred.

Cornwall, Sept. 24.—T. E. A. Stanley, B.A., has resigned the position of principal of the Iroquois High School and accepted the position of Master of Mathematics in the Collegiate Institute, Ottawa.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

In fact, in most cases one dose is sufficient. It never fails and can be relied upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is equally valuable for children and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.

PRICE THIRTY-FIVE CENTS.

FALSIFIED PAY ROLLS.

Vancouver Street Railway Official is Arrested on Fraud Charge.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 24.—A sensation in the business community was caused yesterday by the arrest of James Milne, general superintendent of the B.C. Electric Railway in Vancouver and Victoria.

Milne was formerly a prominent official of the street railway in Toronto and received his training in Cleveland, Ohio. He is held on a charge of false pretense, growing out of alleged falsification of the pay rolls of the company extending over a long period of time.

Two minor officials here were recently arrested on a charge of falsifying pay rolls. One was sent to jail for three months and the other jumped his bail and fled to the United States.

Officials of the street railway stated that the matter has probably extended over several months.

As official in charge of construction, Milne handled thousands of dollars annually in British Columbia cities, especially in the erection of power works.

FARMER SOUGHT REVENGE.

But Magistrate Says He Had No Right to Enter the School.

St. Catharines, Sept. 24.—John E. Bradley, one of the trustees of school section No. 12, Thorold Township, taught by Miss Mabel Powell, had William Haines before a magistrate recently for wilfully entering the school one day and using threats.

It appears that a number of the pupils of the school took a boy belonging to Haines to an outhouse and stripped him of his clothing for a bit of fun, it is presumed. Haines was informed of the proceedings, and at once went to the school with a whip for the purpose of administering justice there.

The magistrate said that the school was as sacred as the church, and therefore the law had to be upheld. The fine and costs which Haines will have to pay will amount to $16.70.

$2,000,000 TIMBER FIRM.

Michigan Men Will Operate In British Columbia.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 24.—W. A. White, Bayne City, Mich., here, says that the White Bros. Lumber Co., incorporated with a capital of $2,000,000, under the laws of the State of Michigan, to do business in British Columbia, has acquired timber limits on the Kallanch river, Vancouver Island, at a cost of over $2,000,000.

If congress places lumber on the free list, and business conditions continue to improve, the company will erect next year, near Alert Bay, the largest sawmill in the world. It will have a capacity of 1,000,000 feet per day. The latest purchase was made a few days ago of 500,000,000 feet.

Gave His Life.

Elkhorn, Man., Sept. 24.—The body of Michael Sager, murdered Tuesday, was shipped yesterday to his home in Stirling, Ontario.

The corontr's jury especially complimented R. M. Fraser, a companion of Sager, for the courageous manner in which he rushed to the scene at imminent danger to himself, and J. Evans for his prompt work in spreading an alarm.

In conclusion, there is special reference to the devotion of the dead man to his duty in defending the employer's property, which cost him his life.

Gold In Alberta.

Sedgewick, Alta., Sept. 24.—Rumors of gold near this town have been coming in from time to time, but have never been confirmed until this week. Almost forty claims have been staked and active development will begin at once.

The sand is easily and cheaply worked and the field is easily reached, so it will prove very profitable.

Egg-o'-See Assigns.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The Tribune yesterday says that the Egg-o'-See Cereal Co., with headquarters in Chicago and factories in Buffalo, N.Y., and Quincy, Ill., has been placed in the hands of a committee of creditors. The assets are valued by the company at $1,500,000 and the creditors are said to regard them as about equal to the indebtedness.

Collision at Welland.

Welland, Sept. 24.—About 7.30 yesterday morning Grand Trunk passenger train bound south was into the rear end of standing freight here, badly wrecking the engine of the passenger train and demolishing the caboose and one flat car, which were both set on fire and entirely consumed. No one was hurt. The collision was caused by fog.

DYING ON ROAD WHEN CAPTURED

Sought by Police Andy McGuire Is Found on Roadside.

SHUT OUT OF HIS HOME

Wanted For Assaulting His Wife, He Is Found on Roadside Almost Dead —Once Killed a Man and at Another Time Tried to Push Girl In Front of Train—Ungovernable Temper Was His Ruin.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—Andy McGuire, a painter, living at 52 Cottingham street, died in St. Michael's Hospital yesterday afternoon after having been found at noon lying by the roadside on Bathurst street above St. Clair avenue. Death was due to lead poisoning.

The man had had trouble with his family on Monday.

On Tuesday afternoon he returned to the house and assaulted his wife, so she claims, dragging her about the house by her hair. He threatened to use a knife upon her, she says, but the other members of the family prevented this. After he had left a warrant was secured for his arrest on a charge of aggravated assault.

Yesterday morning a man was noticed lying on the boulevard on Bathurst street. He was thought to be asleep. At noon, as he had not moved, one of those living in the neighborhood approached and found him to be unconscious.

The police ambulance was called and the man, who was found to be McGuire, was taken to his home. He was denied admission there and he asked to be taken to Dr. M. M. Crawford's a few doors away. Just then the policeman with the warrant came along and the doctor suggested that the police should send him to the hospital. This was done.

McGuire was 50 years of age. He was a man of violent temper, and had served two terms in the penitentiary. His first sentence, one of 10 years, was given for shooting old man Tucker. Good conduct shortened this term a little, but when he got out, he shoved a girl in front of a train at Cobourg, just as it was pulling into the station, and was sentenced to 21 years, and was released on parole about five years ago, after having served 19 years. Shortly after his release he married his present widow.

"Breakers" Are Attacked.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—Between five and six hundred C.P.R. strikers made an attack on the strikebreakers last night as they were leaving the Angus shops.

About twenty street cars were waiting near the shops for the men to come out from work. As soon as they began to pour out from the shops to the cars, the strikers made a rush and tried to prevent them reaching the cars. A free fight took place, which was broken up by a squad of forty police, who charged the strikers with their batons and drove them back.

Geo. T. Bell Is President.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—The American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents yesterday elected Geo. T. Bell of Montreal president of the association.

Mr. Bell is general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railway.

S. G. Hatch, of the Illinois Central Railway, was elected vice-president, and C. M. Burt of Boston was re-elected secretary.

Toledo was chosen as the next place of meeting.

Get His Free Trip.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—William Sangster appeared in the Court of King's Bench on the charge of having murdered Pierre Delorme on the Black Water road last autumn. It was contended by counsel for Sangster that the latter had told the police at New York, confessing to the murder, but when he arrived in Montreal he said that he had simply wanted a free trip to Montreal. The crown withdrew the charge, and the prisoner was released.

HURTUBISE WINS BIG VICTORY; LOSES FIRST FALL BUT TAKES NEXT TWO FROM THE SYRIAN

Match Was Clean and Hard Fought —Local Man On The Aggressive Throughout — Hassan Lacked Resourcefulness

THE VICTORY WAS POPULAR

Eugene Hurtubise, Peterborough's big wrestler, added another scalp to his collection last night when he defeated Hassan Abdallah, the Syrian grappler in a catch-as-catch-can match at Brock street rink. The Sultan's wrestler did not prove as awkward a proposition as his name, and the local man won with comparative ease, although he had no snap. Hassan, in fact, gained the first fall in 14 1-2 minutes, but Hurtubise had been on the aggressive throughout, and it was only a lucky chancery hold gotten on the roll that gave Hassan the fall. After that there was nothing to it but Gene. The local wrestler came back at his man with speed and cleverness, and ended the match in a hurry, getting the second fall in two minutes and the third add deciding one in 4 1-2 minutes amid the wild enthusiasm of the big crowd with whom the win was, of course, most popular.

Hurtubise clearly deserved the victory. He had the Syrian on the defensive all the way through and showed a great improvement over his form in previous matches. He is much faster than he ever was before, and showed cleverness and ability on the attack that was too much for his Eastern opponent. Gene wore his man down with half and full Nelsons and seemed much quicker in taking advantage of his opportunities than he has been in his other matches.

At times he went at the Syrian with a speed that reminded one of Yankee Rogers, and these aggressive tactics had a direct bearing on the final result. Gene's form tickled the fans immensely, and the feeling is that he will give all of them a hard battle.

Abdallah's work was watched with interest but he did not show the same cleverness that was expected of him. He was very strong and put up a most determined resistance, but he seemed to lack resourcefulness. He resorted almost entirely to neck holds, and although he had Gene in close quarters several times with them the local man managed to squirm away and take the aggressive again. The visitor's style was a peculiar one and seemed painfully slow compared to the manner of attack used by Yankee Rogers. He evidently dreaded the toe hold, and for the most part assumed a crouching position on the mat with his legs drawn up under him with a view of keeping them out of reach of Gene's fingers. On his showing last night, Hassan is not nearly as good a man as Gene.

The main bout started at 9.08. The principals were introduced by Announcer Lynch and were given a good reception, the crowd wildly cheering Hurtubise when he made his way across the rink to the platform. The Syrian wore a red sash embellished with a crescent and star, which was a gift from the Sultan.

No time was lost in preliminary sparring. The men went at each other from the start and within a few seconds they were off their feet and hard at work on the mat. Hassan threw Gene hard with a wrist lock, but the local man came right back at him and soon had the Syrian on the defensive. Gene secured a full Nelson but Hassan broke it by rising to his feet. Again Hurtubise slapped a full Nelson upon the Easterner but the latter managed to break it again and had Gene in danger, with a quickly-secured neck hold which put him on the offensive. Gene wriggled free and slammed the Syrian over again. The latter asked for time to allow him to remove his leg bandages, and as Gene was agreeable, Referee Yokoma called the bout for a couple of minutes. When they resumed, Gene went at his man like a flash, working on him as Yankee Rogers did on Mohl in the last bout. A fall for the local man seemed certain, but Hassan slammed a chancery hold upon Hurtubise, and, with an unexpected roll, put his shoulders to the mat, winning the first fall in 14 1-2 minutes.

When they came back after the ten minutes rest it was seen that Gene was bound not to take any more chances with the Syrian. He started in with a rush and nearly got him right off the reel with a full Nelson, but the visitor was too slippery. Gene, however, kept right at him and in two minutes turned him over with a crotch and arm hold that Hassan was powerless to break. The crowd cheered wildly as Hurtubise was tapped on the back by the referee.

The third bout did not last much longer, Hassan was on the defense all the period, although he managed to get one of his favourite neck holds on Gene, but Hurtubise tore loose from it and retaliated with a leg and arm hold that was too much for Abdallah, who lost the last fall and the match in 4 1-2 minutes, while the crowd went wild with enthusiasm.

It was a good match from a spectators' standpoint. It was fast and hard but clean, and the crowd enjoyed every moment of it. Neither man seemed inclined to use any questionable tactics and the referee's work in that regard was light. A. C. Yokoma was referee and gave general satisfaction.

The preliminary bouts were interesting and hard fought, and the crowd enjoyed the entertainers. In the first bout Bobby Long and Teddy Crowe were stacked up against each other for ten minutes, and a very interesting little go they made, too. Both boys worked hard and the honours were even. Both were aggressive all there was little to choose between the two, neither getting a fall within the time limit, and Referee Yokoma pronounced the bout a draw.

If there were no falls in the first preliminary there certainly were in the second, which brought together Jack Wilson and Geo. Lillie, the latter being from London, Eng. Wilson had not much trouble in steaming up his man, securing the first fall in two minutes with a waistlock, and the second in four minutes with a similar hold. The bout was to have been a ten minute affair, and the Englishman was game. He wanted to go on for another fall, and as Wilson was willing the match was resumed. Wilson succeeded in getting the third fall in three minutes. He was too heavy and clever for his opponent, although the latter showed strength and agility, if not science.

Altogether it was a good night's sport and everybody seemed satisfied with the big match and the way in which it ended.

Saint Andrews Will Have A Strong Team For The Game; Burridge To Catch For Petes

The announcement that the 'All Saints' team of Toronto will play the Peterboroughs here on Saturday afternoon in a post season championship game, has set the baseball fans going, and there promises to be a big crowd on hand for the encounter. The Saints will take a lot of beating, as they have been playing steadily together all season and will be in the best of shape. Since the games with St. Mary's on Civic Holiday the locals have not been together but the men have had lots of practice individually and will be able to give the visitors a warm argument for the honours. The fans will be glad of an opportunity of seeing Harry Burridge at work again in a Peterborough uniform, after a season in pro. company, and he will be on hand all right Saturday. Clements will do the twirling and the rest of the team will be gathered together for the occasion. Debby Shea will have a place on the line up and the team will be about the best that has worn the blue and white all season. It should be a wrestling game, and as the question of the semi-professional championship of Ontario hinges on the game there will be no excitement lacking.

City League Juniors In Line; Four Teams Will Be In Race; Executive Met Last Evening

At the meeting of the executive of the City Rugby League held last evening in the Examiner Office, a junior series of the league was gotten under way. There will be four teams, the T.A.S., Rough Riders, Collegiate Institute and Crescents; at least that is the way it looks at present. It was decided that the age limit should be twenty years and under, that is that every player shall be under twenty-one years of age on October 1st of this year.

The entrance fee was placed at $2, and it was decided to have a double-header every Saturday afternoon, commencing on Saturday, Oct. 3rd. Each club must furnish the secretary with a list of its players, and also with a declaration from the parent or guardian of each player that he is under twenty-one years of age.

It was decided to leave the matter of drawing up the schedule to another meeting, to be held next Wednesday night. As there were only two senior teams, the T.A.S. and Y.M.C.A. represented, the forming of a senior series was postponed until next week's meeting.

There were present President E. F. McWilliams in the chair, Vice-President J. E. Sullivan, Secretary-Treasurer Clarke, J. Desmond of the T.A.S., C. E. Sisson of the Y. M. C. A., and C. Wareham and P. Porter of the Rough Riders.

There is every prospect of a successful season before the league. It is thought that another senior team will be secured before the next meeting, which will make an exciting three-cornered race.

HURTUBISE MEETS CONKLE IN HAMILTON TO-MORROW NIGHT

Gene Hurtubise, who won such a notable victory last night over Hassan Abdallah, has another big match on his hands to-morrow night, when he goes to Hamilton to meet Chas. Conkle, the well known welterweight champion. The conditions of the match are that Conkle is to throw Gene twice in an hour. Local followers of the game, especially those who watched Gene's work last night, feel that the Hamilton man has undertaken a task that will prove too much for him. He has evidently underestimated Gene's ability and has made no allowance for the improvement that has taken place in the local man since he has seen him last. Conkle is a very clever wrestler, there is no getting away from that, and game as they make them, too, but from here it looks as if he would fail in his undertaking. At any event Hamilton fans will see a grand contest.

MOHL CHALLENGES HURTUBISE; WILL BE ACCOMMODATED SOON

At last night's wrestling match a telegram was read from Frits Mohl, of Buffalo, challenging the winner, and after the contest Chris. Graham, Gene's manager, decided to accept the challenge. The match will be pulled off here next week probably or a week from Friday. There is no doubt that the match will be a grand one. Those who saw Frits Mohl in his battles with Yankee Rogers, know his calibre and realize that a match between the German and Gene would be about as lively and interesting a mat struggle as has ever been seen here. The fans are already discussing the match and figuring out Gene's chances against the big German who gave Yankee Rogers such hard battles for the honours.

WILL THE TURF CLUB HOLD MATINEES FOR LOCAL HORSES?

"If the Turf Club were to put on regular matinees this fall and winter I believe the interest in the club would spread among a greater number of horsemen than it has done at present. There are lots of men in this city who would get into the game if there were more doings, and I believe the turf men can get busy and make the club a greater success than it has been in the past." Dr. Johnston was discussing the prospects of racing in the city when a reporter chanced to over-hear him. According to his views, the horse owners in the city would have greater sport if they would institute matinees, and he states that he will be one to urge that they be carried out. The prizes need not be very valuable, that being a detail that could be settled by the club. The thing is to get the men interested, and a good set of races for local horses would be a great boon to the game. It would also induce others to take up the sport, and would result in those who have horses that can step some securing faster ones. The doctor is confident that the innovation would be a success and is in hopes that the club will take it up and boom it along.

Yankee Rogers Is After Conkle; Will Throw Him Thrice In Hour

Mr. W. B. Naylor, manager of Yankee Rogers, is hot after Charlie Conkle's scalp. Before he left for Montreal last night, after the big match here, he authorized the Examiner on his behalf to challenge the Hamilton welterweight to a handicap match, to take place either in Peterborough or Hamilton, Rogers to throw Conkle three times in one hour. Conkle, it is said, has been doing considerable talking about Rogers and others, and Manager Naylor wants to give him a chance to make good with it if he can. It's now up to Conkle and it's reached a stage where it's necessary to wrestle or stop talking.

THE BOYS PRACTISING FOR THE FIELD DAY

All' Saints' Club is Turning Out Some Good Material

The Boys' Club of All Saints' Church is doing good work with it's youthful members these nights in preparation for the field day, when they will compete with the boys of Knox Church Club. They are practising running short and middle distances, and also jumps. The boys are taking great interest in the work and are turning out in good numbers. By the time the field day arrives they should have some good material to cope with their last year's opponents.

PETERBOROUGH HORSES TREATED WITH RESPECT

Lindsay Warder Gives Credit to George Powell—Harry Direct for Scugogville

Peterborough horses have hitherto been regarded with little or no respect around these diggin's, but since Geo. Powell has pitched his tepee in the Ontonabee town things have been different.

Then that horse, Harry Direct, who first won fame on the Lindsay track, will be in the race. Harry came from Reaboro originally, but has since been handed around. Cottingham of Peterborough now owns him. — Lindsay Warder.

Sporting Comment

In the National League New York has 17 games to play and Chicago 12. The former has one with Chicago, one with Pittsburg, eight with the Phillies, four with Cincinnati and three with Boston. Chicago meets Pittsburg once, Philadelphia twice, Cincinnati five times, and Brooklyn three times. Pittsburg has 13 games to play.

Detroit News—Eastern critics believe Jack Thoney is by far the fastest man in the American League. Jack's brain, however, doesn't move as fast as his feet.

• • • •

Charlie Conkle is on edge for Friday night's handicap match here with Eugene Hurtubise, the Peterborough mat artist and former footballer. He had another good workout last night in the gymnasium of the West End Pleasure Club. Good natured Sam Zeller, the human hand-ear, was on deck again, and he was on his mettle. Zeller put up a stiff argument for about thirty minutes, after which Norman Chrysler took a turn with the Canadian champion.

There has been quite a demand for tickets for the big bout at Billy Carroll's, where the reserved seat plan is on view.—Hamilton Times.

A number of Peterborough horses have been taken to Lindsay to compete in the races at Mudville's big Fair. Gerald Dunaford will drive Hazel Belle, Mr. Pat McCarty's purchase from Dr. Johnston, and after those races it will be taken back to Toronto.

Mr. Geo. Powell went up with Tore and Orillia Belle. Mr. Cottingham's Harry Direct was to have been entered, but owing to lameness it was withheld.

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER

The Lindsay Warder remarks that it is difficult to get the boys enthused over the Rugby game. Yes, it is a far easier matter to get them confused over the sport.

It's no wonder that Dr. A. W. McPherson, as he sadly ruminates over Rugby prospects in Peterborough, turns to himself a few bars of that plaintive air, "It Was Not Like This in the Olden Days."

A Lindsay paper has used half a column of the Examiner's advance notices of the Peterborough Industrial to boom the village fair. "Imitation is the sincerest form," etc., but Bandmaster Beswick of the Sylvester Band will hardly appreciate the announcement that the 57th Bank will play for the occasion.

It is to be hoped that somebody broke the news gently to the Sultan that his favourite wrestler had been thoroughly trimmed.

When Hassan Abdullah came on the platform last night he wore a sash embellished with a crescent and star. Before long there was an eclipse of the moon and the Syrian saw nothing but stars.

The Lindsay papers announce jubilantly that Smoke, the Chemong runner, has taken up his residence in Georgeville. Judging by the dizzy speed he showed in the three mile race here last week Smoke should just be about fast enough to accommodate the speed laws in that section.

A Cleveland despatch says that John D. Rockefeller's money will be called into service to reward the Naps if they win the American League rag. It is just possible that the Napoleons' chances may fade away like the same John D.'s hair before the race is over.

Looking at it from here the most classy thing about Hassan Abdallah is his name.

It will soon be time for "Young" Lochinvar" Whitcroft to come out of the west with that collection of cup hunters of his. It's safe betting Whitty will have a pretty formidable lineup when the steel blades are donned this season.

There is one good thing about Mr. W. A. Bailey's literary efforts. He has not yet broken into alleged poetry which cannot be said of some other well known local people.

STRIKE SITUATION IN HAVELOCK

About Thirty Men Out—Belmont Pastures and Wells in Need of Rain

THE RAILWAY TOWN NEWS

Examiner Special

Havelock, Sept. 23.—Messrs. Linton Scott, Smith and Linton, of Campbellford, and Mr. Linton, of Peterborough, were in town on Sunday.

Mr. H Martin, of Peterborough, has been engaged to look after the jewelry business during the absence of the manager, Mr. Jas. E Fowler, who is confined to his bed with a severe attack of quinsy.

On account of the absence of the pastor, Rev. H Captain, no services were held in St. John's church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Armstrong were in Dummer on Wednesday evening attending a wedding.

Mr. Albert Fowler, of Peterborough, spent Sunday the guest of his brother, Mr. Jas. E Fowler, town.

Mrs. E J Cress spent Friday and Saturday in Peterborough, the guest of Mrs. W. E Dodds.

Miss Laura Kelly spent Saturday at her home in Norwood.

Mr. Benore of Campbellford was in town on Monday.

Mr. Chapman is home for a few days, assisting in packing up, as they leave in a couple of weeks for West Toronto, where they will reside, Mr. Chapman having received a passenger run from Toronto to Sudbury.

Mrs. Tuck is back to town again after an extended visit at her home in Lanark.

Mr. A E McGuire, who has been stationed at Sudbury, spent a few days at his home here, last week.

Mr. E S Joyce has all the frame work of his new building up. Mr. J V A Coon has commenced to clear up his property in preparation for a new building. It is altogether likely that another large building will be erected on the lot on which Mr. W E Barrett's store stood.

Mr. Edwin Braden, of Chicago, is the guest of Mrs. Jas. Campbell.

This year surpasses many, for the large amount of fruit, which has been and is being shipped into this village daily. Every day brings large shipments to every dealer in town.

The cry for more rain comes from every farmer in this vicinity and also a great many in the village. The dry, scorching heat of the past few weeks with no rain to counteract the rays of the sun, is burning up everything. Fierce fires rage on all sides and are destroying a lot of valuable timber. Fire has been in full swing for almost two weeks north at Round Lake, eating up a lot of the woods. No buildings to amount to anything have been burned, but a great many fences have been destroyed. Farmers have had to move their hay, which was stacked near the woods in order to save it. Unless rain comes, it is likely a lot of damage will be done in this vicinity, as this is the only possible way of stopping the fire.

The strike situation in Havelock still remains the same. There are about thirty men on strike, and as yet their ranks are still unbroken, and they seem confident of making the C.P.R. come to terms. A great many men have been sent down from Toronto, some having returned on advice of the strikers, others have been given work around town, while about thirty men are at work in the shops.

Miss Stinson, of Hastings, spent Monday the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Jas. E Fowler, of town.

Miss Lizzie Henshall was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T Pass, of Cordova, on Monday.

KNIFE SLIPPED AND CUT AN ARTERY

Accident to Lakefield Man at Saw Mill On Wednesday

Mr. Frank Talbert, who is employed in the Cavendish Company's saw mill, Lakefield, met with a severe accident on Wednesday. He was cutting a piece of wood with a pocket knife, when the knife slipped and the blade entered the fleshy part of his leg above the knee, inflicting a deep gash and severing an artery. Medical aid was summoned and the bleeding stopped, but Mr. Talbert will be laid up for a few days as a result of the accident.

REAL TEST OF SCHOOL FIRE DRILL

Give Chief Howard Sanction to Sound the Alarm Unknown to Pupils and Staff

A suggestion has been made by several of the members of the Board of Education that the fire drill in the schools be made more frequent, and without the teachers or pupils having any knowledge that the alarm is to be sounded. To accomplish this they suggest that Chief Howard be given authority to make visits whenever he sees fit and to quietly sound the alarm. This will prove whether the drill is a success, and will test the organization almost as well as if it were a real fire alarm. The question will likely be introduced at the next meeting of the Board, and there is a possibility that the suggestion will be acted upon.

MANY ATTEND FARMERS' EXCURSION

Many Take in Beautiful Trip on Steamer Stoney Lake

The farmers' excursion to Bobcaygeon on Wednesday last was a very successful affair, a large number of the members of the farming community and residents of the village attending. The steamer Stoney Lake was delayed during the trip by a dense fog that prevailed during the greater part of the day, and was unable to reach Bobcaygeon, the boat only going a short distance beyond Buckhorn. However, a most enjoyable day was spent, and "Massey-Harris" Batten and the members of the committee are well satisfied with the outcome of the affair. — Lakefield News.

YANKEE SOLDIER MAKES PORT HOPE TERMINAL OF A LONG TRAMP; IDENTITY DOUBTFUL

Arrested by Chief Bond and May Be Man Police Are Looking For Who Escaped From Jail

MANSLAUGHTER IS CHARGE

Port Hope, Sept. 25.—He was a "sojer," tall, straight and lean, and the old Khaki of the U. S. infantry fitted him like a glove. He was tired and walked with a limp.

Being a very modest soldier, it was some time before his name was found out. "Well,"—he said as he seated himself in an armchair, made especially to fall over, or block the way entirely, "my name is Wright,—Jim Wright, of the 30th U.S. Just say it that way, '30th U. S.,' and I'm home from The Islands."

Now, that is not very definite, is it? Home from the Islands? But Mr. Wright explained it all. He had just come home from the Philippine Islands. Had been home only 24 days, to be exact. And this is where the story begins.

As a good U.S. soldier off duty, he went it for a few days' fun, said it for Canada. Landing in Little York, he ran across some good rich Americans, and someone remarked on sport.

"I went 20 miles in The Islands," said Jim the "sojer," in a quiet voice. "Go as you please." When the time was mentioned, the g. r. A. doubted it, and James promptly put up a watch, $100 and a ring against some of the g. r. A's money that he could walk from Little York to Port Hope in 12 hours.

He left at 8 p.m. Monday and got to Port Hope at 7.45 a.m., just time to win. Of course he saw Jimmy Reynolds, and had a long confab.

"Left the White House at 8 sharp," said James, "and ran to Little York; then walked to Port Hope."

Just as he went out, he remarked on the poor cucumbers we grew here. "Was a few 'ot daylight," he smiled, "made me sick as a dog. But I was. So long!"

Wright Arrested

Chief Bond had a circular showing a picture very much like Wright, and explaining that the original had broken jail last Sunday at Herkimer, N.Y., being held there for manslaughter. Wright was sent to jail in Port Hope for 30 days for being drunk and Chief Bond may be lucky in securing the capture of a criminal.

TORONTO MAN DEAD, PROBABLY FROM POISON, WAS FORMERLY A RESIDENT OF PETERBOROUGH

Some years ago Andrew McGuire, who was found unconscious on the roadside on Bathurst street, Toronto, and who subsequently died, was a resident of Peterborough. He worked as a painter for the late W. H. Watson and boarded at the hotel now known as the Peterborough House. Many residents of this city will remember him. A Toronto despatch says of his death:

Coroner Geo. W. Crawford opened an inquest on the body of Andrew McGuire at St. Michael's Hospital this morning. McGuire, who was found in an unconscious condition on the roadway on Bathurst street, north of St. Clair avenue, died in the hospital a few minutes after 7 o'clock.

Dr. Warren, who attended him, said there was a suspicion of a paralytic stroke, but after his arrival at the hospital the house surgeon there used a stomach pump in an endeavour to find traces of poison. Until a post-mortem examination is made, the cause of death cannot be ascertained, but the belief is that McGuire took poison.

When aroused yesterday from his semi-conscious condition, he asked to be taken home. When the ambulance drew up in front of his home at 52 Cottingham street his wife said that on Monday he quarrelled with the household, and that on Tuesday he dragged her about by the hair and threatened to use a knife. She laid an information against him, and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

McGuire asked to be taken to the residence of Dr. M. M. Crawford. Just then a policeman appeared to arrest him, and at the doctor's suggestion the police took charge of him and removed him to the hospital.

McGuire was well known to the police and had an unenviable record. He served a ten-year sentence in Kingston Penitentiary for shooting a man named Tucker, and 21 years was given him in the same institution for pushing a little girl in front of a train at Cobourg. Good conduct shortened the last term by two years. He was released five years ago and married the present Mrs. McGuire.

Wm. Fallon Sentenced To Six Months In Central Prison on Charge Of House Breaking

Wm. Fallon, a young boy of about 17 years of age, was this morning sentenced by Magistrate Dumble to a term of six months in Central Prison on a charge of breaking into the residence of Mrs. K. Dennistoun and stealing therefrom a quantity of articles, including one clock, three watches, one dozen silver forks, a pair of earrings, three bracelets, a silver fob, a silver whistle, a pair of gold eye-glasses, a golf book and lead pencils. Fallon appeared last week, and after pleading guilty, was remanded until to-day for sentence.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the prisoner, asked that the magistrate, if possible, send him to the reformatory, where he had partially learned a trade, but the magistrate refused the request. Fallon, he thought, was past the age when he might be sent to that institution. The magistrate referred to the charges which had been made against the prisoner before the present case, taking five cases of theft in which he had been involved. He had, he said, apparently made no effort to reform, and did not appreciate the leniency with which he had been dealt on the occasions of his other appearances before the magistrate, and Mr. Dumble considered that a six months' stay in the Central would be the best treatment under the circumstances.

A 14-year-old boy who had been with Fallon in the housebreaking, pleaded guilty to a similar charge. On his behalf Mr. R. F. McWilliams pointed out that the boy had never been in court before, and that he had apparently been led into crime by Fallon, who was older and more experienced. He asked for the leniency of the court on that account. The magistrate suspended sentence in this case and allowed the boy to go, after lecturing him to keep away from bad company and not to do anything that would bring shame upon his family.

Most of the articles stolen from the Dennistoun residence have been recovered by the police.

After Long Illness A Young Woman Turned Out Of House By Mother; Found On Steps

Almost beyond credence is the story of an Aylmer street mother, reported to have turned out doors her twenty year old daughter, who has been ill for months with lung trouble, and is now in an extremely weakened condition.

Incredible as this may appear it is learned from city officials that it is a reality. The mother is said to have deprived the girl of her bed and turned her out on the doorsteps. The police were notified and the case was given over to Mr. F. W. Miller. He secured the assistance of the officers of the Salvation Army, and the girl spent last night with relatives. The case arises from marital troubles, which are said to have interfered with the peacefulness of the home. In conjunction with this, or resulting from it, other difficulties have arisen which have greatly upset the mother. Her actions towards her daughter, who is scarcely able to walk, are, however, inexplicable. Those who are looking after the case are endeavouring to readjust matters so that the girl may receive proper care.

Will Address Meeting in the Opera House To-night

Mr. R. L. Borden, Opposition leader in the Dominion House, and Hon. G. H. Robin arrived in the city to-day on the C.P.R. noon train. They were met by a few of the local Conservatives, among whom were Messrs. Hugh Waddell, Jas. Kendry, H. LeBrun, H. Phelan and others. The afternoon was quietly spent in driving around the city, Mr. Borden being shown some of the leading places. A meeting will be held in the Grand Opera House to-night, when addresses will be given by the Conservative candidate, and also Mr. Borden, and Hon. Mr. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba.

MILLBROOK VISITORS ENJOYED EXHIBITION

A number from here took in the Peterborough Fair last week, viz.—J. W. Walsh, Chas. Needler, T. H. Collins, John and F. W. Dawson, Jas. Hunter, C. Thorndyke, Jas. Thorndyke, W. Fisher, and Miss Vance. The exhibition was the best held there in years. All Millbrookites were pleased to see the progress made by G. Walter Green in the machinery line. His sawmill machinery and lath machine are marvels of simplicity and cheapness, and while other shops are half idle he is busy all the time.—Millbrook Reporter.

MR. ROBLIN'S RECORD.

Hon. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, is the oratorical right bower of Mr. Borden in the latter's Ontario speaking tour. It is stated that the field of provincial politics is too small to furnish scope for Mr. Roblin's abilities or ambitions, and that he aims at breaking into Dominion political society. More definite rumour assigns Mr. Roblin to a seat in Mr. Borden's panic-post-futurum cabinet, as Minister of the Interior, a portfolio that is principally concerned with the administration of Western Canada lands. If Mr. Roblin takes a line of criticism similar to that he has taken in other places, he will denounce there to-night the Liberal Administration of the public domain. In Toronto in reply to the Globe's comparison of Dominion administration with that of Mr. Roblin, the latter said that "the domestic affairs of Manitoba had no interest for other parts of the Dominion." So that so? It, as is suggested, he is slated for Minister of the Interior, his administration of similar interests in his own province, the "domestic affairs of Manitoba" have a pertinent interest for the rest of the Dominion. We are accustomed in engaging a new employee, to ask for a certificate of character and competence. If he comes well recommended, if he can show that he has done his duty faithfully in his former position, he may be engaged. If Mr. Roblin is to become Minister of the Interior this record, in this regard may be fairly considered. If his policy applied in Manitoba to dealing with public lands was wise, straightforward and in the public interests as he will doubtless say it was, he would apply it to the management of Dominion lands. Let us contrast his policy with his hysterical denunciations of the Liberal Government which he asserts has "looted Canada's heritage."

On this point the Globe, which is almost as reliable as Mr. Roblin, may be quoted. It says:—

"For eight years the Conservative Government under Mr. Roblin, has been in power in Manitoba and during that period the policy has been "The land for the speculator."

Let us examine the records and see the evidence of this. In 1899 the Province came into possession of 542,660 acres of carefully selected, high-class farm lands in the Quill Lake District in the Province of Saskatchewan. These lands were taken in settlement of a debt owing by the Manitoba & Northwestern Railway Company to the Province of Manitoba. The policy of the Liberal Government, which obtained this land, as announced to the Legislature by Hon. Mr. Greenway on July 20, 1899, was to sell at moderate prices to actual settlers only, and some 7,000 acres were sold before the Liberal Government went out of office in January, 1900.

The Conservative Government, immediately upon coming into office, reversed the Liberal policy and sold the land in large blocks by auction at a low fixed price. The result was that large tracts fell into the hands of speculators, who held them at high prices, which the settler is called upon to pay. Up to the end of March, 1905, no less than 420,728 acres out of 542,560 acres of this high-class farming land had been disposed of to speculators for the low average of $3.68 per acre.

A return brought down in the Legislature shows that in the year 1903 alone over 140,000 acres of land were sold to twenty-three persons, in blocks ranging from 1,280 acres to 40,000 acres. Conclusive testimony is furnished of the improvident character of these transactions by official transcripts from the Prince Albert Land Titles Office. Purchasers of the Quill Lake land were obliged to register it in the Land Title Office in Prince Albert, making a declaration of the amount paid for the land and a sworn estimate of its value. There is thus obtainable a sworn official statement of the price paid the Manitoba Government and the actual value of the land purchased. An examination of nine sample parcels tells the story:

(1) Two sections bought by Brandon speculator, price paid $3,816, sworn value $8,262.

(2) One section bought by Brandon speculator, price paid $5,120, sworn value $4,134.

(3) Two sections bought by Winnipeg speculator, price paid $5,120, sworn value $12,800.

(4) Two sections bought by Winnipeg speculator, price paid $5,120, sworn value $12,800.

(5) Two and one-half sections bought by Winnipeg speculator, price paid $4,824, sworn value $16,000.

(6) One section bought by American speculator, price paid $2,560, sworn value $8,600.

(7) Two and one-quarter sections bought by Winnipeg speculator, price paid $3,197, sworn value $8,810.

(8) One section bought by Winnipeg speculator, price paid $2,560, sworn value $6,000.

(9) Seven and one-quarter sections bought by Winnipeg speculator, price paid $14,982, sworn value $50,000.

These lands approximate 13,000 acres, and were sold by the Conservative Government to speculators for $44,055, and the speculators swore the lands were worth $127,400, a loss to the province of $83,351, or about $6.40 an acre. By selling this half-million acres of good farm land to political friends, instead of holding it until there was a demand from the settler the Conservative Government made a present to the speculators of over $3,000,000 at the expense of the people.

The administration of the swamp lands of Manitoba shows that same reckless disregard of the interest of the people. The swamp lands are transferred from the Dominion Government in accordance with an arrangement made in 1885. In all 1,800,000 acres have been transferred during the past twenty-three years. The Manitoba Liberal Government carefully husbanded these lands. They sold small lots to actual settlers. During twelve years of office they sold 69,836 acres, and at an average price of $3.15 per acre. In 1900 the Liberal Government handed over to their Conservative successors 1,067,385 acres of swamp lands. In the past six years (there are no official figures available since 1905) the Roblin Government sold no less than 459,298 acres at an average price of $2.95 an acre, or twenty cents an acre less than the Greenway Government obtained, despite the fact that land in Manitoba has trebled in price since 1900.

It is known that large tracts of land near Lake Manitoba have been sold since 1905 at low figures, but the details have not been published.

The disposition of public lands in Manitoba under Hon. Mr. Roblin has been characterized by the greatest disregard of the interests of the people. The Government has apparently been hand and glove with the speculator, and the actual settler has not been considered.

(Mr. Roblin might well be called upon to explain these transactions before giving advice to the people as to whom to entrust with the administration of public lands.

EXAGGERATION.

The statements of Hon. Mr. Roblin, who is accompanying Mr. Borden, should be taken with a grain of salt. They are marked with such extravagance of language, not to say bombast, that they go beyond the mark. Here is a sample of his remarks that are amusing in their extravagance. As reported in the Mail and Empire, Mr. Roblin said at Toronto:

"Allow me to say that if there is the same earnestness, determination and enthusiasm as I saw manifested at the doors of this hall to-night there will not be a Liberal from Halifax to Victoria who will not lose his deposit." (Laughter and cheers.)

That there should be laughter from the thinking and cheers from the unthinking over such a statement—grotesquely extravagant even for rhodomontade—is natural. Here is the way he spoke of the Globe in Toronto, as reported in the Mail and Empire:

"I was saying the Toronto Globe was a whitened sepulchre and full of rottenness and dead men's bones." (Great cheering.) "I want to say this, that the gentleman who has been set apart by the laying on of hands (laughter) and taught to teach morality, truth and charity has slandered me and falsified the truth, and deserves the condemnation I now heap upon him." (Loud cheers.)

At London, Mr. Roblin used the same style of bluster against the London Advertiser, which Mr. Roblin accused of pouring "vials of filth" upon his head. What did the "slander" of the Globe and the "vials of filth" of the Advertiser consist of? Simply of a temperate and moderately-worded comparison of Mr. Roblin's own land policy with that of the Federal Government. Where are the "slanders" and "vials of filth" in quotations from public documents, and moderate comment on a matter affecting the public interest?

When Mr. Roblin permits himself to make statements whose extravagance and absurdity are carried on the face of them, he weakens the confidence of his hearers in whatever he may say.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster the last six months before Parliament adjourned was the real leader of the Conservative Opposition, (engineering, unsavoury work—obstruction and scandal—with which Mr. Borden did not wish to identify himself. Now Mr. Borden resumes the leadership and Mr. Foster becomes a tail-ender. Why is it? While Mr. Borden was disintegrating the welkin in Toronto in support of Conservative candidates, among whom is Mr. Foster in North Toronto; while the faithful were surrounding Mr. Borden, where was Mr. Foster? Sent out into the country—to Meaford. Why is this? Mr. Borden in Toronto made a feint of defending Mr. Foster—damned him with faint praise. But why didn't he have Mr. Foster, candidate for a Toronto constituency on his platform at the Toronto meeting—why did he rusticate him?

It's all very well to dissemble your love;
But why did you kick me down stairs?

ECONOMY.

(Toronto Star.)

It has been shown that while under Liberal administration the expenditure on the Canadian postal service has been nearly doubled, the increase is an evidence of good and economical management. The postal rates have been lower, the quantity of mail matter has nearly doubled, and the revenue has so increased as to show a substantial balance of profit, whereas there was a balance of loss under the Conservative regime, when the expenditure was very much smaller. Similar results have been attained by progressive methods in other departments. The Customs Department may be taken as an illustration.

The following tables give the expenditure on this service for every alternate year of the last ten years of Conservative management, and also for the alternate years of the succeeding ten years of Liberal management.

1. The Conservative period—

1889	$851,025
1890	873,400
1892	904,800
1894	921,049
1896	891,832

2. The Liberal period—

1898	$ 971,320
1900	1,071,220
1902	1,176,024
1904	1,357,184
1906	1,548,384

There was certainly a great increase in the money expended for the collection of Customs duties, but the fact that for that expenditure the country received a vastly increased and more profitable service is evidenced by official reports giving the revenue derived from Customs duties for the years above mentioned. These receipts are shown in the following statement:

1. Under Conservative Administration—

	Dutiable.	Free.
1888	$69,645,824	$31,025,804
1890	77,106,286	34,576,287
1892	69,160,737	45,999,676
1894	62,779,182	46,291,729
1896	67,239,759	38,121,402

2. Under Liberal Administration—

	Dutiable.	Free.
1898	$74,625,088	$51,682,074
1900	104,346,795	68,160,083
1902	118,557,496	77,822,694
1904	148,909,576	94,680,443
1906	173,046,109	110,236,095

The electors who look at public questions from the standpoint of common sense will pay no attention to the persistent shouting of "extravagance," when the extravagance merely means the increased expense of doing a business in which the growing receipts have been immensely greater than the growing outlay.

It must be remembered also that this large and rapid increase in Customs revenue has not been secured by the imposition of heavier taxation upon the consumers of the duty-paying goods. It is the result of a tariff carefully adjusted so as to make the people's burdens as light as possible, and incidentally to give the most effective encouragement to home industry that could be given under duties necessary for revenue purposes, and as fair as possible to all classes.

That this has been done successfully is strikingly evidenced by the figures showing the values of imported merchandise during the years mentioned. They are set out in the following table, which contains a column showing the value of imports which were admitted free, because home industry would not be promoted by taxing them:

These tables demonstrate the wisdom of the methods that have produced such an increase of trade and such an increase of population as the increased trade represents.

The column giving the value of untaxed imports is, to a certain extent, a measure of the growth of Canadian industry, much of it representing the raw material of domestic manufactures, as well as products with which our industries do not compete.

At the best, tariffs must always be somewhat imperfect, because they are influenced by varying conditions, but there is no variation of the sound principle that when liberal expenditure is necessary for profitable business and good service, then parsimonious economy is folly, and a record of small expenditure is an evidence of small-mindedness and incompetence.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Under a sky-high protective tariff Germany is doing the Foster act with its finances. There is a deficit in the finances of five hundred millions, while poor decadent free-trade Great Britain has buoyant finances and is rapidly paying the liabilities incurred by a war whose cost would have staggered the military and financial resources of any protectionist country.

TORN BY WILD BEASTS

History of a Great Discovery

The old Roman heroes who were torn by wild beasts at their fights in the now ruined Colosseum at Rome, the Greek charioteers, and the gladiators who made fighting a profession, all knew the virtues of herbal essences (such as are contained in Zam-Buk for skin injuries and diseases. They would apply at night their secret herbal balms, and in a few days would again be ready for combat. Their ideal of a balm or salve was a preparation which combined power with purity; and that ideal is realized in Zam-Buk.

Ordinary ointments, salves and embrocations are generally composed of rancid animal fats and mineral poisons.

Zam-Buk on the contrary, is a healing balm, composed of highly refined saps and juices got from certain rich medicinal herbs, and every one using Zam-Buk may rely on its healing power.

When the little one runs in from play with a smarting dirt-filled scrape on hand or knee, simply wash the part, and smear with Zam-Buk, bandaging if necessary. Zam-Buk will do the rest.

When father returns from work with a cut hand or other injury, the handy box of Zam-Buk again meets the emergency; and the housewife or mother continually finds it a real friend in need for the burns, scalds, scrapes and bruises sustained by general household duties. For eczema, ulcers, itch, fistula, abscesses, scaly sores and all skin diseases, it acts like a charm. It eases the pain and stops the bleeding of piles, and cures this painful ailment quickly and surely. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 3 boxes for one dollar twenty-five.

When the bread or cake or pastry comes from the oven light, crisp and appetising, you are wont to say you have had good luck with your baking.

The "good luck" idea is a relic of the time when housekeepers pitted their competency against poor flour.

To-day good-baking isn't a matter of good luck in any home where is intelligently used.

In the hands of competent housewives it never fails because it is the whitest, lightest, purest and best baking flour to be had.

If the goodness of your baking is due to chance, your grocer is giving you the wrong kind of flour. Ask for Ogilvie's Royal Household.

SHOT TO BREAK LEGS.

Indian Murderer Says He Did Not Intend to Kill Sero.

Belleville, Sept. 25.—The Police Court was packed to the doors yesterday morning with people, many of them Indians from the reserve, when the young Indian, Thomas Smart, charged with the murder of his uncle, James Sero, at Shannonville, on the night of Wednesday, Sept. 16, came up for a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Bedford.

The accused man, who is 24 years of age, is a fine-looking Indian, with black, curly hair. He was the coolest man in the court.

Mrs. Sero, the wife of the murdered man, swore that on her arrival home the night of the shooting she and her husband found the accused man and his sister, Dorothy Smart, at the house. The young man went out, and in a short time returned and told the witness, after calling her outside, that she would soon see a dead man fall. Then her husband came and as he grappled with Smart, the gun went off, killing the elder man.

The prisoner said that he only intended to break Sero's legs, and not to kill him. After finding that he had killed his uncle, he said that he would shoot his sister and then himself. The sister, Dorothy, however, took the gun from him and hid it.

The accused was committed for trial.

CHEESE OUTPUT DROPS.

Drought Will Cause Factories to Close . —Train Service Hampered.

Brockville, Sept. 25.—The continued dry weather is having a noticeable effect on the offerings at each meeting of the local cheese board. With the decreased milk supply there is a corresponding lessening of the production. The pastures are burned to the roots for lack of rain, and farmers here have resorted to surplus feeding of corn and hay.

It is the general opinion that in view of existing conditions the first part of October will witness the closing of many factories which usually continue operations until well on in November.

The source of supply for two of the large water tanks at points on the G.T.R. between Brockville and Montreal has become exhausted owing to the drought, and the company is at its wits' end to keep the engines supplied with water while making the trips between the two points. A relay of engines may be necessary to meet the difficulties.

PICKED UP IN MID-OCEAN.

Crew of Canadian Schooner Grenade Four Days Without Food.

London, Sept. 25.—Capt. Watt and crew of the schooner Grenade, which was abandoned in mid-Atlantic on Aug. 26, have arrived here from Rotterdam, where they were landed by the steamer Manchester Spinner, which rescued them.

The Grenade sailed from Campbellton, N.B., bound for New York. She ran into a gale and was overcome by the heavy seas, getting so deep that the crew had to seek refuge on the top of the deckhouse. They spent four days without food or water and had to lash themselves to the vessel to prevent being washed away.

Explorer Shot.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—The letter received here from Fort McMurray on the fringe of the Arctic Circle tells of the accidental shooting late in August of Count Alfred von Hemmerstein, an explorer well known in Canada.

He was explorer and exploiter of the Athabaska Petroleum Fields.

The accident occurred while von Hammerstein was hunting.

Banquet In a Sewer.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—A banquet laid in a sewer in Franklin Park, a Chicago suburb on the west bank of the Desplaines river, was the unique means of the enthusiastic women of that town to celebrate the opening of the new concrete sewage conduit, the completion of which ends a legal fight of sixteen years.

Another Tercentenary Victim.

Quebec, Sept. 25.—Driver Random of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, who came to Quebec from Kingston for the tercentenary celebration, died in the military hospital from Bright's disease. His remains were interred with military honors in Mount Hermon cemetery.

Washington Life Changes Hands.

New York, Sept. 25.—The control of the Washington Life Insurance Co. yesterday passed from the hands of Levi P. Morten, Thomas F. Ryan and Harry Payne Whitney to a Pittsburg syndicate, headed by William C. Baldwin, president of the Pittsburg Life & Trust Co.

Widow's Misfortune.

Orangeville, Sept. 25.—About one o'clock yesterday morning the home of Mrs. Hillock, widow, was completely destroyed by fire, including the contents. She was sleeping at a neighbor's house, having had all her furniture packed to ship to Toronto.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—Receipts of live stock as reported by the railways were 75 carloads on Thursday, composed of 843 cattle, 2206 hogs, 1637 sheep and lambs and 65 calves.

Exporters.

The best shipping cattle would not bring more than about $4.80 to $4.75, but none were wanted and none were sold. Bulls are quoted at $3.50 to $4.

Butchers.

Prices, even for the best cattle, were lower, and picked lots of heifers and steers of good weights were not quoted over $4.60; best loads, $4.25 to $4.45; medium, $3.75 to $4; common, $2.75 to $3.50; cows, $2.25 to $3.50; canners, $1 to $2.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. W. Murby reports a falling off in the receipts of stockers and feeders this week, which no doubt benefited the trade somewhat, altho prices were not any higher than last week. As usual the bulk of the offerings were inferior stuff and some of this class is still unsold. All good useful stuff was sold. We again caution shippers to be very careful in their buying and selecting. This continued dry spell has put the trade in an unbalanced condition and a big run would certainly demoralize prices. Messrs. Murby bought about 150 fair to good steers this week at the following quotations: Best feeders, 950 to 1050 lbs. each, at $3.50 to $3.80 per cwt.; best feeders, 800 to 950 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.50; best stockers, 650 to 900 lbs. each, at $2.50 to $3; medium stockers, 600 to 700 lbs. each, at $2.25 to $2.60; common stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $2 to $2.25.

Milkers and Springers.

There was as usual, a good demand for all milkers and springers of good choice quality, which sold readily at unchanged prices at $50 to $65 each, the bulk going between $40 and $50 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts moderate and prices unchanged at $7 to $8.50 per cwt. Strictly speaking, those sold at the lower price should not be classed as veal, some of them being rough scraggy animals, that have run in the orchards, fed on sour apples and sour milk, with horns on them, 2 or 3 inches long, looking more like yearlings.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts have been large, which caused the market to be easy at following prices: Sheep, $3.75 per cwt.; lambs, $4.25 to $4.60 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quoted prices unchanged at $7 for selects, and $6.75 for hogs f.o.b., cars, at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 24.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head; steady; prime steers, $6 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2300 head; slow; sheep, steady; lambs, 25c lower; lambs, $4 to $5.75.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Beeves—Receipts, 927. Feeling, nominally steady. Dressed beef, slow at 7c to 10½c per pound for native sides. Exports to-day, 1540 quarters of beef.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Cattle—Receipts, about 5000; market steady; steers, $4.25 to $7.60; cows, $3.25 to $5.25; heifers, $3 to $4.25; bulls, $3.50 to $4.50; calves, $3.50 to $8; stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $4.90.

A NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT AT THE BARRACKS

"The King and Queen of the Harvest" —To be Presented Again

Last night at the Salvation Army barracks a splendid entertainment was held by the junior department entitled "The King and Queen of the Harvest." The young folks were prettily dressed in colours, representing the four seasons. The king and queen occupied a position in the centre and were surrounded by the four seasons. The programme was greatly enjoyed by the large audience present, as it was something entirely new, and by special request it will be repeated next Thursday night.

To-night a special attraction will be at the barracks when Major and Mrs. Plant of England, the famous musicians, will be present. Mr. Plant will give a lecture on "How I was shipwrecked off the west coast of Norway."

On Saturday night they will give a musical evening entitled "Around the World in a Chariot of Music and Song." Major and Mrs. Plant will play at least a dozen different instruments, including a scriptural flute, the only one of its kind in existence. They will also be present at the Sunday service.

Your poultry won't be troubled with lice if Empire Poultry Duster is used as directed, and more eggs in the nest will be the result. 25 cents at all dealers.

OCTOBER NUMBER OF BUSYMAN'S MAGAZINE

Welcome as "brown October ale" to the jolly Englishman is the current number of the Busy Man's Magazine to the Canadian reader. It tells of many things of interest and is more attractive in appearance than any preceding issue. The illustrations embrace several fine cuts of the exterior and interior of the Canadian offices in London, the homes, religious ceremonies and customs of the Six Nation Indians, various scenes of the mining, forest, and railway camp life of the frontier labourer, as well as the temple and meeting house of the oldest religious band in America. The fiction, both original and selected, is strong in character, delineation and plot-interest. The articles from the world's leading publications are comprehensive in character and well selected, while the original contributions are bright and entertaining, among them being "A Man Who Has Helped Many a Young Man in Business," "Where Progress and Education Join Hands," "What Constitutes True Leadership," "The Older He Grows the More Active He Is," "Where Women Have to Cast Their Votes," "The Story of the Coward," etc. The variety and timeliness of the reading matter makes the October edition of the Busy Man's Magazine a welcome visitor in any household and a prime favourite with all classes.

Independent Telephones Expected For Otonabee

Arrangement Made For Meeting at Zion—Company Likely to be Organized

PROSPECTS AT STEWART'S

There is a movement on foot to organize an independent telephone company, so that residents of and surrounding Zion, Otonabee, may have direct communication with the city of Peterborough. The Bell Telephone Company has Mr. Geo. H. Hill of the contracting department in the city this week looking after their interests, and he will attend a meeting called for next Friday night at Zion Foresters' Hall, Otonabee, when it is expected the organization of the company will be completed.

The Bell Telephone Company are accomplishing a great work throughout this district in encouraging and assisting in the organization of independent companies which connect with their lines. The object is to get the whole surrounding country in direct communication with the city. What this means to the local merchants is only partially realized, but is still more advantageous to the farmers.

The meeting at Zion was called by Dr. E. A. Langfeldt, and the letter he sent is as follows:

Peterborough, Sept. 23, 1908.

Dear Sir,—As I am interested in the promotion of extended communication to the larger centres of our country for the sake of commerce and other helpful means in the way of business and social intercourse, I have arranged for a meeting with representatives of the Bell Telephone Company to be held at Zion Foresters' Hall, Otonabee, on Friday, October 2, at 8 o'clock.

Yours sincerely,

E. A. LANGFELDT.

It is also expected that an independent company at Stewart's Settlement will be organized to connect with Peterborough. A meeting will be called shortly, and there is every indication that it will be a successful one.

Happiness The Essential Spirit Of A True Christain

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt Preaches A Splendid Sermon at All Saints' Church at Harvest Festival

SPECIAL MUSIC BY CHOIR

Lord of the Harvest, once again
We thank Thee for the ripened grain.

The congregation of All Saints' Church celebrated last night their annual service of Thanksgiving, or as it is generally known the Harvest Festival. On every hand the interior gave evidence of the opulence of natural resources with which this land is blessed. The broad acres which have seen many suns yielded their golden grain and the fruits of the field and orchard were silent reminders of God's lavish hand, which he presents to the Canadian people from an unstinted cornucopia.

The congregation showed its sympathy with this special service by attending in large numbers. The hymns were written for the purpose of conveying gratitude for a bounteous harvest, and the result was a manifest spirit of thankfulness on the part of the people.

The Sermon

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's Church, delivered an able sermon, in which he dealt with the joyfulness that should be shown by every true Christian. His text was from Nehemiah 8:10—"Then he said unto them, go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto our Lord; neither be ye sorry for the joy of the Lord is your strength."

In his introductory remarks Rev. Dr. Langfeldt stated that this was an occasion when thanks to God were offered in particular for the material blessings He has bestowed upon us. It matters not what our station in life may be or how well we may be provided, everyone should be inspired with a joyful feeling at this season.

The joy of Freedom

The joy referred to in the text was that experienced by the 4,200 assembled Jews, who had just been led back from their long captivity in Egypt. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt stated that they could not have felt this joy had they still been in bondage. Similarly, if we are to manifest the happiness referred to in the text, we must be freed from the captivity of evil. Joy is one of the greatest factors of our existence, and Rev. Dr. Langfeldt stated that the devil is always anxious to remove it. A mournful Christian is the best advertisement of the evil one. The worldly man will say there is a man professing joy but he does not show it.

"Radiate sunshine" is the true religious spirit. Manifest it by happiness in your daily life, in your home, your office, everywhere."

This spirit, the speaker continued, cannot be bestowed upon a man of carnal propensities. Neither can the formal Christian, he who simply goes through the formalities of religion, experience it.

"There is nothing," Rev. Dr. Langfeldt emphasized, "that will so effectively defeat Satan as to have this joy reverberating in our hearts." "Be of good cheer" was a beautiful and inspiring message that Christ delivered, and carrying with us in our daily paths will be a great means of bringing others to the fold.

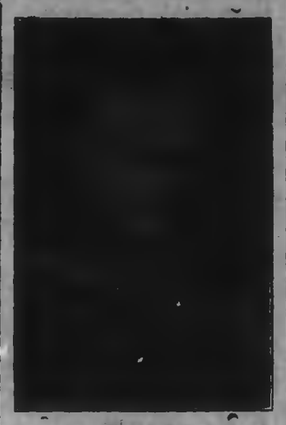
The Prime Factors

The first factor for happiness is a conscience freed from guilt. "We must know that our sins are forgiven." The reason that the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak is because our consciences are not clear, our sins are not forgiven. Again we must trust in God. We all have our storm seasons, when trials and tribulations, discouragements and trouble afflict us, but if we place absolute confidence in God the storm will be changed to a calm. "There is nothing," Dr. Langfeldt stated, "so helpful to enable us to get closer to God than these same afflictions." He made a strong appeal for a confiding trust in God, and spoke against those higher critics who, he said, were trying to take away the ground on which we stood.

"Let us bear loyal testimony to Christ, showing it in the lives we lead." In concluding, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt said we should be His witnesses first in our homes, for there Christian spirit begins. Then with the outer world, and lastly with those who have not yet heard the Word of God.

"Do things now," he said, not putting off till to-morrow, for there may be none for us.

The singing of the harvest hymns is deserving special mention. A solo entitled, "Ye Dwell in the Land," was sung by Miss Rose Mulholland, while the offering was being taken.



REV. DR. LANGFELDT,
Special Preacher at All Saints' Harvest Festival Service.

The Farmers Sell Their Cattle; Are Glad To Dispose Of Them

One of the direct effects of the continued dry weather is the big slump in the cattle market. The bottom has literally fallen out of the prices and an over supply of stock of poor quality is received at all the big cattle centres. A Smith farmer stated yesterday that he sold his fifteen head of cattle and was glad to dispose of them. His pasture had failed, but fortunately he had grown a field of rape into which he had turned them, with good results. When he sold them they were in good condition, but he was glad to get rid of them. The majority of the cattle now being sold are decidedly poor, and the parching of the pastures is the main reason. The farmer in question stated that in a month or so he would restock his farm.

The New Theory Advanced As The Cause Of Aurora Borealis

The theory that the aurora borealis is caused from magnetic waves generated on the sun and extending to the earth is rapidly gaining ground among astronomers. It will be remembered that a few days prior to September 13th, the Examiner referred to the wonderful disturbances on the surface of the sun. The vice-president of the Royal Astronomical Society, Peterborough Centre, has received word from the Magnetic Observatory, Agincourt, that extraordinary magnetic disturbances were noticeable in the swing of the needle on the film of the contrivance which registers disturbances. The needle was observed to move from one side the film to the other. At that time on either side the sun was a large disturbance. The theory is that a magnetic circuit is started between the two spots, magnetic waves are generated and these extend to the earth causing the northern lights.

Certificates For Those Who Do Not Complete Their Courses

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner has received the certificates that were prepared for those pupils who attend the Collegiate Institute but who do not receive any testimonial showing that they have gone further than the senior fourth book. Mr. W. S. Robinson instituted the idea, and there is no doubt that it will be appreciated by many of the pupils. There are some children who commence their studies at the Collegiate and may attend for several years, but owing to some circumstance they are unable to complete their course and obtain the diploma that goes to successful pupils.

Some time during the month of October there will be a meeting at the Collegiate, when those pupils who make request for the new certificates will be presented with them. There is a possibility that pupils who have closed their school work during past terms will be accorded the same privilege. It will likely depend upon whether they ask for them or not.

OPENING OF TTE LEASON COPPER MINE

Prospects Are Bright—Bush Fires Still Burning

Stony Lake, Sept. 25. — Special.—There is every reason to believe that operations at the Leason copper mine will go on now. The men have been laying off for the past two or three weeks waiting for the steam pump. This has now been installed and the company intends to put on two gangs of men and to run night and day. The indications are encouraged as regards ore. The deeper they go the brighter the prospects appear to be, and now that they have got the steam pump and steam hoist installed they will be able to employ quite a number of men.

A gentleman was here the other day prospecting for marl for the purpose of making cement. Messrs. Jas. and Wm. Robb have a large marl marsh of 35 or 40 acres and he took away some samples with him. He says it is good. It goes down 12 or 15 feet.

The fires are still running very fast near the mountains and cleaning out the beaver marshes. Some parties have sustained heavy losses.

PRESENTATION TO MR. R. J. TODD

Expression of Gratitude from a Patient Healed Through Christian Science Treatment

The Examiner has been requested to print the following:

On Thursday a parcel was delivered at the residence of Mr. R. J. Todd, 456 Aylmer street, by the express company, which was a surprise to Mr. Todd because it was quite unexpected and unlooked for. On investigation, the contents of the parcel proved to be a handsome British plate mirror in a heavy weathered-oak frame embellished with a gilt garland of ivy designs. Further inquiry disclosed the fact that it was a gift from a grateful patient in a distant city who had been healed through Christian Science treatment. The case was one which the medical attendant had been unabled to help, and Mr. Todd was telegraphed to for treatment, with the result that in an hour after the telegram was received the patient was freed from all pain, and asleep, and has continued well ever since. What may seem to the inexperienced as equally remarkable is the statement that this was a case of "absent" treatment—the patient and the practitioner being separated by a distance of over three hundred miles. Christian Science claims that the Divine Mind is not confined to limits; it recognizes "the capabilities of mind, and heals cases through man without the practitioner even having seen the patient."

BOARD OF WORKS HELD MEETING; ENGINEER CHAPMAN WAS HERE AND DEPUTATIONS WERE HEARD

A meeting of the Board of Works Committee was held last night for the purpose of consulting with Mr. Chipman, the sewer expert of Toronto, who is down in connection with the new outfall sewer on Park street, and the Romaine street sewer.

Those present were Chairman Ald. Phelan, Aldermen Tovey, Buller, Elliott, McIntyre and Mayor Rush.

The Board dealt with a deputation which was present in connection with a sidewalk on Wolfe street from Rubidge to Edinburgh street.

The Board of Works has so much work on hand now that it will be impossible to consider anything more, and the deputation was informed accordingly. The deputation was not satisfied and addressed the Board urging that the work be taken up. The walk desired is a feeder to Knox church, and as there is no walk there whatever, they felt that they were entitled to a good walk. They did not forget the amount of work already on hand, but they felt this was most important.

Chairman Phelan explained that he did not see how it would be possible to grant the request of the deputation this year as work will have to cease by the 15th of October, as frost after that is a danger to the work.

Engineer Hay said that the district was a very bad one to work in as a walk in black muck is of no use.

Ald. Buller suggested that a temporary wooden walk be laid for this fall and winter.

The engineer suggested excavation this fall and then filling up with gravel to last for the winter and in the spring only the concrete top would have to be laid. This suggestion was adopted.

Father Kellty wrote the mayor stating that his horse went through a culvert near the Nicholls Oval, but nothing serious resulted. The culvert was repaired at once. The matter to settle with Father Kellty was left with the chairman.

A letter from Mr. Robert Stewart, in reply to the mayor's letter, in reference to the proposed overhead bridge at Hunter street, was read. Mr. Stewart said that his company was heartily in sympathy with the proposed new bridge, and would be glad to waive all claims of damages to property, but he did not think they should be expected to bear any of the cost. Mr. Stewart said he would be in the city again in two or three weeks and would endeavour to meet the committee.

Mr. Chipman said he had seen a general plan of the system, which Mr. Hay had prepared and he learned what the board proposed. He said that he had not been over that ground yet and would like to take to-morrow to see what was required. He could then give an idea of the cost of the work, and also his fees.

The board adjourned to meet Mr. Chipman in the morning, and go over the ground with him. They will also meet again this evening.

TWO FORMER PETERBORO BOYS AS SONG COMPOSERS

Mr. Walter. G. Cluxton and Mr. John T. Ball as Composers of Words

The Examiner has pleasure in acknowledging through the courtesy of Mr. Harold Cluxton, a signed copy of "Just as You Are I Love You Best," a sentimental ballad, the words of which were composed by his brother Mr. Walter G. Cluxton, an old Peterborough boy, who has developed into a dramatic artist of considerable eminence. This song was sung with much success by Mr. Cluxton in his one act play, "An Old Man's Love." It has a very fetching valse time melody with a delightful swing and a sweetness in keeping with the amatory sentiment of the text. It is adapted to voices of moderate range and should be in good demand.

The Y.M.C.A. Will Conduct An Earnest Membership Campaign

Three Teams Have Been Selected and the Contest Promises to be An Exciting One

BOYS' CONTEST AS WELL

Two enthusiastic meetings were held at the Y.M.C.A. last night, when it was decided to put on a fall campaign for new members. It will be a short one but will be sharp and effective. It is proposed to secure in three days 150 new senior members, starting on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and last until Thursday night at 10 o'clock when the last returns must be handed in.

The plan proposed and being carried out is a team competition. Three teams were selected and each will have fifteen men, or as many more as desired up to 25. These are already selected and will be found below.

The conditions are as follows:

No returns shall be counted if brought in before Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Any member whose membership has expired or will expire during September or October will be counted as a renewal. If it does not expire until after Oct. 31st, it shall not be counted in this campaign.

Only those who have passed their 18th birthday shall be counted senior members.

Each dollar received from new membership shall count two points.

Each dollar from renewals shall count one point.

The contest closes sharp at 10 o'clock Thursday night, Oct. 1st.

The winning team shall be given complimentary tickets to a members' banquet to be given later.

Each individual bringing in five or more members will be given a complimentary ticket.

The individual bringing in the largest number of members (with a minimum of 10) will receive a year's extension to his membership.

The teams are as follows:

W. McLaren Captain

Geo. Mamon, E. R. Shirley, Percy McFadden, Charles Thorpe, Thomas Walker, Chas. Cossey, P. Redgrave, Harry Flowers, Reg. Greenland, N. Greenhalgh, Will Common, W. H. Frost, Gene Hurtubise, Lincoln Brace.

Boys' Campaign

A similar campaign has been arranged for the boys' department. The rules and conditions are identical. Three teams will be in the field with Mitchell Hart, Fred Hall and Max Dobbin as the leaders. It is proposed to make this year the banner year among the boys. The war cry will be "Wanted, 100 Boys." A meeting will be held Saturday night when all the team members are requested to report.

MAJOR PLANT AT THE BARRACKS

Will be Here For Three Days—Lectures and Musical Programme

Major Thos. Plant and Mrs. Plant of the Salvation Army arrived in the city this afternoon and will be at the barracks to-night and on Saturday and Sunday nights. Major Plant is from headquarters at London and will give an address to-night on "How I Was Shipwrecked on the West Coast of Norway." This is exceedingly interesting, and a large crowd should be present to hear an entertaining and instructive address. There will be a march-out at 7.30 with the band. To-morrow night the major will give a musical programme, which will be well worth hearing. He possesses an ability that is not confined to any one instrument, and his concert will include selections on various musical bells, pipes, etc.

ST. JAMES CHURCH LADIES' HOLD CONCERT

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. James Church a very successful social was held in the tent last night. A programme was presented and lunch was served. Everybody enjoyed themselves, and the proceeds were more than the ladies anticipated.

AN EFFORT TO BREAK UNIONISM

Gompers Declares Manufacturers Tried to Bribe Him.

TO SPEAK AGAINST UNIONS

Says He Was Offered Ease For Rest of His Life to Lecture Against Labor — Espionage System In Shops — Leaders Shadowed by Detectives—Taft Is Involved in an Injunction Case.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Testifying in the proceedings against himself and other labor union officers on the charge of contempt in violating the injunction decree of the District of Columbia, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday made serious charges against W. J. Vancleave, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Mr. Gompers declared Mr. Vancleave had had Mr. Gompers and other federation officers shadowed by detectives and had undertaken to have Mr. Gompers bribed to desert the cause of organized labor and join it's enemies.

Mr. Gompers, in his testimony, also stated in effect that former Secretary Taft, now Republican candidate for President, had supplied the sentiment behind the injunction decree which had directed the labor officials not to publish the Bucks Stove & Range Co. as "unfair."

Mr. Gompers was asked whether there had been any general effort to break down organized labor, and he replied:

"Men have been suborned to spy on their fellow-laborers in shops, factories and mines; to report the proceedings of union meetings; to spy on the personal conduct of workmen after working hours, and to follow from place to place labor leaders visiting other cities than their homes. Money has also been used to bribe representative laborers to cease their connection with the labor organizations and direct their activities to the National Manufacturers' Association. They have not only been offered bribes in money, but have been offered substantial safeguards for the future."

After giving details of his own pursuit by detectives, Mr. Gompers then told of being approached in New York and an effort made in 1907 to bribe him in the interest of Mr. Vancleave. He was assured that he would be given a good lump sum, and that Vancleave would guarantee him beyond question that he would be cared for, for the rest of his life, even going so far as to tell him that the guarantee should be underwritten; he said that Gompers could deliver lectures in opposition to the labor movement, and that if he did not receive as much as $5,000 or $6,000 a year, Vancleave would make up the difference.

MACKENZIE KING MAKES HIS DEBUT

Laurier and Lemieux Help Open Berlin Campaign.

LABOR MINISTER PROMISED

Brilliant Young Candidate Amazes His Constituents by Addressing Them in Two Languages—Thousands Present to Give a Hearty Welcome to the Premier — Lemieux Outlines Policy.

Berlin, Sept. 25.—Yesterday afternoon Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister of Canada, received the welcome of the Teutonic citizens of the Dominion as he has at other places been the object of the cheers and admiration of thousands upon thousands of Canadians of Scotch, Irish and French-Canadian birth or extraction.

In the course of his remarks, Sir Wilfrid made the important announcement that the time has come when labor will have a separate portfolio in the Dominion Cabinet. This recommendation he will make to the Government.

Incidental to the visit of the Prime Minister, William Lyon Mackenzie

W. L. MACKENZIE KING.

King, C.M.G., late Deputy Minister of Labor and the Winston Churchill of Canada, receive his immersion in the sea of Federal politics.

Like his bi-lingual leader, Sir Wilfrid, Mr. King showed his versatility by speaking first in English and then in German. The effect was to electrify the two or three thousand Germans in the audience.

Mayor Huber of Berlin and Mayor Fischer of Waterloo proclaimed a half-holiday, the factories of the town were closed and thousands were enabled in consequence to witness the parade and hear the speeches at the park.

Mr. King said he did not want his name tarnished by an unclean election and he appealed to his supporters to help him in keeping pure his own name and the name of Liberalism. He reminded the audience that he had not taken the step lightly. It meant something that he should give up a life position worth $5,000 a year, for a principle.

"Industrial peace," he declared, "is the beginning of international peace, and to that end will I devote my public life."

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux outlined the policy of the Government.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was presented by Mayor Huber with the address of the town of Berlin and by Mr. Clement, with the address of the North Waterloo Liberal Association.

The Prime Minister did not speak at great length having left the treatment of the issues largely with Mr. Lemieux.

He predicted that Mr. King was one of the future men of Canada. He was a chip off the old block, and while days of struggles of his illustrious grandfather had passed, his place was in the broader sphere of public activity—in the House of Commons of Canada.

The [illegible] had no great principle to place before the people of Canada.

Australia's Fleet.

Melbourne, Sept. 25.—The British Admiralty has given its general approval of the scheme of the Australian Commonwealth for the formation of a fleet of six torpedo boat destroyers, nine submarines and two depot ships, as the nucleus of an Australian navy.

The officers and men will total 1,200 and will be provided by the Imperial navy. But they will be paid by the Commonwealth, which will retain administrative control.

To Rescind the Decree.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Sept. 25.—Sir Vincent Corbett, the British minister to Venezuela, left for Caracas Wednesday night on board the steamer Barbadian, via Curacoa.

It is believed here that upon his return to the Venezuelan capital he will endeavor to have rescinded President Castro's decree, which has virtually shut off trade between the West Indies and Venezuelan ports.

ANOINTMENT SAID TO WORK CURES

Prayer and Oil Method of Healing Discussed at Synod.

SOME WONDERFUL RESULTS

Anglican Clergymen at Ottawa Favor Authorization of Faith Cure But Laity Defeat Motion—Say It Is Too Much Like Christian Science—Personal Experience of Its Efficacy in Disease.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—At the Anglican Synod yesterday afternoon it was moved by Canon Scott that, to meet the case of persons who desire to receive the anointing mentioned by St. James, they should authorize the use of the prayer for the administration of unction printed in the first prayer book of Edward VII.

He said there was no reason to suppose that the healing powers of the first ages had died out. All around, sects were growing up, notable Christian Scientists, who were groping blindly after a truth which the church had neglected. In the Greek Church the custom still prevailed of anointing the body for the purpose of healing.

Archdeacon Harding, Indian Head, supported the motion. He instanced a case where the child of the Bishop of Moosonee had been cured by anointing with oil, followed by prayer.

Canon Cody, Toronto, thought it would be very unwise to tie the synod up by any pronouncement on this question of healing.

Canon Deanum of Calgary favored the resolution. In the northwest, among some Galicians and half-breeds, he had used anointing oil in 37 cases, and was able to testify that in 24 of them the prayer of the faithful and sick had been answered.

Rev. J. H. Graham, Nelson, B.C., opposed the suggested change. "It smacks too much of the Christian Science Journal which I, which we all, abhor," he said.

Archdeacon MacKenzie of Brantford cited a case where, at a mother's request, anointing oil had been administered and after earnest prayer a cure had been effected. However, he would not commit himself as to the motion.

N. W. Hoyles, Toronto, saw no reason to fly in the face of the Lambeth conferences. It would seem to him as a layman that if they had lost any power in prayer they should get down on their knees and pray for return of that power.

The resolution failed to carry. The clergy voted for it and laity against. A majority of both is required to carry such a motion.

May Visit Canadian Offices.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Acting Postmaster General Holliday had a conference with Robert Bruce, controller of the British Postoffice Department, and W. Pugh of the controllers' staff, who is visiting this country to inspect the seaport service between America and Great Britain, and to discuss a proposed extension of that service.

They have already conferred with the Postmaster-General on that subject and before returning to London will visit the postoffices at Boston, Buffalo and Chicago and perhaps several Canadian postoffices.

Has Reached the Age Limit.

Barrie, Sept. 25.—Having reached the age limit, His Honor Judge Boys will lay aside the responsibilities of his high office on the 29th of this month.

Hamilton, Sept. 25.—The Liberal convention for East Hamilton last evening nominated ex-Ald. J. M. Eastwood, who was the candidate at the last elections.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

JAYES OF WILMINGTON TEAM WILL PLAY FOR PETES TO-MORROW; BOTH TEAMS WILL BE STRONG

Outside of the interest that will naturally be taken in a game upon the result of which depends to a great extent the championship of Ontario to-morrow's ball game between St. Andrew's, champions of the City Amateur League, and the Peterborough Midland League champions, will give the fans a chance to see two members of professional league teams in action. Harry Burridge, catcher of the Youngstown team, of the Pennsylvania and Ohio League, will catch for the Petes, while Walter Jayes, centrefielder of the Wilmington team, champions of the North Carolina League, who is in the city on a visit, has been induced to turn out with the blue and white team to-morrow. The fans, no doubt, want to see this pair in action. Jayes led his team both in batting and fielding, clouting the sphere at a .326 clip, while he has been credited with but one error this season.

The Petes will have the strongest line up of the season on hand to-morrow. The boys worked out this afternoon at Riverside Park, and are in good shape for to-morrow's big game. The team will be chosen from the following, Burridge, Burns, Edmunds, Clements, Lawson, Anderson, Maddock, Murphy, Jayes, Hawkins and Shea.

The Saints have a great team, according to Corney Burns, who has been in Toronto arranging the games, and are confident of decisively beating the Petes here to-morrow. They will have their strongest team on hand.

GENE HURTUBISE IN HAMILTON; MATCH COMES OFF TO-NIGHT

Eugene Hurtubise, accompanied by his manager, Chris Graham, left this morning for Hamilton, where to-night he will clash with Charlie Conkle, the Hamilton welterweight, who holds the title of American champion in his class. Conkle undertakes to threw Hurtubise twice in one hour and feels confident that he can accomplish the task. He may do so, but if he does it will be after one of the hardest matches in his career. Gene is in the best of shape, and his match with Hassan Abdallah the other night showed that he has gained in speed and in mat tactics. "I'll do my best" was all Gene would say when asked by the Examiner last night as to his opinion of the match. The result of the meeting will be awaited with interest by the fans, and the Oriental Hotel has made arrangements to get the returns.

A KNOCK FOR THE KNOCKERS

There are some people in this town—it might be said many people—who regard everything in the sporting line as a "frame up," or a "fake." Some of these people were on hand at the wrestling match on Wednesday night, and there were more who did not see the match, but who knew more about it than those who did. Such knockers as those are enough to kill sport. What grounds they have for crying "fake" over Wednesday's match cannot easily be seen. The sporting fraternity of Peterborough should surely have confidence enough in Chris Graham and Gene Hurtubise to realize that they would not lend themselves to any crooked scheme to beguile the public. How was the match fixed? They surely do not mean to insinuate that Hurtubise "laid down" to the Syrian for the first fall. Anyone who knows Gene Hurtubise knows that he is as honest and trustworthy an athlete as has ever been before the Peterborough public. Nothing would induce him to give a fall to an opponent if he could help, and the people who have been saying that he did so on Wednesday night had better not repeat it in his presence or there will be some first class specimens for the morgue.

There was no fake in the match. What was to be gained by a frame-up? If Hassan could have defeated Gene, as some people say, why didn't he do it? He is a professional wrestler, living on the proceeds of his matches, and naturally the remuneration he receives depends upon his record to a great extent. Then why should he be willing to accept a defeat which certainly will not help him to get on other matches, when he might have had a victory which would have greatly added to his powers as a drawing card in his Canadian tour? Wrestling is a business with him and you can depend upon it that he is not taking any chances that will affect his reputation. The insinuations of fake are not only disloyal to the people who have always stood for what is best in sport in this city, but they are foolish as well, and the sooner they are dropped the better.

OPENING OF BOWLING ALLEYS

Will be held at Y.M.C.A. on Monday Night Next

A number attended a meeting of the dog fanciers of the city held last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlours. Those present were very enthusiastic over the formation of a kennel club, and it was decided that one should be organized. A dog show will likely be held in the near future. Dr. King was elected secretary, and the names of the other officers will be published in a short time.

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER

One of our contemporaries styles its alleged joke column "The Hook." Quite naturally, too, as only suckers would read it.

The only way to satisfy some wise people in this town that a wrestling match is not a frame-up is to have one of the contestants' necks broken.

Gene Hurtubise is wrestling in Hamilton to-night. No doubt the Mountaineers will be glad of the diversion. Their principal pastime, when they are not down at the station looking at the trains, has been watching the Rugby practices.

Albert Corey, the Chicago runner, who won the Marathon race in the Windy City last Saturday from a field of 79 runners, says he owes his success to the fact that he trained on champagne. Carrie Nation, please note.

The Lindsay papers wax hysterical over the fact that a live wire dropped down on to Kent street the other day. One would think they should be used to live wires in Lindsay.

From here it appears as if Conkle might as well undertake to turn the mountain over twice in an hour as to perform the same feat against Gene Hurtubise to-night.

A story is going the rounds that a certain young man in this city, who saw the wrestling match on Wednesday night, was so impressed with it that when he retired for the night he had a horrible dream that Gene Hurtubise had a strangle hold on him and when he woke up the next morning his neck was twisted to one side and it took him all day to straighten it. Rise and sing!

Sporting Comment

Hurtubise wrestles Conkle here to-night in a handicap match. There are some who think Conkle has bitten off more than he can chew, but Charlie is quite confident he can throw the ex-footballer twice in an hour. The match will take place at the Armoury rink.—Hamilton Herald.

The new bowling alleys at the Y.M.C.A. will be completed this evening and the formal opening will be held on Monday evening next. The names of those gentlemen who will roll the first bowls will be announced to-morrow. There are two alleys, modern in every respect and it has been arranged that four games will be allowed for twenty-five cents. This is as cheap and as scientific a sport as the average boy could wish for. The alleys are open to those holding $4 or $5 tickets. The opening will be fittingly celebrated, the announcement of the particulars being published later.

SUCCESS FOR FORMER PETERBOROUGH BOY

Another old Peterborough boy has come out as a composer. Mr. John T Ball, at present at Buffalo, who makes frequent visits to his old home here, is a clever pianist, tenor and all round musician, and has favoured the Examiner with a copy of this song, Op. 1, "A Mother's Lullaby." The soothing sweetness of the music is quite true to the name, as well as is the tender poesy of the words. Mr. Ball has treated this composition with such artistic skill, both in the matter of melody and harmony, as to give it a high musical value. He is to be heartily congratulated upon the creditible success in, so far as is known, his first essay as a composer—it should not be the last.

ENEMIES OF THE CABLE.

Many Things Are Liable to Wreck Submarine Communication

Sometimes a wreck has been known to drop upon a submarine cable, and, crushing it against the rock, destroy its usefulness. But this is only one of the enemies of the under-seas lines.

The teredo, a marine boring worm, is one of the worst of cable enemies. These little creatures seem particularly fond of gutta-percha, and eat into the cables to enjoy their indigestible meal. As soon as water touches the copper the cable ceases to work.

Fish new and then damage cables. One of the lines to the West Indies having ceased work, the cable ship was sent out to investigate. When the cable was pulled up the sword of a swordfish was found sticking in it. What had possessed the fish to tackle the cable, goodness knows. The result had been that he lost his chief weapon of offence and defence.

In 1904, a submarine cable was suddenly interrupted. A cable ship was sent to make repairs. The "fault" was located about ten miles out, and preparations were made to observe in the cable.

The strain was so great that those on board thought the cable must be caught under a reef. With great difficulty they got it up, and imagine their surprise when they hauled to the surface the much-decayed body of a huge whale!

A loop of the cable was twisted right round its lower jaw. The theory is that the cable lay suspended between irregularities on the bottom of the sea, and that the whale, cruising along with its jaws open in search of food, caught the wire between them. In its struggles the great animal, which was fifty feet long, had twisted the cable and very nearly broken it. Only three wires were left unfractured.

About twenty years ago a similar accident happened in the Red Sea, only in this case the cable was found to have been looped around the tail of the whale.

Earthquakes are a frequent cause of expense to submarine cable companies. After the first eruption of Mount Pelee the cable to Martinique ceased working. It was badly broken.

Once the cable to Australia was damaged by a submarine volcanic eruption. This was years ago, in days when only one Australian cable was in existence. At the time there was tension between Britain and France, and the result of the break was a violent scare in Australia. Everyone supposed that war had broken out, and that the cable had been intentionally cut.

FORGOTTEN PRIZES.

Medals and Diplomas Many Olympic Games Awaiting Their Owners.

English papers have been asked by the Art Committee of the British Olympic Council to state that a number of prize medals and diplomas won at the recent Olympic games still await authenticated claims.

With each gold medal for sculpture, prize the winner received a diploma for himself, and another (of the same design but smaller size) for the club. To each winner of a silver (second prize) and bronze (third prize) medal, a prize diploma was awarded. In addition, a certain number of diplomas of special merit were awarded to those who performed with marked distinction in any event in which they did not take a first, second, or third prize. All competing athletes who started in any contest without obtaining a prize are entitled (besides their competitors' badge) to the special commemorative medal.

There are also awards given by the council to members of foreign and British Committees, officials, and others, who actively assisted in the organization of these games. These consist of the commemorative medals in gold, silver, and bronze, and in other cases of special diplomas of merit.

Caribou Output Great.

Cariboo, B.C., will produce at least $500,000 in gold this year. Several hydraulic companies are getting their plants into shape, and it is likely that next year's output will be much larger. With the settlement of the country along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, it is probable that close prospecting will lead to new discoveries of the precious metal. A discovery of coarse placer gold is reported.

FORTY SHIPS WRECKED.

Wild Scenes on an Uncharted Coast as Described by Dr. Grenfell.

The Labrador coast, on which some 25,000 Newfoundlanders, men, women, and children, in about 1,200 schooners, are engaged every summer trawling for codfish, was ravaged on July 26 and 27 by a northeast hurricane, which is declared to have been the worst ever experienced there. A graphic description of the storm and its after-effects is given by Dr. Grenfell in a letter to The St. John's Press, and he quotes an elderly skipper, who had been fishing on the coast for sixty years, and who had lost his vessel in this gale, as declaring that he had never seen the like of it in all his experience. The gale drove ashore forty vessels, all but four of which became total wrecks, and it deprived nearly 1,000 people of the means of pursuing their season's work. It also destroyed thousands of pounds' worth of nets, boats, and other fishery gear. No fewer than sixteen vessels were lost in one harbor, and ten in another, the remainder being left as solitary derelicts on various parts of the coast. The four that escaped were taken off the rocks by Dr. Grenfell with his hospital ship Strathcona. Fortunately not a life was lost, though there were many narrow escapes. Dr. Grenfell tells of cases where the crews of vessels saved their lives by jumping from the jibbooms on to the rocks. His own ship lay-to under a sheltering cape with two anchors out and full steam up. She was pounded by the seas, and if a chain had parted she must have gone to the bottom. The coast is very often swept by these hurricanes, and the fisher-folk have to face this hazard almost every year. The coast is without charts, has only two lighthouses, and no fog alarms for a stretch of 500 miles, and until a year or two ago did not even have telegraphic communication. The Marconi system is now installed, and there has now come a demand for the establishment of a meteorological service, which would give the fishing fleets warning of coming storms. The whole coast is strewn with wrecks, the whitening ribs of which are constantly in view as the mailboat steams past. It is estimated that the loss of vessels, property, and fishery which this latest gale has caused will amount to fully £30,000, and most of this will not be covered by insurance.

SEVENTY-FOUR MILES AN HOUR

Terrific Speed Made by M.C.R. Train in Ontario—Perfection in insuring Safety

BLOCK SYSTEM WONDERS

Boston, Sept. 25.—Special—All the fast trains in the world do not live in England and the United States.

There is at least one line in Canada where a speed of a mile a minute is not uncommon. This is on the Michigan Central system, which has over four hundred miles of track in Ontario.

A few days ago a wealthy American who was in New York received word of the serious illness of his daughter in Chicago, and hired a special on the Michigan Central from Welland to Windsor. The first one hundred miles to St. Thomas, was done in eighty-five minutes, a sustained rate of seventy-one miles an hour, and the 110 miles to Windsor in ninety-five minutes, or nearly seventy miles an hour, an average of seventy miles an hour for exactly three hours.

Even better than this is done for short distances on the stretch west of St. Thomas. The "Wolverine," as it is called, No. 8, gets along at times at a rate of seventy-two miles an hour, and the Fast Mail, No. 3, on her westbound run, negotiates as high as seventy-four miles an hour.

The Authority

These figures are vouched for by Mr. T. H. Hickey, general roadmaster of the Michigan Central, who has headquarters at St. Thomas, and who, with Mr. Palmer, the district passenger agent, accompanied Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party, along with some newspaper men, on the private car in the trip to Tilbury and return.

"One reason for the high speed we can maintain," said Mr. Hickey, "is that there are so few curves. There is a slight one after we leave St. Thomas, but none for the next fifty-five miles. We have another straight stretch of fifty-seven miles. The roadbed is also more level than any other in Canada, and is double-tracked all over."

Equipped With 100-lb Rails

Not only that, but the system in Ontario is nearly all equipped with 100-lb. rail, as other roads, the New York Central, Philadelphia, etc., are doing.

In going down on the private car a semaphore was noticed to swing up at distances of about a mile, just as the train reached the spot. This continued up even after a second one had risen.

"When does the first one fall?" was asked.

"When we reach the third and it is raised," was the reply. "This is the 'block system,' the only one in operation in Canada. The result is that a train behind never comes within a mile of the train ahead. The raised semaphore is a danger signal, and two are between the trains all the time.

Worked by Electricity

"These signals are worked by electricity. When the engine reaches the point opposite a signal the circuit is completed by the connection of the two rails through the steel of the engine, and up goes the semaphore automatically. At the same time the third semaphore behind falls. If in repairing the track, gauging the distance apart of the rails, an iron bolt touches both rails at once, up goes the danger signal. The result that two pieces of iron are used with a section of wood in the centre to prevent the electricity crossing.

"Not only does the system work to prevent trains approaching, but if there is an accident, a broken rail for example, the danger signal goes up by the current being stopped at the break. In such a case, the engineer sees the danger signal (the raised semaphore), and must come to a stop and proceed slowly on the look out for the danger ahead. This applies, for example, also to a washout of part of the track, and other accidents. The system works by storage batteries, and costs $1,500 a mile to instal."

Lights at Night

At night the signals are worked by lights, which change from green to white as the train passes, and remain so until the third light is reached.

"The block system is so perfect," said Mr. Hickey, "that we have never had a fatal accident in all the time we have been operating in Ontario."

Not only does the level roadbed and the absence of curves increase the speed, but also the haulage of an enormous load.

"We have carried as many as eighty freights in a single train, and once 110 cars were drawn at one time over the route."

CANADA'S RECORD FOR CHEESE EXPORT

Figures Showing Value of Dairy Farming in the Dominion

It is of interest to the dairy farmers to note that during 1907 there were 2,511,681 cwt. of cheese imported by Great Britain and that out of this number 1,813,575 cwt. was imported from Canada. This quantity is more than brought in from all other countries.

In 1908 Great Britain imported 2,370,903 cwt., of which Canada sent 1,628,589 cwt.

WEDDING BELLS

LEONARD—EDWARDS

A very quiet wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edwards, Lakefield, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Miss Laura, was united in marriage to Mr. Wesley Leonard. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. John Bedford, pastor of the Methodist Church. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Mina Edwards. Mr. W Leonard, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, the happy couple then driving to Peterborough, and taking the C.P.R. train for Toronto and other points west. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for their future prosperity and happiness.

WHITE—ARMSTRONG

A very interesting event took place on Wednesday evening of last week, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Armstrong, Dummer, when their daughter, Miss Nettie, was united in marriage to Mr. George White of Lakefield. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Marvin of Warsaw, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was the recipient of a number of handsome and valuable presents. The happy couple will reside in Lakefield.

PRAISE FOR THE LOCAL ORCHESTRA

The Musical Director of "Three Little Maids" Speaks Highly of Them

Herr Hans O. Wendt, the musical director of the "Three Little Maids," stated that the orchestra of the local Opera House was away above the average. In fact, in most places he dispenses with the house musicians as it is safer to go through with the performance only with the piano. The music last night was not found in the company's baggage. Investigation proved that the property man had left the music in Lindsay, and did would not arrive until the the o'clock train. When the second act was opened the orchestra had their manuscript and finished the piece. They had never seen the music before and opera Mss. is worse than hieroglyphics. People watching a performance and listening to the tuneful strains from the orchestra never realise the difficulties of rapidly reading the notes that are placed on the stuff with pen or pencil in a crazy fashion.

SOME RECENT THEFTS IN CANADIAN AND IN UNITED STATES CITIES OF JEWELLERY AND THE EXPERIENCES OF SOME FAMOUS DETECTIVES

Many Are the Victims of A Clever Band of Swindlers—Defy Capture Because of Their Shrewdness

WORK PERFORMED IN PARIS

Startling though the amount may seem, I firmly believe that $300,000 is a conservative estimate of the sum mulcted from the banks and jewelry stores throughout the country during the past nine or ten months, through the machinations of the pennyweighters and jewelry thieves, who have been working overtime, so to speak, of late.

Naturally the first question asked a man of my position is, "Can nothing be done to stop this wholesale swindling?" Yes it can be stopped and is being stopped, but unfortunately the detective of to-day is hampered at every turn. Even the men who employ his services, oftentimes place obstacles in his way. Then, again, the crook of to-day is not the one we were wont to read about in the fiction of our younger days. Like the world itself he has grown apace. To the average citizen the crook is presumably painted to be a man of the highwayman type of '49, bold, dashing and with a huge mask on his face and revolver in his belt. To-day to the contrary, the successful crooks, the ones who give us the most trouble, are the suave variety, the polished gentlemen, men with university educations, with wits sharpened to concert pitch. That is the man that goes abroad and with a new method of mulcting, actually takes your money, then makes you like it.

Bank Thieves the Worst.

Bank thieves are the worst we have to handle because of the fact that the bank managers or their superiors oftentimes refuse to give us the necessary aid or clues in order to successfully bring the culprits to justice. Hence it will be seen that the polished crook finds the ordinary bank the easiest prey.

Then again the methods of this form of gentry are so ingenious as to almost puzzle the keenest detective in the world.

Every time a "trick" is turned, the first thing the crook thinks about is to get away. Naturally then the most successful methods of mulcting are the ones that allow of the longest time to lapse before his victims become aware of the fact that they have been swindled.

Should Give Details.

Here is where the banks, for with them I am practically dealing in this article, could be of incalculable aid to the detective, by giving the details, with-holding none, to the news papers. This would have the effect of minimizing crime in this department very quickly. Unfortunately they presumably are satisfied to "take their medicine," hoping that they will be smart enough to catch the next thief, who happens along their way. In the meantime the "gang," for thieves ordinarily haven't the heart to work alone, go on their way swindling right and left, until imbued with the belief that they are almost immune from punishment, grow bolder and bolder. It is this boldness that oftentimes leads to their detection. But to hark back to the story of the mulcting of the jewelry stores. During the recent tercentenary celebration at Quebec, I think the cleverest and assuredly the most up to date scheme came to my notice. It was here that my men apprehended Mabel Carson, alias Ryan and James Ryan alias Frisco Ryan, alias Fingers Ryan, likenesses of whom appear in the ovals in the accompanying illustration. This pair have been working Canada. The other subjects, Mrs. P. A. Matchette, alias Ethel Sullivan and Paul A. Matchette (man with soft hat), worked the southern states and were arrested in Washington, D. C., by the police department there.

Latest Swindling Method

This latest method of swindling is as follows:

A man and woman call on a jeweler after banking hours, and after considerable bantering selected $1000 to $1500 worth of jewelry, diamonds, etc., the woman will say: "Papa I will put the diamond earrings on and wear them," the man will say: "No you will not, you will leave them here as we are not acquainted in this city and something might happen to you at the hotel. Now don't make a fuss over it you can get them in the morning." He will then give the jeweler his check for the full amount, say $1500, at the same time saying to the jeweler "they will be perfectly safe with you. We will call about eleven o'clock tomorrow for them, as we intend to leave the city."

Thus thrown off his guard the jeweler has confidence in them, and in the morning the check is properly endorsed and sent to the bank by a messenger or one of the clerks.

The check of course is returned, there being no funds. It is then returned by the messenger to the jeweler who is somewhat surprised. He never expects to see the man and woman again. Imagine his surprise when half an hour later in walks the man and woman again.

"I will take the jewelry now says the crook," "we are just going to take the train."

Thrown Off His Guard

The jeweler being surprised at their returning for the jewelery is thrown off his guard and says:

"I am very sorry my friend, but there was no money in the bank."

"What," says the man, "no money in the bank?" "Let me see the check," which the man examines and says: "How foolish of me, of course there is no money in that bank, I gave you a check on the wrong bank." book, containing blank checks on other banks, and gives the jeweler, what is known in criminology as the "tearup," tears the check up before his eyes. In reality, however, he makes a switch when he produces the pocket-book, and tears up a "phony," looking a bit perturbed, the man says:

"I won't trouble you with another check, I will pay you cash. He then counts the amount, pays the cash over to the jeweler and takes the jewelery and departs. Of course, the dealer is convinced that the deal is O. K., never dreaming when he wakes up next morning he will be $1500 loser.

The balance is easy, for Mr. Crook, having in his possession the endorsed check o fthe jeweler, he hypothecates it at the nearest bank, gets the money and flees. The jeweler dies not discover his loss until the paper has gone through the clearing house, and the swindler has approximately forty-eight hours start on him.

Women Play Their Part

Another and very common way the jewelery crooks have of working, is for the man and woman to go into a store and ask to see some diamond rings.

They examine the tray of rings, and when the clerk is interested in the expectation of making a sale, the woman becomes faint, asks for a glass of water, and falls to the floor in a convenient spot. The attention of everybody in the store being engaged, a confederate, a third person, makes the sneak on the tray of diamonds, or some of them.

In the confusion that follows the discovery, the woman and escort make their get-a-way. This ofttimes is very difficult. Thus as I said in a preceding paragraph, it takes the polished gentleman crook, the one with the suave manner to be a successful twentieth century swindler.

THE BUSY BEAVER AND HIS METHODS OF DAM BUILDING; AN INTERESTING DESCRIPTION

Of all animals, beavers show the greatest constructive ability. Where they are not molested they build a dam across the valley of some small stream and thus make an artificial pond, in which they build one or more houses of sticks and mud.

In this article the writer wishes to give an exact account of the structure of a beaver dam which he studied very recently, and he would like to have his readers decide for themselves whether animals can do work of this kind by mere instinct, or whether they work with a higher kind of intelligence.

The dam in question is located in the mixed forest of Northern Wisconsin. It is about 200 feet long and runs completely across the valley of a swift trout stream. As the stream averages about four feet in width and ten inches in depth, the amount of water which must be controlled is considerable. I should say it is large enough to run a farmer's grist mill day and night for 365 days in the year.

The dam curves in and out from one convenient foundation to the other. For a length of 50 feet across the stream and at the lowest part of the ground it is about five feet high, and the water rises within a few inches of the top. In this part it is built of dead brush and sticks which slant down-stream. They are all placed butt down, and make the stream side of the dam look like a palisade of slanting stocks.

On the pond side these sticks are filled in with mud in such a way that the dam slopes very gently into the pond, and that the sticks are not visible in the pond itself. The base of the dam is watertight, but the thin top allows numerous small streams of water to flow through; but the large amount of wood in the dam prevents the water from cutting and forming dangerous breaks in the dam.

Near the outer edges, where the water exerts little pressure and has no current, the dam is only a few inches high and wide, and is built entirely of mud, which was scooped up in front of the dam.

While the central part of the dam looks as if a man might have built it with considerable expense of hard work, the edges look like the tiny mud dams which barefooted country children are so fond of making after a hard shower.

Changed Their Minds.

After the beavers had built the main part of the dam, they discovered that two separate depressions on the south side would partially drain their pond. In order to prevent this they built a small dam of mud across each of these depressions.

The site of the dam is apparently well chosen. The pond now covers about four acres, with an abundant growth of small poplars in and near the pond. The beavers live on the bark and twigs of these trees, and have cut down a goodly number. The greatest depth of the water is about six feet and does not cause a pressure which is hard to control.

The little four-footed engineers seem to have first constructed a kind of trial dam a hundred feet farther down-stream. They abandoned this site, as far as I could judge, because it was right in an alder thicket, where it was difficult, where but little ready-made building material was at hand, and where their pond would not have inclosed or approached their favorite food trees, the poplars.

The permanent dam was located on the edge of a natural clearing, where the conditions for work, ready building material and food supply were most favorable.

Had they gone about half a mile farther down-stream they would have had to build a much longer dam. Had they gone a mile below the present site, where the little valley is much narrower, the dam would have produced a rapidly rising and therefore dangerous head of water. Had the builders gone farther up stream, their pond would have inclosed a tamarack swamp, but would not have brought them near any poplars or other food trees.

In the pond is one large lodge, housing probably six or more beavers. I did not see the animals. The pond is within three miles of a railroad station and the animals are very shy, and work only at night.

The largest poplars which the beavers have cut measure five inches in diameter. It has been claimed that beavers cause the trees to fall in a certain direction, but I saw no indication of this. They seemed to have chiselled around the trunk until the tree fell.

The animals must have expended a very large amount of energy in the building of the dam. I estimated that it would take a strong man at least six days to duplicate their structure, if he were not allowed to use an axe for cutting brush, but were allowed to use a spade to scoop up the needed mud.

Now, the question is: Did these beavers work with anything akin to human intelligence, or did they work under the guidance of nothing but a blind instinct?—Dietrich Lange, in the Independent.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their particular ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. J. M. Tweedale, 12 Nagonee Street, Toronto, Canada, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was a great sufferer from female troubles, had those dreadful bearing down pains, and during my monthly periods I suffered so I had to go to bed. I doctored for a long time but the doctor's treatment failed to help me. My husband saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and got a bottle for me. I commenced its use and soon felt better. I kept on taking it until I was well and am entirely different woman. I also found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made childbirth much easier for me. I would recommend your Vegetable Compound to every woman who is afflicted with female troubles."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Tweedale, it will do for other suffering women.

"I may as well tell you that I know she's more than that. She's honest and high principled. I don't know why I'm saying this, but it was on my mind and I was half distracted when you came. She's in danger tonight, though—at this minute. I don't dare to think of what may have happened, for she's risked everything to make reparation to Roy and his friends."

"What?"

"She's gone to the Sign of the Sled alone with Struve."

"Struve!" shouted the gambler, leaping to his feet. "Alone with Struve on a night like this?" He shook her fiercely, crying: "What for? Tell me quick!"

She recounted the reasons for Helen's adventure, while the man's face became terrible.

"Oh, Kid, I am to blame for letting her go. Why did I do it? I'm afraid—afraid."

"The Sign of the Sled belongs to Struve, and the fellow whotrues it is a rogue." The Bronco looked at the clock, his eyes bloodshot and dull like those of a goaded, fly maddened bull. "It's 8 o'clock now—ten miles—two hours. Too late!"

"What ails you?" she questioned, hurt by his strange demeanor. "You called me the one woman just now, and yet"—

He swung toward her heavily. "She's my sister."

"Your—sister? Oh, I—I'm glad. I'm glad—but don't stand there like a wooden man, for you've work to do. Wake up. Can't you hear? She's in peril!" Her words whipped him out of his stupor so that he drew himself somewhat under control. "Get into your coat. Hurry! Hurry! My pony will take you there." She snatched his garment from the chair and held it for him while the life ran back into his veins. Together they dashed out into the storm, as she and Roy had done, and as he flung the saddle on the buckskin, she said:

"I understand it all now. You heard the talk about her and Glenister; but it's wrong. I lied and schemed and intrigued against her, but it's over now. I guess there's a little streak of good in me somewhere, after all."

He spoke to her from the saddle. "It's more than a streak, Cherry, and you're my kind of people." She smiled wanly back at him under the lantern light.

"That's left handed. Kid. I don't want to be your kind. I want to be his kind—or your sister's kind."

* * * * * * *

Upon leaving the restaurant Glenister and his two friends shot through the night, avoiding the lits and lights of the town, while the wind surged out of the voids to seaward, driving its wet burden through their flapping slickers, pelting their faces as though enraged at its failure to wash away the purposes written there. Their course brought them to a cabin at the western outskirts of the city, where they paused long enough to adjust something by the side of the brim of their hats.

Past them ran the iron rails of the narrow gauged road which led out across the quaking tundra to Chatsmountain and the mines. Upon this slender trail of steel there rolled one small, unsightly teapot of an engine which daily creaked and clanked back and forth at a snail's pace, screaming and wailing its complaint of the two high loaded flatcars behind. The tiers beneath it were spliced to planks laid lengthwise over the semi-liquid roadbed, in places sagging beneath the surface till the humpbacked, short waisted locomotive yawed and reeled and squealed like a drunken fishwife. At night it panted wearily into the branch station and there sighed and coughed and hissed away its fatigue as the coals died and the breath relaxed in its lungs.

"Kitty meant to be your friend. It must to-be his friend."

Early to bed and early to rise was perforce the motto of its grimy crew, who lived near by. Tonight they were just retiring when stayed by a summons at their door. The engineer opened it to admit what appeared to his astonished eyes to be a Krupp cannon propelled by a man in yellow oiled clothes and white cotton mask. This weapon assumed the proportions of a great one eyed monster, which stared with baleful fixity at his vitals, giving him a cold and empty feeling. Away back beyond this Cyclops of the night two others were two other steamers like unto Squippa.

The fireman arose from his chair, dropping an empty shoe with a thump; but, being of the west, without cavil or waste of wind he stretched his hands above his head, balancing on one foot to keep his unshod member from the damp floor. He had unbuckled his belt, and now, loosened by the movement, his overalls seemed beat on sinking floorward in an ecstasy of abandonment at the intrusion, whereupon with convulsive grip he hugged them to their duty, one hand and foot still elevated as though in the grand hailing sign of some secret order. The other man was new to the ways of the north, so backed to the limit of his quarters, held both hands protectingly upon his middle and doubled up, remarking feebly:

"Don't paint that damned thing at my stomach."

"Ha, ha!" laughed the fireman, with unnatural loudness. "Have your joke, boys."

"This ain't no joke," said the fireman figure, its breath bellying out the mask at its mouth.

"Sure it is," insisted the shoeless man. "Must be. We ain't got anything worth stealing."

"Get into your clothes and come along. We won't hurt you." The two obeyed and were taken to the sleeping engine and there instructed to produce a full head of steam in thirty minutes or suffer a premature taking off and a prompt elision from the realms of applied mechanics. As stimulus to their efforts two of the men stood over them till the engine began to sob and sigh reluctantly. Through the gloom that curtained the cab they saw other dim forms materializing and climbing silently on to the cars behind. Then, as the steam gauge touched the mark, the word was given, and the train rumbled out from its shelter, its shrill plaint at curb and crossing whipped away and drowned in the storm.

Slapjack remained in the cab, gun in lap, while Dextry climbed back to Glenister. He found the young man in good spirits, despite the discomfort of his exposed position, and striving to light his pipe behind the shelter of his coat.

"Is the dynamite aboard?" the old man questioned.

"Sure. Enough to ballast a battleship."

As the train crept out of the camp and across the river bridge, its only light or glimmer the sparks that were snatched and harried by the blast, the partners seated themselves on the powder cases and conversed guardedly, while about them sounded the low murmur of the men who risked their all upon this cry to duty, who staked their lives and futures upon this hazard of the hills, because they thought it right.

"We've made a good fight, whether we win or lose tonight," said Dextry.

Roy replied, "My fight is made and won."

"What does that mean?"

"My hardest battle had nothing to do with the Midas or the mines of Anvil. I fought and conquered myself."

"Awful wet night for philosophy," the first remarked. "It's apt to sour on you like milk in a thunderstorm. S'pose you put overalls an' gum boots on some of them Boston ideas an' lead 'em out where I can look 'em over an' find out what they're up to."

"I mean that I was a savage till I met Helen Chester and she made a man of me. It took sixty days, but I think she did a good job. I love the wild things just as much as ever, but I've learned that there are duties a fellow owes to himself and to other people, if he'll only stop and think them out. I've found out, too, that the right thing is usually the hardest to do. Oh, I've improved a lot."

"Gee, but you're popular with yourself. I don't see as it helps your looks any. You're as homely as ever—an' what good does it do you, after all? She'll marry that big guy."

"I know. That's what rankles, for he's no more worthy of her than I am. She'll do what's right, however, you may depend upon that, and perhaps she'll change him the way she did me. Why, she worked a miracle in my attitude toward life—my manner"—

"Oh, your manners are good enough as they lay," interrupted the other. "You never did eat with your knife."

"I don't believe in harakiri," Glenister laughed.

"No, when it comes to intimacies with decorum, you're right on the job along with any of them easterners. I watched you close at them 'Frisco hotels last winter, and, say, you know as much as a horse. Why, you was wise to them tablewares and pickle forks equal to a head waiter, and it give me confidence just to be with you. I remember putting milk and sugar in my consomme the first time. It was pale and in a cup and looked like tea, but not you. No, sir! You wavvied plenty and squeesed a lemon into yours, to clean your fingers, I reckon."

Roy slapped his partner's wet back, for he was buoyant and elated. The sense of nearing danger pulsed through him like wine.

"That wasn't just what I meant, but it goes. Say, if we win back our mine, we'll hit for New York next, eh?"

"No, I don't aim to mingle with so higher civilisation than I got in 'Frisco. I use that word 'higher' like it was applied to meat. Not that I wouldn't seem apropos. I'm stylish enough for Fifth avenue or anywheres, but I like the west. Speakin' of modes an' styles, when I get all lit up in that gray worsted suit of mine, I guess I make the jaded nighthawks set up an' take notice, eh? Somethin' doin' every minute in the crankin' of necks, what? Nothin' gaudy, but the acme of neatness an' form, as the feller said who sold it to me."

Their common peril brought the friends together again, into that close bond which had been theirs without interruption until this recent change in the younger had led him to choose paths at variance with the old man's ideas; and now they spoke, heart to heart, in the half serious, half jesting ways of old, while beneath each whimsical irony was that mutual love and understanding which had consecrated their partnership.

Arriving at the end of the road, the vigilantes debouched and went into the darkness of the canyon behind their leader, to whom the trails were familiar. He bade them pause finally and gave his last instructions.

"They are on the alert, so you want to be careful. Divide into two parties and close in from both sides, creeping as near to the pickets as possible without discovery. Remember to wait for the last blast. When it comes, cut loose and charge like Sioux. Don't shoot to kill at first, for they're only soldiers and under orders, but if they stand—well, every man must do his work."

Dextry appealed to the dim figures forming the circle.

"I leave it to you, gents, if it ain't better for me to go inside than for the boy. I've had more experience with giant powder, an' I'm so blamed used up an' near gone it wouldn't hurt if they did get me, while he's right in his prime"—

Glenister stopped him. "I won't yield the privilege. Come now—to your places, men."

They melted away to each side while the old prospector paused to wring his partner's hand.

"I'd ruther it was me, had, but if they get you—God help 'em!" He stumbled after the departing shadows, leaving Roy alone. With his naked fingers, Glenister ripped open the powder cases and secreted the contents upon his person. Each cartridge held dynamite enough to devastate a village, and he loaded them inside his pockets, inside his shirt and everywhere that he had room, till he was burdened and cased in an armor one-hundredth part of which could have blown him from the face of the earth so utterly as to leave no trace except, perhaps, a pit ripped out of the mountain side. He looked to his fuses and saw that they were wrapped in oil paper, then placed them in his hat. Having finished, he set out, walking with difficulty under the weight he carried.

That his choice of location had been well made was evidenced by the fact that the ground beneath his feet sloped away to a basin out of which bubbled a spring. It furnished the drinking supply of the Midas, and he knew every inch of the crevice it had worn down the mountain, so felt his way cautiously along. At the bottom of the hill where it ran out upon the level it had worn a considerable ditch through the soil, and into this he crawled on hands and knees. His bulging clothes handicapped him so that his gait was slow and awkward, while the rain had swelled the streamlet till it trickled over his calves and up to his wrists, chilling him so that his muscles cramped and his very bones cried out with it. The sharp schist cut into his palms till they were shredded and bleeding, while his knees found every jagged bit of bedrock over which he dragged himself. He could not see an arm's length ahead without rising, and, having removed his slicker for greater freedom of movement the rain beat upon his back till he was soaked and sodden and felt streamlets cleaving downward between his ribs. Now and again he squatted upon his haunches, straining his eyes to either side. The banks were barely high enough to shield him. At last he came to a bridge of planks spanning the ditch and was about to rear himself for another look when he suddenly flattened into the stream bed, half damming the waters with his body. It was for this he had so carefully wrapped his fuses. A man passed over him so close above that he might have touched him. The sentry paused a few paces beyond and accosted another, then retraced his steps over the bridge. Evidently this was the nicket line, so Roy resumed his way forward till he saw the blacker blackness of the mine buildings, then drew himself, dripping, out from the bank. He had run the gantlet safely.

Since evicting the owners, the receiver had erected substantial houses in place of the tents he had found on the mine. They were of frame and corrugated iron, sheathed within and suited to withstand a moderate exposure. The partners had witnessed the operation from a distance, but knew nothing about the buildings from close examination.

A thrill of affection for this place warmed the young man. He loved this old mine. It had realized the dream of his boyhood and had answered the hope he had clung to during his long fight against the northland. It had come to him when he was disheartened, bringing cheer and happiness, and had yielded itself like a bride. Now it seemed a crime to ravage it.

He crept toward the nearest wall and listened. Within was the sound of voices, though the windows were dark, showing that the inhabitants were on the alert. Beneath the foundations he made mysterious preparations, then sought out the office building and took house, doing likewise. He found that back of the seeming repose of the Midas there was a strained expectancy.

Although suspense had lengthened the time out of all calculation, he judged he had been gone from his companions at least an hour and that they must be in place by now. If they were not—if anything failed at this eleventh hour—well, those were the fortunes of war. In every enterprise, however carefully planned, there comes a time when chance must take its turn.

He made his way inside the blacksmith shop and fumbled for a match. Just as he was about to strike it he heard the swish of oiled clothes passing and waited for some time. Then, igniting his punk and hiding it under his coat, he opened the door to listen. The wind had died down now, and the rain sang musically upon the metal roofs.

He ran swiftly from house to house, and, when he had done, at the apices of the triangle he had traced three glowing coals were sputtering.

The final bolt was launched at last. He stepped down into the ditch and drew his .45, while to his tautened senses it seemed that the very hills leaned forth in breathless pause, that the rain had ceased and the whole night hushed its thousand voices. He found his lower jaw set so stiffly that the muscles ached. Leveling his weapon at the eaves of the bunk house, he pulled trigger rapidly, the bang, bang, bang, six times repeated, sounding dull and dead beneath the blanket of mist that overhung. A shout sounded behind him, and then the shriek of a Winchester ball close over his head. He turned in time to see another shot stream out of the darkness, where a sentry was firing at the flash of his gun, then bent himself double and plunged down the ditch.

With the first impact overhead the men poured forth from their quarters armed and bristling, to be greeted by a volley of gunshots, the thud of bullets and the dwindling whine of spent lead. They leaped from shelter to find themselves girt with a fitful loop of fire, for the "Stranglers" had spread in the arc of a circle and now emptied their rifles toward the center. The defenders, however, maintained surprising order considering the suddenness of their attack and ran to join the sentries, whose positions could be determined by the nearer flashes. The voice of a man in authority shouted loud commands. No demonstration came from the outer voids, nothing but the wicked streaks that stabbed the darkness. Then suddenly behind McNamara's men the night gloared luridly as though a great furnace door had opened and then clanged shut, while with it came a hoarse thudding roar that silenced the rifle play. They saw the cook house disrupt itself and disintegrate into a thousand flying timbers and twisted sheets of tin which soared upward and outward over their heads and into the night. As the rocking hills ceased echoing the sound of the vigilantes' rifles recurred like the cracking of dry sticks, then everywhere about the defenders the earth was lashed by falling debris, while the iron roof rang at the footlands.

The blast had come at their very elbows, and they were too dazed and shaken by it to grasp its significance. Then, before they could realize what it boded, the depths lit up again till the raindrops were outlined distinct and glistening like a gossamer veil of silver, while the office building to their left was ripped and rended and the adjoining walls leaped out into sudden relief, their shattered windows looking like ghostly, sightless eyes. The curtain of darkness closed heavier than velvet, and the men cowered in their tracks, shielding themselves behind the nearest objects or behind one another's bodies, waiting for the sky to vomit over them its rain of missiles. Their backs were to the vigilantes now, their faces to the center. Many had dropped their rifles. The thunder of hoofs and the scream of terrified horses came from the stables. The cry of a maddened beast is weird and calculated to curdle the blood at best, but with it arose a human voice, shrieking from pain and fear of death.

A CORDITE CANE.

Secretary Haldane Has Stick Made of Powerful Explosive.

The most astonishing walking cane of recent times is one with which Mr. Haldane, Secretary for War, considerably startled the British House of Commons. The occasion was a discussion concerning cordite, and Mr. Haldane, answering some arguments against the security of the explosive, claimed that it was, when properly manufactured, so absolutely safe that he had had a walking-stick made of it, which he had been in the habit of bringing to the House and leaving in the cloak-room. There was, he explained, nothing in its appearance to cause apprehension, but it needed to be closely watched. He meant that the cordite, not the stick, needed watching; but the knowledge thus given to the House, members are unlikely to meddle with the walking-sticks of the War Secretary.

Another strange walking-stick was also associated with a member of the House of Commons who was building for himself a mansion in a remote country district. Several times during his visits of inspection he chanced to notice at the railway station a substantial walking-stick addressed to the contractor who was erecting his new house, and, meeting the contractor's clerk one day, he asked him why his employer should send his stick backwards and forwards by rail separate from himself.

By way of answer the clerk, who was carrying the stick at the time, touched a spring in it, unscrewed a cap which then revealed itself, and then poured out from the hollow interior quite £100 in gold. The stick was, the clerk explained, used to bring down the weekly wages of the builder's men, there being no bank at hand where the coin could be conveniently obtained. The stick only cost a trifle for carriage, and the money had never gone astray.

CANCER CHALLENGE.

Dr. Robert Bell Seems to Be Curing the Dread Disease.

The announcement of a cure for cancer—the mysterious disease which has baffled medical science hitherto so completely that the very cause is still unknown—has concentrated public attention on a remarkable series of tests now being carried out by Dr. Robert Bell, a West-end London physician. Dr. Bell makes no secret of his method, which consist partly of a strict diet, and partly of the application of formic acid and other medicaments. The outcome of his claim to cure cancer was a challenge from Dr. Bell to the medical profession. In accordance with this he has taken under his care ten patients, all of whom have been certified as unquestionably suffering from cancer by hospital surgeons and other medical authorities. The patients come from Swindon, Nottingham, Kettering, and London, and Dr. Bell states that he has hopes that every one will be cured. A diet of salads, uncooked fruit, eggs, milk, and cheese is insisted on, together with pure air, pure water, and strict hygienic arrangements. The ten patients' doctors agree that there has been a considerable improvement since Dr. Bell's treatment began, and the test is being watched with the utmost interest by all concerned in the healing of cancer.

Not All Loss.

Quotations cleverly malapropos or neatly distorted furnish half the wit of the professional humorist. Nevertheless, when such a verbal misstep is spontaneous, there is often real fun in it.

A young man had been out sailing with his sister and a friend of hers. He did not know particularly well the fine points of the art, and on trying to make the landing against a head wind he exclaimed after several vain attempts:

"Well, it is better to have luffed and lost than never to have luffed at all."—Youth's Companion.

A Church-Smashing Preacher.

Dr. Russell Conwell, who has been preaching in London, is possibly the most picturesque and arresting personality in American religious life. Twenty-five years ago he commenced his ministry at Philadelphia with a hammer and axe, and his first act was to break the windows and demolish the pews. The demolition of the building speedily followed, and before the first layer of bricks for the new building was finished Mr. Conwell had collected sufficient to pay for the whole structure. Since then he has gathered together the largest congregation in America with a membership of 2,500, established a poor man's university with 3,000 students, and has built a hospital in which 5,000 patients were treated last year.

FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Britons Attacked by Fishermen In a Portuguese Town.

Several British fishermen recently had a fierce fight for their lives in the little Portuguese fishing town of Povoa.

The British trawlers, while fishing off the Portuguese coast recently, damaged some nets belonging to the Povoa fishermen, and there has been ill-feeling since in consequence of this. The British fishermen, a short time afterwards, landed at Povoa to buy food, and they were immediately attacked by the Portuguese, who were armed with revolvers and knives.

The Englishmen were surrounded and although they fought steadily, they would certainly have all been killed had not the commander of a Portuguese gunboat, which was lying off Povoa, noticed what was going on and landed a party to rescue the Englishmen.

The Portuguese bluejackets formed a square about the Englishmen and conducted them to their boats, but the fighting did not cease until the last Englishman was aboard. Several persons were injured on both sides.

Begging Letters.

"Nowhere is the ingenuity of the present age more apparent than in the begging letters received by rich men," said a private secretary. "I have been reading letters of that kind by the hundred for the past fifteen years. Formerly all begging letters sounded alike. So stereotyped were they that they might have been copied bodily from a ready letter writer. Now the writers display originality. They may want the same old thing that their predecessors wanted, but they ask for it in a different way. People in need have acquired the art of expressing themselves in a dramatic way. That is to their advantage. It may be unjust, but usually the letter that hits the rich man hardest brings the most favorable reply. The writer may not really need assistance nearly so badly as some timid suppliant who clings to trite phrases, but he gets the relief asked for every time."

BOUNDARY BEATING.

Old Customs at Ealing Include "Bumping" the Vicar.

The town of Ealing, Eng., recently revelled in the old custom of "beating the bounds." The ceremony had been in abeyance for five years, and though the latest celebration passed off without anything more serious than the electrocution of a stray terrier dog, the pantomimic proceedings are scarcely likely to be repeated.

The party was headed by the vestry clerk and the vicar, with members of the corporation and a contingent of boys from two of the schools. For a part of the journey a crowd of women and babies and school children with bare feet and tattered clothing followed.

This crowd cheered wildly as the vicar was soundly "bumped" upon the first boundary stone in Ealing road south. Then the party, with their long sticks—which to the boys was more suggestive of a fishing expedition—mounted the old "Black Maria," which is always brought into requisition on these occasions, and another conveyance, and proceeded along by the Brentford boundary to the orchards and gardens abutting on Boston House.

In the Uxbridge road trams were held up while the crowd witnessed the bumping ceremonies, and when one of the assembly innocently inquired why the boys were being subjected to such "barbarous treatment," he was told that it was to impress the location of the boundaries upon their memories!

Elephant In a Hospital Ward.

The rare spectacle of an elephant in a hospital ward was witnessed recently in London, Eng., by a number of delighted youngsters. The baby elephant Babs was brought from the Crystal Palace to the Great Ormond street Hospital for Children to amuse the little patients. Babs, who stands about 4 feet 6 inches high, is a docile animal of exceedingly quaint appearance. Following his keeper, he marched up the hospital stairs to the general ward unconcernedly, and was received with great excitement by the sick children, who sat up in their cots and clapped their hands. Babs walked round the ward, putting his trunk over the rails of the cots, and greedily devouring the cakes and sugar given him by the patients. Several of the children had rides on Babs' back up and down the ward, and the young elephant enjoyed the play with the children so much that when the time for departure came he did not want to

LIVING TO BE NINETY.

Lord Wemyss Tells Secrets of Long Life.

"Be moderate at all times. Sleep at least eight hours a night. Eat well and take plenty of good exercise." Such is the advice which Lord Wemyss, who recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday, gives to those who wish to know the secret of longevity. "Also be extremely careful in the selection of your parents," his lordship naively adds. The earl is the youngest old man in Great Britain, for in spite of his ninety years he is still alert, vigorous of step, and firm in votes. For sixty-seven years he sat in one or other of the Houses of Parliament continually, save for a break of six months, and he will ever be remembered as the founder of the London Scottish Volunteers.

Naturally he thinks trains are a great improvement on the old stage-coach in which he travelled when he first went from Scotland to Oxford. But he does not care for motor-cars a great deal. He anticipates, however, that we shall soon be flying. "I have seen miracles happen in my lifetime," he says. "The unexpected has come true so often that I am determined not to be surprised at anything nowadays. We shall all be flying next." Apart from the Volunteer movement, into which he threw himself with so much ardor fifty years ago, Lord Wemyss' only hobbies are sculpture and the wearing of velvet collars to all his coats. At the same time, he is of an inventive turn of mind, and has a patent pick mattock, for use by soldiers in warfare, to his credit.

CAPTURED DWARF.

The Fairy Leprechaun In Prosaic Workhouse.

The Leprechaun belongs to the Irish section of the fairy tribe. According to popular belief, he is a little red man—not 2 feet high—who haunts the hedgerows. Children coming home from school have heard the busy "tap, tap, tap," of his hammer as he has been mending his pots and pans under the shade of a big dock leaf. The tradition is that if you capture him and keep him—a difficult business, as he is a very slippery little gentleman—he will conduct you to a pot of gold, which has been hidden for hundreds of years. The Leprechaun has been caught several times, but each time he has escaped with a mocking laugh. And now a sensation has been caused in Mullingar by the report that the Leprechaun has been captured and kept. Two prosaic policemen, it is said, found a creature of dwarfish proportions in a wood near the town, and brought him to Mullingar Workhouse, where he is now an inmate. He eats greedily, they say, but all attempts to interview him have failed, his only reply being a peculiar sound between a growl and a squeal. The inmates regard him with interest mingled with awe. No doubt the guardians will make him pay for his maintenance out of the mysterious pot of gold.

DAYLIGHT SAVING AT SEA.

Sailors Already Have Method of Moving the Clock.

The sailor's life is one of the few occupations to which the Daylight Saving Bill would not apply, because daylight is already systematically saved on all ocean-going vessels.

Time, as every schoolboy knows, varies according to longitude. Going east, the sailorman must put his clock back a little day by day. Coming west, he must daily move it forward a bit, in order to ensure standard time, and so secure an exact reading at noonday, for the sake of correct navigation. Usually, it is the duty of the first mate—or, as he is termed on the large ocean liners, the "chief officer"—of the vessel to regulate the ship's time.

His manner of doing this is expressly designed to save daylight, for a journey eastward—as from Marseilles to Bombay—the putting back of the clock—representing a loss of time—will be done between two and three a.m.

On a westward trip—say, from New York to Liverpool—there is a daily putting forward of the clock; and, as this means a gaining of time, the change is effected at about 10 o'clock a.m.

Penalty of Riches.

The Durham, Eng., miner, Thomas Barnett Douglass, who recently established his claim to a fortune of considerably over £10,000, has received hundreds of begging letters since his good luck was made known.

One writer asks for money to purchase a glass eye, another for a loan to obtain a horse and trolley. One lady writer, who addressed a letter from Birmingham, suggested that although she had not stooped to receive parish relief she would be obliged for a few pounds to keep her going. A Belfast Roman Catholic priest wrote asking for £1,000.

One communication came from France, soliciting money for the education of a girl. The most amusing missive came from Stepney, London, from the composer of certain lines, which he desired to have set to music, "for anthems and cantatas," he says, "these men who put down trams do charge such a lot."

Working Beaches For Gold.

A special Edison magnetic machine is being put to a test for working the black sand beaches on the west coast of the South Island, New Zealand, for the recovery of gold, by a syndicate composed of Wellington and Taranaki speculators. The initial operations were begun on the old Montesuma beach, a few miles north of Kokitika. The syndicate has secured the rights for working several beaches along the west coast for the recovery of fine gold.

Plan Another Fight.

The ceremonial of burning by British Indians resident in the Transvaal recently of over 1,500 certificates of voluntary registration marked the beginning of a second campaign of passive resistance against registration, and promises to be even more dogged than the first.

A Cold Deal.

Beatitt—By the way, don't you own some stock in the ice trust?

Lambleigh—I did own some, but they froze me out.

To make a Beer like O'Keefe's Pilsener after the celebrated German Pilsen formula, purity is not only desirable, but absolutely necessary.

O'KEEFE'S PILSENER LAGER

is brewed only from the best barley malt, choicest hops, and absolutely chemically pure water. The water is filtered before brewing, and the beer filtered before bottling and afterwards pasteurized in the bottles. Mild and delightful, always pure and healthful.

English Balloon For Zeppelin.

The order for the fabric of the new Zeppelin airship has been placed in England. The new balloon is to be made of goldbeaters' skin, after the style of the British army war balloons, and Spencers, the well known aeronauts, who are now manufacturing it, regard the order as a triumph for English industry. The German balloon makers have not the requisite skill in handling the goldbeaters' skin, which is exceedingly delicate in texture, and almost impervious to hydrogen gas. The membrane is taken from the peritoneal intestine of the ox, the different fragments being welded together by a process which English goldbeaters have inherited from generation to generation. The membranes of 600,000 animals are requisite for a single large balloon of the Zeppelin type.

The Charm of the Piano

A piano ceases to be an instrument and becomes a thing of life under the hands of a master. It breathes every emotion—that is, if the piano is a great one, like the New Scale Williams. It is matchless for tone and volume. 3

CAST-OFF YACHTS.

Old English Cup Challengers Have Come Upon Evil Days.

The life of a racing yacht is usually short and sweet. For a year or two she is working round and round the coast, from regatta to regatta. Then newer models take her place, and the famous cutter sloop or schooner lays aside her racing sails for ever, and is either turned into a comfortable cruiser, or sold for a song to take her place in trade, carrying rice or something like that.

Sometimes her case is even worse. The yachts of the early 'nineties were racing machines pure and simple. They had practically no accommodation below, and some were actually not worth tinkering with. Such was Valkyrie III., Lord Dunraven's celebrated cup racer. In September, 1895, she made a great attempt to wrest the America Cup from the hands of its holders, but was beaten in all three races by the American yacht, Defender. Less than six years later she was given over to the dockyard breakers for dismemberment.

Sir Thomas Lipton kept Shamrock I. for several years, and used her for the purpose of fitting up Shamrock III. She was taken across the Atlantic a second time, sold, transformed into a schooner, and is being used we understand, to carry scrap metal to South America.

The original winner of the cup, of which the New York Yacht Club is so proud, the sturdy old America, had the longest life of any racing yacht on record. It was on the 22nd of August, 1851, that the America beat every one of the English cracks in a race round the Isle of Wight, and shortly afterwards was sold to Lord de Blaquiere for the trifling sum of £1,000.

Lord Templeton was her next owner. He used her as a cruiser for some years. He sold her to Mr. Pitcher, who partly rebuilt her; and then, in 1860, Mr. H. Decie bought the historic craft. He rechristened her Camilla, tuned her up, and raced her with some success.

Once more she crossed the Atlantic, and at the beginning of the great American Civil War became a blockade runner, taking cargoes of English goods into Charlestown.

QUAKER'S BANKNOTES.

Often Preferred to Those Issued by the Bank of England.

Mr. Thomas Wakefield Simpson, whose will has just been proved in England, was formerly a partner in the Old Bank at Whitby of Simpson, Chapman & Co., founded in 1785 by Wakefield Simpson, a respected Quaker grocer and draper, whose notes were in after years sometimes preferred locally to those of the Bank of England.

This preference for Simpson and Chapman's notes over those of the Bank of England was not, perhaps, chiefly because for some years the Bank of England could not be required to pay cash for its notes, but was more probably due to the fear of taking forged Bank of England notes, which were very numerous until the bank ceased to issue £1 and £2 notes, and capital punishment for forgery was abolished.

Although the Bank of England was always persistent in tracing, if possible, and in bringing to punishment forgers of its notes, a depredator's chances were during several years that he might commit between 300 and 400 offences before he was convicted, and between 1,000 and 2,000 before being hanged.

From a report made to Queen Victoria in the first year of her reign, it appears that during the ten years 1812 to 1821 219,121 forged notes were presented at the Bank of England, but only 1,345 persons were convicted of forging and uttering, and only 168 persons were executed for forgery. The convictions were in the proportion of one to 163 offences and the executions as one to 1,304. In 1817 there were 31,180 forgeries of notes, with 128 convictions and eighteen executions; and in 1830 the forged notes presented at the bank were only 613, and one person was convicted, but was not executed.

The last execution for forgery was on the last day of the year 1829, but it was not until 1832 that capital punishment for the forgery of bank-notes was abolished, and the forgery of wills or powers of attorney continued to be a capital offence until 1837, when Queen Victoria came to the throne.

Unused to Confederation.

Australians are beginning to realize that Federal Government is very different from the old system under which each colony had its own supreme Legislature. Parliaments, it is true, still make the law, but the High Court not only declares what the law means, but also determines whether the law is valid or invalid. The constitution, though written is not rigid. The amendment provisions are the most liberal in the world, and whenever a real majority of the people unmistakably desires an alteration there is no means of baulking their will.

From Affluence to Poverty.

Thomas Russell, aged 81, has been killed in a hayfield near Stroud, Eng., where he was employed to hold horses. Many years ago he was worth $250,000, and was a prominent figure on the turf. He kept a beer house in Bird street, Oxford street, London, where he took bets before there were stringent gaming laws, and so numerous were his clients that people used to offer premiums for front positions in the crowds that assembled.

"Stick to Britain."

His Highness the Agha Khan, addressing the Moslem League at Poona, India, recently said that centuries must elapse before India could become a nation. There was, he said, no alternative to British rule except anarchy, and he implored the Hindus to return to the path of progress.

Giant Cave.

A cave has lately been discovered in New Zealand which is larger even than the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky.

Most Extraordinary.

"He has certainly raised his family in an old fashioned way."

"So?"

"Why, that man's children actually ask him for advice."

Glengarrian Was Founder.

The town of Chisholm, mentioned in despatches recently as having been burned during the forest fires raging in Minnesota, is a town dear to the people of Glengarry.

It was founded a dozen years ago by Archibald Mark Chisholm of Glengarry, who went west when he was only 12. He worked in the lumber camps of Wisconsin and Minnesota and finally saw his chance and invested in the iron fields of the Mesaga range.

This brought him into touch with James J. Hill, another self-exiled Canadian, and together they developed the iron mines to their common advantage. Out of this property grew the town of Chisholm.

Mr. Chisholm is a wealthy man, possibly a millionaire twice over, and still only 40 years of age. He visited his old home in July of this year and renewed acquaintances. He used as his business cards $20 bills of the Chisholm National Bank, of which he is president. Some of his friends, who received these cards, presented the bills and got the money. Hence Chisholm is considered the whole thing in Glengarry.

Invasion From Indiana.

Dr. M. E. Hunt of Anderson, Indiana, has been in Winnipeg recently with a number of other wealthy citizens of that state, preparing to invest a large amount of money in Western Canadian real estate. The statement is made by Dr. Hunt that three thousand Indiana farmers have come into Western Canada in the past year to improve their condition. These men are prosperous farmers who are selling their farms there for as much as 100 dollars per acre and investing the proceeds in Western Canada farm lands. They find the transaction a profitable one. Dr. Hunt points out that they have to fertilize their land in Indiana, and the fertilizing costs from $10 to $25 a ton, half a ton being required on an acre of corn or wheat land. This season the small grain crop of Indiana is very much reduced by drought, which accentuates the local interest in the opportunities offered by the prairie provinces of Canada.

And He Got the Fee.

A recent case in the Toronto Police Court involving an unpaid dog license revealed the workings of an unknown financial genius.

Just when it became necessary that licenses be procured for wandering canines, this man prevailed upon a woman to buy the dog for $2. She took the dog home, but it ran away. She went to see the original owner. He denied knowledge of the dog, though she says she heard it barking in his back yard. She has not had the dog since.

Who Owns the Egg.

A Toronto woman went into a shop recently to buy a live hen.

She was buying it by the pound. While the shopkeeper was weighing the fowl it laid an egg.

The lady refused to pay for the egg, while the irate storekeeper demanded an extra three cents and went to find the police.

In the meantime the lady disappeared with hen and egg.

The question of who owned the egg has not yet been decided. The lady has possession.

Looking Into the Past.

An old lady in New York, celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of her wedding, grew reminiscent. It was forty years ago, she said, since she had her first clothes wringer, and fluting machines came in about the same time. People then had one daguerreotype taken and put it in a frame. There were no egg beaters, no carpet sweepers, no faucets, no sewing machines, no street cars, electric lights and numerous other things now so common. The kitchen was full of tinware, and notwithstanding the fact that water had to be carried it must all be kept scoured. But one good thing of those old days, "hired girls," were paid only $5 or at most $7 per month.

Thought Mail Was White Man's Food.

The Rev. Hiram Bingham, recently arrived here from Honolulu, is one of the most picturesque figures in the modern history of the south seas. His life has been devoted to work in and for the Gilbert islands, which he first visited in 1857. When he first visited the Gilbert islands the natives had no knowledge of writing and had never seen paper. The first mail that arrived for the missionaries was stolen by the native carrier to whom it was intrusted and distributed in particles to the other natives, who ate the scraps under the impression that they were some kind of white man's food.—San Francisco Chronicle.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN
Use and Recommend Newbro's Herpicide
MISS MILDRED HOLLAND,
the Charming and deservedly Popular Theatrical Star, writes as follows:
"I am delighted with Newbro's Herpicide. It is just what I have been looking for. I find that it not only prevents dandruff, but that it stops the hair from falling out. It is a most delightful hair dressing, and no lady's toilet table is complete without it."
(Signed) MILDRED HOLLAND.
A woman to be pretty must have pretty hair. There is a subtle charm about beautiful hair that lends more to personal adornment than all of the skill of all of the "beauty doctors" combined. The hair need not be of extraordinary or abnormal length, but it must have that distinctiveness of appearance that comes from intelligent care, and is the result of perfect hair health.
The most cultured ladies in every community use Newbro's Herpicide; and when you see a head of hair that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life, it is a fairly good indication that Newbro's Herpicide has been used.
A common cause of dullness of the hair is the presence of fine dust and soot in the streets that is kept in constant motion by trolley cars, automobiles, etc. This fine dust—frequently laden with disease germs—adheres to the hair and dulls its natural lustre.
A delightful way to cleanse and beautify the hair is to moisten a cloth with Newbro's Herpicide and draw it carefully through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. It may be done daily or less often, as desired.
The result of this cleansing process will prove a surprise, not only in the amount of dirt removed, but in the added beauty of the hair and the sense of cleanliness and comfort that follows. Shampooing will also remove this dust, but too frequent washing of the hair is harmful.
Newbrow's Herpicide is the Original remedy that "kills the dandruff germ." It eradicates dandruff and stops falling hair. It is the only real scalp prophylactic in existence. A delightful and refreshing hair dressing. Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Race Troubles.

An interesting sidelight upon the engrossing subject of race hatred is provided in Western Australia. The northern pearling towns contain representatives of almost every race under the sun. "Highly cosmopolitan" is but a mild description of their mixed populations. Between the races an intense animosity exists, and the local police have had plenty to do in quelling the disturbances which have often occurred. Now a more serious position has been reached. The rival races recently arranged a pitched battle. Extensive purchases of arms and ammunition were made as secretly as possible, and preparations were well advanced when the matter reached the ears of the authorities. Recourse was had to diplomacy. Representatives of the warring factions were invited to a conference, and, after much negotiation, they were induced to sign a formal agreement to keep the peace. This document is described as both weird and imposing. It bears many signatures in English, Malay, and Japanese, and opposite each signature is a formidable official seal. The trouble has thus been averted for a time.

Boer Settlers' Trek.

A large "trek" of Boers is proceeding British East Africa, from Lourenco Marques. The trek consists in all of about 300 souls, or about eighty heads of families, with adult sons and daughters and children. The impedimenta included seventy horses, thirty ox-wagons, ten Cape carts, fowls, cats, spare wagon tyres, Morgan wagon wheels, and all the appurtenances of a veld settlement. The men are Transvaalers of a class which may be termed the typical Boer farmer. In physique and character they are fitted to take care of themselves wherever placed. Rifles and ammunition are plentiful among them, the type of firearm being mainly of the Mauser pattern. Together with the Boer families, a number of Cape boys and Hottentot servants are included, and these again had their wives and families with them.

His Modest Request.

A man once asked Thackeray to lend him 5 shillings, which he would convert into £20,000. Asked how, he explained that he knew a young woman with £20,000 who he knew would marry him if he asked her, but he had pawned his teeth and wanted 5 shillings to redeem them in order to propose effectively.

The Reason.

"Why doesn't Smith call in his family physician? Has he lost confidence in him?"

"No; the doctor has lost confidence in Smith!"—Lippincott's.

Another 1908 Improvement in

"Hecla" Furnaces

The fire pot is the most effective radiating surface in a warm air furnace. That is why every manufacturer seeks to increase that surface by the addition of cast iron flanges, or pins or corrugations. As each of these flanges or pins covers a large part of the primary surface of the fire pot there is a limit to the number of such cast flanges as can be effectively used.

The "Hecla" Steel Ribbed (Patented) Fire Pot is a step far in advance of any other fire pot. Instead of thick and sandy cast iron flanges those in the "Hecla" are steel and are neat and clean. Being uniform they can be set so close together that, where we formerly used 19 cast flanges we now use 97 steel ones without covering any more of the primary surface of the pot.

Steel Ribbed (Patented) Fire Pots provide twice as much effective radiating surface as any other fire pots made, and in consequence radiate far more heat with the same amount of fuel.

In a test extending over two years, Steel Ribbed (Patented) Fire Pots showed a saving of 11% in fuel, over cast flanged pots.

Our Catalogue explains other exclusive "Hecla" features viz: Patent Fused Joints, Individual Grate Bars, etc. 60

AN UNFINISHED PROPOSAL.

By C. R. LEWIS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

When mothers put it the way they do we must sympathize with them more or less, especially when the mother is a widow. It isn't through any spirit of avarice that she would have her daughter marry rich. It is simply that the money may be in the house when the man comes around with the gas bill. It isn't because of snobbishness that she would prefer to be the mother-in-law of a duke rather than a commoner, but dukes are said never to call their mothers-in-law old cats.

It isn't from any desire to smash romances or break hearts that they lug the daughter of twenty off to Europe in hopes she will forget the man of twenty-five to fall in love with a suitor of sixty. It is that the dear girl may have a grandfather, a father and a husband all in one.

Such were the guiding principles of Mrs. Deland, relict of Judge Deland, and it is requested that a fair per cent of the readers of this story become her partisans and give her a fair show.

Of course the daughter, Clara, had received the education given to all young girls whose fathers or mothers are able to pay for the same by the square foot, and she had arrived at the age of twenty without causing any particular worry to anybody when she met young Albert Lee. They called him young Lee because he was only twenty-two and because there was an old Lee, who was sixty.

Young Lee was still at college, and it was still an unsettled question as to what profession he would select to make his way through life. In an indefinitely definite way he had been paying his attentions to Miss Clara for several months before the widowed mother, with a woman's intuition, aroused herself to the realization that her lamb might be stolen away. Then, like a dutiful mother, she began making inquiries and scolding her daughter at the same time.

It did not take long to exhaust the schedule of inquiries. Young Lee was all right socially, and his sixty-year-old father would leave him a comfortable property when the reaper came, but there was no telling whether he would pass away at sixty-one or eighty-five.

It was long odds for a mother with a business head on her to take. She at once put her foot down, and of course it was the wrong foot. She began by criticising the suitor and ended by announcing that she would rather see her daughter in her grave.

There were arguments, protestations, tears. A girl who is beginning to feel the impulses of love may be argued or bulldozed into silence, but to convince her is quite another thing.

After a few minutes Clara had nothing further to say, and in her exuberance over her triumph the mother announced an early trip to Europe. Young Lee would not follow. The excitements and enjoyments of London, Paris and Berlin would quite drive him from the daughter's mind, and some day that daughter would kneel at the maternal feet and exclaim:

"Bless you, mamma, that you have caused me to forget that penniless young man and engaged me to the living remains of an ancient lord, duke or count!"

The living remains appeared in London. He was Lord Somebody or other. The only certain thing about his age was that he was over sixty. The only certain thing about his attentions to the daughter was that he believed the mother far richer than she was and that he had several mortgages on several ruined castles that he wished to repair.

After the first meeting, which came about through accident, milord was in evidence at brief intervals during the tour, lasting three months and more. He received all proper encouragement from the mother, and there were times when the daughter sat and looked at his dyed hair and false eyebrows and pasted wrinkles and was amused.

In due time, which was a day or two before the ladies sailed for home, he made his proposal. It was first made to the mother, who received it smilingly; then to the daughter, who also smiled a little, but prevaricated by saying that she didn't know her own heart.

Milord was in duty bound, as gallant remains are, to say that he would give her time, and Clara looked back at London from the decks of the steamer and congratulated herself that this ended it all.

That was where she was just as much mistaken as her mother had been. They had been home only four weeks when milord put in an appearance at the American manor house. It was no one's business but his own how he had managed to raise the cash for the trip. There are money lenders in London who will take long chances. His love had not grown cold with the departure of Miss Deland.

In due time the mother had figured on, young Lee had not followed the couple abroad. There are postoffices all over the civilized world, however, and a slangy girl might have said that it was a cold week when Clara didn't receive and answer a letter from a certain New England college town.

She may have even met young Lee after her return. They may have met and strolled on the broad highway leading to the village—just a little stroll and just a little talk. If so, the mother didn't know anything about it. Milord had arrived to renew his proposal, and not three days had passed when the mother wanted to know what the daughter's answer was to be.

"If he proposes to me again I shall accept him," was the prompt and unexpected reply.

No more arguments, no more protestations, no more tears. The mother simply threw her arms around her daughter and murmured that she was the sweetest, dearest daughter in the whole world and then went off to inform milord that he had a cinch. A cinch, it may be explained, means a good thing—you are the only jockman on the route.

Nothing has happened since then to Miss Deland being the sole owner and chauffeur of an electric runabout, and even now the name of the maker will not be announced except at regular advertising rates.

When she realized that a second proposal from milord was inevitable, she chose her own ground to receive it. That is, she invited the living remains to take a trip with her over the highways. Had he been a young man of thirty he would have scented dewitry in the air. Had he been a few years older he could not have managed to climb into the vehicle.

For the first mile of the trip he hung on with a death grip and said nothing. Then, as no calamity happened, he got over his scare a bit and proceeded to observe:

"My dear and charming Miss Deland, you remember that in London"—

The dear and charming one steered the vehicle over the humpy ground beside the track, and the bumps and bounces that followed kept milord in terror for the next five minutes. He had not been smashed up or thrown out, and he began again:

"I make no excuse for following you to America. As I told your dear mother in London"—

The electric started for the ditch, and Clara screamed, and for a few seconds there was every promise of a tragedy. Milord gasped a prayer and dug in his toes, and when the vehicle was once more in the straight and narrow path its conductress said:

"I think it was your talk that confused me, but I will do better henceforth. You were saying that you told or I told or mother, or some one else told somebody something in London."

"Y-es. Is it positively necessary, my dear Miss Deland, to drive this vehicle as if we were racing with a locomotive?"

"Oh, not at all, my lord. You were saying"—

"I was saying to your mother that I had met my ideal at last and that"—

This time the electric left the road and brushed the hazel bushes, and no man would have kept his nerve and made a marriage proposal then. Milord thought it was all over, and it was fully five minutes before he could swallow the lump in his throat and gasp out:

"My dear, if we were to take a slower pace I believe I should enjoy the ride more. I felt it my first duty to let your mother know what my feelings were toward you, and then"—

"Why, you don't call this fast going, do you?" interrupted the girl. "We have simply been lingering. I will now show you the speed I generally ride at."

She showed him. He figured it out that it was a thousand miles an hour, but of course it was only twenty. He needed encouragement to go on, and Miss Clara gave it to him by observing:

"Yes, you spoke to mamma, and then"—

"Then, my dear, I had the courage to"—

Away went the machine for a telegraph pole, and the living remains forgot his dignity and cried out in apprehension. He was gathering himself for a jump when the vehicle missed the pole by all of three-eighths of an inch and was guided back into the road running on two wheels.

"You had the courage to—to"—queried Clara when things were going right again.

"Yes, my dear girl, I had the courage as well as the honor to ask for a private interview with you, and when it had been accorded I"—

At this point the runabout shot to the right, shot to the left, jumped ahead and then made a sudden sweep and headed for home. It came to a halt for just three seconds, but that was plenty of time for milord to tumble out and remark:

"The scenery is so beautiful here that I think I will walk back to the house."

"But when the private interview had been accorded"—

"Yes! Um! Yes, I think I will walk."

"Well?" asked the mother when the daughter reached home.

"He never proposed. He didn't half propose," was the answer, "and now if Mr. Lee calls and you like him half as well as I do"—

"Clara, you go to your room. Milord leaves tomorrow. You have frightened him out of America."

Misspelled Names of Places.

A name very difficult to find correctly spelled is that of the Lake Ontario port Sacket Harbor. When it is not "Sackett's Harbor" or "Sackett Harbor" it is commonly "Sacket's Harbor." Another, not so frequently wrong, is "Newburgh," the city of which name is in the town of "Newburg." This brings up the problem of "Pittsburg," which its citizens like so well to spell "Pittsburgh." Another puzzler is "Hoosick Falls," which is on the Hoosac river, in Rensselaer county. The United States geographical board is the ultimate authority on the names of places in America.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Lines by a Sick Poet.

Mr. William Watson, when ill in London and attempting a dinner for which he had no appetite, scribbled these lines on a scrap of paper, which he threw to his attendant:

Strange sauce that's mingled with the meat,
Strange meat that's mingled with the sauce—in vain
I sat and wond'ring what and why I eat,
Long for the porridge of my youth again.

"And say, this Pen-Angle Underwear is great. I really enjoy slipping into it. So nice and soft. If you fellows are wearing underwear that irritates you so by its prickles and scratches, rubs you the wrong way, so to speak, then I say get Pen-Angle and be comfortable, like 'yours truly' was when enough to do."

"Penman's No. 95 is the kind I'm wearing. It's Medium Weight, Natural Wool. Fits snugly. Buttons sewed on to stay. Doesn't get smaller every time it returns from the wash—it's unshrinkable. Dyes absolutely fast, too. Know I'm safe when buying it, for Pen-Angle is guaranteed by both the dealer and makers."

Too Well Imitated.

It is no easy matter for a violin maker to rival the famous Stradivarius instruments, but this an American maker did, and did so effectively that experts pronounced his violin a genuine Stradivarius.

The successful man was the late George Gemunder, a famous violin maker of New York. His remarkable ability as a preparer of violins was known to many a distinguished player, such as Ole Bull, Remenyi and Wilhelmj. But he made, so runs the story, his greatest success at the Paris exposition of Eiffel tower fame. To that exhibition he sent an imitation Stradivarius and to test its merits had it placed on exhibition as the genuine article.

A committee of experts carefully examined the instrument and pronounced it a Stradivarius. So far Mr. Gemunder's triumph was complete. But now came a difficulty. When he claimed that it was not an old violin, but a new one made by himself, the committee would not believe him. They declared he never made the instrument and pronounced him an impostor. He had done his work too well.

Can't Twiddle Their Thumbs.

The gorilla and chimpanzee, which belong to the higher order of apes, have many points of resemblance to man, but there is one thing they cannot do—that is, twiddle their thumbs. In the gorilla the thumb is short and does not reach much beyond the bottom of the first joint of the forefinger. It is very much restricted in its movements, and the animal can neither twiddle his thumbs nor turn them round so that the tips describe a circle. There are the same number of bones in the hand of a gorilla as in the hand of a man, but the thumbs of the monkey have no separate flexor or bending muscle. This is why a monkey always keeps the thumb on the same side as the fingers and never bends it round any object that may be grasped. In the gorilla the web between the fingers extends to the second joint, the fingers taper to the tips, and there is a callosity on the knuckles on which the animal rests when walking on all fours.

Fickleness in Penmanship.

Speaking of check signatures and forgery, a downtown paying teller remarked: "One of the most peculiar points in our business is one little comprehended by the public. I mean the embarrassment caused by the man whose signature is seldom the same or nearly so, two weeks in succession.

"This fickleness is not intentional. It is in almost every case temperamental. The man guilty of it is generally nervous and not infrequently is greatly lacking in stability of character. At times you, as a layman, would hardly believe it possible that his signature on two different checks was the work of the same hand.

"Of course we come to know these cases in time, and there are always certain characteristics in a person's handwriting which the expert can detect and which go far to convince. Nevertheless the changeable signature is a nuisance and involves an added peril."—New York Globe.

Quite Clear.

Masquerader (explaining who he is supposed to represent)—I'm that fellow who fought the battle of what do you call it, you know. What's his name says all about him in his great book. You remember, every one took him for the other chap until they found he couldn't be; then they knew he wasn't. Think I look the part?—London Sketch.

WRECKED BY A SNOW STORM

Two Montana Trains Collide and Twenty Are Killed.

MORE THAN SCORE HURT

Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Train Running Over Northern Pacific Near Livingston, Plunges Into Freight Train in Snowstorm—Everyone in the Smoker is Killed or Severely Injured.

Livingston, Mont., Sept. 26.—Plowing through a snowstorm, eastward bound, a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train, running over the Northern Pacific Railroad yesterday, crashed head-on into a freight train at Young's Point, where the trains were to pass, and in the demolition that ensued a score of persons were injured, several probably fatally.

The freight flag man failed to signal the passenger train in time to prevent the collision, it is said, because of the blinding snow.

The express car telescoped with the smoking car, and most of the fatalities and injuries were of persons in the latter car. The express car was raised over the platform of the smoking car and the superstructure swept the seats away. Not a passenger in the smoking car escaped death or injury. Passengers in other cars escaped with cuts and bruises.

On the train was the Spokane delegation to the national irrigation congress at Albuquerque. None of these were injured.

Fireman Ora Babcock jumped and was killed, striking his head. Milo Halloway, a brakeman, was killed.

The smoking car debris was hopelessly mixed with heads, bodies, legs and arms, presenting a horrible sight.

In one place seven bodies were so tightly wedged together that they were separated only with great difficulty. It was impossible to succor the wounded without trampling on the dead.

The known dead are: Col. Downson, of Utah; John Cawlan, Billings, Mont.; Lon Anderson, Hardy, Mont.; Lorrense A. Stewart, Dean, Mont.; H. C. Combs, Ministon, Ia.; E. L. Rymock, Denver; D. H. Barnes, Seattle; C. A. Konsick, Anaconda, Mont.; Ora Babcock, Billings, Mont.; S. Chingdon, Chico Springs, Mont.; Charles E. Johnson, Denver, district passenger agent, Nickel Plate Railroad; George Battlerock, Anaconda, Mont.; John Ryan, Cushing, Okla.; Milo Halloway, Billings, Mont.; Sichemram, address unknown, and four unidentified coal miners.

Among the injured are: R. A. Rickers, Billings, Mont., may die; Jas. S. Westerney, may die; Sam Solomowits, both legs broken, may die; Anton Bowcits, Helena, may die.

Wrecking and relief trains were sent out from Livingston and Billings.

The freight, which was an extra west-bound, in charge of Conductor Hickey, was heading into the east end of the siding on short time when the passenger train, running into the blinding snowstorm, struck it.

London, Ont., Sept. 26.—Geo. Engersoll is in a serious condition.

Car Inspectors Go to Jail.

Belleville, Sept. 26.—In the Police Court yesterday morning, Police Magistrate Masson sentenced Patrick McHugh and Allen Stapley, two Grand Trunk car inspectors, employed in the local yards, to two years in the Penitentiary on two charges of entering and stealing grain and tobacco from sealed cars several days ago.

The sentence came as a big surprise. The men are both married, with families, and old employes of the road.

Marechal In Field.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—T. Marechal was unanimously nominated last evening as the Conservative candidate in St. Mary's, Tarte's old constituency. He denounced as a "monstrous doctrine" that no one could rise in this county who opposed Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Practical Joke May Kill.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Andrew Babo was taken from Buffington, Ind., to the South Chicago Hospital of the Illinois Steel Co. with his vital organs torn by a jet of compressed air. He probably will die. He is the victim of a practical joke.

Cabinetmakers' Strike Settled.

Watertown, N.Y., Sept. 26.—Superintendent Mayo of the International Paper Mills in the Watertown district yesterday announced that the International Paper Co., and the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers had agreed on terms, settling the strike of two months. The union agrees to accept the five per cent. reduction.

MR. CHARLES MURPHY GIVES ADDRESS

New Secretary of State With Premier at North Bay.

URGE GEORGIAN BAY CANAL

In Reply to Addresses Sir Wilfrid Promises That Project Will Be Begun at Earliest Opportunity—Strikers Make No Disturbance—Audience Numbers 5,000—Lemieux Addresses French.

North Bay, Sept. 26.—Yesterday's gathering of the Liberals of Nipissing at North Bay was no exception to the remarkable series of meetings that have greeted the Prime Minister. Distinction was given to the meeting by the fact that it marked the first public appearance of the new Secretary of State, Mr. Charles Murphy. The weather was no cooler, and neither was the enthusiasm which greeted Sir Wilfrid on his arrival, and again in the park where the picnic was held. To the immense crowds addressed in other parts North Bay's contribution was a multitude of some 5,000.

Four addresses were read to the Premier from the town, Board of Trade, French-Canadian citizens, and Nipissing Liberal Association. All referred to the importance of the Georgian Bay Canal.

In reply to this, Sir Wilfrid said frankly that the country's revenues were not sufficiently buoyant to permit of immediate consideration of the project. When the country's revenue would permit, this would be one of the first projects to be given consideration.

Any fears that there would be a disturbance similar to that experienced at Montreal by Mr. Borden were happily not realised. To the credit of the railway strikers, many of whom were present at the meeting, they recognised that nothing was to be gained by making a demonstration.

The strikers also withdrew their pickets to permit the strike-breakers to attend the meeting unhampered if they wished.

In consequence, during the three long hours of speaking, not one word was uttered concerning the strike, nor was a single interruption ventured. While the province listened for an echo of possible violence or disorder the men proved their power of diplomacy.

Just at the moment Sir Wilfrid arrived at the platform a temporary grand-stand leaning against the side of the rink collapsed and two hundred people were precipitated from 2 to 6 feet to the ground. No one was seriously injured. Care was taken that the platform should not be overcrowded lest the Prime Minister and his colleagues should have a similar experience.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in splendid voice.

His lieutenant, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, discussed the issues in French.

Charles Murphy, K.C., the new Secretary of State, was enthusiastically received.

Tariff Reformers Win.

London, Sept. 26.—The Newcastle-on-Tyne bye-election resulted as follows:

G. Renwick, Unionist	13,863
Shortt, Liberal	11,720
Hartley, Socialist	2,971

The vacancy was caused by the death of Mr. Cairns, the Liberal member. The result shows a Liberal majority of 7,200 converted to a Conservative majority in spite of the 2,971 votes given the third candidate, a Socialist.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

The Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for Sunday, Sept. 27th, are:

Temperance Lesson

Isaiah v: 11-23.

Golden Text — Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging. Prov. xx: 1.

Verse 11 — How many men do you know in the community whose moral portrait is drawn in this verse; that is, those who are habitual drunkards?

Are there still those whose chief ambition is to get drunk?

What are the chief "woes" of the drunkard: 1 To himself; 2 To his family; 3 To the community.

Verse 12 — Is it a fact that drinking man still like string music, and, if so how do you account for it?

Is it either possible or probable that a man given to drink can also "regard the work of the Lord?"

Verse 18 — Upon which kind of knowledge does the prosperity of an individual, or of a people, most depend, moral and spiritual, or scientific and commercial?

What was the general cause for the various captivities and national misfortunes of ancient Israel?

Verse 14 — To what extent does the longevity of an individual, or of a nation, depend upon moral conduct?

Can the "glory" and the "multitude" and the man who "rejoice" be increased most in this country, with liquor being freely sold, or under prohibition."

Verse 15 — If a "mean" man, that is one of poor ability and little influence indulges in drink, and if a "mighty" man, that is one of great ability and influence, indulges in drink, what will be the effect of such indulgence, and will there be any difference in the effect upon the two men?

Verses 16 — In what respect are the "judgment" and the "righteousness" of God "exalted" or seen, in the terrible results of the liquor traffic?

Verses 18-19 — Is it ever possible for good personal results to come from bad deeds?

Is there any need to experiment with or put to the test, the moral precepts of the Bible, seeing they are based upon the experience of mankind and the wisdom of the ages?

Is it ever possible for a man or a nation to escape the natural results of wrong doing?

(This question must be answered in writing by members of the Club.)

Verses 20-21 — If a man does that which is essentially wrong, and he thinks it is right, does his opinion change the natural results of the act? For illustration, a mother gives her babe, in the night, prussic acid, thinking it to be castor oil.

Verses 22-23 — How should we estimate the moral character of those who sell intoxicating liquor as a beverage?

Lesson for Sunday, Oct. 4th, 1908 — David brings the Ark to Jerusalem (II Sam. vi.

WATCH YOUR TONGUE

If Furred and Coated, It's a Looking Glass Stomach Warning.

When it is the morning after the night before, you do not have to look at your tongue to know that the stomach is upset, the head is aching, no appetite marves on edge with all the sunshine of life clouded.

The real time to watch the tongue is all of the time. If it is coated with a white fur, or possibly with dark trimmings, even though the stomach does not tell you by the acute pains of indigestion that it needs help, yet the coating shows that you are getting into a bad way and that there is need of Mi-o-na.

Mi-o-na is so positive, so sure so reliable in its curative action upon the stomach that Wm. Madill, the local agent, gives a guarantee of satisfaction with every 50 cent box or money back.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Here are a few paragraphs of the philosophy of life which touch the spot:—

It is all right to be jolly, but don't be jollied.

Don't do favours for a man who has a poor memory.

The older we grow the more superfluous become our birthdays.

The chronic borrower we generally know, not wisely but too well.

The way of the transgressor may be hard, but it isn't lonesome.

No man is so fast that trouble won't sooner or later, overtake him.

Some men are so suspicious as to regard a golden opportunity as a gold brick.

The man who has a diploma from the school of experience is pretty well fixed.

Wise is the man who knows more than the fool thinks he knows.

The only sure things in life are those that have already happened.

The fellow who expects the world to take him on bluff should have a return ticket.

Some people jump at conclusions and others make their mistakes quite methodically.

Drinking is a habit that grows. It's all right for a man to indulge in an occasional smile, but he shouldn't allow it to develop into a perpetual grin.

You can never tell what is going to please a woman. Half of them are unhappy because they are talked about, and the other half because they aren't.

It just depends upon the point of view whether you regard debt as a luxury or a necessity.

A woman always feels that she is privileged to say disagreeable things to those she loves.

There are comparisons in all things. Some sermons sound good because the choir is so bad.

It is annoying to a woman if her husband is jealous of her, and it is humiliating if it isn't.

The victims of the get-rich-quick scheme are those who try to sprinkle salt on the tail of wealth.

Love, being blind, should nurse his job. With his infirmity it is doubtful whether he could get another.

Springing Up Of An Orchard From Seeds Of An Apple Core

Apple Fiction of An Interesting Character Told by Miss Fidgety

AN OLD STORY RECALLED

Editor Examiner.

Almost a year ago it was reported that several cattlemen were assembled in the office of the market scales and were relating stories about the productiveness of certain apples trees which they had seen in the surrounding districts. One after another told his version till the yields increased from bushels to waggon loads.

Then and there was a new substance formed, originated and brought into being. Its common name is "apple-fiction," and its scientific name is "fish-story." This strange element provokes laughter in some and distrust in others, but to a hungry tramp is not nearly so nourishing as apple-sauce, apple pie, or any of the other three hundred and ninety-seven dishes prepared from the fruit of the tree which held such a prominent place in the Garden of Eden.

About a week later the press recorded that the side door and the till of the market scales had been blown open during the night, but the cause of the occurrence was not given, and neither was Sherlock Holmes called in to investigate. However, it demonstrate that apple-fiction is a powerful, elastic and expansive material which may yet replace hot air for blowing out political speakers. It is quite comprehensible that when the high explosive was locked up without proper ventilation something was bound to go wrong somewhere, and it it was only the small quantity of the substance that saved the city from a shock equal to that which wrecked San Francisco. As it was, only a few chips were knocked off the market block, and the scales registered a pressure of 1539 pounds to the square inch. One of these splinters was found at a point 17 feet 4 1-2 inches from the southeastern corner of the post-office in a direct line with the scene of action. That sounds scientific, but science is always exact! Just 3,339 inches from the ragged end of this particular chip off the market block was discovered a molecule weighing one-thousandth of an ounce of this priceless stuff called apple-fiction. This is more scientific, but science reaches conclusions when automobiles and aeroplanes break down on the way. This small particle has been carefully preserved and allowed to develop, and now that apples are again the most plentiful fruit, the public is given the rare privilege of holding a sample of that valuable treasure. Here it is as seen with a powerful microscope. Read every word and you will feel intellectually elevated and physically refreshed.

Think of Canada's first pair of transcontinental steel threads which bear the name of C. P. R.! Think again of its construction in the early eighties, and of the men who laboured in that great work! Many Ontario men went west to help in the building of that pioneer road, and among them was a certain Tom Smith who was a husky farm lad in those days. The desire to see the outside world had broken out on him very badly, and, after getting the family consent, he travelled west to sweat and toil under a railway construction boss. Of course, he took a few extra rags, and some trinkets by which to remember the folks at home. At that season of the year some of the apples in the farm orchard were reaching maturity, so his thoughtful sister stowed about a dozen away in his trunk for future use.

When Tom reached the scene of operations the line was being built through that part of the Province of British Columbia which was afterwards found to be especially adapted to the growing of fruit. The work was new to Tom and his fellow workers were strange, but he soon adjusted himself to the new conditions and became enthused with his occupation. One day, after the noonday meal, he turned over the contents of his trunk and extracted a few of those precious Ontario apples, and gently and reverently put them in his pocket. At that time a siding for the passing of trains was being built on the north side of the main track. As he reached his post of duty a few minutes before work was resumed, he called a few of his close friends together and presented them each with one apple. In that case his liberality was of the "large" type, and to his friends an apple was a rare treat, the more especially so as they were grown in Ontario. The members of that select little company talked of home and its comforts as they nibbled the apples, and finally threw the small bare cores in various directions. It was noticed that one fellow threw the core of his apple clear away over the fence line on the north side of the line.

The work went on; the road was finally completed. Tom Smith returned to Ontario with many, and soon the fertile parts of British Columbia along the railway were settled and brought under cultivation. One of these early settlers was Henry Brown, who acquired a lot adjacent to the new road. One day as he was strolling around his farm he noticed a small tree which would, according to his ideas, bear apples of some kind in a few years. As he had not planted a tree there its presence was a mystery, but he put up guards to protect it from the cattle, and decided to await developments.

That tree grew some and then grew more. The fruit was tasty and abundant. Then it occurred to Henry that a little grafting would be profitable, and soon he had four varieties all nourished by the stock of that original hard specimen. The railway trains rolled on and so did the years till the autumn of 1908, when the yield of that tree became so large that it was considered unwise to haul the saleable portion away to the station, a few miles distant. A request was made to the proper officials that a box-car, divided into four equal compartments be switched in on the aforementioned siding where Tom Smith and his chums munched apples many years before. In due time the car arrived and four chutes were made to convey the apples from the bank to their proper cars. A small gang of expert fruit pickers from a neighbouring orchard were employed, and the work went merrily on. By a specially designed apparatus the apples rolled down the trough and dropped in their correct places as gently as if on a feather bed, without being injured in the least. (When all the prime, choice apples from that one tree were stored in that car it was found that all the four places were filled to an I.O.T. (nicety). Next day the car was picked up by a passing freight and whirled away to the east to have its contents loaded on a ship bound for the Old Country. On the following day, a passenger train going west, carried no less a personage than Thomas Smith, who had decided to go to the coast on a pleasure jaunt and to see the changes which had been wrought during the intervening years. In quick succession he recalled the events when he was a common labourer in the construction of that very road. Then he noticed a siding with a huge apple tree near it, and men working some kind of machinery just a few yards away. Then he remembered being at that siding before, and also about the apple eating. Then he did some thinking; then he had a theory. The train seemed to just crawl along to the next station, and when it arrived there he quickly alighted and for once made his way in the direction of that which had so forcibly attracted his attention. In an hour he was on the scene, excited and breathless, but took the precaution to spy around and take observations. Approaching one of the workmen he said, "Where the boss on the job?" to which he got the reply, "Harry Brown over there on that flag." After introducing himself to Mr. Brown he learned of the shipment on the previous day, and that the men who were now employed were converting the fallen and discarded apples into rich brown cider.

"But where are you getting the power to run that cider mill?" said Smith to Brown, as no fuel was apparently being consumed.

"Oh," replied Brown, "that fellow Dick Jones, behind that peculiar engine, is somewhat of a genius and he has constructed an ingenious device by which he can collect the exhaust steam from passing locomotives, store it, and so use it for motive power when desired."

"Very good! Very good," said Tom. "Jones is certainly a marvel.

About an hour later the cider-making stunt was completed and seven barrels stood in a row, each bearing its full capacity of apple juice. In the meantime Harry told Tom of the finding of the little apple tree near the railroad line, and of its subsequent wonderful development, but finally remarked that its origin was still a mystery.

Tom then quietly told his side of the story and the two shook hands and each considered the other as an old acquaintance. That evening Mr. Smith was the guest of Mr. Brown, and there was a grand time at that western farm house. Tom, Dick and Harry were present as representatives of the families of Smith, Jones and Brown respectively. Each had congratulations for the other, as Mr. Smith was the planter of the wonderful apple tree; Richard Jones was the inventor of a device for utilizing waste steam; and H. Brown was the fortunate owner of the most productive specimen of the apple kind. Next morning Tom went on his way rejoicing, while conditions returned to their normal state on the Brown homestead.

The two missing links in this story are that Jones did not patent his invention and become extremely wealthy, and that Tom Brown's sister did not marry Henry Brown's second son.

"Thus endeth the reading of today," and the reader is reminded that this long-drawn story is one which a single molecule of apple fiction may assume. What would happen if the full of a common kitchen saucepan were let loose, is entirely beyond computation. The writer now regrets having laboured so industriously for science, and honestly believes that stringent laws should be enacted to prohibit the writing of such stuff anyway, but her reward has been reached by being elected Big Squaw in the International Order of Prevaricators.

MISS FIDGETY.

THE CHOICE

A box of roses rich and rare
Was sent me on my natal day;
"Sweets to the sweet" the legend read
"You of all roses are most fair."
A smaller package held one rose;
I read: "This is the first to bloom,
The bush I tended, dearest Rose,
That you should breathe the first [illegible] perfume!"
I knew full well my lover rich
Could carelessly shower gifts on me;
I also knew the poorer one,
With his own hands wrought steadily,
And that I was the world to him;
His labor lightened by my smile.
I made my choice — and when he came
I met him without fear or guile.
He stooped to kiss my hand but I
(At the mere thought my heart still glows!)
Threw my arms fondly 'round his neck
And gave Love's kiss for that dear rose!

WITH THE RICE LAKE INDIANS THROUGH ALL THE PROCESSES OF GATHERING RICE HARVEST

Interesting Story Written for the Examiner by Mr. Fred L. Roy Who Secured Excellent Photographs of the Indians at Work

AN HISTORICAL HARVEST

Every autumn there assembles upon the shores and islands of Rice Lake a little band of harvesters to gather in the wild (black) rice. Sugar Island, near the mouth of Keene River, for years past has been the principal seat of operations, being in close proximity to one of the largest rice beds on the Lake. Here the braves of the Hiawatha and Alderville reserves, with their wives and families prepare towards the middle of September each year to reap one of nature's greatest blessings to the Indian, and there it was that the writer visited them on the 14th of September.

The start for the camp was made from the Indian village of Hiawatha, the home of the famous Indian runner, Fred Simpson, at day break on the yacht Bob Roy. The air was heavy and thick with smoke from the bush fires, so much so, in fact, that navigation was only possible with the aid of an Indian or a compass. Early as it was many of the villagers were on their way to work. Through the kindly aid of George Paudash and Dan Muskrat the trip was safely accomplished to Sugar Island. A strong east wind had in the meantime sprung up and was rapidly clearing the atmosphere of its enveloping veil of smoke and mist. On landing at the Island a strong objection was raised to the camera, as some of these people are naturally rather reserved, and dislike publicity of any kind. The difficulty was satisfactorily settled, however, by Chief Alfred Crowe and Mr. John Chase, a renowned hunting and fishing guide, undertook to pilot the party about and explain the modus operandi.

The process in this age of development and machinery is a most primitive one, and is the same as has been been used for centuries past by these

IDA WOMAN POSSESSES RARE SPECIMENS OF THE PRINTER'S ART OF A HUNDRED YEARS AGO; PICTURE OF NELSON'S FUNERAL BARGE

Mrs. W. H. Lough, Ida., has a collection of very old and interesting books, papers, pictures and letters that money couldn't buy. One book, entitled ("Trader's Companion," was printed 102 years ago. A copy of a newspaper called the "Peterborough Gazette," dated April 17th, 1847, has many items of news and advertisements of interest, much more so now on account of their age—sixty-three years. Mr. James Northey was publishing the paper for a company of proprietors. One advertisement noticed particularly was that of the stage from Lindsay to Peterborough. It started from the Log House Inn, John Davidson, proprietor. "Safe travelling with speed and comfort," was one of the phrases in the advertisement, and the advertisement date was Nov. 28th, 1846. Another item which will be of interest to the older residents was the return of wolf certificates, in 1845-6, as follows: Lorenzo Fulford, Fenelon; Cornelius McCarty, Emily; John Langton, Fenelon; Lorenzo Fulford, Fenelon; Henry York, Fenelon; Wm. Kidd, Dummer; Wm. Johnston, Emily; Jas. Umphry, Fenelon; Adolphus Pilkington, Mariposa; F. W. Stephenson, Bexley; Wm. Thornhill, Fenelon; Geo. Thompson, Mariposa.

Mrs. Lough has pictures dated July 1st, 1806 of the funeral barge conveying the body of Lord Nelson from Greenwich to White Hall, Jan. 8, 1806, also the funeral car of "Lord Nelson." She prizes her collection of ancient books and papers very much. She has a rare collection of stamps also.

THE MYSTERIOUS MR. E. WILL BEGIN OPERATIONS IN PETERBORO AT MIDNIGHT ON MONDAY OCT. 12th; AN EASY $50.00 FOR SOME LUCKY LOCAL PERSON

The announcement of the coming to Peterborough of the mysterious Mr. "E." in the interests of the Examiner and the intelligence that his presence in this city means $50 to some lucky person, has caused a great deal of excitement in Peterborough, and it is certain that there will be a lively chase after this perplexing young man.

The mysterious Mr. "E." will begin operations in Peterborough at midnight on Monday, Oct. 12th, and will defy capture until eight o'clock on the evening of Saturday, the 25th. He will move around the city, talk to the merchants, to the police and other prominent local figures, and will frequent the places where the most people are to be found. His whereabouts at certain times during the day will be published in the Examiner, so that everyone will have a good opportunity to get a line on this remarkable personage. The mysterious Mr. "E." is bound to be captured and if his identity is not detected before Saturday night he will give himself up to a policeman.

He will wear absolutely no facial disguise whatever, but will bring to Peterborough over thirty different costumes, which he will wear while here. The only way to do is to challenge every (smooth-faced) stranger you come across. Give him the correct salutation, "You are the mysterious Mr. "E." of the Peterborough Examiner," show him a copy of the last edition of the Examiner and if he is the right person he will

DIRECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH EXHIBITION ARE PREPARED TO SPEND $5,000 FOR THE GROUNDS

President Leary Speaks Of The Proposal to Purchase Them—Many Citizens Have Endorsed the Plan

FAIR ON A LARGER SCALE

"We are prepared to spend $5,000.00 on buildings for the Exhibition Grounds and have them ready for next autumn," said President Robert Leary, of the West Peterborough Agricultural Association, to-day. He is earnestly endeavouring to secure a long list of names for the purpose of presenting them to the Council, and has already met with an encouraging response from the citizens whom he has approached. They are showing that they are interested in Peterborough's Fair and are willing that the city should take over the property.

Mr. Leary was asked if he had any idea what the cost would likely be, and he replied that Mayor Rush had an option on the park which is considered quite favourable, but he had not mentioned the exact figures.

The intention of the Agricultural Society is to have the city purchase the park and to give the society the right to hold their fair the same as in the past. The directors are willing to improve the grounds as required and to make them second to none between Toronto and Ottawa. In this way the President says there is no doubt that Peterborough's Fair would go ahead in the future on a larger scale than is now dreamed of.

MUD SLINGING IS CONDEMNED

The Montreal Witness remarks with much truth in regard to the wholesale mud-throwing of the Opposition:—"As for the charges that have been made and the defence that has been offered it is to be remembered that it is easy to put an indictment in a single sentence that it would take volumes of evidence and intricate examination of facts to disprove, so that the mere declaration by a political prosecutor that nobody rose in meeting to accept his challenge and disprove his charges must be taken with reserve. More, indeed, can be put into an innuendo than any amount of denial can wipe out. It is not safe, therefore, to assume that because a great deal of mud is thrown some of it ought to stick."

SOCIAL AT ST. PETER'S T.A.S. ROOMS

The Athletic Club of St. Peter's T. A. S. have about completed arrangements for a social which will be held in the rooms on Monday night. The committee are endeavouring to provide an evening of genuine pleasure which will appeal to all young folks. A local elsewhere in this issue deals with the exact nature of the social.

THE SOUTH END OF PETERBORO WILL BE SURVEYED FOR SEWER PURPOSES

A survey of the southern portion of the city from the Canadian General Electric Company's plant south to the river and west to the boundary line or even further, will have to be made for sewer purposes before the city can hope to successfully overcome the present difficulties or to provide for the future growth. In brief the above is the opinion of Mr. Chipman, the sewer expert, engaged by the Board of Works to look over the proposed extension of the city's sewer system. Mr. Chipman is the best authority on sewers in the Dominion, and is consulted by the majority of cities and towns from Halifax to Vancouver. He arrived in the city Thursday night, and yesterday in company with the members of the Board of Works, drove over the southern part, which is not yet supplied with sewer service. He found that there has never been a survey of the greater portion of the district affected, and he would not make any recommendation until such work has been done.

A large part of the property is now outside the city limits, but as Mr. Chipman pointed out, the day is not far distant when all that land will be taken in and built upon. It will then be necessary to supply a sewer system. He says he sees wonderful signs of growth and development here. In fact it is going ahead at a rate superior to any other city of its size in the Dominion. At the present time the greatest growth is in the south ward, and it is bound to continue to grow there.

Mr. Chipman has therefore requested the Board of Works to recommend the Council at its next meeting to authorize the expenditure of sufficient money to have the survey work done. This will take about two weeks' time, and the expense will be nothing as compared with the value of the information. When Mr. Chipman has made the survey he will then advise the Board of Works of what course to pursue.

WALTER MOORE GOES TO MIMICO; FATHER SAYS HE IS INCORRIGIBLE

Walter Moore, an eleven-year-old boy, regarded by his parents and by the authorities as incorrigible, was sentenced to the Mimico Reformatory for Boys for an indefinite term not to exceed five years, by Magistrate Dumble on the charge of stealing a bicycle, the property of Albert Downer.

The boy pleaded guilty to the charge, Chief Rossel remarked that it was a remarkable case. Young Moore had taken the bicycle completely apart and had sold the frame to one dealer, and one of the wheels to another, while he hid the other. In one case the dealer had refused to buy the part without an order; whereupon the boy had written one himself.

His father, David G. Moore testified that he could do nothing with his son. There had been complaints that he stole and the witness knew that he lied. He had been expelled from school and the Board of Education refused to take him back.

The magistrate sentenced the boy to an indefinite term at Mimico, making an order that his father should pay one dollar per week towards his maintenance. The father strenuously objected. Other boys had been sent to the reformatory without any expense to their families.

The magistrate remarked that he should be ashamed of the course he was adopting. He was responsible for the boy's condition and should help to pay for him. It would cost the city of Peterborough $1.50 per week to maintain him at Mimico.

THE LONDON ADVERTISER of Sept. 23 has the following:—

The Toronto World has broken all precedents of the Conservative press by praising a Liberal politician before he is dead or out of public life. It says that those Conservatives who are minimizing Mr. Stratton's candidature in West Peterborough, or his influence in the Midland district, do not know their man, and it adds that when he was Provincial secretary it was admitted by friends and foes alike that he was a model administrator. "His career in business," it goes on to say, "gives ample evidence of his capacity. In the industrial and financial life of the Province Mr. Stratton is playing no small role, and it is a game that requires ability."

This tribute to Mr. Stratton as an administrator, if somewhat belated, is deserved, and it is a meed of justice to a much misrepresented man. No cabinet minister could have taken a keener and more unselfish interest in his public duties. He devoted to these all the ability and energy that had won him success in his private affairs. In fact, his conduct of his department was not at any time seriously challenged. He familiarized himself with the details of the management of the great institutions under his charge, and the condition in which he left them testified to his efficient, economical and business-like methods. The license laws also were vigilantly and impartially enforced while he was Provincial secretary. No charge, or even whisper, of maladministration was levelled against Mr. Stratton. The only thing urged against him was a story concocted by political adventurers, which was wholly discredited by the royal commission. In the Peterborough district, where he is best known and where his life is an open book, he is extremely popular. No man could hold the confidence and affections of his fellow-citizens in the same degree and for so long a period as Mr. Stratton has done, unless he had many of the best qualities of human nature.

CHARGED WITH NOT SUPPORTING WIFE; BROUGHT HOME BEER AND BISCUITS

Robt. Lingarde, an East City resident, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning in answer to a charge of non-support, brought against him by his wife. The case was enlarged for a week after the evidence had been heard in order to give the parties an opportunity to straighten matters out.

Mrs. Lingarde testified that she was married to her husband in 1890, and that up to nine weeks ago he had always supported her. In the past nine weeks, however, she had not received a cent from him, and had it not been for the three dollars a week board money from her son she would have had nothing to live on. Her husband, she said, brought home some biscuits and beer, but that was all. Her son corroborated this testimony.

The defendant admitted that he had given his wife no more in the last six weeks, but said that there was "provocation," and that she had never asked for it. Questioned as to what provisions he had brought into the home during that time, witness admitted that they were confined to several packages of Canada Flakes some soda biscuits and Graham wafers, a pound and one-half of cheese and a bottle of beer daily.

"Does your wife drink?" asked the magistrate.

"She has given up drinking beer, just as I have given up drinking tea," replied the witness.

"How much are you willing to pay her a week?" he was asked.

"I won't pay her a cent," was the emphatic reply.

The magistrate thought the matter could be arranged and gave the parties a week to think it over.

INDIAN BAND DRAWN BY YOKE OF OXEN ATTEND THE ROSENEATH FAIR

The Roseneath Fair was held yesterday and it proved a great success according to those who attended from Peterborough. The music, speeding in the ring events, and a three-mile road race were the features. The music was presented by the West End Alderville Band, but during the afternoon a visit from the Alderville Indian Band enlivened things somewhat. They came in comic costume in a waggon drawn by a yoke of oxen, and certainly captivated the crowd.

Hanlan Howard, a Hiawatha Indian, won the three-mile road race in 17 1-2 minutes. Wm. Smoke, another representative of historic redmen, finished second in 19 1-2 minutes. The other starters were E. Cummings and John McGill, who did not finish.

The speeding events attracted everybody, the matched race for $100 being the best. It was won by Mr. Godfrey's "Country Boy" by three firsts and one second in 1.40 for two-thirds of a mile. A broom handle stretching from the back-band along the outside of the horse's neck and past his nose to prevent bowing was an object of fun. Dr. Wilson's "Jessie Boy" finished second. The numbed race resulted as follows:

Sweet Marie; F Slade	1	1	1
Black Brino; Jos. Vassau	2	3	2
Little Ben; Dr. Hayden	3	2	3

Time, 1.39; 1-2 miles.

A COMBINATION OF HARD AND OF HAPPY LUCK; MONEY IS RETURNED

This morning Mr. Thomas A. Allum, of North Monaghan, experienced in rapid succession a run of hard and of happy luck. He withdrew $460 from one bank to be transferred to another. He put the roll of bills in his trousers pocket, which was not quite sound, for on his arrival at the second bank his money was missing. A search located $140 of the money in the leg of Mr. Allum's trousers—between the pocket and the boot, but the balance of $320 was gone. A man took to the police station a roll of bills amounting to $320. It proved to be Mr. Allum's money, and the honest finder was richer by a five dollar bill.

FRUIT RUSH ALMOST OVER FOR THE PRESENT SEASON; IT WAS SPLENDID WHILE IT LASTED

"The rush of fruit is about over for this season," remarked a leading dealer this morning, "but it has been one of the best seasons in years. The crop on the whole, has been very fair, and there has been no cause for complaint. The fruit has been well handled, and has met with ready sales."

It is stated that the pear crop this year was not nearly as good as last year. In Prince Edward County, where last year, there was a good crop, this year there is nothing to speak of. All the other fruits showed up remarkably well.

The express companies have had a very busy time, with the shipments, both companies here handling thousands of baskets, and this with the regular business has made them hustle. However, the fruit rush only lasts a few weeks.

SMALL BOYS LOOT HEN COOPS FOR A GRAND MIDNIGHT FOWL SUPPER

In spite of all the examples lessons that have been made of bad boys in the past they still continue in a course of lawlessness and petty crime which is certain to lead them into deeper water and finally land them behind stone walls. A Chamberlain street resident on Thursday night is reported to have had stolen from his premises five hens, and it is understood that they were taken by three boys who are experienced in work of this kind. After burying the chickens they tied away to the little wood on the top of Morrow's hill. Here they had a fowl supper which they prepared themselves. The hens were stripped of their feathers, cleaned, cooked and eaten. Whether they made away with the whole five is not known but those who have been losing fowl of late may find a possible explanation of the same from this affair.

FREAKISH LIGHTNING PERFORMS A PECULIAR STUNT WITH A BUGGY BOX AND A HORSE

Bancroft, Sept. 26.—Special.—Lightning in every storm lives up to its reputation so far as performing freaks are concerned. A curious freak is reported during an electric storm at Beaver Creek School House, where, during the Sunday service, a buggy belonging to Marshal Peterson was struck by lightning and the box torn off. The horse got away but was caught, and no further damage was done. This peculiar "stunt" seems to stand unrivalled here, although almost every man in the district is trying to beat it.

LAST NIGHTS MEETING.

Those who could read victory and triumph, for either Mr. Borden or the local Conservative candidate in last night's Conservative meeting in the Opera House, must indeed be gifted with an optimistic penetration of vision. There was, of course, a crowd, there were cheers and flag waving and enthusiasm, under excellent control, but the greater share did not, to employ the metaphor, fall to the lion, the jackal got the lion's share. The meeting was Roblin's, the applause was Roblin's, and without disrespect it was Roblin's meeting; he carried off the honours. Mr. Borden, who seemed to be fatigued, said his lines, but he put little life into his speech; it seemed to be lacking in fire, and to quote the London Advertiser which commenting on his speech in London, in concluded that a man who can put no fire into his speech should put his speech into the fire. But Mr. Roblin put fire enough for two into his philippics. In popular reception he eclipsed his chief completely. It is now easily seen why Mr. Borden has Mr. Roblin with him. Mr. Borden, if cold and passionless, is a gentleman—when he doesn't forget himself as he is daily becoming more prone to do—with a gentleman's instincts. In playing the political game he wants a man with him on the platform who will speak in a manner which Mr. Borden's sense of dignity and regard for the decencies of public debate would not permit him to employ. And in Mr. Roblin he has the man for his money. A more unfair and one-sided presentation of a case has never been heard here. A speaker who can select his own premises and furnish his own facts, should make a good case. A sample of this was given in his reference to a quoted remark of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in reference to the Merwin incident, in the Marine Department investigation. Wresting words from their context, Mr. Roblin put words into Sir Wilfrid's mouth and asserted that Sir Wilfrid condoned wrong doing, and said he would do it again, and this was applied to the whole muck-raking department of his speech, in which he rehashed the pet Conservative scandals, which have never reached the stage of charges presentable for investigation, and have been repeatedly disproved and exploded. This might have appealed to the unthinking and ignorant as it did last night. It appealed to party prejudice and even party applause. But with the thinking elector, Conservative as well as Liberal, who knows something about politics and has regard for playing even the game of politics with fairness and decency, the impression was bad. Mr. Roblin rather overshot the mark. But Mr. Roblin, who must play the roll assigned him, deserves credit for crude skill which he applies on the platform. The policy of slander and unfair attack of his party seems to have settled upon. Mr. Borden, who accepts the service of such weapons and on occasion employs them himself, must accept the responsibility as he will reap the results of such a policy.

LABOUR INTERESTS.

Since the Liberal Government began its term of office in 1896, its whole policy has been a leading up to the announcement Sir Wilfrid Laurier made at Berlin on Thursday that a responsible Minister would be appointed to take charge of the Department of Labour established by the Liberal Government in 1900, and since conducted by a deputy minister. This department is to be placed on the same footing of dignity and organization and effectiveness as the Department of Militia, Agriculture, Public Works, Railways and Canals, etc. The Department, under its own minister will be able to do more effectively the great work it has been doing since 1900, in promoting the interests of the working men and women of Canada, who are the greatest single factor in the building up of the Dominion. All the legislative and administrative machinery existing to-day in this country, are, it should be remembered, due only to Liberal initiative. All the legislation passed in the ostensible interest of labour by the Conservatives during their eighteen years of power was the act establishing Labour Day. It would require no small book to contain the record of the legislation and regulations passed and provided by the Liberal Government in the past twelve years in the interest of labour. Further details will be presented in these columns from time to time to show which party has done practically all that has been done to protect the rights, enlarge and safeguard the privileges and protect the person and health of the working classes, whose prosperity and welfare are the measure of the prosperity and welfare of the country at large.

HANNAS' SLANDER ANSWERED.

The Conservative candidate in West Peterborough finds himself in congenial company with Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial secretary, who in order to score a petty political point doesn't hesitate to vilify and insult the natives of England, Ireland and Scotland, who seek a home in Canada. Hon. Mr. Hanna is doing a good deal of speaking with Mr. Borden, the Conservative leader, in this campaign. His makes sweeping statements such as have been duplicated, on his authority no doubt, in the local Conservative journal in the interest of the Conservative candidate in West Peterborough. No "foreigner," that is, no Englishman, Irishman or Scotchman has any right to come to Canada. They have been denounced in mass as paupers, idiots, insane, diseased and dissolute, and condemnation of the Government has been demanded because these people have been allowed to land in Canada. It would not be so bad if the truth were told, but Hon. Mr. Hanna has been making sweeping statements whose unreliability has been shown by the records of the Department in the charge.

In his speech at Pembroke, Hon. Hanna, sought to make political capital against the Federal Government by reason of what he termed the enormous increase in the cost to the Province of the maintenance of the "foreign-born" in the asylums and the prisons of the Province.

This is not the first occasion upon which Mr. Hanna has made these statements, and it is not likely to be the last, for it is the piece de resistance of his speech.

But the trouble is that when compared with the actual figures and contrasted with the facts, the Provincial Secretary is found to be guilty of deliberate misrepresentation, not to use the stronger term of deliberate falsehood.

In order that the case against Mr. Hanna may be complete, it will be advisable to reproduce from the report in a Conservative newspaper, that which he said at Pembroke on this subject.

He found he said, that in the last five years the foreign element had increased in the Province of Ontario by 20 per cent. If the Dominion Government had exercised reasonable supervision of the class of immigrants coming to the country the increase in the foreign element at the asylums and at the Central prison would be 20 per cent. But instead of such an increase it was shown that in the five years between 1903 and 1908 the increase had been about 90 per cent.

Taking these figures as his basis and using the calculation that each of these "foreign-born" unfortunates would require attention for twenty years at an average cost of $300 a year, Mr. Hanna asserted that, as a consequence of the increase in the "foreign-born" population of our asylums and jails, the Province was burdened with a liability of $1,200,000 for the last year alone.

At the outset it must be stated that the Provincial Secretary, according to his own statement, places all persons born out of Canada within the category of "foreign-born." Any man or woman who has been unfortunate enough to lose his or her reason, or who has been guilty of an infraction of the laws of the country to such a degree as to warrant commitment to prison is, if born in England, Scotland, Ireland or any other country classed as "foreign-born," no matter how many years he or she may have been in this country. A resident of Canada for fifty years is placed on the same footing as a resident of fifty days.

What are the facts of the case as gleaned from the official records?

In the first place, Mr. Hanna complains that the Dominion Government has not exercised efficient supervision over immigration.

As a matter of fact, it was not until the year 1902 that any system of inspection of immigrants was instituted in Canada. Previous to that during all the 18 years of Conservative rule, and during the first five years of Liberal administration there was no adequate system of inspection. To-day there is an efficient body of inspectors both at all the ocean ports and along the international boundary, until the point has been reached where Canada has a much more stringent system of inspection than has the United States.

The census of 1901 gave 3.3 as the ratio per thousand of the insane in Ontario of whom 2.5 were in asylums.

In 1906-07-08 there arrived in Ontario 155,460 immigrants. In those years the insane immigrants numbered 130, so that assuming that all of these arrived since 1906 it is seen that the ratio of insane per 1,000 is only 0.7 instead of the Ontario average of 3.3, and this in spite of the mental stress of leaving home, of getting work in a new country, with all the inevitable disappointments and homesickness.

And it is important to note that of these 130 insane admissions, 64 were deported, leaving only .4 per thousand of insane.

The United States had an immigration in the year 1906 of 1,285,349, and only deported 367 as insane, thus proving clearly that the system of inspection in Canada is much more stringent than it is across the border.

An examination of the records of the individual asylums of Ontario proves the falsity of Mr. Hanna's statements.

Mimico asylum had an insane population of 539 on January 1, 1907, From January 1, 1906, to May 1, 1908, 28 months, 394 patients were admitted into this asylum, of whom 212 were natives of Canada, 39 English, 29 Irish, 8 Scotch, 4 from the United States and 21 from other countries, making a total of 93 born outside of Canada. Of these 12 were deportable under the Immigration Act and were deported; and 3 other cases are being investigated. THE BALANCE OF 77 WERE NOT DEPORTABLE, AS THEY WERE OLD PEOPLE WHO HAD LIVED LONG IN CANADA, IN SOME CASES AS LONG AS 30 AND 40 YEARS.

In Brockville Asylum on January 1, 1907, there were 661 inmates. From January 1, 1906, to May 1, 1908, twenty-eight months, 344 people were admitted. Of these 317 were natives of Canada, 10 were English, 4 Irish, 4 Scotch, 3 from the United States, and 6 from foreign countries. ALL OF THESE, WITH TWO EXCEPTIONS, HAD BEEN IN CANADA FOR MANY YEARS.

Hamilton Asylum had an inmate population on January 1, 1907, of 1,083. From January 1, 1906, to May 1, 1908, 385 were admitted. Of that number 271 were Canadian born and 114 were born in other countries. Of these five were deported and arrangements were made for deporting another. THE BALANCE, 108, were NOT DEPORTED, HAVING BEEN IN CANADA FOR MANY YEARS. For instance, of the 23 Irish admitted in these 28 months only three were younger than 40 years and 16 were over 50.

In Toronto Asylum on January 1, 1907, the inmates numbered 832. About 660 were admitted during the 28 months, taken as a basis of calculation. Of these 167 were born out of Canada. Three of these died in the asylum; 39 were deported; 37 had been in Canada too long to deport; 18 had families resident in Canada, and 173 had been many years in the country, certainly over 20 years.

Even more striking are the statistics in reference to the commitments to jails in Ontario.

In 1901 the immigration into Canada totalled 49,149. Of these Ontario received 6 208, and in that year the jail commitments were 8,546.

In 1902 the figures were: Total immigration, 67,379; immigration to Ontario, 9,798; jail commitments, 8,280.

1903—Total immigration, 128,364; to Ontario, 14,854; jail commitments, 9,261. 1904—Total immigration, 130,331; to Ontario, 21,266; jail commitments, 10,146. 1905—Total immigration, 146,266; to Ontario, 35,811; jail commitments, 11,035. 1906—Total immigration, 189,064; to Ontario, 52,745; jail commitments, 10,810. 1907—Total immigration, 252,038; to Ontario, 70,060; jail commitments 11,804.

SO THAT WHILE THE INCREASE OF IMMIGRATIO; INTO ONTARIO FROM 1901 TO 1907 WAS 110 PER CENT. THE INCREASE IN THE JAIL COMMITMENTS WAS ONLY 12 PER CENT.

Another analysis of the asylum figures shows how baseless are Mr. Hanna's statements.

In Toronto Asylum in 1901 the proportion of Canadians was 58 per cent., and "foreign-born," 42 per cent. In 1907 the figures were: Canadians, 56 per cent.; "foreign-born," 44 per cent.

In Hamilton the proportions were: 1901, Canadians, 80 per cent.; others 20 per cent. 1907, Canadians, 72; others, 28.

At London the proportions were: 1901, Canadians, 70 per cent.; others, 30 per cent. 1907, Canadians, 73 per cent.; others, 27 per cent.

At Brockville the proportions were even more striking: 1901, Canadians, 82 per cent.; others, 18 per cent. 1906, the last date available, Canadians, 92 per cent.; others, 8 per cent.

Thus proving clearly that THE RATIO OF INSANE POPULATION HAS NOT KEPT PACE WITH THE INCREASE IN IMMIGRATION.

It is the sturdy English, Irish and Scotch that laid the foundations of civilization on this continent. Nine-tenths of the people now have English, Irish or Scotch blood in their veins and it is rather late in the day for Hon. Mr. Hanna and the Conservative candidate to denounce the races that have made Canada, as paupers and to deny them a chance to earn a livlihood on the fertile acres of this country. The depths to which some petty politicians will descend to gain a petty political advantage are wonderful.

THE POLICY OF SLANDER.

After describing the magnificent manner of man Sir Wilfrid is, The Winnipeg Free Press continues:

"This is the man who, in the supposed interests of a political party, is to be assaulted by half the newspapers and half the platform speakers of Canada as a cheap, conscienceless schemer, the hair-lened leader of a gang of brigands, the associate and defender of boodlers and thieves—unscrupulous, crafty, dishonest, without a grain of public conscience or regard for the obligations of his position. It is disgraceful that a political party should resort to such methods of political warfare; but what a reflection it is on the whole community that a party should deem such methods effective! The disgrace of the present campaign of slander and scandal attaches to the whole nation, because it should not be tolerated in any community which claims to be civilized; and the Canadian electors must rebuke the promoters in the most emphatic manner if Canada is not to suffer a reputation in the judgment of the enlightened both at home and abroad."

The sole policy of the Conservative party in West Peterborough is scandal and abuse. It won't go down with decent electors, either Conservative or Liberal. The Conservative party which plumes itself on being the party of gentlemen must be sunk pretty low when it resorts to the sewer for its inspiration of statesmanship.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is to be noted that at last night's meeting in the Opera House to which two of the leaders of the Conservative party were brought to bolster up the Conservative nominee neither Mr. Borden nor Hon. Mr. Roblin gave one word of countenance or endorsation, or even mention of the Conservative candidate's bitter and irrelevant personal attack on the Liberal candidate. Seeing that this attack formed the sum and substance, the beginning and the end of his opening campaign speech, the silent contempt of Mr. Burnham's distinguished friends, shows that they don't take any stock in such discreditible campaign tactics.

BRILLIANT R. GANTHONY

Author of A Brace of Partridges, Brother of Man Who Penned A Message From Mars

Played at London, Eng., Gayety in Sir Henry Irving's Company—Will be Seen at the Grand, Wednesday Sept. 30th.

Robert Ganthony, who is to star here on the evening of Sept. 30 in Chambers' delightful and refreshing comedy, "The Tyranny of Tears," possesses virile and healthy views as to tendencies of the present day stage, and these he readily imparted in an interview.

"I think the future now for high class comedies, such as are thoroughly and naturally clean, is bright. I think the public is gradually moving away from so much musical comedy, which generally has no plot or anything else, and simply is disguised vaudeville, and the time is coming for comedy of the very diverting and humourous class, and, above all, well written, not nonsense.

"It is my object to bring out a number of plays like this, which will be well acted, with good comedy, full of fun, and so good that anybody can come to see them; and I think the people will back them up."

A brother of the actor interviewed, Richard by name, wrote "A Message from Mars," which was played here last winter, and which has been one of the standard plays.

Robert himself played in Sir Henry Irving's company when it was in the heyday of success at the Gayety in London, Eng. He also played at the Alhambra, the Palace, and in French at L'Alhambra, in Paris. As a refined entertainer, which line he followed for a number of years later, he travelled all over the world, once playing before the late King and Queen of Denmark, this at Copenhagen.

He has written six books, including one standard volume on ventriloquism. A play from his pen, entitled "A Brace of Partridges," achieved quite a success in England and the States some years ago.

WITH RICE LAKE INDIANS THROUGH PROCESSES OF GATHERING RICE HARVEST

tribes who claim the sole right to gather the rice.

Briefly it may be subdivided into five operations—1, Gathering; 2, Drying; 3, Parching; 4, Threshing, and 5, Sifting. The gatherers take sheets and lay them in the bottoms of the canoes and start for the rice beds or fields. On entering them the man in the bow alone paddles and guides the canoe and the woman in the stern takes up two sticks about three feet long. With one of these she bends the stalks over the canoe and strikes from above with the other loosening the rice and causing it to drop into the sheet. Up and down the beds the boats go, the one paddling and the other beating, the paddler with his gun in close reach ready for a swing shot at any moment, as these beds are the natural feeding place for numberless wild duck. This continues until the boat is nearly full when it is taken to shore, the sheets gathered up and spread out in the sun to dry. In the hot sun this only takes a few hours and it is then ready for the parching. This is usually done by the women, who place it in a large iron pot and heat it over a slow fire, stirring it continually until it is "parched." This takes some time, as dry as it may have seemed after the sun drying, the clouds of steam arising from it give evidence of the amount of moisture it has absorbed.

The threshing comes next, and is done by one of the men putting it in an iron pot or large wooden bowl hollowed out of a log, and with moccasins on his feet and his trousers tied tightly around his ankles, he jumps on it, until the grain is entirely separated from the chaff.

It is then ready for the next and last operation, that of sifting, and is poured into birch bark baskets, in small quantities and squatting down in front of the tents—on the shore—under the trees, or any place where there is a good breeze, the women gently shake it around in the wind until the lighter chaff is separated from the grain and is blown away by the wind. Crude as it may seem it is exceedingly attective and these people are scrupulously clean throughout the whole process.

Taking place as it does entirely in the open air, with the natural setting of lake and wood it is most picturesque and interesting.

The rice when properly prepared and cooked has a delicious flavour, differing greatly from the cultivated article. The Indians keep much of it for their own use, selling the balance in large quantities at Keene, Harwood and other points.

The harvest this year has been the heaviest known in years. With it and the big catch of muskrat this spring the industrious Indian may look forward to an easy winter.

The Examiner is indebted to Mr. Fred Roy for the contribution of the above article. He and party spent a few days securing pictures of rice-harvesting scenes which have been shown in his display window.

USUAL JOKE ABOUT THE IRISH

Writer Says It is Time References to "Pat and Mike" Were Eliminated From Public Addresses

IT CAUSES HUMILIATION

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I wonder if the Conservative members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians laughed with the rest of the crowd when Mr. Burnham and Mr. Roblin worked into their speeches stories that throw discredit upon the Irish race. I have noticed none of them making any objection to these cheap jokes, which cannot but make a true Irishman, whether a member of this society or not, feel that he has been humiliated by these mean and pointless references to a race that has given the world some of the brightest lights in every path of life. Surely it is time that these stories were eliminated from public addresses. Why are the Irish to bear the brunt of these belittling remarks, and why should they be dragged into a political address which will be an insult to those Irishmen who are in the audience? And the manner in which they were told was most ridiculous. But apart from that there is no reason for their being told at all, and it is time that Irishmen show their disapproval of these jokes in no uncertain manner.

Yours truly, Mr. Editor,

COMMON DECENCY.

MR. STRATTON'S EXPLANATORY REPLY

To Home Life Criticisms---A Private Business Matter Entirely Outside of Politics

Mr. Stratton at a meeting in the Liberal committee rooms in the course of an address said:

The Review and Mr. Burnham seemed to want to make this campaign turn on the business of the Home Life. The management of the Home Life was a matter among the directors, shareholders and policyholders, and as Mr. Burnham was not fortunate enough to have a place on the board of directors, or a share of stock, or a policy in the Association, the interest he was taking was very neighbourly and affecting—almost as pathetic as his interest in labour conditions in his address to the electors. (Applause.) So far as he (Mr. Stratton) was concerned there was nothing to conceal. All these matters had been fully discussed by the shareholders at the annual meetings, and by the directors at the meeting of the board, and both were thoroughly satisfied with the amalgamation, and endorsed the course of action which the Review was now vainly trying to make a scandal of. While he was not in the habit of talking in public over his business affairs, circumstances made it advisable that he should take them into his confidence and give them the facts.

While he was Provincial Secretary, he was asked by a number of Conservative business men to take the presidency of the People's' Life Insurance Company. They were Mr. D. W. Karn, piano and organ manufacturer of Guelph, a strong Conservative; Mr. C. Kloepfer, a large manufacturer of Guelph, and at that time Conservative member for the Dominion House of Commons; the late Mr. T. P. Coffee, another Conservative, and other gentlemen who were also Conservatives, as was also the managing director. With the understanding that he would not be expected to devote much time to the duties, he (Mr. Stratton) accepted the presidency, but the company was not succeeding as he would have liked. As soon as he retired from the Provincial Secretaryship, Mr. Stratton took rooms at the King Edward Hotel, and the following morning took the chair of the President of the Peoples' Life. Within a very short time there was a change in every official of the company. A new Managing Director was appointed and under Mr. Stratton's presidency, $40,000 was saved to the company within the year. Mr. J. K. McCutcheon was appointed Managing Director, and there were some additions to the board. Subsequently, the managing director began negotiations for the amalgamation of the Peoples' Life and the Home Life, a certain sum to be paid for certain stock of the Home Life. It was found that the President and Vice-President of the Home Life had salary contracts for a long period of years. It was agreed to commute these contracts by the payment of a lump sum. The negotiations were conducted by the solicitors of each company, acting for their respective boards. The commutation was figured out as life insurance is figured, on an actuarial basis, and everything was done in a legal and regular way, and ratified by the boards of the two companies. Then the question arose as to providing the money to provisionally complete the business of amalgamation. This matter was discussed and it was felt that everybody could not raise $80,000 on short notice, and he (Mr. Stratton) was in a position to come to the rescue and provide the money. This he did by raising $90,000 on his personal cheque. When he was made fully aware of what was being obtained for the $90,000 he declined to pay over that amount as had been agreed, believing it was $10,000 in excess of what he considered a fair and reasonable sum for the consideration involved. The sum of $80,000 was finally accepted by those acting for the Home Life. That was late on a Friday afternoon. When he, Mr. Stratton, had paid the $80,000 under the revised agreement, he had $10,000 of his own money, raised on his own cheque, in his own pocket. He deposited it on the following morning in the Bank of Montreal to his own credit. The Manager of the Peoples' Life knew the amount that was paid, the Directors knew the amount that was paid. Some of the Directors of the Home Life stated they were not conversant with all the details, but that was before the new board had taken possession, and some of the Directors of the Home Life had resigned to make way for the proposed new board, which comprised some members of each of the old boards. The agreement as to the commutation, etc., was subsequently amended according to his (Mr. Stratton's) ideas, and $80,000 was the only amount involved in the final stage of the business, although the papers had been prepared for $90,000. Thus the amalgamated companies were saved $10,000 by the course he (Mr. Stratton) had taken. Business transactions of such a magnitude are not completed in a day or a week,—it took time. The Royal Commission met in October, 1906. The evidence taken regarding all insurance companies was published broadcast in the press. The first annual meeting of the Home Life following the investigation was held in February, 1907. Representatives were invited from all over the country, including shareholders and policyholders. There was a large attendance. The details of the amalgamation and the affairs of the Company were fully discussed, and it was moved by Mr. J. C. Stevenson, capitalist, of Vancouver, B. C., seconded by Mr. McPhillips, one of the largest shareholders, of Toronto, both Conservatives,

"That the thanks of the shareholders and policyholders be extended to the Board of Directors, agents and officers of the Association for the successful work accomplished by them during the past year."

This resolution was carried unanimously.

The Home Life, prior to his (Mr. Stratton's) becoming president, had the lowest earning record for investments of any company. That was three years ago. Last year, through a change of methods of investment, and by economy in management, it stood fifth in the Government returns as to the earning power of its investments. At the next meeting it was moved by Rev. Mr. Gee, Methodist Minister, Brantford, a large shareholder, and seconded by Mr. D. W. Karn, owner of the Woodstock Express, Conservative journal,

"That in view of the excellent statement of the investments of the Association, and the business received, an honorarium be given the President for his services during the past year, the amount to be $3,000."

This resolution was unanimously carried. Mr. Stratton said that it was to be remembered that he did not receive any stated salary from the Home Life, the shareholders at the annual meetings voting whatever amount they think to be a proper recognition of services rendered and work accomplished. It was also to be remembered that he did not receive from either the Peoples' Life or the Home Life or any other source, any amount in consideration of the risk he took in personally advancing $80,000 in the interest of both companies.

He had referred to the publication broadcast in the press of the evidence taken by the commission in the fall of 1906. Subsequently the Royal Commission issued its report with its comments, "the most unfair, the most unjust and most biased document he ever saw, not only to the Home Life but to the Canada Life, the Sun Life, the Manufacturers' Life, the Confederation Life, and other Life Companies. However, he brought the matter of the report again to the attention of the shareholders at the following annual meeting, and where the facts were best known, and it was moved by Rev. Mr. Sileox, seconded by Mr. McPhillips,

"That the thanks of the shareholders and policyholders be extended to the President and Board of Directors, officers and agents, for the excellent work performed by them during the past year."

The resolution was carried unanimously.

It was subsequently moved by Rev. Mr. Haslewood,

"That in view of the excellent statement of the condition of the Company, the President be given for his services during the past year, the sum of $2,000."

This resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr. Stratton said he might state, that at the meeting of 1907, the Hon. J. W. Longley, Minister of Justice, Nova Scotia, representing the shareholders from the Maritime Provinces, Mr. J. H. Spencer, capitalist, Medicine Hat, representing western shareholders, Mr. J. S. Hough, K.C., of Winnipeg, representing Manitoba, were at his (Mr. Stratton's) request invited to be present at the last three annual meetings, to inspect the books and documents of the Company, which they did thoroughly, and expressed their entire satisfaction with everything. The Board of Directors invite each shareholder to look for himself if he chooses, into the affairs and management of the Company. Why, there is nothing to hide from either Mr. Burnham or Mr. Kendry, nothing to prevent their examining the books. Mr. Stratton said he never controlled the stock of The Home Life, he didn't control policyholders or shareholders, but he had their confidence, as a result of the painstaking attention he had given to the affairs of the Company. He did not need to pay any attention to the criticisms of Mr. Burnham. It was purely a Home Life matter, a question that concerned the directors, shareholders and policyholders alone. If they were satisfied neither Mr. Burnham nor anybody else had any reason to complain. He (Mr. Stratton) had no control over the Board of Directors. They were free to act as they saw fit. The two vice-presidents of the Company were Conservatives. Eleven out of the fifteen directors were prominent Conservatives in their own localities; four of the five members of the Advisory Board were Conservatives. He held a number of important positions on various boards throughout Ontario. He held in trust for important persons various affairs of large magnitude, absolutely and solely matters of trust. The shareholders of the Peterborough Lock Company were not afraid to trust him with their cheque book; neither were the shareholders of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. In all the affairs and various business activities in which he was engaged he was surrounded by Conservatives and there was not a man of them but would say that all his dealings had been invariably honest and above board and in the best interests of those concerned and as a result he had always been elected to the responsible positions which he held without a dissentient voice—always unanimously.

Mr. Burnham had shown himself in his campaign to be willing to ignore the discussion of public issues and confine himself to personal attacks. He was advanced to his present position on the Review for that purpose. Mr. Stratton said that so far as he was concerned he would pursue opposite tactics, he would ignore personal abuse and discuss public issues. He could see by the faces of his audience, by their applause and kindly reception that their sympathies were with him in such a course, and he felt sure that they represented in this respect a large majority of the electors. He believed the workingmen, the business men, the farmers and other gentlemen of West Peterborough, would measure Mr. Burnham by the "walking" stick the Young Conservative Club had presented him with when he was leaving Peterborough a short time ago to learn high morals at the feet of Hon. Geo. E. Foster. No man should complain if the world measured him by his own yard stick. It might be hard but it was fair. (Applause).

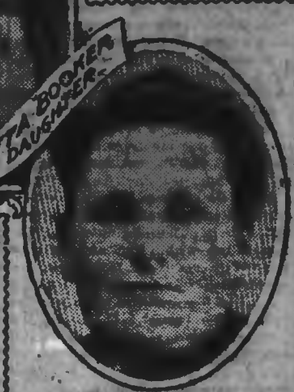
ONE OF THE HAPPY HOMES IN CANADA WHERE PE-RU-NA IS USED IN THE FAMILY.

A Great Many Mothers Have Discovered That a Few Doses of Peruna Given at The Right Time Prevent Much Sickness.

The fatality of acute diseases during hot weather among children, is well-known to the medical profession. From year to year the average practicing physician changes his tactics and his remedies. One year the physician uses certain remedies with confidence and enthusiasm. The next year he is liable to adopt new remedies. But through all the changing vicissitudes of the medical profession in their treatment of infantile ailments, Dr. Hartman has clung with unwavering confidence to Peruna. Thus it is that Peruna has become a household word in many thousand families. In catarrhal derangements of the bowels resulting in summer complaint, diarrhoea and sometimes cholera infantum, a few doses of Peruna given in the early stages check the disease before it has reached a threatening severity. Many mothers, from Canada to Mexico, give cheerful testimony to the benefit of Peruna in the many catarrhal ailments to which the family is liable, both summer and winter.



Mrs. Etta Booker, Dundurn, Sask., N. W. T., Can., writes: "I suffered with internal catarrh until I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and after taking treatment as he advised I can say I am now cured of this most trying affliction, for which I am truly thankful. I think Peruna the best medicine for catarrh. I never felt better in my life than I do at present."

In a later letter Mrs. Booker says: "I can truthfully say from experience Peruna is a most wonderful medicine, and in the case of my little daughter, Miss Booker, it did all I could wish for, and I am entirely willing that you may publish a testimonial in regard to her cure."

Ailing Children.

Mrs. Schopfer, 5920 Prescott Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"In the early part of last year I wrote to you for advice for my daughter Alice, four years of age. She was a puny, sickly, ailing child since she was born. She had convulsions and catarrhal fevers.

"I was always doctoring until we commenced to use Peruna. She grew strong and well.

"Peruna is a wonderful tonic; the best medicine I have ever used.

"I was in a very wretched condition when I commenced to take Peruna. I had catarrh all through my whole body, but thank God, your medicine set me all right. I would not have any other medicine.

"Peruna cured my baby boy of a very bad spell of cold and fever. He is a big, healthy boy fifteen months old. I have given him Peruna off and on since he was born. I think that is why he is so well.

"I cannot praise Peruna enough. We have not had a doctor since we began to use Peruna—all praise to it."

Child Now Healthy.

Mrs. G. W. Heard, of Howth, Texas, writes to Dr. Hartman in regard to her baby girl, Ruby:

"My little girl was two years old this January. She had some derangement of the bowels. She was a mere skeleton, and we did not think she would ever get well.

"She had been sick three or four months, and after giving her less than one bottle of Peruna she was sound and well.

"I found the Peruna splendid for wind colic, with which she was troubled when she began to improve in strength and appetite.

"Now she has a good appetite and is a picture of health."

Baby With Indigestion.

Mrs. J. M. Brown, Dunnegan, Mo., writes:

"My little daughter, three years old, was troubled with a very bad cough, which remained after an attack of catarrhal fever, which was a great deal worse at night. She would wake up out of her sleep and cough until I feared she could not stand it. Nothing that we gave her seemed to do her any good.

"I then concluded to send for Dr. Hartman's book, entitled 'The Ills of Life,' which I promptly received. I at the same time commenced giving her Peruna. She has taken one bottle in all, through which she has obtained a complete cure.

"She also since her birth was troubled with indigestion, but since she has taken Peruna she can eat almost any kind of food without any bad results.

"She is now as well and happy as any little girl can be. When our friends say how well she looks, I tell them Peruna did it. I shall always be a friend of Peruna, as I consider it the best medicine for coughs and indigestion we have ever tried, and will recommend it to any one similarly afflicted."

Child Benefited by Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Frits Roethe, Pinckneyville, Ill., writes:

"I feel real well, and am glad I am able to say this. One of my children had a fever for five months, nothing would help him. The doctor said it was malarial fever, but his medicine did not help him at all.

"I then gave him Peruna, and it helped him immediately, and so far he has not had another attack of it.

"When I wrote to Dr. Hartman I was unable to do my housework, now I am entirely relieved."

RECENT WORK OF THE SCIENTIFIC MEN MAY SOLVE THE SUN SPOT MYSTERY

By PROF. GARRET P. SERVISS

It looks as though the mystery that has so long hung over the nature of the spots on the sun, and their action upon the magnetism of the earth and the character of the weather, is at last about to be cleared up. This is not to say that the solution is yet complete, or that nothing still remains to be discovered. But what has recently been done is of immense significance. Professor Zeeman has just announced the opinion that sun spots are strong magnetic fields, their direction being mainly perpendicular to the sun's surface. His opinion is based upon the new observation of Professor Hale at Mount Willson, California, on the double lines in the sunspot spectra.

The phenomena observed have already been produced, on a small scale, in the laboratory. When a source of light is placed in a magnetic field it emits, parallel to the lines of magnetic force, two rays circularly polarized in opposite directions. Each spectral line of the light is split up into a doublet, one polarized clockwise, the other anti-clockwise.

Now, the sunspot lines that have been photographed by Professor Hale are identical in character with these lines observed in the laboratory. Professor Zeeman says that the behaviour of a spectral line emitted by iron vapor between the poles of an electro-magnet cannot be distinguished from the radiation of iron vapor immersed in the interior of a sunspot vortex, although the latter is situated at a distance of nearly ninety-three million miles from the observer on the earth. To produce the phenomena observed and photographed on the sun he estimates that a current of 5,000 amperes would be necessary. In this case of a sunspot containing a circular conducting disk of gaseous matter equal in diameter to the earth, this current would be distributed over the whole area, so that, says Professor Zeeman, notwithstanding the great aggregate magnitude of the current, the sunspot vortex would not be too crowded with electrons, even if the magnetic force to be accounted for were much higher. A sunspot vortex equal in diameter to the earth is, it may be remarked, of extremely moderate dimensions. Many greatly exceed this size.

Professor Zeeman has long been in expectation of some such discovery as that now made by Professor Hale. His laboratory experiments on the magnetic separation of spectral lines had led him to the conviction that a cosmical application of the principle would some day be discovered by astronomers. Professor Hale's discovery appears to come exactly in line with what had been looked for.

The importance of all this can hardly be exaggerated. It throws a great light upon some of the most puzzling phenomena in meteorology and terrestrial magnetism, "affording," says Professor Zeeman, "a vera causa for the perturbation of the electric and magnetic equilibrium of our earth and its atmosphere."

The whole subject gathers interest from the fact that the late Lord Kelvin could not be persuaded to believe that the sun is responsible for "magnetic storms" on the earth, and rejected, in general terms, the theory of a connection between sunspots and terrestrial meteorology. His chief difficulty was to understand how sufficient electric energy could be generated in the sun to produce the observed phenomena at a distance of ninety-three million miles. But Professor Zeeman's comparisons of laboratory results with what evidently occurs on the sun show that the requisite force not only exists, but that it is probably amenable to more or less exact measurement.

As to the origin of the force which makes a sunspot a "magnetic field," Professor Hale has suggested that a segregation of positively or negatively charged particles caught in the stream of a solar vortex would give rise to lines of magnetic force at right angles to the plane of the swirl. Before sending his photographs to Professor Zeeman, and inviting the latter to give his opinion concerning their meaning, Professor Hale himself proposed the same explanation which has been adopted by the great European physicist.

It is a tremendous picture that is presented to the imagination by the great sunspot vortexes with which these discoveries are concerned. In one case a whirl that was photographed at Mount Wilson drew into itself, as a whirlpool in water might draw in floating foam, a dark flocculus which was situated at a distance of 87,000 miles from the centre of the sunspot! The whirling motion itself, from which the electro-magnetic phenomena arise, is believed to originate in the rotation of the sun combined with the varying rotational velocity in matter shot up to great heights, and then sinking back again.

The terrific power of a sunspot was sufficiently indicated by the vortex above mentioned. The dark flocculus had lain more than 87,000 miles from the centre of the spot for a week. Then its form and position began gradually to change, and on June 3 last, in an interval of about ten minutes, it was suddenly drawn into the spot. After it had fallen under the influence of the tremendous suction its measured velocity was more than sixty-five miles per second! Before that it had been quiescent, lying apparently just beyond the edge of the gigantic maelstrom.

The mysterious Mr. "E." was the sensation of the Western Fair at London, Ont., where he fooled 150,000 people during the six days in which he operated. It might look easy to capture such an individual in a city of Peterborough's size, but there is a surprise in store for the citizens when Mr. "E." is turned loose amongst them. He is not a bit afraid of being caught in a hurry and is preparing to give local people the time of their life when they start out after him.

Don't forget the salutation, "You are the mysterious Mr. "E." of the Peterborough Examiner." Once he is hailed thus and shown a copy of the Examiner, he will acknowledge his identity.

He will operate in Peterborough under the direction of his managers, L. Hayden O'Connor and George Felix Green, who are the originators of the mysterious Mr. "E." and who guarantee that that smooth-faced young man will not be easy to capture.

Information as to his characteristics and appearance will be given in the Examiner when the contest opens so that there is no excuse for anyone not getting out after him. Full particulars are given in an advertisement in this issue.

None of the employees of the Examiner will be allowed to compete for the prize offered for his capture.

The annual show of the Ross-shire Horticultural Society was held in the Masonic Hall, Dingwall. Mrs. Stewart-Mackenzie performed the opening ceremony.

AN ARTICLE ON EDUCATION

By MR. BARTON EARLE.

"Truth is within ourselves; it takes no rise
From outward things, whate'er you may believe.
There is an inmost centre in us all,
Where truth abides in fulness; and around,
Wall upon wall, the gross flesh hems it in,
This perfect, clear perception—which is truth.
A baffling and perverting carnal mesh
Binds it, and makes all error; and to KNOW
Rather consists in opening out a way
Whence the imprisoned splendour may escape,
Than in effecting entry for a light Supposed to be without."
—Paracelsus.

Education, as the word implies, is a leading out, and the best educator is he who makes circumstances most favourable for the development of the light within. Knowledge imparted by a teacher, or obtained from any outward source whatever, can do little to aid intellectual development, and does in the development of the soul.

Man, the highest of created beings, or, to use the language of the New Theology, the highest manifestation of the Universal Soul, is a Cosmos, a little Universe in himself. In him exists, potentially, the highest perfection. There is nothing outside of him that is not within him, and his capabilities of expansion are limitless. He can develop, but he cannot be added to. He is foreshadowed in the strata, and, in his inmost self, he catches glimpses of a higher life. He is the culminating manifestation of God, in this world; but, in his soul, he knows that he is capable of infinite advancement. How high, and how sacred, then, is the subject with which we have to deal, and with what reverence it should be approached!

In a previous article, I stated that the intellect is concerned with the present life, and shares the fate of the body. By this, I do not mean that, so far as the soul is concerned, the life that now is serves no purpose. Rather, I would say with Rabbi Ben Ezra, "Nor soul helps flesh more, now, than flesh helps soul." Though all that pertains to this life, only, may perish, the effects of this life on the soul will remain forever.

When Brutus speaks of "the genius and the mortal instruments," he does not mean the intellect and the physical organs, but man's lower and higher natures. The tendency of one is downward and earthly, of the other, upwards, towards God. In these opposing tendencies may be found an explanation of the language of Ben Ezra; for, by the constant struggle to rise, the soul is strengthened and made more perfect. Each part of man's composite being has its work to do, and each serves to show forth infinite wisdom and infinite love. The tendency of the developed intellect is, in the main, upward; while even the proper development of the physical faculties, by weakening the power of the baser passions, indirectly contributes to the uplifting of the soul.

A perfect system of education, for a being such as I have described man, would make provision for the simultaneous development of all the powers of his nature, and, certainly, would not neglect the highest. It may be said, it is said, that, in mixed communities, it is impossible to provide for what I shall call the education of the soul. I have been told by a high educational authority that even the subject of Christian ethics cannot be dealt with in mixed classes. I shall not attempt, in this article, to combat these views, but hope to deal with them later. In the meantime, I shall only say that, if these things be so, "'Tis true 'tis pity, and pity 'tis 'tis true."

Now, I will not go so far as to say, as some have said, that our system of education, having in view, almost exclusively, the highest possible intellectual development, tends to produce clever scoundrels; but I will say that such a system is not likely to be productive of the highest good. Nay, I will go so far as to say that, if the best our governments can do is to give us a system of education which, while it increases man's power to injure his fellows, seems to ignore the principle of universal brotherhood, it could scarcely have been worse, and might have been better, if the question of education had been left to the voluntary action of the people.

I do not claim that the education of the higher man is altogether neglected, but that the provision made is not specific, and is inadequate. I have already shown that man's nature is such that each part reacts upon the others, so that what affects one part necessarily affects the whole man. But, while ample, systematic provision is made for the education of the intellect, the education of the soul is merely incidental. We have, it is true, a somewhat liberal provision made for the study of our best literature; but the very nature of the questions issued by the Department show that the intellectual is what is chiefly kept in view. It is true that a considerable change has been made in this respect, since the days when questions on the derivation of words, grammatical analysis and parsing, and historical and mythological references made up the chief part of a paper on literature. We have, also, Botany on our High School course, which, from the utilitarian point of view, may be a very good thing; but, just how the love of the beautiful will be enhanced by the ability to dissect a flower, and to name its component parts, it is hard to see. We might as well expect one to take more pleasure in looking at a beautiful woman after he has learned to name her bones and muscles. A flower has not been quite the same thing to me, since I heard a teacher of Botany explain to his class that the colour of the corolla is due to a sexual reason.

I am far from denying the benefits which have resulted to mankind from the study of the sciences, nor, especially, would I speak slightingly of those pursuits which belong, more particularly, to the domain of culture. Besides what science has done to make this life more tolerable to man, considered as a mere animal, it has not been without its refining influence on the soul. It is continually opening up new and clearer views of Divine goodness, and broadening our conceptions of brotherhood. Literature and the arts have soothed us in sickness and solitude, and brightened our intercourse with our fellows; while the influence on the soul of poetry, music, painting and sculpture can scarcely be overestimated.

But while I have nothing but commendation for those who would give careful attention to the development of mind and body to fit them for the struggle for existence, and to increase our enjoyment of life and our usefulness to others, I cannot but wonder that we, who profess to believe in the existence of the soul, and of the life beyond, should pay so little attention to the most essential part of our being.

I do not even claim that any thought of the future should be a factor in determining the character of our educational machinery. Our business is with the present; and, if we make the best of this life, the future need give us no trouble. Whether in this world, or that which is to be, Pippa's lines will hold good:

"God's in his heaven,
All's well with the world!"

Even if the existence of a soul which shall live after the death of the body, be but a fond conceit and void of reality, the argument for a change in our educational methods is scarcely weakened. All will admit the reality of our emotional nature, and recognize the importance of the emotions in this life. Indeed, I often think that they are more to be depended upon than our much-vaunted reason. Women, whose natures are more emotional than men's, will often arrive at truth intuitively, where the reasoning of men is at fault. When Lucetta says to Julia, in Two Gentlemen of Verona, "I have no other but a woman's reason; I think him so, because I think him so," there may be more in her words than is generally supposed.

Love, all-subduing, all-inspiring love, properly understood, would be felt to constitute our whole emotional nature. To love and to be loved is the natural desire of every heart; and the distinguishing characteristic of Jesus is not intellectual greatness, but capacity for loving.

The Norwood Presbyterian Church In Sixty-Two Years Has Very Creditable Record

Diamond Jubilee Celebrated—A History of the Progress Recited—Special Preacher There From Brighton

EARLY DAYS ARE RECALLED

The services held last Sunday, 20th Sept., in the Presbyterian Church, Norwood, in connection with the 62nd anniversary of the organization of the congregation, will long be remembered by all who shared in them. The weather was well nigh perfect and the diets of worship were thronged with a jubilant, thankful people, the large auditorium of the church being filled to its utmost capacity. The Rev. A. K. MacLeod, B. A., Brighton, was the preacher for the occasion and delighted his audience with his helpful gospel messages, in the morning preaching from 2 Chron. 6: 40, and in the evening from John's gospel 1: 46.

The choir maintained its splendid reputation as a leader of the praise service in addition to the usual anthems special numbers being contributed at both services, Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Finlay singing in the morning and Mrs. Finlay, Miss Jean Robson, Mr. Jno. Roxburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Hermis Nicoll in the evening. The Methodist congregation very kindly withdrew their evening service. Rev. W. H. Adams read the evening scripture lesson.

On Monday evening a Jubilee reunion of former and present members, and friends from sister churches in the town took place, light refreshments being served by the ladies from 6 to 8 p. m.

Mrs. Hugh Drain, daughter of Hugh Beckett, one of the founders of the congregation, baked a magnificent story-fruit-cake in honor of the pioneers whose table it decorated. At the close of the serving of the refreshments it was cut and distributed.

At 8:30 the body of the church and the gallery were well filled. Letters of regret at absence and conveying felicitations were read from Revs. Dr. Fotheringham, D. A. Thomson, and J. F. Macfarland, B. A. Revs. C. A. Reeves, B. A., Campbellford, Jas. A. G. Stirling, Havelock, W. H. Adams and James Deason, Norwood, briefly conveyed the greetings of their respective congregations. The speakers of the evening were Rev. A. K. MacLeod and D. D. MacDonald and Messrs. G. M. Roger and James Robb, and were largely reminiscent.

Mr. MacLeod told the story of Presbyterianism in the early days in the county where is laid the scene of Ralph Connor's book—the Man from Glengarry, Mr. MacLeod's great grandmother having been one of the pioneer's of that county. Mr. Roger, who is the sole survivor of the family of Rev. J.M. Roger, told of his father's earnest, unselfish, and wide-spread labours at a time when he was practically the only Presbyterian minister between Toronto and Kingston. To the two well known articles of the Scotchman's diet oatmeal porridge and the Shorter Catechism he attributed those splendid qualities of physical endurance and mental clearness which were characteristic of his father.

Mr. James Robb, Stony Lake, as a young man was one of those enrolled at the organization of the congregation in 1846. He told of the building of the first church, begun in 1850 and finished in 1852; of the old time communion seasons; of his wife and himself carrying their two eldest children through the forest from old Havelock to have them baptized. He told of his joy at the comfort of the church of today, so different from the small things of the long ago and yet the recalling of those early days brought back much of the joy, the gladness, the hope and the faith of those hardy God-fearing pioneers. He also expressed his sense of loneliness as he sat at the table reserved for the pioneers of the congregation, that he alone of that early generation was present; most of them are gone before him and those remaining are near the borderland after a long pilgrimage, and through infirmities unable to be present. Rev. D. D. MacDonald, Keene, conveyed the congratulations of his own congregation of Keene and Westwood, which a few years ago not only celebrated the jubilee of its organization but the jubilee of Rev. Dr. Andrews, who for fifty years was its minister. Keene, Westwood and Norwood in the long ago were part of the immense parish of Rev. J. M. Roger. As the official representative of the Presbytery of Peterboro he conveyed the good wishes and prayer for future happiness and helpfulness of that reverend court.

The present congregation, St. Paul's, Peterboro, was represented not only by Mr. G. M. Roger, a member of its Session, but by its male quartette, under the efficient leadership of Mr. John Crane, who during the evening delighted the large and appreciative audience with their sweet melodies and rich harmonies.

The Historical Sketch of Presbyterianism from 1831 to 1908 in Norwood and vicinity, prepared by the direction of the Session by the pastor Rev. George A. MacLennan, B. A., containing not only a lot of information regarding the early settlement, but a story in particular of the growth from the day of small things to the comfortable and beautiful church and well organized congregation of to-day, was put on sale at 50c per copy during the evening and many availed themselves of the opportunity to procure one or more copies. This souvenir booklet contains photo-gravures of the old and present churches and of Revs. Roger, McAleese, Bowie, Young, Fotheringham, Carmichael, Somerville and the present pastor, and is a splendid specimen of the printer's art. The meeting closed with the national anthem and benediction.

A SERIES OF LECTURES ON MODERN PRACTICE

First Given Last Night by Mr. R. J. Devey

The first of a series of lectures on "Musical Theory" and "Modern Practice" was given last night by Mr. R. J. Devey of St. John's to a number of practical musicians. The special subject last night was "The Evolution of the Scale," and the subject was so skilfully treated that the usual feeling of the "dryness" of musical theory study was entirely absent. Questions on the subject were invited and answered, and a profitable and pleasant evening was spent.

The next lecture, on Friday, will be on "Diatonic Intervals in the Construction of Chords.

The Conservative Rally At Grand Opera House

A Large Attendance, Embracing Many Ladies—Hon. R. P. Roblin the Acclaimed Orator of the Evening—Mr. R. L. Borden, Leader of the Conservative Party Also Spoke

If the reception tendered Mr. R L Borden, Conservative leader, last night is a fair sample of his triumphal progress to the Treasury Benches, one must revise his view of triumphs, speaking entirely from a political point of view. Mr. Borden arrived in the city quietly on the mid-day train, was met by a few prominent Conservatives, and spent the day sight-seeing and visiting. At night a torch-light parade was arranged, and the procession, headed by teh 57th Band, and consisting of twenty-five or thirty juvenile torch-bearers and two or three carriages containing Mr. Borden and his entourage, passed through several streets, not by any means encumbered by cheering crowds, to the Opera House, where a large assemblage, consisting doubtless of the concerned and curious, had met, the audience containing a large number of ladies.

The stage was occupied by Mr. Borden's party and prominent Conservatives of both the East and West Ridings. The hall was decorated with placards reading "Protection for Labour Means Work for the Unemployed," "Borden, Our Next Premier," "No Oriental Cheap Labour," "The Secret Ballot," "Honest Administration," "Borden, Burnham, and Victory," and others of similar kidney.

Mr. James Kendry occupied the chair and in a characteristic speech opened the proceedings and introduced Mr. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, who occupied his time with the discussion of subjects that had no relation to political issues in the present contest. He closed his appeal for support with the crushing argument that he had lived all his life in Peterborough, and that "Jim Martin and John Barclay have known me since I was so high."

Mr. Borden

The Opposition leader paid his usual compliments to the ladies, and then broke into a denunciation of the Liberal Government. Each individual was partly responsible for the Government, and he had confidence in the people of Canada to see that honest expenditure and honest administration prevailed. The battle impending was not so much a battle of the Conservative and Liberal parties as a battle of the people against misgovernment. The platform of the Liberal party, drawn up in 1893 at Ottawa, was departed from. It had been said that apart from the trade policy they had carried it out. The Conservative platform, as announced by himself last year at Halifax, did not differ much from it. The Government had not carried out its free trade policy. The party came into power in 1896 and did not dare to lay unholy hands on the great principles upon which the national policy was founded. Touching on the present immigration administration of "this great country of ours," Mr. Borden said we should offer such inducements as to get the best immigrants. It was quality that was wanted, not quantity. Hon. Mr. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, had told of the proportion of undesirable immigrants found in our hospitals and asylums.

"He found that the poor population in certain institutions in one year had involved a burden of $2,000,000, and Hanna lays this at the door of the Federal Government."

He and his party during the past session made it their policy to state that it was quality they wanted in "this great Canada of ours."

Election-Law

Two years ago he had made an earnest effort to secure the enforcement of the election law, and he had wanted it discussed in a non-partisan way, but things had been so handled that the discussion was of no avail, and for this he accused the Liberal Government of wrong-doing.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier says that no man could be so honest as I talk," said Mr. Borden, "but let him speak for himself, and not for me or the people of Canada. Any man who has the record of the Premier may well doubt himself."

Mr. Borden read an article from the Montreal Witness, a report of the Premier's reply at the meeting of the Manufacturers' Association. He quoted Sir Wilfrid Laurier as having advised woollen manufacturers to manufacture "shoddy."

Had no Control

The Toronto Globe was scored for publishing an article referring to Mr. Borden's connection with the Colchester "choice tomato" affair. "I have no control over the matter," he said, "as it is now before the courts, and the man accused will either be found guilty or innocent. The Toronto Globe is becoming more and more not only a disgrace, but a menace to honest journalism."

Mr. Borden's wrath next fell upon those whom he accused of disposing of timber limits to Liberal partizans, and concluded his uninspiring address by mentioning the three essentials of his policy, offering challenges to everyone, and hoping for the redemption to the cause the lost of West and East Peterborough.

Hon. R. P. Borden

Mr. Roblin, introduced by the chairman, was given a good reception. His introductory remarks included a flowery flattery to the ladies, and the usual eulogy of their indirect influence over public life by their away in the homes. He was present as a citizen of Canada to discuss questions which were of interest to every individual Canadian, those which vitally concerned the west as well as those in the east. For they were linked together, he said, on common grounds and in all business enterprises. His importance in public life he had not realized until he had reached Ontario when he was honoured by special recognition by the Toronto Globe and coming closer to this city, by the Peterborough Examiner. Mr. Roblin referred briefly to the latter and then in detail dealt with the Globe, particularly its editor. His before his ruffled temper as he took easy manner of delivery disappeared up this matter. The charges which he had made against that paper did not concern the editor, but the proprietors. The owners and controllers, he said, had used it to induce the Government to increase the price paid for railway construction at the Crow's Nest Pass and that valuable lands had passed into the hands of the owners of the Globe.

Mr. Roblin, in answer to a charge that had been made against him of improvident dealings with Manitoba public lands, made a broad denial, stating that his records and books were open to inspection to show that he was above suspicion.

Continuing, the Premier of Manitoba stated that he had a charge to make against the editor of the Globe, in which he could offer no alibi nor of which he could profess no knowledge. He referred to Rev. Dr. Pringle's Yukon statements Mr. Macdonald had not only written strongly against these charges, but Mr. Roblin said he had turned a deaf ear when Rev. Dr. Pringle, a fellow minister, was being assailed. The speaker then made an appeal for men of integrity and honesty in public life. This was what the labouring men wanted. They demanded these characteristics in the men who represented their interests. Mr. Roblin did not forget to play upon his early experience as a mill hand and he knew and realized what was required of him in public life.

The G. T. P.

He dwelt upon the immigration question, acknowledging that the vast unsettled lands in the west called for people to open them up. The policy which the Liberal party had undertaken to accomplish this end was criticised to some length, the speaker pointing out what he considered weak spots, and passing over it in every other respect. In connection with populating the west, Mr. Roblin emphasized the necessity of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. "We want that road," he stated, "it is essential to the west." He said he could not reconcile the first estimates of its cost with those which had latterly been made and further remarked that in his opinion the outlay would be greater than that now expected.

Mr. Roblin concluded his address by an attack on the Premier, saying that it was generally conceded that the leader was responsible for any misdeeds his party may have done.

The meeting closed with the usual cheers.

A FINGER UNJOINED BY THE FALLING OF MACHINERY ON HIS HAND

This morning Mr. R. Hicks, an employee of the C. G. E. Co., met with an accident, resulting in the loss of a finger. A piece of machinery fell on the third finger of his left hand, crushing it considerably. He was removed in the Dan Spence ambulance to the Nicholls Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Young. The finger was amputated at the second joint. Mr. Hicks' eyes were also hurt by the escaping of compressed air.

POTATOES ARE CHEAPER TO-DAY

Market Was Large—Lamb Sold at 10 and 12 Cents

A fine market gave the citizens a chance to secure the season's vegetables and fruit at fair prices this morning. Potatoes were the feature and were a little cheaper than a week ago. One farmer stated that they were as cheap as they will be this season. He may have been correct in his statement and he gave as his reason that there was a large supply brought in owing to the farmers having but little to do at home. The crop is a light one, he stated, and those who bought heavily to-day saved some. The price was down to a dollar a bag which the citizens seem to feel, will be even lower before long. Fowl was plentiful and cheap. Eggs were not offered in large quantities and had advanced several cents. The same might be said of butter. The prices were as follows:

Dressed Hogs	8 50
Live Hogs	6 50
Hay, bale	15 00	to	16 00
Hay, per ton	13 00	to	14 00
Straw	6 00	to	6 50
Potatoes, per bag		to	1 15
New Potatoes per Peck	25	to	30
Apples, per pk.	10	to	15
Pork, per lb.	00	to	00
Chickens, per pair	60	to	70
Butter, per lb.			27
Eggs, per doz			20

ANOTHER SAD SIDE TO STORY OF MOTHER WHO DESERTED DAUGHTER

In connection with the report in yesterday's issue, regarding the story told by Mr. Finch Miller, Relief Officer, of the young girl who was said to have been turned out of the house in which she was living, when she was ill, the Examiner has been requested to publish the following, giving another side to the story:

A young girl, 21 years of age, left her home nearly 8 years ago, to live with her sister and to make her home with her. The sister kept her for 8 years—as long as she could work. But as soon as the girl became ill and not able to work, the sister sent her home (to her mother to keep, and as the mother is not able to look after her she sent her back where she thought she had a right to be. The girl's life is insured in two companies and all is left to the sister, and I think she will be well paid for looking after her.

KNOX PRESBYTERIANS TO ERECT A NEW CHURCH NEXT SUMMER

The people of Knox Presbyterian church have decided to erect a new church next year, making four new churches in the south end of the city, as they are increasing their membership very fast. The present church is no longer large enough, nor is it suitable to carry on the work properly.

A campaign to raise the necessary funds will be started during the coming winter.

What the new building will cost has not been determined, but the church will be a large one and a substantial as well as an attractive structure. It will probably run up to $20,000 or more. The site will be on the present property and just south of the building now used, and when completed the old church will be used entirely for Sunday school work and as a lecture hall. The Presbyterians in the south ward are getting stronger every year, and a great future is open to them.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city; is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building, of a road, through the township of North Monaghan, north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a great advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to transfer to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative capacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely influential exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigation then completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,239,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal constructions—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the steel railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $6,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

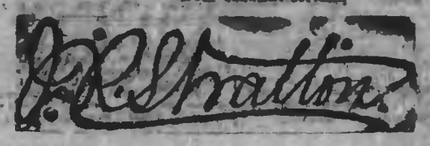
I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,



WITH A SURVEY PARTY IN THE CANADIAN NORTHWEST

F. M. Dela-Poese

It took two or three days' rest at the Forks to enable me to recuperate sufficiently to begin my journey back to the camp. My heart had been most kind to me during my sojourn, and it was with feelings bordering on regret that I took my leave of them.

The fire, which, as I afterwards learned, had started at Battleford, had devastated the country clear through to the boundary line, a distance of about five or six hundred miles. It had not, however, touched the Forks, having, through some perversity of wind currents, given it a clear berth of about three miles.

Reach Camp Safely

My one anxiety on the return trip was as to food for the pony, for it looked very much as if the poor beast would have to travel the entire distance without anything. Providence was on the side of the pony, however, for, just about dusk time, we came on a beautifully sheltered gully, that had escaped the fire, and, as it was within easy access of the river, the pony got all the pasture and water that he required.

I reached camp late at night and delivered the mail to my fellow-workers, to whom, as it was the first news that they had received from the outside world for four months, it was highly acceptable. They told me that they had had a hard time of it saving the camp from the fire. One tent had been burned, including some of our kits, and every scrap of the cook's summer poetry. He was really quite inconsolable over the loss of his lucubrations, more so than over the loss of his clothing. Its destruction gave Jones an opportunity of making the one effort at a joke which was noticeable during the survey. "They say that genius set the world on fire," he said. "Perhaps it's owing to that infernal doggerel of yours, cook, that the camp caught fire."

There is little left to tell about our experiences on the prairie. We were hard at work till the last part of October, and when the end came, and the final picket was planted, and the final mound dug, it was with feelings of joy that we packed up the camp belongings and started on our trek to the railway.

Strike for the Railway

During all the time that we had been working, we had not seen a solitary soul belonging to another survey party. Not an Indian, even, had crossed our path. The close association this engendered had rendered most of us the closest of friends, and there was very little from to-day money or fighting for each other, that we would not have been willing to do. Gill and Jones, however, were in a class by themselves, and remained so, so far as we were concerned, throughout the whole survey, and when, a few days before we broke up, Gill announced his intention of not accompanying us to Winnipeg, but of going west to Edmonton, there were no wet eyes in evidence amongst his audience. Poor chap, he didn't have long to live in the world, as he was one of the unfortunates who were killed in the Frog Lake massacre not two years afterwards.

Arrived at Medicine Hat

We struck the railway a few miles west of Medicine Hat, and camped on the outskirts of the town. In those days there was not much "town" about it. There was one brick building, owned by the firm of Ewart and Tweed, and all the other habitations were tents. The N. W. M. P. had their barracks on the western side of the river. Access from east to west was obtained by means of a ferry across the Saskatchewan, as the railway bridge, although in course of construction, was not finished. Passenger trains were few and far between at that time, and we had to wait two days for a passenger car, and for transport for our animals. The weather had grown pretty cold, and the last night we spent under canvas, the thermometer went down below zero.

When we arrived at the Winnipeg station, Jones told us to take what was left of the outfit to the market, and sell everything, carts, ponies and provisions, for whatever they would fetch. He then told us to meet him at a certain hotel in the evening, where he would pay us off.

An old Friend

We went to the hotel, sharp on time, and waited patiently for Mr. Jones. Our patience was taxed to the limit. Mr. Jones did not arrive. Whilst occupied in the harmless but unexciting pastime of waiting for him, I happened to turn my eyes to the passageway, and caught sight of a dear old friend of mine, whom I had lost sight of absolutely, for more than three years. I call him "dear" because he cost me dear. He had stolen several sheep from me in my farming days, and, after disposing of them to his own profit and to my pain, had left for parts unknown, leaving many sorrowing creditors behind. And there, right before my eyes, stood the gentleman for whom many hearts had yearned and prison gates yawned in vain.

I advanced to greet him. "Hullo, Musgrove," I said. He was not one of those society Johnnies who knows you one day and refuses to recognize you the next. Not he! He knew me of once. "Thunder and blazes!" he exclaimed, and sprinted down the passage and out through the door in a moment. I scrambled out and gazed sorrowfully after him, for that was the last time, I knew, that I should have the satisfaction of seeing my friend. He has never crossed my path since.

Jones' Ambassador

After considerable comment and conjecture as to the cause of Jones' non-arrival, his brother, who was then resident in Winnipeg, walked into the room, and informed us as pleasantly and informally as possible that Jones sent his regrets, and was very sorry to say that he couldn't pay us a cent.

This unlooked-for finale to our season's work struck us somewhat hard, but the idea of bringing the matter to the notice of the proper authorities entered into the minds of only one or two. The majority were strongly against such measures. The man who had run away from his own wife, the other man who had run away from two, and the gentleman who had already been behind prison bars for thieving, were decidedly against such extreme measures. They objected to the notoriety. They waxed virtuously indignant over it. Catch them going into any police court! Not by a wide margin. They felt sorry for Jones, that's what they did, and they hoped as how he'd be able to pay 'em some time, 'tra la, they did," etc., etc. The cook looked at the matter in a different way. He told the assembled company, and Jones' brother likewise, that they might do as they pleased, but he was going to take action in the morning, and that he would subpoena the whole gang, into the bargain, as witnesses. In the morning, fearful of recognition in court, half the gang had vanished, and we never saw them again. With half his indebtedness thus eliminated, Jones managed to pay about fifty per cent. of his liability to those of us who were remaining, and then cleared out of Winnipeg.

Stranded in Winnipeg

It is not a pleasant thing, even in a place where you are well known to be absolutely devoid of cash. But this unpleasantness is considerably accentuated when you are landed in a place, hundreds upon hundreds of miles from your kith and kin. The money that Jones had given me as part remuneration did not last long. Winter had arrived, and I had only my summer clothing with me, and no work in sight. The cook had gone back to his family in Muskoka, and Hookey, in spite of his pious proclivities, had ended a stormy but glorious career amongst the saloons in Winnipeg by borrowing half my available funds in order to get out of town to a place called Crystal City. I was thus left in Winnipeg, the sole representative of the survey party. Hookey's party, it may here be mentioned, did not go to the extent of repaying me what he had borrowed. If he is still at the Crystal City on earth, it is to be hoped he is making good use of his time, or he'll never reach the Crystal city in Heaven.

A SOLITARY WAY

The following poem has an unusual history. A gentleman from New York was sojourning in June, 1908, at the Christian home for tourists in Edinburgh, Scotland, known as "Darling's Regent's Hotel." A copy of this poem was presented to him by the proprietor, and during many lonely hours—which occur even in the most pleasant of foreign journeys—it was often read and often with great comfort. On the traveller's return he had a few copies of it printed for free distribution. The demand became so large that a recent edition of 60,000 has been issued.

There is a mystery in human hearts,
And though we be encircled by an host
Of those who love us well, and are beloved,
To every one of us from time to time,
There comes a sense of utter loneliness
Our dearest friend is 'stranger' to our
And cannot realize our bitterness, joy

There is not one who really understands,
Not one to enter into all we feel:
Such is the cry of each of us in turn,
We wander in a 'solitary way.'
No matter what or where our lot may be;
Each heart mysterious even to itself,
Must live its inner life in solitude,
And would you know the reason why this is?
It is because the Lord desires our love.
In every heart He wishes to be first,
He therefore keeps the secret-key
Himself,
To open all its chambers and to bless
With perfect sympathy and holy peace
Each solitary soul which comes to Him.
So when we feel this loneliness, it is
The voice of Jesus saying, 'Come to Me;'
And every time we are 'not understood'
It is a call to us to come again;
For Christ alone can satisfy the soul,
And those who walk with Him from day to day,
Can never have a 'solitary way.'
And when beneath some heavy cross you faint,
And say, 'I cannot bear this load alone,'
You say the truth, Christ made it purposely
So heavy that you must return to Him.
The bitter grief which no one understands
Conveys a secret message from the King,
Entreating you to come to Him again.
The Man of Sorrows understands it well,
In all points tempted He can feel with you.
You cannot come too often or too near,
The Son of God is infinite in grace,
His presence satisfies the longing soul,
And those who walk with Him from day to day,
Can never have a 'solitary way.'

WEDDING BELLS

TROTTER—GERRARD

A very pretty wedding took place at three o'clock in the Presbyterian Church, Chemong, on Sept. 16th, when Miss Sarah Gerrard, the third daughter of Mrs. R. Gerrard, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Trotter of Otonabee, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Mr. Garbutt, of Apsley. The ceremony took place before a bank of flowers and ferns. The bride was attired in a costume of cream voile with insertion satin trimmings and hat to match. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Ellen Gerrard, of Peterborough, who wore a very pretty cream costume. The groomsman was Mr. J. Tedford, of Warsaw. The wedding march was played by Mrs. F. Remmington, and after the ceremony was performed they left for the home of Mrs. R. Gerrard, where the guests sat down to an inviting repast spread on beautifully decorated tables. The presents were handsome and numerous, including a number of cheques. Mr. and Mrs. Trotter will reside in Chemong.

BELLEVILLE MURDER STORY

Thomas Smart is Committed for Trial at Autumn Assizes—Magistrate Bedford Presides

THE EVIDENCE WAS GIVEN

Belleville, Sept. 26 — As was anticipated, the police court was yesterday morning crowded with spectators who were anxious to hear the preliminary investigation, before Magistrate Bedford, of Deseronto, into the case of Thomas Smart, who is charged with murdering James Sero, a member of the Mohawk tribe.

Mr. Anderson, County Attorney, represented the Crown, and Mr. Carnew was present on behalf of the accused.

Upon being arraigned and charged with murder the prisoner made no plea.

Catherine Sero, widow of the murdered man, after detailing the circumstance of being in Belleville on the day of the murder with her husband and Joseph Sero, a brother, said when they arrived home, Thomas Smart was at the house, and he left the house stating he was going home. Shortly after that she saw Smart again. He was then by a lilac tree in the garden. Dorothy Smart was upstairs at this time, and she called out to witness that Tommy was outside and calling. Witness then went outside and she saw Tommy, who had a gun. The gun produced looked like the gun Tommy had. The first words that Tommy said to witness when she went out were: "You will soon see a man fall." Witness said "Who will it be?" and "Tommy said: "Uncle James." Witness said "For God's sake, Tommy, do not shoot." Just as witness' husband came near Tommy he fired the gun off, shooting her husband. Tommy said he did not mean to kill Uncle Jim, but to break his leg. Tommy then said he would kill his sister and then himself. Her husband died before Dr. Moore arrived from Shannonville, about a mile from her residence.

Dr. Moore, of Shannonville, was called and his testimony was the same as that submitted at the coroner's inquest. Also his report, with Dr. Gibson's, as to the post mortem on Sero's body, was corroborated by him.

Woman in the Case

Dorothy Smart, sworn, said she had lived with her step-grandfather, but always called him Uncle Jim. The witness corroborated Mrs. Sero's evidence as to Tommy, her brother, being out by the house about 10 o'clock, and heard him call her grand-mother. She saw Tommy aim at Uncle Jim and shoot him. Witness helped to take the gun away from Tommy and she hid it. Uncle Jim never spoke after he was shot. Grandma said to Tommy, "You have shot him." Tommy said he did not mean to kill Uncle Jim. Witness said that her Uncle Jim did not, that night, either abuse her or her grandmother.

Cross-examined by Mr. Carnew — Had been two years at James Sero's. Had never told Tommy any nasty stories about her, and he had never told her she was a naughty girl.

Mrs. Daniel Howard testified that she was a sister of Tommy Smart. On the night Uncle Jim was shot, Tommy came in about 9.30 and was crying. He said that Uncle Jim was abusing grandma and Dorothy, and if he did not stop it he would put him out of business. Tommy left shortly after and in a few minutes she heard the report of a gun. This made witness faint. About 10.30 or 11 o'clock Tommy came back to the house. He said that Uncle Jim had been shot and was dead, and that he (Tommy) had done it. On Thursday morning she handed the gun to her husband and told him to go and hide it, which he did.

Mr. Daniel Howard, sworn, corroborated the testimony of his wife.

This concluded the evidence and Mr. Carnew stated that he had nothing to say on behalf of the prisoner, who was formally committed for trial at the Assizes.

During the taking of the evidence Smart occupied a seat in the prisoner's dock, and did not appear to realise the enormity of the offence he had committed. He is a smooth-faced, rather pleasant-looking young fellow.

Inspector Miller, of the Provincial Attorney-General's Department, has been on the case since the deed was committed, and has done good work for the Crown.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a controversial personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Mr. Borden came from Halifax and Hon. R. P. Roblin from Winnipeg to Peterborough to speak in the interests of Mr. Burnham's candidature. Yet, when these gentlemen left by train this morning the Conservative candidate was not at the station to see them off. I am not much of a party man, and, if anything I have a list towards Toryism, but I like to see decency and gratitude practised in politics as in everything else.

Yours, etc.,

ELECTOR.

Gene Hurtubise Too Much For Conkle And Hamilton Wrestler Failed To Get Even One Fall

As was confidently expected here, Gene Hurtubise proved too much for Chas. Conkle, the Hamilton heavyweight, in their handicap match at Hamilton last night, and Conkle, who had undertaken to throw Gene twice in an hour, found that the 60 minutes were not long enough to give him even one fall. Hurtubise's victory over Conkle is a most creditable one. The Hamilton man is considered one of the cleverest mat artists on the continent. He has the science of the game at his finger tips and has not hesitated to go up against Frank Gotch, world's champion, with whom he stayed the limit necessary to win a forfeit of considerable proportions. That Gene should be able to successfully resist such a man is an indication of the great improvement the local grappler has been making. Conkle was powerless to do anything with him, and had the match lasted twice as long the result would have been the same. Hurtubise contented himself with remaining on the defensive and Conkle was unable to get anything that looked like a fall. A despatch from Hamilton says:

Hamilton, Sept. 25.—Special.—Charlie Conkle of this city to-night undertook to threw Eugene Hurtubise of Peterborough twice in an hour but he failed to get a fall. Conkle was the aggressor from the start, and although he tried all his tricks, the big Peterborough man was too strong for him and he was unable to put him to the mat. A large crowd witnessed the match, which was a good exhibition. Billy Carroll was referee.

Nothing Wrong With Peterboro Horses Says A Local Horseman

Sporting Editor of the Examiner.

In reply to an article in your paper from the Lindsay Warder the writer claims Peterborough horses have hitherto been regarded with little respect. Well, the writer has a faint memory of what the mare Hazel Bell did to their Lindsay horses last July. Joe Allen and Dr. Mack. Why she made them look like a pair of clowns, and what did Donna Belle do with Orillia Bell, and what has Geo. Powell done that the writer says they have been different. As for Harry Direct he never had any fame in Lindsay, as he never won a race in that town. He could step in 2.27 when there, and was beaten at that. But when he came into Dr. Johnston's stable he raced all one season in the West Midland Circuit and Eastern Circuit and was always first or second, making a record of 2.17. He was in Powell's stable the first of the season and made the worst showing at Port Hope that he ever did. He was again placed in Johnston's hands and what did he do at Peterborough Fair? He won in five straight heats at his ease. Peterborough horses have always been regarded as good, and always made good when out on the circuit and we would advise the Lindsay Warder not to underestimate them.

Yours truly,

PETERBOROUGH HORSEMAN.

SCORES IN TO-DAY'S GAME ON THE BULLETIN

The Examiner has made arrangements to receive the scores of the Major League ball games played to-day and will bulletin them this evening as soon as they are received. Everybody is interested in the nerve-wrecking finish that is being made in both the big leagues. Every game counts these days and the public knows that a loss may put the leaders out of first place. Things are happening rapidly. Don't forget to call around at this office to-night for the scores.

A TELEPHONE COMPANY FORMED

An Independent System For Apsley, Burleigh and Anstruther

Last night at a meeting in Apsley an independent telephone company was organized, when all the details of organization were attended to and the company placed on a good working financial basis. The construction work is going on rapidly, the poles are already erected a distance of five miles out of Apsley southward, and there yet remains ten miles of territory in part of which holes have been dug. In two weeks' time it is expected that Apsley and the townships of Burleigh and Anstruther will be enjoying communication with the outside world, a condition for which they have been longing for many years.

Arrangements have been made with the Bell Telephone Co. for a connection with their system at Mount Julian, and therefore with all other points on their system.

The company is entirely a local one, composed of the business men of Apsley, Lakefield and Peterborough, and it is expected, will prove quite a profitable venture.

EVERYONE SHOULD HEAR THE ADDRESS BY CHIEF HOWARD TUESDAY NIGHT

Mr. T. Q. Quarmaine, secretary of the Board of Trade, announces a special meeting of the Board for Tuesday evening in the Council Chamber. Chief Howard will read a paper on "Fire Protection; Prevention," which promises not only to be of a very interesting character, but will also be of real benefit to those who will be present. The chief has had a wide experience in his sphere, and, being an interesting talker, his treatment of the subject should be well worth hearing. Prevention is the best and safest protection against fire, and Chief Howard will discuss this in all its particulars. The general public is cordially invited.

THE FINE BRIGADE HAD A LONG RUN

Blaze in the Kitchen of a House on Smith Street Near Reid St.

A blaze in the kitchen of the residence occupied by Mrs. Irwin on Smith street, near the corner of Reid street, was the means of giving the fire brigade a long run about 9.30 o'clock last evening. An alarm was sent in from box 45 and the brigade responded quickly, reaching the scene in remarkably good time. With the aid of the Babcock extinguishers they were enabled to put the blaze out without much difficulty. The damage was slight.

FOG AND SMOKE AT THE LAKES

Tied Up Navigation on Thursday and Friday

Navigation was tied up in the Kawartha Lakes on Thursday and Friday by the dense fog which was made more opaque by a heavy cloud of smoke. The water during the day literally dripped off the trees, showing that the air is well laden with moisture, although it has not gathered into rain drops yet. The boats were all tied up at different wharves and were unable to cast off their moorings until Friday morning at ten o'clock. The result was that there was considerable disappointment among the people around the lakes who had made arrangements to go to the Lindsay Fair by boat. The steamer Otonabee got around as far as Lovesick Lake on Thursday, but was unable to proceed further. The Ajax and the Beaver were also held at other points. The fog was thicker than has been experienced on these waters in many years.

DR. FOSTER COMPLETES WORK HERE

Has Been For Two Months in Charge of St. John's Church

To-morrow completes the two months' service of Rev. Dr. Foster of Steubenville, O., as priest in charge of St. John's Church. The ministrations of the reverend gentleman have certainly not been of a holiday character, his whole time having been given to the parish. In the pulpit Dr. Foster presents his subjects from the Word of God purely, with no twisting of the text, but, as he stated in one of his sermons, "the plain words of Scripture are good enough for me." The liturgical rendition of the services either sung or said by Dr. Foster is clear and dignified, and truly in accord with the best traditions of the old historic church.

The best wishes of St. John's congregation for his welfare will go with Dr. Foster when he leaves the city on Monday morning next.

ALLAN M'CARTHY WAS INJURED

Fell off High Waggon Lighting on Stone Pile by the Roadside.

Mr. Allan McCarthy is suffering from a fall he received off a high waggon a few nights ago near Warsaw. He was going out to move a barn on the property of Mr. Timothy Kennedy, and had loaded the necessary tools on the latter's waggon. It was very dark as they drew near Warsaw and without any warning the horses shied at something on the road side, loosening the seat and throwing the two men into the ditch. The driver managed to hold his feet and prevented the horses from getting away. Mr. McCarthy did not fare so well. He fell on a pile of stones a distance of eight feet and for a short time was stunned by the shock. His left foot was badly strained and he received a general shaking up. It was one of the narrowest escapes that he has ever experienced, but in spite of his injuries he managed to hobble out doors to oversee the work of moving the barn which was accomplished in good time.

MAJOR PLANT TO GIVE CONCERT

Will be Heard at Barracks in a Varied Programme To-night

A large gathering was delighted with the address given by Major Tom Plant at the Salvation Army Barracks last night. This evening he will appear again, but on this occasion he will give a musical entertainment, which is said by those who have heard it to be very fine. The major is a versatile musician, playing many different instruments and musical bells, plates, etc. Everywhere he goes he is well received, and his name is so favourably known that there is promise of an unusually large crowd to-night. He will also be in the city over Sunday. He is accompanied by his wife.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie Gets First Choice at 12 1-4 Cents

The regular meeting of the Lindsay cheese board was held yesterday morning. There was a full attendance of the factories and each factory boarded the usual number of cheese. There were three buyers present, Messrs. Flavelle, Gillespie and Brown.

Mr. Brown started the bidding at 12c which was quickly raised to 12 1-2 by Mr. Flavelle. Mr. Brown then bid 12 5-16, but Mr. Gillespie went one higher and made it 12 1-4. Although the factories thought they should have 12 1-2, the buyers remained firm and the price went no higher.

Mr. Gillespie called North Ops, Star, Dunsford, Omemee, Mariposa, all accepting.

Mr. Flavelle took North Verulam, Bobcaygeon, North Harvey, Red Rock, Reaboro, Maple Leaf and Pine Grove at the same price.

THE DOCTORS DIE FAST

More Rapidly Than the Lawyers—No Account of Actors, Authors and Journalists

WHAT DR. TATHAM SAYS

If you would enjoy a long life you should become a minister (of any religious denomination), or failing that a gardener, a gamekeeper, a farmer or a railway engine driver.

These, according to Dr. John Tatham's report to the Registrar-General on the mortality in certain occupations during the three years from 1900, which was issued last night, are the callings which offer the best prospect of longevity. At the other end of the scale comes the general labourer, the tin miner, the hawker and the hotel servant, and about midway are the physician, the [illegible] and the tobacconist.

As compared with lawyers Dr. Tatham reports medical men die more rapidly at every stage of life, while as compared with the clergy their mortality "is enormously in excess. Tuberculosis, phthisis and diseases of the respiratory organs are the only causes of death that are substantially less fatal to medical men than to males in the average. Diseases of the nervous and circulatory systems contribute the largest share to the mortality of medical men, due, no doubt, to their anxious and arduous occupation.

A sign of the times is given in the particulars relating to commercial travellers. They fall victims to alcoholism in greater proportion than do all occupied and retired males by 38 per cent., while their mortality from liver disease is more than double that standard. But the mortality from alcoholism, gout, liver disease, accident and suicide was considerably less in the last period than in 1890-82.

In the previous supplement it was remarked that there was no other occupation in which the ravages of cancer approached that among chimney sweeps. It is still noteworthy that although the mortality from that disease has fallen by nearly one-fourth part, chimney sweeps are still subject to the highest fatality from this disease, although among several other occupations, such as servants in London, brewers, furriers, general labourers and seamen, the mortality does not fall far short of that of chimney sweeps. It is a subject which, as Dr. Tatham points out, deserves further attention.

For the first time in these returns the question of the mortality among women workers is dealt with exhaustively, though it is a matter full of difficulty. For instance, the case of a domestic servant, the daughter of a bricklayer who has returned home permanently invalided, is given. She is thenceforward regarded as unoccupied and in the event of death will be registered as a bricklayer's daughter, no mention being made of her previous occupation.

In the case of a married woman this cause would appear to operate even more strongly, the deceased woman being described as a wife or widow, with mention of her husband's occupation, but without mention of her own.

It is rather curious that "actors, authors and journalists have no place in these tables, even in the index. Even numerically they must be almost as important as, say, costermongers, wigmakers and chimney sweeps, who are all included. — London Daily Chronicle

A FIELD OF TURNIPS IN DECAY

As a Result of Long Absence of Rain

A farmer who has recently been driving through the country described the condition of the root crop as rather alarming. He stated that in passing many farms where fields of turnips had been planted they were found to be almost entirely rotten and an odour emanated from the decayed roots that was extremely bad. The only thing that could be done with them would be to plough them up. This farmer stated that the dry weather was accountable for the condition of the turnips. Of course all the fields were not the same but here and there the disastrous results of the long scarcity of rain were plainly evident.

TRAIN CRASHES THROUGH BRIDGE AND THREE MEN ARE KILLED

Hamilton, Sept. 28.—The worst wreck in the history of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway occurred about 6 o'clock yesterday morning near Mineral Springs, a short distance east of Copetown. A bridge, which had been burning, crushed through beneath the weight of the freight train.

Three men were killed and one seriously injured and thousands of dollars' of rolling stock and freight were destroyed. The killed are: Robert McFadden, engineer, 151 South Queen street; Ed. Brown, fireman, 14 Hill street; Wm. Maloney, yardmaster at the International Harvester works. The injured man is Sam W. Dickenson, 73 Poulette street, brakeman. He leg is badly cut.

The wrecked train was a way freight which left Hamilton on Saturday night for Brantford, and left the latter place about 4 o'clock yesterday morning. It was in charge of Conductor E. J. Martin of Waterford, and, in addition to the dead and injured men, Brakeman John McKenna.

Maloney had been in Brantford attending the funeral of his brother, and was returning in the cab with Brown, his brother-in-law.

There is a steep grade where the accident happened, and the train was proceeding along slowly owing to the [illegible] rain prevented the train crew from seeing any distance ahead of them. For the same reason it was impossible to see the flames or smoke from the burning bridge, and not until the crash came did the trainmen have any intimation of danger.

The engine had just cleared the bridge, which was about 45 feet long, when the bridge suddenly gave way, and engine, tender and seven freight cars were plunged into the creek, about 40 feet below.

Soon after the crash occurred there was a terrific explosion, the engine boiler having blown up and immediately the whole mass of wreckage took fire.

Brakeman Dickenson was on top of the third box car from the engine, and Brakeman McKenna and Conductor Martin were near the end of the train. Dickenson tried to jump, but slipped and was thrown headfirst into the pile of debris. His escape was miraculous. Martin and McKenna kept their bearings and ran to his assistance. He was pinned between two cars, but they managed to extricate him and carried him, seriously injured, to a farm house near by.

There was no sign of the men in the engine, as they were buried beneath the cars, which burned rapidly.

All that was found of the bodies of the trainmen was a few bones and some charred remains.

BLOODSHED AT LACROSSE GAME IN CITY OF NEW WESTMINSTER

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 28.—The championship lacrosse game of the season between Vancouver and New Westminster (Minto cup winners), at New Westminster Saturday afternoon, broke up in the bloodiest row that has ever disgraced the game.

The fight, which was embellished by one shot from a revolver, occurred at half-time, when Vancouver was hopelessly beaten with the score 8 to 0 against them.

The bad feeling had started earlier in the game, in a blow which Vernon Green of Vancouver is alleged to have dealt Gordon Spring, who was playing in a championship game for the first time.

Later Green laid in a hard one over Wistemute of Westminster, and just before half-time whistle would have sounded he struck Tommy Gifford. Gifford and Green began to mix it up, and in a moment friends of both men rushed from the fence and the riot was on.

From all directions rival players piled into the melee, and in half a minute the blood and sticks and fists were flying and the lacrosse game was completely forgotten. Green was the principal object of the wrath of the Royal City men, and he escaped to the club house. There he was defended by George Paris, colored trainer of the Vancouver team, and a prize-fighter of coast repute.

Paris, however, was so hard pressed that he pulled a revolver. Dave Burnett, a city employe of Westminster, attempted to wrest it from his hand. Burnett snatched the muzzle and held it to the ground, when the first shot went off. The bullet scratched his palm and penetrated his coat.

A dozen men immediately snatched the revolver from Paris, who was turned over to two policemen.

At the moment of the shooting by Paris there were cries of "Lynch him!" "Let us lynch him!" from the crowd which closed around him. Later an attempt was made to get Paris away from the police and the cries of "lynching" were repeated.

In the meantime the riot on the field was somewhat quieted, and Rev. T. M. Henderson, president of the Westminster Lacrosse Club, was able to make himself heard. He endeavored to disperse the crowd, which waited around Vancouver's dressing-rooms for the appearance of the visiting players to renew the attack.

To help matters, Gifford entered and shook hands with Green, and with President Henderson, and the police succeeded in getting Green off the grounds without further injury. Somewhere in the fracas Referee Archie McNaughton was hit in the eye with an egg, but was otherwise unhurt. No effort was made to resume the game.

At the police station, Paris' revolver was found to be fully loaded with the exception of the one shot fired. A crowd followed the police to the station, but later dispersed. The car which conveyed the Vancouver players home was spattered with rotten eggs as it left the city.

CLEVER SWINDLER.

Londoner Victimizes Eight Branch Banks in Single Morning.

London, Sept. 28.—The detectives of Scotland Yard are at present engaged in searching for an adroit swindler, who in the course of a single morning victimised not less than eight branches of the London & Southwestern Bank, and got away with several thousand pounds.

The managers of the various branches each received information from a suburban branch of the bank of the transfer of a customer's account, and each branch accordingly credited the client named in the transfer note with the amount specified therein. The swindler, posing as the new client, made a tour of the eight branches in an automobile, cashing at each a check for a goodly amount. He then disappeared without leaving any clue.

Girl Burns to Death.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—Maggie Majury, 16 years old, is dead as the result of burns sustained in a fire at her home, 164 Ontario street, Saturday afternoon.

The girl was getting the irons ready to help her mother with the washing. The fire did not burn quickly so she poured coal oil upon it. There was a terrific explosion and the room was filled with a cloud of flames.

The girl's clothing caught and she rushed into the street a mass of flame, which fanned by the air, burned fiercely as she ran. An effort was made to extinguish the fire but she succumbed to her injuries.

Unemployed Make Trouble.

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 28.—There was a wild scene of disorder witnessed here Saturday night, when numbers of the unemployed, who recently have created frequent disturbances, came in contact with the police.

The mob attempted to raid the town hall, where the lord mayor was holding a reception, but was frustrated by the police, who made a charge with their clubs.

A number of persons received more or less severe injuries and the police did not escape without bruises and cuts. Finally, however, the mob scattered and order restored.

ONE KILLED IN COLLISION.

Two Others Are Injured In Head-on Smash at Islington.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—At an early hour on Saturday morning two C.P.R. freight trains, runing in opposite directions on the same track, crashed into each other almost opposite Islington Station. A heavy fog enveloped everything in inky darkness. The two powerful engines struck each other with such impetus that both of them were lifted up clean off the tracks, and twisted into a tangled mass of steel, iron, and hissing steam. The eastbound train, No. 55, a special composed of 42 heavy cars, was going at a good speed when the collision occurred. Train No. 70 moving west was going slowly. Fireman James Kendall of Chatham was killed instantly, being pinned between the boiler and tender of his engine. So badly were the engines wrecked that although two wrecking crews were at work all Saturday morning, the body of the dead man was not recovered from beneath the engine till 3 p.m.

John Bell, the engineer of the westbound train, and Fireman Fred Woodman both jumped when they saw the other engine loom up suddenly out of the fog. Bell's left knee and side were hurt, and he was assisted to the station, some 30 yards distant, where his injuries were attended to. Woodman escaped with out any injury at all, landing safely on his feet. Albert Eaton, engineer of No. 641, eastward bound, was struck in the left eye by some of the flying pieces of wood and metal, but apart from that he escaped unhurt. The injuries to his eye are not serious.

ONE MEAL IN FOUR DAYS.

Sunford, Ont., Man Found Exhausted After 56-Mile Trip.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—While the residents of the district were [illegible] in to enjoy a comfortable evening meal at 5.45 yesterday afternoon, [illegible] Stead, poor and friendless, lay exhausted in Leslie Grove for want of food. He was in a pitiable condition when P. C. Stroud came upon him as he lay almost unable to move.

He told the constable in rambling sentences that he had tramped fifty miles in the past four days and that he had not had a meal during that time, and had only had one since last Monday. Stroud at once sent a hurry-up call for the police ambulance and the man was removed to the General Hospital where, after light food had been given him, he revived sufficiently to tell the doctors that he came from Sunford, Ont., and that he was an Englishman by birth. He had walked all the way and had sunk exhausted in the park to take a short rest, but could not get any further.

SUICIDE COMPACT.

Mother and Son Die Beside Body of New York Girl.

New York, Sept. 28.—The bodies of Ella and Edwin Soden and of their mother, Mary Soden, were found in their apartment at No. 258 Greene avenue, Brooklyn, Saturday, the mother and son evidently having committed suicide together in their grief over the death from apparently natural causes of Miss Ella Soden.

The body of Ella Soden was found dressed in white and apparently laid out for burial, but it lay in a pool of blood, while the bodies of her brother and mother were found in an inner room on a bed together with the bedclothes pulled over their heads. A strong odor of chloroform pervaded the room.

A search disclosed a revolver, leading to the belief that the young woman may have been shot, but it was fully loaded and examination seemed to show that she had died protesting through the mouth, apparently from a hemorrhage of the lungs.

A GOVERNMENT OF RESULTS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, speaking at Clinton, condensed into the following general summary the accomplishments of the Liberal Government:

"We have built new railways. We have deepened canals. We have improved harbours. We have lighted the St. Lawrence, and the result of it has been that to-day we have not only cheapened the cost of transportation to the people of Canada, but are getting the carrying of American goods. These are some of the things we have done. But there is another. We have laboured to bring our country to the rank and station it now occupies. In a thousand and one different ways we have endeavoured to create an atmosphere for the Canadian people to live and move in. Our policy has been to have every possible and due consideration for our duties and obligation as British subjects, because we are both Canadians and British subjects. Our policy I summed up at the last Imperial conference. It has been Imperial unity based upon local autonomy. This is the principle for which we are fighting."

Vote for the Government that accomplishes results; vote for the candidate who supports this Government of action and who, himself, has a long record of good service for West Peterborough and has the will and ability to continue his fruitful work of good representation.

NOT TO BE BELIEVED.

Mr. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, speaking in Toronto charged that Mr. J. A. Macdonald, as editor of the Globe newspaper, deliberately chloroformed public opinion in order that men connected with the Globe could put millions in their pockets through the acquiring of the Crow's Nest, B. C., coal mines, and the construction of the Crow's Nest Railway. Mr. Macdonald, the present editor of the Globe, denied this and asserted that Mr. J. S. Willison, present editor of the Toronto News, and at the time of the actions charged, editor of the Globe, could testify to the truth of Mr. Macdonald's denial and the consequent falsity of Mr. Roblin's charge. The present editor of the News is an unwilling witness, declaring through the News that Mr. Macdonald should "stand up and fight his own battles and not get behind another man's coat tails." Mr. Macdonald fights his battles by calling the best possible witness to prove the correctness of his denial and the falsity of his slanderer's assertions.

Mr. Willison gives his evidence as follows. In the News he says:

"Now, as to the issue between Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Roblin, The Crow's Nest Railway policy of The Globe originated with the editor of the News. When he was in British Columbia in 1895 he looked into the situation and saw the necessity for better railway connection with the mining country. He wrote a letter from the West in advocacy of this policy. On his return to Toronto, while the Conservative party was in power at Ottawa, he wrote various articles in favour of this particular railway project. No director of the Globe was consulted. No director or stockholder of The Globe, so far as the editor knew, had any interest in the Crow's Nest country. Later, he understands, Mr. Jaffray and Mr. Cox acquired an interest in the Crow's Nest coal fields, and became the purchasers of the British Columbia Southern Railway.

The then editor of The Globe did not know that the railway had been acquired by Mr. Cox and his associates until certain charges were made by the World newspaper. He knows nothing of the negotiations with the Canadian Pacific Railway or with the Government. He had no hand in any of these dealings, as he did not favour a grant of $3,500,000 to the Canadian Pacific Company, and, if he remembers aright, refused to lend The Globe's support to a subsidy of that magnitude. He, of course, had no interest, direct or indirect, in the Crow's Nest Coal Company or an associate enterprise. In making this statement the editor of The News is anxious only to give the facts, and is not concerned to serve either party in the controversy."

Thus Mr. Willison, who was editor of The Globe at the time covered by Mr. Roblin's slanders, categorically disproves every assertion made by that gentleman; disproves in sum and detail the charges made against The Globe. This matter is not referred to on account of its importance per se—the charges made are equally groundless with the great mass of slanders that constitute the policy of the Conservative party in this campaign—but to show the unreliable and reckless character of Mr. Roblin's platform statements. He is starring the country with Mr. Borden and playing the game of slander with exceptional energy. His influence for evil will be lessened by the knowledge of the reckless and unreliable character of his statements.

One can easily understand the object of the attack on The Globe. It is the most widely influential journal in Canada. Since its influence is exerted on behalf of the Liberal Government, every effort to break its force seems to be regarded as legitimate. As a potent political force it cannot expect exemption from the attacks that constitute the slander policy of the Conservative Opposition in this campaign—anything to weaken its power and impair its influence. The Globe can take care of itself, but as remarked the main object of dealing with the Roblin slander is to expose the unreliability of Mr. Roblin, the evidence of which is not confined to the matter in question, but is found in the gross unfairness and misleading character of his platform utterances generally.

CANADIANIZING OF AMERICANS

Montreal Herald.

The scare about the influx of immigrants from the United States into Canada resulting in the Americanization of the Canadian Northwest never had much vital substance in the eyes of sensible people here, but it has remained for an American to wrap it decently in the cerements of the grave for healthy Canadians to bury it. The fact that there is still a good substantial stream of immigration from the States into Canada is frankly admitted and that is not only bringing men but capital is rather ruefully acknowledged. "It is easier to understand this American emigration than to reconcile ourselves to it," exclaims a recent writer. Another American who lives in the mid-Western States writes to a popular periodical that railway enterprise is dead in the United States, while in Canada construction is active. The constant opening up of new lands for settlement is the magnet that is drawing American farmers into Canada.

But the point to which the writer draws special attention, and which seems to puzzle him, is that nearly 3,000 American citizens changed their allegiance last year. After establishing themselves securely on fertile farms in Canada they became British subjects. "The total number of citizens we have presented to Canada in the last five years, who have forsworn their nationality," he says, "is 40,000. Before that time it would have been thought impossible. It seemed so natural for the people of other countries to become Americans that it comes to us like a shock to find Americans casting off their bonds of nationality." If it were necessary for Americans to become naturalized to hold land in Canada the change of citizenship would have been less inexplicable to this writer. It might have been thought worth while to pay the price; but there is no such obligation. There is but one conclusion to be drawn, and it is irresistible. Americans who have come here and have tried the institutions of this country as well as those of the country of their birth, have come to the conclusion that those of Canada are the better. This is more of the Liberal Government's work. They not only stopped the steady outflow of Canadians into the United States, but they are reversing the tide. They are bringing our Yankee cousins in and making good Canadians of them, and the better Yankees they are the better Canadians they become.

STOCK MARKET IN NEW YORK

Foraker Disclosures Have An Effect on It—End of Poor Railway Earnings in Sight

MONEY EASY IN LONDON

Examiner Special

New York, Sept. 28 — During the early part of the week politics again ruled the Stock Market. The Forsaker disclosures upset the Street, and traders were puzzled. Later in the week the big men decided that all this muckraking had hurt Bryan more than Taft, and immediately began buying securities so that there was a sharp rally. The small trader and speculator followed the lead of the big men. Even this, however, would not have resulted in such a sudden about face in the stock market, had it not been for foreign buying which was the heaviest for any week in years. It is estimated that more than 300,000 shares were bought for London, Holland, Germany and France. This buying was due to the growing belief abroad that no matter who is elected stocks are cheap. Foreigners, like a great many Americans, cannot see how the election of any man can do harm to a country where farm products for one year exceed $8,500,000,000 in value. The recent decline in the market started September 9th, when the average price of stocks was 110.33, and lasted until September 22nd, when the average had declined to 102. This was a loss of 8.33 points in thirteen days which was a severe decline. The rally was quick and Union Pacific which dropped to 149 3-4 on Sept. 22, sold above 159 on Sept. 24, and the whole market had in three days regained more than a third of the losses sustained.

Banking houses and brokerage concerns are figuring that next month will see an end of the poor railroad earnings, and that from that time on the comparison of reports will be good. This belief is based upon the fact that during the panic last year all business suddenly stopped, and the earnings from now on will be compared with earnings of the stagnant months of last year. This will help these working for higher figures, but it will not make the reports except by comparison.

There has been a great deal of talk about gold exports which are based upon the sterling exchange rates. During the week $500,000 was shipped to Argentina for London account and $2,000,000 to Canada for same acount. Bankers are mixed in their views as to whether there will be gold exports. The low rates for call and time loans would indicate such shipments at an early date were it not for the large crops. England will have to have our wheat, corn and cotton, and especially our wheat, as it will be difficult to get the English mills to import wheat from Russia as long as there is cholera there. Cotton is also cheap now and it is almost certain that with the settlement of the Lancaster and other troubles that the spinners will begin to buy this staple. Money is easy in London, Paris and Berlin now for the same reasons that it is weak here and with those countries buying our stocks and our cereals it is hard to see just how they could force us to ship gold.

During the week the Steel Corporation received an order for 20,000 tons of tube and was negotiating with a large structural concern for the delivery of 20,000 tons of structural steel. Other steel companies also reported an excellent demand, showing that the improvement in the steel and iron trade is continuing in a satisfactory manner. The only unsatisfactory feature was the lifelessness of the pig iron market. The only inquiry was for 10,000 tons of basic at Philadelphia.

Purchases of electrolytic copper are known to have been made on a shade under 12 3-8 cents per pound, or about 1-2 cent above the quotations of the New York Metal Exchange. A large producer says that sales of copper showed a material improvement over sales last week. No heavy stock accumulations are feared over the next several weeks, as many selling agencies and producers have sold their possible supplies well into October.

Adams Of The Collegiate Staff Wins Road Race At Lindsay

Geo. Adams, of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute staff, and formerly of the Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto, won the five mile race at the Lindsay Fair on Saturday in handy fashion from a field of nine runners, only four of whom finished. H. L. Brace, of the Peterborough Y. M. C. A. Harriers, was the third; so that the Peterborough representatives made a grand showing.

In addition to Brace and Adams the field included Dunn, of Barrie, who was second to Longboat in the race at Midland last week; Reilley, of Beaverton; Robinson, of the Otonabee A. C.; a Fenelon Falls phenom and three Lindsay runners. Smoke, the Cleveland Indian, intended to run, but was sick.

Robinson, of the Otonabees, took the lead at the start, which was made from the corner of Kent and Lindsay streets, and led the bunch almost to the exhibition grounds, where he was passed by Adams and Dunn, the Peterborough man going to the front and staying there, although the finish was close. Robinson hung on in third place for even two miles and then dropped out, overcome by the heat, which was intense. Bruce, who was hanging on doggedly, went into third place and stayed there until the finish.

Adams negotiated the four miles in twenty-two minutes, which, considering the course and the heat, is remarkably good time. He showed great form and will be an acquisition to the Y. M. C. A. Harriers, under whose colours he will likely run.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN FITZPATRIKE

The death of Elizabeth Carlow, wife of Mr. John Fitzpatrick, occurred at Steamboat Springs, Col., on Tuesday of last week. The family home is in Chillicothe, Mo., but at the time of her death Mrs. Fitzpatrick was visiting her son.

The deceased was born in Ireland, and was brought to Canada when a year old with her parents. They settled in Peterborough, where the late Mrs. Fitzpatrick lived for years. Fifty-three years ago she married, and some eight years later moved with her husband to the United States. The husband and a family of eight children survive.

JOHN C. BAKER

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER

They really should get "The Hook" sharpened.

As was expected here Gene Hurtubise stayed the four with Cunnie last night. That "Easy" Hamilton man should be careful when he is issuing challenges.

That torchlight procession last night fell about as flat as one of the would be funny articles in the "Hook" column of our evening contemporary.

According to the Toronto Star, Tom Longboat is a cannibal. The official organ of the Irish-Canadians states that nothing delights Tom better than eating up another Indian runner. And he generally roasts them before he eats them, too.

A 16-mile road race will be held at Beaverton on Wednesday, Oct. 7, at which valuable prizes, including a silver cup and three medals, will be given. The race is under the sanction of the C.A.A.U., and local runners who desire to enter may secure entry blanks at the Examiner office. Mr. Alex. C. Kay, Beaverton, is secretary of the committee.

A funny thing about these road races at Lindsay, they are never won by a Scugog man. It's very generous of the Lindsay people to keep putting up prizes to be won by outsiders.

NOTHER ROUSING RALLY HELD AT STRATTON'S HEADQUARTERS

rge Attendance, Enthusiasm and Confidence of Victory --Short Speeches by Local Workers -- Local and Public Issues Dealt With--Representative Relations to Riding--Needs Considered.

As the campaign progresses, the ...day night gatherings at Mr. ...ratton's committee rooms grow in ...thusiasm and confidence. On Sat...day night the large rooms were fill... beyond their seating capacity ...anding room being in demand.

The chair was occupied by Mr. ...ms Hall, chairman of the central ...y committee who remarked upon ...e large attendance and the swing of ...ictory represented in the spirit of ...nfidence apparent. With a continu...tion of the work being done he was ...nfident that West Peterborough, ...hich wanted good representation, ...uld victoriously return their can...date, Mr. Stratton, on October ...th. The speeches by local workers were ...ort, pithy and full of confidence.

Mr. Andrew McFarlane.

...s the first speaker. He maintained ...t the meeting at the Opera House ...t night before had done more to ...omote the return of the Liberal can...idate than it had been of assistance ...o Mr. Burnham. (Applause.) Mr. ...urnham had taken twenty minutes ...o tell the electors what he thought ...ere the faults of the candidate they ...hould not elect, but had only taken ...wo minutes to say why they should ...ote for him. Another reason he had ...t forward was that some Jim Mar...n and Bill Barclay had known him ...nce he was a small boy, and they ...new he was "a good little boy." (Laughter.) Mr. MacFarlane said ...at he had read the whole evidence ...the Home Life matter, and every...ing that the Review had said about ..., and he failed to see that anything ...as done that should not have been ...one. Mr. Stratton had raised the ...oney to meet the amalgamation on ...is own personal cheque. When he ...eposited the $10,000 to his own ac...unt, it was his own money and he ...ad a perfect right to do as he chose ...ith it. Whom would he give it to? ...There were others mentioned in the ...Royal Commission report. Mr. Burn...ham made no reference whatever to ...Mr. Foster, who had been scathingly ...condemned by the Commission in ...connection with the administration of ...the funds of the Union Life, which ...were the Foresters money. He had ...taken money belonging to the Foresters to the extent of $200,000 and had ...used it for speculative purposes and ...yet nothing was said by Mr. Burnham. ...The speaker briefly referred to some of ...the allegations made by Mr. Borden ...and Mr. Roblin, pointing out that it ...was a hypocrite for them to attack the ...Government's system of disposing of ...public lands, as the Laurier Admin...istration always acted upon the prin...ciple that the land should be for the ...settler, a marked contrast to the pol...icy of the Roblin Government, which ...had sold nearly half a million acres ...to speculators. With reference to the ...Crows Nest Pass question upon which ...Mr. Roblin was at present attacking ...the Globe, Mr. McFarlane pointed out ...that Mr. Roblin stood convicted, as ...the Globe had said, as a slanderer of ...public men. He read from the To...ronto News to show that Mr. Willison ...had practically approved of the state...ments made by Mr. Macdonald of the ...Globe and Mr. Willison was the editor ...of the Globe at the time and knew all ...the facts. Thus they had a public ...man coming to Peterborough and ...slandering men and making state...ments which Mr. Roblin must have ...known to be false when made. Mr. ...McFarlane closed a capital speech ...and received great applause.

Mr. Jas Bennett,

...of the Canadian Cordage Co. followed ...Mr. McFarlane. He said he had not ...been in Peterborough long, but he ...allowed himself to be an acquisition to ...the ranks of local speakers. He said ...that never in the course of his travels ...though the world and he had been ...all over the Empire, had he seen a ...public man so misrepresented, so ma...ligned and so vilified as Mr. Stratton ...had been. We should be honest with ...the man. (Applause.) Everyone like...within the better they knew him, he ...had the qualities that made a success...ful public man, and he was certain ...that he would make an able representa...tive. Our leaders to-day had to have ...great qualities and strong characteri...stics. Mr. Stratton possessed these ...in an unusual degree. He possessed ...judgment, he had the courage of his ...convictions, and he was progressive. ...(Applause.) Mr. Bennett said that ...the meeting the night before had re...minded him of the story of the Scotch ...minister who had deplored the fact ...that in a recent fire at the manse he ...had lost ten years' sermons. The par...ishioners to whom he was speaking ...wisely said "Mon, that must have been ...a great fire, for they were maist awfu' ...guid." The speeches on Friday even...ing had been composed mainly of per...sonalities. This policy of the Oppos...ition however, was just proving in the ...minds of the people the fact that the ...men who were being slandered were ...strong and capable men, because the ...men whose enemies were afraid of him ...was always the man who was abused. ...(Long applause).

Mr. Daniel O'Connell

...was received with enthusiasm, and ...made an eloquent address. He said ...that the speakers of the night before ...had made a most undignified present...ment of the issues of the day. Mr. ...Eden and Mr. Roblin had not sup...ported Mr. Burnham in his attack ...upon the personal qualities of the Lib...eral candidate, but their manner of ...discussing public questions was not ...what might be expected frof the lead...er of a political party. Mr. Roblin ...might perhaps be excused, because he ...was known from one end of Canada ...to the other as a man who was utter...ly regardless of the truthfulness of the ...statements he made upon public plat...forms, regarding public men, or ...regarding public questions. Mr. ...Borden had presented as planks of the ...Conservative party, honest expendi...ture of public money and a fit and ...competent civil service, based upon ...the character and merit of the ap...pointees. These planks, however, ...more nearly represented the ideals of ...the Liberal party, and their achieve...ments in the past tyelve years showed ...that they had been carried out. No ...Government, no matter how vigilant, ...could prevent such things happening ...as occurred in connection with the ...Marine Department, and this was the ...only charge that had been brought ...against the Government's honest ad...ministration. Would we take the ...reins of office out of the hands of a ...Government like that and place them ...in the hands of a party who had given ...hundred of thousands of acres of the ...best lands of Canada to speculators ...and personal friends? No scandal ...could be attached to the Liberal party ...such as the McGreevy-Langevin out...rage, where the contractor had been ...paid only $50,000, while the Govern...ment had been charged $189,000. (Ap...plause.) Mr. Roblin did not tell his ...audience that since the Liberal Gov...ernment had come into power not one ...acre of the public domain had been ...disposed of without public competi...tion. (Applause.) Yet he is the man ...who in the period of five years after ...he had received from the Dominion ...Government 520,000 square miles gave ...440,000 square miles of it in large ...blocks to speculators. (Hear, hear.) ...Mr. O'Connell then dealt with the ...statement made by Mr. Borden that ...Sir Wilfrid Laurier had said that the ...Grand Trunk Pacific would only cost ...13 millions, and Mr. Borden thought ...he was safe in saying that it would ...cost 200 millions. What Sir Wilfrid ...had said was that the interest on the ...money, which was to be paid to the ...country by the Grand Trunk Pacific, ...he estimated to be about 13 millions ...of dollars. The people would find all ...the charges made by Mr. Borden and ...Mr. Roblin equally foundationless. ...They had told the workingmen on Fri...day evening, that the great National ...Policy of the Conservative party had ...kept the labouring man in Canada ...and given him employment, whereas ...the truth was that in the eighteen ...years of Conservative rule 10,000 a ...year of the best blood of the country ...left Canada, but in the twelve years ...of Liberal Government the popula...tion had increased in far greater pro...portion, as many as 300,000 a year ...having come in. (Hear, hear.) How ...could anyone in his own interests vote ...to turn out such a Government as this. ...The only way to maintain the pros...perity of Peterborough was to return ...Mr. Stratton as the representative on ...October 26th. (Applause.).

Mr. G. A. Gillespie

...was given a hearty reception. He was ...glad to see in the audience so many ...of his friends, and to know that they ...were even more energetic and enthus...iastic than when he had asked for the ...honour of representing them in Par...liament, a few months ago. He was ...also pleased to see the number of boys ...and young men, but Mr. Stratton had ...always been a friend to the young ...men and boys. In reading and con...sidering the speeches made by Sir ...Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden one ...had yet to discover where the former ...had failed to discuss public questions ...in a broad-minded manner while the ...Opposition leader was making his ...campaign one of personalities and un...substantiated charges. Sir Wilfrid ...Laurier was the kind of man we want...ed at the head of the Government, ...and Mr. Stratton was the man that ...West Peterborough wanted to send to ...support him. (Cheers.) He had ...known Mr. Stratton well, and had ...been associated with him to a con...siderable extent, and he had never ...found him to be other than honest ...and straightforward in every respect, ...and his word was as good as another ...man's bond. (Hear, hear.) Every...one should and could conscientiously ...support him in this campaign, and all ...his friends should see that he was re...turned by a splendid majority on the ...day of the election. (Applause).

Mr. Harry Stabler,

...spoke also of the good work ...that had been done for Canada. ...We had never had a Govern...ment in Canada which had done ...so much for the people. We had had ...twelve years of the greatest prosperity ...and success, and it would certainly be ...a mistake to turn such a Government ...out. He had failed yet to find a man ...who had denied that the Government ...had added to the progress and prosper...ity of Canada to a very great degree. ...Mr. Stratton had been a useful mem...ber when he was in the Provincial ...House, and he would be just as ener...getic in looking after the interests of ...his constituency in the Ottawa Par...liament. He had stood the abuse of ...the Tory press, and has withstood it ...successfully. Their policy was to ...slander public men who were opposed ...to them, and in that way attract the ...attention of the people away from the ...real issues of the day. If they at...tempted to discuss the things people ...were really interested in, they had no ...ground to stand on. (Applause.) Mr. ...Staebler concluded by impressing ...upon the friends of Mr. Stratton the ...necessity of neglecting nothing, but ...if everybody worked hard he was sure ...that he would be returned by a major...ity that had never been exceeded in ...West Peterborough. (Cheers).

Mr. John McCann

...said that the large and enthusiastic ...crowd argured very well for Mr. ...Stratton's election. He had heard the ...speakers at the Opera House the even...ing before, and he thought that Sir ...Wilfrid's comparison was correct, ...when he compared them to a pack of ...wolves. Mr. Kendry had started the ...ball rolling with a vicious attack on ...Mr. Stratton, but that was just like ...him. Mr. Burnham had followed with ...a speech which was slander all ...through, and had spent his time abus...ing Mr. Stratton. He was followed by ...Mr. Borden who attacked the Govern...ment. He did not support Mr. Burn...ham in his abuse of the Liberal can...didate, in fact he seemed ashamed of ...the man who he was asking the elec...tors to send to Ottawa as a supporter ...of his. (Hear, hear.) Mr. McCann ...then went on to speak of the success ...the Government had made with their ...tariff policy. When Mr. Fielding had ...first laid down its principles in the ...House, the Opposition leader said that ...he could already hear the walls of the ...manufacturers and that the country ...would be ruined. But in the last five ...years the products had increased 220 ...millions, half of that being in Ontario ...The exports of Peterborough during ...that period of time had increased ...nearly four millions, and yet that is ...the policy that was going to ruin the ...country. Mr. Borden had repeated ...Mr. Hanna's statement with regard to ...the people who were coming to this ...country from England, Ireland and ...Scotland, which countries had sent ...out here the settlers who were now the ...backbone of the country, but yet Mr. ...Borden said they were filling the peni...tentiaries and the asylums. Mr. Bor...den had also spoken on the labour ...question. What had the Conserva...tive party ever done for labour except ...to establish Labour Day? Nothing! ...Under the Conservative Government ...when a contractor received his con...tract for work on the Trent Valley ...Canal, it contained no stipulation as ...to the payment of wages whatever. ...Now a contractor is compelled to pay ...the wages to working men that are ...being paid in the locality in which ...the work is being done. (Applause.) ...Mr. McCann also contrasted the atti...tude of the two parties with regard to ...alien labour, and also with regard to ...the employment of children, and ...pointed out the reforms that had taken ...place under the present Government. ...He concluded an able address with an ...appeal to the electors to leave no ...stone unturned to see that Mr. Strat...ton was returned to Parliament as the ...representative of West Peterborough. ...He was the man for Peterborough. ...(Cheers).

Mr. R. R. Hall,

...on rising to address the meeting, was ...received with hearty applause. He ...pointed out that the policy of the Op...position speakers throughout their ...tour was to blind the eyes of the elec...tors to the real issues of the day, by ...making their campaign one of slander ...and abuse. Mr. Burnham had done ...his part in attempting to attack Mr. ...Stratton, Mr. Borden had directed his ...efforts towards Sir Wilfrid Laurier, ...and Mr. Roblin had abused the editor ...of the Globe. They had said that the ...Dominion Government was an ex...travagant Government. If a man so ...lives within his means that he is ...able to greatly increase his wealth, ...you could not call him extravagant, ...and yet he might at the same time be ...spending a great deal more. When ...you looked at the country's great pro...jects, at the Trent Valley Canal, at ...the Peterborough Armouries, etc., it ...was easy to see how a part of the in...crease in expenditure had been ...caused. It was not possible to im...prove the transportation systems, the ...railway and canal systems of the ...country without the expenditure of ...vast sums of money. But the question ...was not whether the expenditure had ...increased, but whether the country ...was living within its income. Almost ...as soon as the Liberal Government ...came into power the country had be...gun to progress and every year they ...had had large surpluses. (Applause.) ...In 1896 the Postoffice Department was ...administered to the tune of $750,000 a ...year shortage. The rate of letters had ...been reduced, the mail service had ...been improved, in the towns and in ...the country, and yet last year the Gov...ernment had a surplus in that de...partment of over $1,000,000. All that ...was good business, but it was not ...good news for the leaders of the Con...servative party. These were not issues ...that Mr. Borden can afford to discuss, ...and he therefore endeavoured to dis...tract attention from the questions that ...should actually be considered by the ...electors. Mr. Hall pointed out that ...the amount of money that was on de...posit in the banks in 1896 was 186 ...millions of dollars, and that last year ...it was no less than 585 millions. He ...criticised Mr. Roblin's attack on the ...Government in connection with the ...sale of northwest lands. The Conser...vative Government had given away ...millions of acres of land to corpora...tions, in connection with the building ...of railways. We had only 16,000 miles ...of railway in 1896. Since that time ...7,900 more had been built, a distance ...long enough to build two Transcon...tinentals, and they had been built ...without the Laurier Administration ...giving away one single acre of land ...to a railway corporation. Before 1896 ...settlers had only located about nine ...million acres of land, but under the ...Liberal Government they had been ...located for 35 million acres. Mr. Hall ...also dealt with the maladministration ...of the Roblin Government in connec...tion with the public lands of Mani...toba, and showed that he was not the ...kind of man the people of Canada ...could afford to have in charge of pub...lic affairs at Ottawa. (Applause.) We ...had now an administration of which ...Canada had every reason to be proud, ...and one that would bring happiness, ...wealth and comfort to every Canadian. ...It was therefore the duty of every man ...to vote for a representative who would ...support that Government and who ...would do everything in his power in ...the interests of the growth and pros...perity of Peterborough.

Mr. Stratton,

...who closed the meeting, on rising, ...was given a very enthusiastic greet...ing. He said that he supposed many ...of them had been present at the op...ponent's meeting, the evening previ...ous. He was driving home from the ...station when the great Conservative ...procession was passing, and if the ...fireworks within were not more con...spicuous than the fireworks without, ...they were not a very brilliant display. ...He understood that the chairman, Mr. ...Kendry, and the candidate, Mr. Burn...ham, did not discuss any political is...sues, but confined themselves to ...(what, personal) attacks upon himself ...—to matters quite outside the realm ...of politics. Mr. Kendry had not evi...dently recovered from his defeat at ...the last general election. He had ...been heartsore ever since, and had ...been bitter in his antipathy. But ...Peterborough and the riding had been ...benefitted by the change, and Mr. ...Hall's election at that time was in ...the interests of all concerned, and ...had brought very large material ad...vantages to West Peterborough. Gen...tlemen never publicly reveal private ...conversations, more especially of a ...jocular character, on political mat...ters. The statement made by Mr. ...Kendry at the meeting was absolutely ...untrue. The idea that Mr. Brad...burn election had been secured by ...pure and legitimate means, was being ...scoffed at, and it was stated by way ...of a joke, that if Mr. Gillespie's ...friends had spent even the small sum ...of $1200, Mr. Bradburn would have ...been defeated. Since that time abun...dant evidence has been discovered, ...in the course of the canvas, as to the ...excellent reason there was for the ...Review refusing an opportunity to the ...Examiner to prove its assertion that ...money had been lavishly spent to se...cure Mr. Bradburn's election. But ...Mr. Kendry's assertions are always ...rash. Mr. Stratton said he always ...received from that source what he ex...pected. Mr. Burnham repeated the ...slanderous attacks he had been mak...ing in the Review in regard to the ...Home Life matter, which, Mr. Strat...ton stated, he had previously shown ...to be a legitimate and proper busi...ness transaction, from which he had ...not personally profited to the value of ...a cent. It was to be noted that neith...er Mr. Borden nor Mr. Roblin once ...referred, in the way or endorsation or ...otherwise, to the coarse vindictive at...tack of Mr. Burnham, and even their ...anxiety to have a Conservative elect...ed in West Peterborough could not ...induce them to endorse the only pol...icy of appeal the Conservative candi...date advanced. Even their manner ...showed that they were not in sympa...thy with the policy of private slander, ...no matter how much they themselves ...pursued a policy of slander in con...nection with the broader field of Do...minion politics. The fact was, Mr. ...Stratton said, that the people of West ...Peterborough would say what was to ...be the quality of the Parliamentary ...representation they were to have for ...the next five years, a man capable of ...giving good service, instead of a man ...whose qualifications and activities ...seemed to be confined to petty scan...dals. They wanted a man who would ...think for the electors, and point out, ...and secure for them, what was needed ...to improve existing conditions.

Improving Kawartha Lakes' Attractions.

The Kawartha Lakes were becom...ing known all over the continent, and ...the completion of the Trent Canal in ...two or three years would give a ...stretch of waters that possessed pos...sibilities of importance in more ways ...than one. The canal was not only ...important for navigation, but for oth...er reasons. The summer tourist traf...fic on these waters had become not ...only a matter of pleasure to those ...concerned, but a matter of money to ...the residents of the district. Take ...the tens of thousands of dollars that ...are spent by outside visitors, tourists ...and sportsmen, at Hastings, Gore's ...Landing, Harwood, Jubilee Point, and ...all along the river, at Lakefield, ...Young's Point, South Beach, Via...nede, Mount Julian, Burleigh Falls, ...Buckhorn, Bridgenorth, Bobcaygeon, ...not to speak of the number of summer ...resorts to the north, and not speak...ing of minor points all along the line ...of Trent Waters. No district on the ...continent contained as fine a stretch ...of beautiful waters in one chain as ...the Kawartha Lakes, dotted with ...beautiful islands. It is well known ...that the fishing is the great attrac...tion in these waters, and that that is ...what brings the most adventurous ...tourists. It is well known that our ...American cousins, when they come ...to Canada come for "a good time," ...and that money is no object, as long ...as they have the sport. In meeting ...these demands they spend money ...lavishly for guides, boats, canoes, ...fishing tackle and all sorts of sup...plies. The demand for extra canoes ...and other articles makes calls upon ...our canoe builders, hardware merch...ants, and general supply stores. It ...is also well known that when tourists ...come and sample the sport we can of...fer them, they become permanent ...summer dwellers, buy islands or other ...sites, build cottages and establish ...summer homes. The building of ...these cottages gives business to the ...lumber merchant, the hardware deal...ers, work to the carpenters and labour...ers, canoe, launch and boat builders, ...increased traffic to the railways and ...steamers, and, in fact, money is scat...tered broadcast all along the line of ...industry and commerce. But to main...tain these conditions, the quality of ...the attractions must be kept up. The ...beautiful waters, and islands and ...shores will always remain, but the ...prime attraction, the fish supply, can ...be exhausted, and, before the latter ...stage is reached, the question of perm...anent fish supply should be consid...ered, not after the mischief is done, ...as is sure to be the case unless some...thing practical is adopted, and it is ...the duty of our representative and ...public-spirited men to devise expedi...ents to meet the conditions demanded ...by the districts they represent or have ...an interest in. The time has come, ...or was fast coming, when the ques...tion of re-stocking our waters with ...fish, should be taken up.

How was it to be done? Certainly ...not by idle or slanderous discussion ...of Home Life matters. (Applause.) ...It was to be done by taking steps for ...the establishment of a Government ...Fish Hatchery. And where was there ...a better place for the placing of a ...fish hatchery, and with greater ad...vantage to the whole district, than ...right here in Peterborough? And if ...he were placed in a position where he ...could bring his efforts and influence ...to bear effectively, he would see that ...this important matter was not over...looked. He had been giving some ...thought to the matter. Neither the ...establishment nor maintenance of a ...Hatchery was a serious matter of ex...pense. Taking the matter of cost ...into consideration, and comparing it ...with the advantages, it would be a ...paying investment, even if the people ...of the Kawartha Lakes region under...took the matter themselves. But they ...would not likely be called on to do ...that; he was sure that the Liberal ...Government, which, under proper pre...sentation of claims, had done so much ...for this district, would not be found ...wanting in this matter. Anyone who ...thought of the subject for a few min...utes, could make a computation of the ...thousands of dollars of outside money ...brought into this district each year. ...Last year it was estimated that tour...ists and sportsmen spent sixteen mil...lion dollars in the State of Maine, ...which, for natural attractions, cannot ...compare with our own district, once ...its advantages are widely made ...known, and conditions created to ...make them permanent. A fish hatch...ery in Peterborough would at once ...advertise us to the world, and the ...Kawartha Lakes as a fisherman's par...adise. We would be advertised and ...boomed by every Canadian and Amer...ican railway that could advance a ...tourist on his way to what would then ...be the greatest fishing spot on the ...continent.

Utilizing Northern Resources.

It was, Mr. Stratton said, known ...to those familiar with the conditions, ...that there were still well wooded dis...tricts in Harvey and Northern Peter...borough, and now that the canal is ...opened to Peterborough, a market is ...also opened for cordwood, telegraph, ...and telephone poles, ties, etc., etc. ...The price paid by dealers for these ...articles was governed by the cost of ...laying them down at competing ...points, which at this time, particular...ly, was North Harvey. For miles up ...Union Creek there is deep water, ...right up to what is known as Nogie's ...Creek bridge, and away above, cap...able even at the present low water to ...float steamers and scows. All that ...was lacking to load these commodi...ties on a scow was a wharf at Nogie's ...Creek, and wharf on the lake. The ...wood, etc., could be piled in the win...ter, ready for shipping, and a little ...dredging could be done to remove any ...accidental obstructions to easy navi...gation. Two or three thousand dol...lars spent in dredging, $500 on a ...wharf, and a few hundred for other ...conveniences, would bring about con...ditions that would guarantee to the ...farmers of North Harvey at least 25 ...cents a cord more for wood, and oth...er articles in proportion, due to in...creased facilities for handling. There ...was a large and a good settlement in ...North Harvey, and on special occa...sions the people of this part of the ...township, could be landed comfortab...ly six miles nearer home than if ...the steamer had to stop at Bobcay...geon. This might seem a small mat...ter to his opponent, with his grand ...ideas of statesmanship, but it is no ...small matter to the people of North ...Harvey, whose condition is a type of ...thousands of other places similarly ...situated, which are just as much en...titled to a reasonable share of the ...expenditure of public moneys as the ...Port of Montreal was to the large ...share. Their interests were as dear ...to them as Montreal's were to that ...great metropolis. The people want ...these things and somebody must lead ...in the matter for them.

Mr. Stratton said that when he was ...in the Local House, he found that ...Union Creek, Galway, needed to be ...cleared of obstructions, sunken tim...ber, logs, etc., just as much as some ...roads required straightening and lev...elling. He took the necessary steps, ...and hundreds of acres of drowned ...lands were reclaimed by removing the ...obstructions, and the work had never ...been looked after since he ceased to ...be the representative. The people ...wanted someone to help them. Last ...summer, Mr. Stratton said, he had ...occasion to visit Apsley. He found ...the people anxious for a telephone ...line from Apsley to Mount Julian, to ...connect them with the outside world ...through the Bell system. But the ...residents did not seem to understand ...the way of securing it. His advice ...was asked, and he was glad he was ...able to give both encouragement and ...assistance, with the result that a ...company was formed, and the line ...would be completed within a month. ...There was another place in northern ...Peterborough that should have tele...phone service, which would be a con...venience to all the residents, and an ...advantage to Peterborough. The pro...ject was not sufficiently advanced to ...warrant mentioning it, but he thought ...it would be under way and completed ...within a very few months. There were ...many other things which would ...come in time, with proper handling, ...that cannot be specified now. Action ...would bring them, not slander. (Ap...plause.)

This reminded him that all the ...Conservatives had to offer the coun...try was scandals, which formed the ...base of criticism of all the speakers ...at Friday night's meeting. The Lib...eral Government had been given no ...credit for what it had done for Can...ada, but was there any comparison ...between the Liberal and the Conser...vative record in the matter of accom...plishment? To bring the matter ...nearer home, Mr. Stratton inquired, ...What had these loud-mouthed Conser...vatives, who were playing the game ...of slanderers, done to build up Pet...erborough? What had they done to ...give employment to the workingmen? ...Who were the men who were at the ...head and front of establishing most ...of our great city industries? These ...were matters directly affecting the ...people, and the people had a direct ...interest in seeing that their wants ...were well served, and he could say, ...without boasting, that as a matter ...of fact, more Peterborough young ...men, occupying positions of trust and ...responsibility and emolument in Can...ada, under the Governments of Sas...katchewan, of Alberta, the Dominion ...and Ontario—in many banking and ...financial institutions, and in private ...employ—owed their positions to him, ...more than to any other man in—well, ...Peterborough, anyway.

The various speakers that night ...had dealt fully with the great ques...tions at issue. Mr. Burnham could ...see no good in the Grand Trunk ...Pacific. Mr. Borden and Mr. Roblin ...both said it was required, but, of ...course, they did not count—they were ...only the Conservative leader and the ...Premier of Manitoba—they could not ...speak with the authority of a man ...who had been known by Jim Martin ...and Jack Barclay for thirty years. ...(Laughter.) But any man out of the ...school boy stage of thought, recog...nized that the railway was a necess...ity in the development of New ...Brunswick, Northern Quebec and On...tario and the Northwest. To-day 675 ...miles of the Grand Trunk Pacific was ...moving the grain of the Northwest, ...grown on ground never touched by ...the plow till this railway was survey...ed, on the way to the Liverpool mar...ket. There were built 1214 miles west ...of Winnipeg. Between that city and ...Moncton 1225 miles were under con...tract, 516 ready for tender, and the ...line from ocean to ocean, a second ...trans-continental railway, would be ...completed in three or four years.

Mr. Borden and other speakers at ...the meeting on Friday night stated ...that Canada's credit had been lower...ed. But was Canada's credit at a low ...ebb, when it had been shown by a ...statement made by Mr. E. R. Wood, a ...Peterborough boy, that 143 million ...dollars of British capital had been ...brought to Canada in the first seven ...months of this year. Mr. Borden had ...stated that the Government had de...parted from the principle of the ...''Land for the settler.'' But Sir Wil...frid Laurier showed that in twelve ...years not one single acre had been ...given away except to settlers. He ...also stated that Sir Wilfrid had brok...en his promises. Sir Wilfrid had ...promised to build up Canada. Mr. ...Stratton showed that the country had ...been built up. Under the so-called ...National Policy, the total trade of ...Canada amounted to 220 millions in ...1896. Last year the total was 550 mil...lions. In 1896 the revenue was 36 mil...lions, last year 86 millions, an in...crease of 60 millions in twelve years. ...Trade with Newfoundland had in...creased by 121 per cent.; trade with ...Belgium had increased $760,000 a ...year; trade with France had increased ...last year $8,000,000; with the British ...West Indies $7,900,000; with British ...Africa $1,771,000; with British Guiana ...$1,500,000; with Australia $500,000; ...with Mexico $1,250,000. Mr. Stratton ...showed that the exports of manufac...tures had increased $18,500,000 in ...twelve years, the exports of minerals, ...$30,500,000, the exports of animals and ...products $20,000,000; agricultural pro...ducts by $45,000,000. The exports of ...cheese to Great Britain had increased ...$16,000,000 in twelve years. He also ...showed that the capital of chartered ...banks had increased $34,000,000, de...posits had increased by $406,000,000, ...and in the Postoffice Savings Bank ...they had increased $18,000,000. He ...showed that the national revenue had ...increased $60,000,000, and that in ...every department of national activity ...there had been marvellous expansion, ...and that Canada had prospered under ...Liberal rule in all that makes a coun...try great, more in twelve years than ...in any score of years since she be...came Canada. Yet these gentlemen ...endeavoured to show by mere asser...tion that our country was not grow...ing, that it is not going ahead. In the ...fact of the figures that he had just ...quoted in face of what every reading ...man knew what could be thought of ...public men who would make such ...statements to an intelligent audience.

The large and enthusiastic rally ...meeting was brought to a close with ...cheers.

Saints Were Badly Beaten By Petes In The First Game For The Ontario Championship

Sam Cobean, the Former Toronto Eastern League Pitcher on the Slab for the Visitors—Hawkins Allowed But One Hit and Scored A Shutout

GAME WAS WELL PLAYED

To come back after most of the team had been out of the city for a month, and to trim such an organization as St. Andrew's champions of the City Amateur League, Toronto, and assisted by Fred Hickey and Sam Cobean, of the Toronto Eastern League Club, shows that the Peterborough ball team are some ball players. (That is what they did in the game at Riverside Park on Saturday, and what is more, they outclassed the visitors, administering a coat of kalsomine to the tune of seven runs to nothing. A good crowd of fans saw the game and were delighted with the exhibition, the game being of the best played and snappiest of the season. The weather conditions were perfect and the players seemed to be in mid season form.

Hawkins was on the slab for Peterborough, and his grand work was one of the outstanding features of the contest. St. Andrew's were completely at his mercy, only one safety—a clean drive by Hickey in the first innings—being made off his offerings. He had perfect control and kept the hit on tight, failing to give a pass throughout. Only three Saints got on the bases and but one reached second base. "Hawk" was certainly there with the balls and spangles, and the Saints could do nothing with his breakers.

Cobean, the big port side pitcher who twirled for the Toronto Eastern League, and who is an ex-Tri State Leaguer, was sent in by the visitors, and it was thought that he would tie the locals up in a knot. How well he succeeded is shown by the score. True, the locals got but four hits, but three of them were bunched in the seventh, and then the south paw handed out two bases on balls and hit a man, his generosity counting in the scoring. He is a clever pitcher none the less, with a deceptive delivery, and some pretence with the spit ball which did not seem to bother the locals any.

As a team Peterborough had it on the visitors, both in the field and at the bat. They gave Hawkins well night perfect support, and when on the attack played inside baseball. The squeeze play and sacrifice hitting were features, and they took every chance on the bases. On the other hand the Saints made some costly errors, several wild throws being responsible for runs, and they failed to do anything with the willow.

All the Peterboroughs showed up in the limelight. Lawson, at first, especially distinguishing himself. The big first sacker accepted seventeen chances without the semblance of an error, and made a beautiful catch of Roe's high foul in the ninth. In addition he made two runs and had a hit and a sacrifice out of two times at bat, which is sure going some. Maddock, the clever short stop, contributed one of the fielding features when he grabbed Cobean's grounder with one hand on the dead run and shot the ball over to first in time to head off the runner. Harry Burridge, who was given the glad hand by the fans, made his first appearance of the season in a Peterborough uniform, after his year in professional company, and his work was watched with interest. It was easy to see that his experience with Youngstown has improved him, and he did the receiving in a finished manner. Jayes, of the Wilmington team of the North Carolina League, who is visiting his relatives in the city, was in centre field for the locals, and, although he hadn't a chance in the outfield, he shaped up like a star. His speed on the bases caught the eye of the crowd. The fielding feature, as far as the Saints were concerned, was the brilliant showing of Currie, their second baseman, who accepted ten out of eleven chances in grand fashion. He made a sensational one-handed catch of a sizzling drive in the fourth that robbed Burridge of a hit. Hewer had two pretty catches in centre.

"Ned" Fitzpatrick umpired the game to the entire satisfaction of both teams, and there were no complaints in regard to his work.

The story of the game by innings is given below:

First Innings—Dolan fanned. Hickey lined out a pretty single to centre field, but was stranded. Burridge making a pretty catch of Moran's high foul and Clemens dying off a grounder to Maddock. No runs.

Burns smacked one to centre, which Hewer smothered. McDermott took one of Cobean's slants on the arm, and went to first only to be caught off the bag. Burridge was given a round of applause as he came to the plate, but his best was a strike out. No runs.

Second Innings — Currie fanned. Wrist grounded to Hawkins and McGee struck out. No runs.

Jayes, the Wilmington player, was applauded when he stepped out to face Cobean, but he fanned after two hard hit fouls. Maddock died on a grounder to second. Shea hit one at Hickey, who fumbled, and the runner was safe. He was out a moment later in attempting to steal second. No runs.

Third innings—Maddock made a sensational pick-up and throw of Cobean's grounder through the pitcher's box which Hawkins partially stopped. Hewer died on a grounder to McDermott, and Dolan went out short to first. No runs.

Edmunds watched four bad ones go by, and Lawson played the game by dropping a beautiful bunt in front of the plate. It was intended for a sacrifice but Cobean threw wild to first, Edmunds coming all the way round while Lawson reached third. Burns sacrificed him home. McDermott perished on a grounder to second. Two runs.

Fourth innings—Hickey was safe when Shea fumbled his little hit along the third base line. Moran attempted a bunt sacrifice but popped a little one up to Hawkins. McDermott took care of Clewlo's high fly. Hickey stole second when Maddock dropped Burridge's throw, but died there, as Currie's fly dropped into Shea's hands. No runs.

Peterborough kept up their scoring in their half. Currie made a sensational one-handed catch of Burridge's drive. Jayes, however, pasted one on a line to right field and Wrist allowed it to get away from him. Jayes rose around to third, sprinting like Bobby Kerr, before the ball was returned to the diamond. The squeeze play was worked to perfection, Maddock playing one along the first base line on which Jayes scored easily. Shea drew a base on balls, and when Currie let Moran's throw get away from him as he was stealing second, the local third baseman came right home. Edmunds fanned. Two runs.

Fifth innings—Wrist and McGee perished on grounders to McDermott and Maddock respectively and Cobean missed three. No runs.

Lawson's drive to right was captured by Wrist. Hawkins grounded out to Currie, and McGee took care of Burns' grass-cutter to the initial station. No runs.

Sixth innings—Hewer and Dolan went out on grounders to Hawkins, and Maddock took care of Hickey's fly. No runs.

McDermott flew out to Currie. Burridge smashed one of Cobean's spitters to left centre. Jayes, however, flew out to Cobean, and Maddock's high foul was assessed by Clewlo. No runs.

Seventh innings—Moran struck out. Clewlo grounded to Hawkins, and Lawson made a pretty pick-up of Currie's grounder to first. No runs.

It was the lucky seventh for the Petes. Edmunds started it after Shea had fouled out to Moran by a pretty drive to right for two bases. He began to steal third, and scored when Clewlo lost the ball in the dust. It was heady base-running. Lawson drove a pretty single through second and scored when Moran threw to right on Hawkins' intended sacrifice bunt. Burns brought the pitcher home on a tingling single through third and stole second. Chances for more runs looked good but McDermott's drive went right to Hickey and Burns was doubled at second. Three runs.

Eighth innings — Wrist bunted, but Burridge made a lively pickup and a perfect throw to first. McGee grounded to Lawson and Cobean for the second time fanned. No runs.

Burridge flew out to Clewlo. Jayes fanned, and Maddock's fly was taken care of by Hewer in centre. No runs.

Ninth innings—Roe was sent in to bat for Hewer and hit a high foul which Lawson smothered after a long run. Shea fumbled Dolan's grounder and went to second. The Saints began to look up but their chances died quickly. Hickey drove a grounder at Lawson who shot it over to third and Dolan was run down between the bases. In the meantime Hickey tried to make second and he too was headed off, practically the whole Peterborough team figuring in the play, and the put out was made by Edmunds. No runs.

Final score—Peterborough 7, St. Andrew's 0.

Fritz Mohl Will Meet Gene Hurtubise Here On Friday; Good Boxing Bouts Arranged

Gene Hurtubise, fresh after his victories over Hassan Abdallah and Charlie Conkie, will be set the hardest task of his areer on Friday night of this week, when he will meet Fritz Mohl, the Buffalo wrestler who gave Yankee Rogers such a stubborn argument. The two will come together at Brock street rink and the most exciting struggle in the history of the mat game in Peterborough should be the result. Mohl is a favourite with local people, his gameness in the bout with Rogers having earned him many friends and the fans will welcome a chance to see Gene in action against such a top notcher. The local boy showed how greatly he has improved since last spring by his work in the last two matches and although Mohl may beat him it will only be after the hardest kind of a fight. Mohl has the advantage in weight, tipping the scales at 238 pounds, while Hurtubise weighs 206. Gene, however, is in the best of shape and every match has taught him more about the fine parts of the game. Mohl does not expect an easy victory although he is confident that he can win and is training industriously in a Buffalo gymnasium, varying wrestling with skipping the rope and doing two or three miles on the road every morning. He is not going to take any chances by being caught when not in condition.

The management has decided to substitute boxing bouts as preliminaries instead of the usual wrestling curtain raisers. They have been fortunate in arranging a match between Tommy Daly, formerly of Toronto, and now of Brantford, and Corney Burns, of Peterborough. Daly held the Canadian championship in his class for several years before turning professional, and he is a clever two-handed fighter, who will make things lively for the local boy, who will, however, be in good shape. The bout will be a rattling one and will go four rounds for a purse and decision. Geo. Lillie, the Englishman who wrestled Jack Wilson in the preliminaries at the last match, will box four rounds with Kid Turner, and a good mill should be the result.

The mill will be the most classy yet presented and no doubt the fans will appreciate the enterprise of the management. As will be seen a different schedule of prices will be in vogue for the bout.

Hamilton's Opinion Of Conkle-Hurtubise Wrestling Affray

The Times

The Times says: The Olympic Club's first attempt this season to cater to the boxing and wrestling fans of the city last night in Armoury Hall was fairly successful. There were three bouts on the card—two boxing and one wrestling—and a large crowd witnessed them. The main bout was a handicap wrestling event between Charlie Conkle, the Canadian welterweight champion, and Eugene Hurtubise, the ex-football player of Peterborough. Conkle undertook to throw him twice in an hour and he undertook too much. Hurtubise, it was announced, weighed 200 pounds, and he looked every pound of it. He towered away above Conkle, and when the referee was giving the usual warning he had to stoop over so he could hear what was being said. Hurtubise is a powerful man—so strong physically that if he knew the fine points of the mat game he could have pulled Conkle to pieces to make souvenirs for the spectators. But he did not do that, he did not even try to rough it. According to his manager, however, he could have been rough if he wanted to, but he was told to simply be on the defensive and take no chances of being thrown by attempting any spectacular work. Conkle was on the aggressive all the time and showed much of his old ferocity. Two or three times Conkle rolled the big fellow off the platform, and once he went down with him. Conkle tried all his holds, from half Nelson to the "Gotch toe," but the big fellow broke them like a real champion. Several times Conkle rubbed his nose in the mat, bumped his head on the floor, but Hurtubise took his medicine like a seasoned soldier. He stayed the limit, and was loudly cheered when he was declared the winner after the hour. After the bout Hurtubise's manager, Chris Graham, jumped into the ring and challenged Conkle to an even-up match, two in three, but Conkle headed for his dressing room and never stopped to hear what was being said. Later he said he did not think he wanted any more matches with 200-pounders. Billy Carroll was referee.

The Herald

The Hamilton Herald speaks thus of the match: As was anticipated, Charlie Conkle bit off more than he could chew when he undertook to throw Hurtubise, the Peterborough grappler, twice in an hour. Charlie put up a game scrap but did not succeed in putting the ex-footballer's shoulders to the mat even once. It was a battle between brute strength, size and weight on Hurtubise's part, against science and agility on Conkle's part.

Though it was fairly plain from the outset that Conkle could not accomplish the task he had set his shoulder to unless an accident happened, the match was not without excitement. Time and time again Conkle had his man in difficulties, but he always broke out of them with apparent ease and defied holds that would have been the end of a smaller and weaker man.

When Conkle and Hurtubise stood up to shake hands at the beginning of the bout the disparity between their heights was noticeable and aroused comment. Billy Carroll, the referee, announced that Conkle might be able to give an illustration of the Gotch toe hold. Charlie may have this grip in his repertoire but he did not play it last night owing to the Peterborough boy's length of limb. Conkle was early the aggressor, and several times, with half Nelsons, was levering Hurt in the right direction. The easy way the holds were snapped was ignored at first, but it soon became apparent to the crowd that the local boy's strength was not on a par with his antagonist's. After a spell of attacking, Conkle took the bottom berth and gave a great illustration of dodging holds. Hurtubise tried repeatedly to fix a half Nelson or a hammerlock on him, but Conkle was too slippery. The Peterborough boy was frequently complimented at the successful opposition put up, and when at a loss what to do resorted to gruelling tactics.

When Conkle was upper man again things began to move some, though a fall seemed as far off as ever. Conkle tried a hammerlock and was robbed of a good position by being too near the edge of the mat. A little later the pair fell out of the ring and while on the floor Conkle pinned Hurtubise down. Billy Carroll was compelled to draw their attention to the fact that the ring was the place in which to pull off falls.

After thirty minutes of wrestling, the honours being about even, Conkle escaping from tight places by skill and his antagonist by strength, the Peterborough boy took the upper berth and made his best bid for the victory. He could not get a Nelson hold but nearly succeeded with an armlock and a crotch hold. Later he fixed on Conkle a dangerous leg hold, but Charlie twisted around and affixed one on Hurtubise, and the latter had to break away.

The gong found Conkle working like a beaver at Hurtubise with the latter comfortably killing time. He got a great reception as he passed through the crowd to his dressing room.

DENOUNCES THE SALOME DANCE

One of the young ladies who, arrayed in a network skirt and an expression of deep interest, are coochee - coocheeing in New York in the guise of Salome, declares that the dance is a "creation of art." This is mere rubbish. While opinions vary as to the exact meaning of art, it is nevertheless accepted by all sane persons that anything hideous or loathsome cannot be dignified by the word "art." And what could be more loathsome and disgusting than the spectacle of an almost nude woman contorting about a bloody head? The dance is nothing more or less than a lewd exhibition put on the stage for no other purpose than to pander to the evil desire in the human breast. Such a spectacle is morbid, abnormal, decadent and immoral, and it is a travesty on the true and beautiful to call it art. There is no more art in the so-called Salome dance than there was in the salacious exhibitions of strobiastic dancing in the rude fanes dedicated to Terpsichore that formed such a peculiarly important part of the Midway at the World's Fair. The Salome dance is a violation of good morals and of good taste, and not even the use of exquisite scenery, the adroit manipulation of lights, and the adventitious aid of beautiful music can redeem such a grotesque exhibition from obscenity.—Rochester Post.

Rev. Dr. Foster Delivers His Farewell Sermon At St. John's

Believes in Giving of Tithes—The Feeding of the Five Thousand

LEFT THE CITY TO-DAY

Rev. Dr. Foster at St. John's Church last night preached his farewell sermon and bade good-bye to the congregation and friends. He has for the last two months ministered to that congregation. The services were bright and heartily enjoyed, the congregation taking a large part in the singing.

The evensong was fully choral, and Dr. Foster presented the service splendidly, the choir responding so as to bring out all the beauty of Tallis's setting of the grand old service.

Rev. Dr Foster heartily thanked the leader and the choir for their faithful service, and asked the congregation to remain behind as he wished to shake hands with them all.

Preaching on the miracle of the feeding of the five thousand, the preacher noted that those people who were faint were far from home to hear the word of God. He contrasted the attitude of many professing Christians, who are so engrossed in the pursuit of this world's goods for six days that they are too tired to come to God's house for worship on Sunday.

Less than thirty worshippers at eight in the morning but hundreds at night. The miracles of the Lord showed His power in using humble means to carry out His will.

Arabs never tread under foot scraps of bread, but take no thought for tomorrow, saying that God will provide.

Rev. Dr. Foster is strongly in favour of the tithe system of giving, and said that we are extravagant for selfish ends, but miserly in our giving to God.

Rev. Dr. Foster left the city at 8 a.m. this morning.

Rev. William Major Bade Farewell To His All Saints Congregation Last Night

"Finally, Brethren, Farewell," The Subject of His Last Sermon —Church Filled to the Doors

LEAVING FOR MONTREAL

All Saints' church was crowded to the doors yesterday evening, many people being forced to turn away, the occasion being the farewell sermon of Rev. Wm. Major, the rector of the church, who leaves on Thursday next to assume his new duties as the assistant rector of St. George's Church, Montreal.

Mr. Major took as his text 2 Cor. 13; 11: "Finally, brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace, and the God of love and peace be with you."

"On this the last occasion," said the preacher, "that he would have the opportunity of addressing them as rector of that church, he was not going to give a tearful and mournful farewell. That was not his object. Things were often said, under the stress of a forced emotion that had better be left unsaid and for his own part he had the strongest objection to it—Furthermore, he felt that in the present case it was especially needless, as his new sphere of labour was not so very far removed, and he hoped sometimes to have the pleasure of revisiting his old parish. His aim indeed was to deal with a subject infinitely more important than himself for he stood before them now as heretofore, as an ambassador of Christ. The message that he bore was to be found in the text 'Be perfect.'"

They were not to become discouraged because perfection was impossible of attainment. An ideal was necessary to every man. The vast majority of people are content to be as good, but no better, than others. This was not the right principle. The right principle was, rather, to have the idea of perfection before us, to draw us onward and upward. There could be no progress without it. Sages of every age and of every clime have shown the necessity of a never ceasing reaching out after perfection, and in so doing have rendered themselves benefactors of the world. Unattainable as it is, perfection is entrancingly attractive. Although none of us can ever hope to reach it in this world, yet, in striving after it we would attain to heights that otherwise we could not hope to reach. This striving after perfection is to be seen everywhere around us in the physical world. Without it humanity would not be where it is to-day. Mankind would still be sunk in the slough of savagery, God had placed this aspiration in our hearts, and our immortal souls demanded it. Then, again, "Be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace." In this connection, he knew he was quite truthful in saying that his relations with his parishioners had been peaceful, but they had not been perfect. People, for instance, had told him that in leaving All Saints' he was doing it an irreparable injury. This was no compliment to him, and it he felt that it was true, it would make him truly miserable. But, as a matter of fact, he knew, and they all knew that there was no man living whose place could not be filled. Some again, had told him that the parish had made great progress; others that it had made none. However that might be, he had striven to do his duty. He had tried to preach to them the Gospel of Jesus Christ and of a personal Saviour.

In closing he desired to express his thanks to those who had co-operated with him in his work. It would have been truly impossible for him alone to have accomplished it. He thanked everyone, man, woman and child. He desired also to thank them for the many expressions of kindly feeling, which he and his family had received, and which were most comforting on the eve of their departure from amongst them. "He left Peterborough," he said, "with the conviction in his heart that there was some lasting fruit left behind for the work that he had done." "May you," said the preacher, in his closing words, "each one, go forward. Look at the matchless being of Jesus Christ. Trust His love all through, who died for you and for me, that we might escape the consequences of our sins." "Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace, and the God of love and peace shall be with you. Finally, brethren, farewell."

Rev. Mr. Major leaves the city on Thursday and undoubtedly he will be missed by his congregation and by his numerous friends who will all hope for his continued success in his new field of labour.

Ring And Track Events Of Final Fair Day At Lindsay

Speeding Events Were the Feature —Adams of Peterborough Wins Road Race

DISPUTE OVER WALTER G.

Examiner Special

Lindsay, Sept. 28.—Saturday, the third and last day of the Lindsay Central Fair, as ever, and with it one of the finest and best days the Fair has ever had.

Among the main features of the afternoon was the lady driving, in which several horses turned out in both the double and single class as follows: Team driving—Miss Downey, of Reaboro, took first; Miss Teasks, of Trenton, took second.

Single driving—Several entries were put in for this part of the programme. Miss R Lindsay, of Lindsay, took first; Mrs. Thos. Downey, of Reaboro, took second.

Gentleman's turnout—Several entries were put in, Mr. Thos. Cowan, of Otollo, Ontario, taking first.

The last heat of the 2.22 horse race which was held over until Saturday afternoon, was finished in a close race between Walter G. and Patterson, the former winning out in a sensational manner.

The tally for the 2.32 race is as follows:

Walter G., Tom Hodgson, Orillia	131221
Patterson J. A Leatherby, Midland	242111
Fox Prize, Jas. Noble, Toronto	31544x
Honest Billy, W. Gilks, Barrie	42333x
Hazel Bell, R McArthur, Toronto	55455x

Horses yesterday were out to win and the work done by the drivers to make a win proved very interesting to the large crowd.

A discussion took place between Mr. Ashmore, owner of Lou Keswick, and the judges, on the unfairness of the race, but the officials did not see it in that light.

The free-for-all race proved very exciting, only three entris, Gracey Pointer, Captain Sphinks and Orillia Belle, these 3 being closely matched. Every heat Gracey Pointer would come in first by about two feet, while Captain Sphinks would be only a few feet ahead of Orillia Bell, giving the horses the same time, as follows:—

First heat—half mile made in 1.06; mile, 2.15 3-4.

Second heat—half mile made in 1.07; mile, 2.15 1-2.

Third heat—half mile made in 1.07; mile, 2.16.

The racing tally was as follows:

2.40 Class.

Togo, George Powell, of Peterborough	53152
Lou Keswick, Mr. Ashmore, town	6x533
Minnie G., Mr. Payette, Penetanguishese	21325
Commodore B., Geo. Debtman, Kinmount	32444
Lulu Chimes, Thos. McPenetanguishene	21326
Harry K., Dr. Cowan, town	1x111

Free-for-all.

Gracey Pointer, J Noble, Toronto	111
Captain Sphinks, R. McGinn, Orillia	222
Orillia Belle, Geo. Powell, Peterborough	333

A deep discussion took place on the Peterborough grounds about the horse. Walter G., owned by Mr. T. Hodgins, of Orillia, and also on the Lindsay grounds between the horsemen. They seem to think this horse, which resembles Little Hector, formerly of Fenelon Falls, which a few years ago was disqualified, should not be allowed to race. Several of the men asked for the papers, which the had not with him, but when shown later will throw a light on this horse's past history. Further announcements will be made later on this mysterious horse.

A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing that a woman dreads more than another it is a surgical operation.

We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

For proof of this statement read the following letter.

Mrs. Letitia Blair, Cannifton, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was sick for five years. One doctor told me it was ulceration, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor, and advised an operation. No one knows what I suffered, and the bearing down pains were terrible.

"I wrote to my sister about it, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"It has cured me of all my troubles, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me to pass safely through Change of Life."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

"Then I suppose it's no use to argue?"

"Not the slightest. When a Millard makes up her mind it stays made up, and I made up my mind yesterday, Bobbie."

"You mean your Aunt Isobel made it up for you," Robert Ashton answered, looking at Katherine Millard as she perched beside him in the bow of the boat. The wind blew her hair into distracting ripples. She put back a strand of it as she faced him, replying:

"She did have a good deal to do with it, I'll admit. But, after all, she has lived much longer in this world than I have and has gained more wisdom."

"Yes, worldly wisdom."

"Isn't that often another name for common sense? Besides, there are moments when I feel that she knows me better than I know myself. I do love the et ceteras of life so, Bobby! Love in a Harlem flat would never do for me. I want all the pate de fois gras of existence and none of the rye bread. And you know from the first I've never given you the least cause for hope. I've always been perfectly frank with you, haven't I?"

"Always."

"Then I can't see why you should protest so much."

"Well, for one reason I hate to see you flinging yourself away on old Senator Rathbone."

"Thank you!"

"And, for another, what man gives up the girl he loves without a struggle? It isn't human nature to forego a thing simply because it's beyond your reach. And then there's a third reason. We could be so gloriously happy!"

The girl averted her eyes.

"Couldn't we?" he persisted.

"I don't know"— she faltered.

"Ah, but you do know! You know we're one in everything. That's why I dare to 'persist so much.' We like the same things. We like the same people. We have the same sense of humor—except in the case of Senator Rathbone!"

"Bobbie, if you make fun of my friend I won't take you sailing again."

"But, Katherine"—

"Now, Bobbie!" For a second time she faced him squarely. "I've told you my mind's made up, and I mean what I say. You've been a good friend to me, and I've enjoyed the times we've had together. But if we're to be good friends still this kind of thing can't keep going on. Don't you see how hard you are making it for me? Either you must promise me not to mention it again or I'll have to give up seeing you entirely."

"All right," he replied, with that characteristic boyishness that women always found so adorable in him. "I'll be good."

He nodded at her smilingly, and she told herself that, after all, he was only a boy with a boy's ardor—twenty-five and not yet grown up! But that was because she was looking at his smile and not at what lay in his eyes.

She let out the main sheet of the White Lady until the spray dashed across the bow of the trim little craft. It was a gray day, with a hint of rain in the air and the sea gulls hovering inland—such a day as sends the usual summer resorter to a cozy chair by flickering logs with a novel close at hand and the fisher folk out to open sea with the promise of a heavy catch.

Between gray green water and slate gray sky the White Lady seemed the only thing afloat as she skimmed and tacked and lifted on the crest of the waves. They were racing to windward now, and the homes of the shore dwellers faded in the distance. Here and there stood the solitary houses of fishermen; then these, too, became fewer.

The shore rose to bare, rocky headlands capped with stunted pines—gaunt, jagged rocks with the water creaming at their base. Islands rose, mere specks in the distance, only discernible because of the surf that played about them or the dwelling or two that reclaimed them from utter loneliness. The White Lady throbbed and dew, so tense, so alive, so seemingly a part or the elements, that it was hard to believe her a thing of wood and canvas.

"Look out!" sang Ashton as the boat came suddenly about. "That was a pretty close shave."

"Who sails with me holds life in fee," laughed Katherine, intoxicated with wave and wind and foam.

"There is such a thing as common sense," quoted Ashton.

But the wine of the sea was in Katherine's blood. She rounded another flat rock triumphantly.

"Careful!" cautioned Ashton.

"Afraid?" she taunted, with uplifted chin, and then laughed as scarlet surged across his keen young face.

"Sail where you like! I don't care!" she cried.

"You think," she scoffed recklessly, "that just because I'm a girl I can't manage my own boat. Why, rounding these rocks is a perfect game for me! I've done it lots of times. Of course I know the summer people are warned against it. But I'm not a summer person at heart. I'm what Captain Davy calls a regular salt, and I allow no mutiny on the part of my crew. So there! And whoever accepts my invitation to sail accepts the risks that accompany it. Sing ho, sing ho, for a sailor's life, sing ho, sing ho, for a"—

They both knew what had happened when the boat jarred from bow to stern, knew it before the bitter sea water dashed in their faces as they struggled toward a flat rock that uprose from the sea. When they reached it, it was the girl who spoke first.

"Well?" she said gamely, and then beneath her breath, "If I had had sense enough to obey!"

"If I had only jerked the tiller from you!" he said in answer. But neither of them spoke what was uppermost in their minds.

No hope to try for the shore, with its steep cliffs where the water rolled and eddied, and the rock on which they stood was always covered at high tide. Already the water oozed and gurgled about its crevices. With every wave it rose a fraction higher. The tide was coming in.

"If only some one would see us," whispered the girl, "some passing boat or"— The words died in her throat. The lonely expanse of water showed no hopeful sail. Ashton was staring at a speck that showed in the far distance—Deerhaven island. When he spoke all the boyishness was gone from his voice.

"There's only one way, Katherine. Would you rather I tried for it, or shall we stay here together?"

"I'd rather you tried for it," she said bravely, seeing as well as he that there was not a moment to lose.

"You can watch my coat and shoes till I come back." His voice rang cheerfully. "I'm in splendid practice; swam a couple of miles only the day before yesterday." He did not add that Captain Davy had followed with a dory. "Keep up your heart, girl!" he cried, with a touch of his old gayety.

"And you"— She would have cheered him on, but words failed her.

"I'll remember that it's for you I'm swimming. The biggest breakers in the world won't make me forget that."

He waved her goodby as if he were off for a pleasure jaunt, and she watched him as he struck out squarely, making every stroke count.

The long swing of the seas rolled between them, widening the space until her straining eyes could discover him no longer. The water lapped and gurgled about the rock on which she stood, rising ever higher. There was something hungry in the way the little waves crept up, reaching greedily. She tried to think of other things, to watch for a sail. From far away came the sound of surf breaking slowly against the reefs and now and again the mournful, lonely note of the bell buoy.

Slowly the water rose. It touched her ankles, her knees. The lift of each oncoming wave nearly took her off her feet. At that new panic seized her. If she were swept from the rock, what then? Gropingly and numb with cold she reached for the long growths of seaweed with which the rock was covered. Lengthened out they came almost to her shoulders. She twisted her hands in them and waited.

There came the moment when the water reached her shoulders, and each new wave made her shut her eyes and breathe gaspingly. She had long since given up hope of rescue. There remained but one thought—that whatever came she must stay where they would find her.

After all, drowning was not so hard. After the first deep strangling breath she felt herself slipping into unconsciousness. Snatches of past events, trivial and vivid, shone before her for a moment; then all merged into the blackness that closed her round.

When she opened her eyes she met the anxious gaze of Ashton bending over her. She wondered dimly if he belonged to the old life, and then his voice, perturbed and human, came to her as from a great distance.

"A moment more," he was saying, "and we would have been too late."

Then with a start it all came back to her—all that had occurred. She remembered. Captain Davy was sitting in the stern of the rescuing boat looking both triumphant and concerned.

"Guess your aunt will be pretty glad to have you back," he beamed. "And so will that senator they say you're engaged to."

"But I'm not engaged to him," she protested faintly. She appealed to Ashton. "Tell him," she commanded.

"Tell him"—

"That it isn't so and never will be."

"Katherine!"

"You say that as if you thought I was overwrought and speaking wildly. But I'm not. I never was surer of myself in my life than I am this minute. Oh, Bobbie, can't you see that in that hour alone out there I learned everything, the heights, the depths, the things that don't count and the things that do?"

And then as she saw the amazed delight in his eyes deepen to the rapture of certainty she held out both her hands to him. "For once a Millard has changed her mind," she whispered.

And Captain Davy, scanning the horizon with tactful scrutiny, heaved a sympathetic sigh.

"Looks as if we were in for a spell of fair weather ahead," he muttered. "Winds turned, clouds are liftin', and all's well!"

The College Game.

Silas Whipperwill had not been in college over a month until he began using all the student slang in addition to university mannerisms. Then he wrote his father like this:

Dear Father—This college game is certainly expensive. I can't stay in it without more cash. It is hard to get good results without the necessary money. I am a stranger here, and my credit is no good. Your loving son SILAS.

By the next mail he received this:

Dear Silas—Quit the game. Your father never could play poker, so I don't see no use in your trying to win. Your loving FATHER.

THE LANGUAGE PUZZLE.

China's Forty Thousand Signs, and Symbols to Perplex the Linguist.

The language known as Wen-li is the medium by which the classical books of China have been handed down. It is par excellence the written language of China, but it is not generally understood by the great mass of the people. The spoken language—namely, Mandarin—may also be written, and there is a good deal of colloquial literature in Mandarin. Versions of the Bible in the local patois have also been produced in several districts of the southwest, where the dialects are very numerous and diverse.

In the Chinese written language there are over 40,000 distinct characters or symbols, and this vast number is being constantly increased by the addition of new characters to represent new scientific words and modern ideas.

Although the Chinese are considered a literary people and have naturally a desire for education, yet owing to the extreme difficulty of mastering the Chinese characters it is estimated that only one in ten of the population can read or write.

Storm Talk.

"Shipwreck affects people in odd ways," said the captain, beaming brightly on the two rows of ladies at his table in the saloon.

The wind roared, a great wave shook the boat, and a matron, with a low cry, received a plate of hot soup in her lap.

"An Indian colonel," the captain resumed, "rushed to the bathroom when his boat sprung aleak and drowned himself in the tub out of sheer terror.

"There was an Anglo-Indian actor who broke a pretty girl's leg by hurling his heavy cabin trunk down into the lifeboat on her. Of course we slung the trunk overboard at once, but there was the broken leg, not so easy to get rid of.

"Some men in a wreck proceed to get drunk. They think if they secretly drink a lot they'll appear very game. The result is that when the rescuing party arrives these men are lying paralyzed about the deck."

Still Susceptible.

He was a nervous, fidgety young man, and he looked with considerable apprehension at the woman next him, who held a baby, its face covered with a thick veil. The baby gave now and then a sharp cry, which the woman evidently tried to suppress.

At last, after many anxious glances, the young man spoke.

"Has—has that baby any—anything contagious?" he asked.

The woman looked at him with a mixture of scorn and pity.

"Twouldn't be for most folks," she said in a clear, carrying tone, "but maybe 'twould for you. He's teething."

The Adventurous Feline.

"Hello! Is this the electric company? Do you take cats down? Yes, cats! One is on a pole and crying just terribly. She must have been up there a week, for she's just as thin— What? Oh, this is Fifty-ninth avenue! A big dog is barking at her, too, and she— What street? Why, I don't know. I don't live on this street, do I? Oh, yes, of course! Bristol street, the druggist says. Oh, will you? You are so good! And a man just said she is playing with the transformer and might short circuit herself or something. Well, thank you very much. I am so glad! Goodby!"

Problem Of Laying The Dust In Parks An Important One

The Construction of Macadam Roads—They Should be Well Sprinkled

THE APPLICATION OF TAR

No problem in years has been of such vital consequences, or has proven so baffling in its solution to the park superintendent or engineer, as has been the problem of maintaining park drives and boulevards against the excessive conditions brought about by modern modes of traffic. But a few years ago the macadam road seemed to have reached a point in its evolution where further development seemed well nigh unnecessary. To-day, hundreds of miles of these same roadways lie ravelled and torn, while municipal officers and park men have at their command neither funds adequate to repair the damage, nor knowledge sufficient to go at the work systematically, or with any degree of assurance that their efforts will be of avail.

The matter of dust abatement is a problem which can easily be met. If this were the only difficulty confronting us, an easy and pleasant solution would be to proceed, as before the advent of the motor, and sprinkle our roads with water, for probably no pavement so well serves its purpose on park drives as ordinary well-sprinkled macadam. It facilitates comfort and safety in driving and motoring, by giving a foothold to horses, as well as prevents motors from skidding. It produces little noise, is inexpensive to build and repair; sprinkled with water, gives a refreshing and cool effect in summer, and has a beneficial influence on nearby vegetation. The road has a pleasing color, is easy to clean, and, after all, seems to be the only natural and proper pavement with which parks should be inflicted.

It has been with the idea of so constructing macadam roads that they would be able to withstand the onslaughts of motors without resorting to the use of asphaltic binders, that a number of experiments have been conducted on the Lincoln Park system during the last three years. Stone of various kinds and sizes has been employed, laid and rolled in various ways, and top-dressed with different kinds of screenings and sand.

METHOD THAT GAVE BEST RESULTS

Without going into the details of the failures and partial successes, I would say that the best results in this direction were achieved by the following method: The road to be resurfaced, was first scarified and reshaped after which a layer of three-inch limestone macadam was spread upon the surface and rolled thoroughly, while fine limestone screenings were washed into the interstices. The road was then allowed to dry out, after which torpedo sand or one-quarter inch screenings, withe the fine part removed, were spread over the road, and rolled lightly with a six-ton roller. The theory of this method was that that the shifting coarse sand or screenings, would give off little or no dust, even when dry, while at the same time, the fine limestone binder with which the voids of the road had been filled, would be protected. The large size of the stone on the other hand would form an anchorage sufficient to resist the action of automobiles.

As a matter of fact, this particular piece of road, of which about one mile was laid, came out after a year's hard usage, in even better condition than many pieces of road with protected surfaces, while macadam, laid in the ordinary way, using one and one-half inch stone, and binding, in the usual way, barely remained in place long enough to allow the road crew to get out of sight. By frequent and judicious sprinkling, applying only enough water to lay the dust and keep the pavement moist, and by keeping the coarse material worked back into the road from the gutters, where it has a tendency to collect, such a road may give excellent results where not subjected to heavy motor traffic in early spring. It is, however, during the alternate freezes and thaws of this season of the year that extreme havoc is wrought by fast-moving motor cars. Small depressions in the road become filled with water, which softens and loosens the surrounding material, enabling the car to enlarge the depression, until, by the time that the road gang starts out in the spring, the boulevards present a badly torn and dilapidated aspect. It is possible that in large cities, especially near manufacturing plants, the presence of carbonic acid gas in the air tends to have a solvent effect on macadam, especially when limestone is employed.

By closely watching the effects on road surfaces, caused by various non-slipping tire devices used by motorists, to prevent injury to themselves and others on treacherous pavements I have come to the belief that too much stress has been laid to the damage done to road surfaces by chains, spuds, etc. Assuming that the damage is caused by the release of a vacuum formed by a flattened tire under great weight, and by the slipping of the tire under the great tractive force exerted by the rear wheels, it is obvious that any device which would tend to prevent this vacuum, or to prevent the shearing stress from being exerted on the surface, would help in a degree to maintain the road rather than the reverse. However, these effects are exerted to a more or less degree even when chains are employed, and I mention this point only to observe that it does not seem justifiable to enact rules prohibiting the use of devices by which the safety of individuals is guarded, when by so doing only a questionable harm to public property is averted.

Finding that our experiments in laying un-protected macadam proved on the whole, unsatisfactory, inasmuch as it was impossible to make any particular piece of pavement remain in condition more than one year, we abandoned the project, and returned to the method of treating the road surfaces with various materials in order to lay the dust at night as well as during the day, and to give the road surfaces resisting qualities other than that due to the natural binding properties of the stone.

Calcium chloride as well as sodium chloride has been given a fair trial, but neither of these chemicals has demonstrated its ability to more than lay the dust at a cost slightly under that of sprinkling with water whereas no beneficial effects relative to the lasting qualities of the road have been shown.

USE OF OILS

Careful experiments have been carried on in the use of oils, both of asphaltic and paraffin bases, and ranging form 15 to 27 degrees specific gravity, applied both hot and cold upon pavements constructed in various ways, and of different types of rock. Various oils, asphalts and tars have been made into solutions or emulsions with water by chemical and mechanical means, and to some extent the various patented fluids offered by the trade for the suppression of dust have been tested. Up to date the most satisfactory and economical surface treatment employed has been that of oil emulsions. Considerable experimentation was necessary before the proper formula was adopted. At present we have in the neighborhood of 200,000 square yards of surface treated with emulsions at a cost of about one-tenth that of sprinkling with water. The roadways are kept absolutely dustless at all hours of the day. No odor can be detected, and the roads are open for traffic continually. The roads are not made slippery under ordinary conditions, and the treatment is popular with both drivers and property owners. Last season some trouble was experienced by the drying out of the stone, due to a watershed caused by a thin asphaltic film on the surface. This film when once broken quickly ravelled away, allowing the stone to pick up. This year little trouble has been experienced on this account, due to different methods of manufacture and of applying the material; a larger percentage of light oil is used, and after three applications of the emulsion, a scout wagon is sent over the road, sprinkling only the weak looking places. In this way comparatively little oil is used, and one wagon is capable of covering a large amount of territory.

HOW EMULSION IS MADE

The emulsion is made in a specially prepared plant, fitted out with a series of tanks connected with each other and with a medium sized steam pump. The oils are mixed in the proportion of one part residuum of about 19 degrees specific gravity with three parts paraffin base fuel oil. One part of the mixed oils is then incorporated with nine parts of hot water, to which naptha soap is added, in the proportion of 15 pounds to 500 gallons of water. Roads treated with five applications of emulsion came through the winter in good condition, with the exception of some of the main boulevards, which were subjected to unusually heavy automobile traffic. During the early spring, a number of heavy snowstorms occurred, and the automobiles taking the beaten track, rapidly cut through the surface, scattering the macadam in all directions. In some cases it was only necessary this spring to repair the four parallel tracks to put the road once more in condition. In using heavy residue oils from California, Texas and Kansas on the road surfaces, the best results have been obtained by first scarifying the road, and after shaping, rolling thoroughly with a heavy roller, at the same same time applying water. No binder is used other than that found in the old road material. After drying the surface presents a rough but firm appearance, which affords excellent penetration to the binding fluid. The hot asphalts are then applied by driving three or four tank wagons abreast with the outlet valves partially open. Men follow behind with road brooms, spread the material, and brush it into the interstices. A layer of torpedo sand or screenings is then applied and rolled thoroughly.

In applying tar it was found more expedient to draw the material from the heating wagons into ordinary 5-gallon sprinkling cans, the perforations in the nozzles having been previously enlarged. Re-surfacing of this kind can be carried on at a cost of from seven to fifteen cents per square yard, assuming the cost of oil or tar to be from four cents to ten cents a gallon where no stone has to be added to the roadway. Roads treated in this manner can be counted on to give fairly good satisfaction under extreme wear for 12 to 18 months. Inasmuch as no water sprinkling is necessary, the cost of maintenance per year is considerably less than when the driveways were sprinkled with water, and when patching of the holes had to be continually resorted to. When a surface of this character begins to show wear, it is best to apply another coat of the material before the holes appear in large numbers. When tar is used, especially of a high melting point, considerable care must be exercised in cleaning the old pavement and thoroughly rolling and dressing the new layer while hot in order to prevent peeling. The patching of holes in a surface treated road is usually unsatisfactory, and where the pavement is badly worn it is better, as a rule, to scarify and re-surface as before.

By following this method of maintenance, however, a large amount of machinery is of necessity kept upon the boulevards during a season when it is most objectionable, and thereby causes considerable and well-grounded criticism by citizens and tax-payers. Whereas this treatment is undoubtedly the best and perhaps the only practical treatment which can be carried on in suburban parks, which are used infrequently during the winter, for a metropolitan park system, which has miles of boulevards, subject to well-nigh constant traffic during the winter and summer months alike, there seems but one solution of the question, and that is by the adoption of permanent pavements.

CONIDER HOBSE AS WELL AS MOTOR

Inasmuch as the sole object of park systems is for pleasure, recreation and comfort, the boulevards should be made as conducive to these requirements as any other part of the system. If the macadam road must go, consequent to modern uses and conditions, its substitute should embody as many of its good qualities as possible. Although there is no question as to the permaneney of the motor, either in its present or improved form, yet the continued fluctuation in the popularity of driving, makes it reasonable to believe that the horse will never be entirely superseded by any mechanical contrivance; therefore, a pavement should be designed to meet the requirements of the horse as well as that of the motor. In this connection, nearly all of the standard pavements fall short, and it is towards the production of one of more ideal type that some engineers and park men are now working. Such a pavement should present an easy riding, malleable and slightly elastic surface of a color which will be restful to the eyes, and which will not draw the heat, as in the case of the black asphalt pavements. It should emit no disagreeable odor, should not crack or chip in cold weather, nor become sticky or wavy under summer use. It must be easily cleaned, sanitary, and dustless. It should present a surface rough enough to prevent skidding or slipping, yet it should be sufficiently smooth to present a good appearance, and to cause no vibration while being traversed.

Inasmuch as nearly all park systems have at present well constructed macadam roads which may serve as foundations, it is but necessary to secure a wearing coat of from one inch to two inches in thickness which will be able to withstand traffic for several years.

To secure such a wearing coat, which shall embody the qualities mentioned, is now the object of some experimentation. At present the principal binding materials available are the various forms of tar and asphalt—the latter being far the most important, and containing the two principal components, asphaltine and petroline In most forms of asphalt pavements an excessive amount of asphaltine is used, with the result that the pavement is hard and resistant. Petroline, which may be said to be the life of asphalt, and which gives to it its elasticity and cementeous properties, can be used to advantage in larger proportions in park pavements.

The mixing of coal tar with asphalt is resorted to in some cases, and probably is not detrimental if used in small quantities. Its low range of ductility, and its tendency to become brittle, due to the loss of its volatile oils, however, should limit its use. Experimental roads are now being constructed by first obtaining a binder melting at from 160 degrees to 220 degrees Fahrenheit, and which seems to fulfill the qualities demanded. This binder is incorporated with the road metal in various ways. In one instance it was heated up to 315 degrees, and poured into the interstices of the macadam composed of limestone three inches in diameter, after it had been thoroughly compacted by rolling. Before the binder could have a chance to cool, heated sand was poured upon the surface and rolled. One application of oil emulsion was then made to the surface in order to soften up a part of the binder so that it would work through the sand finish. Two pieces of road constructed in this way are now presenting an unusually good appearance. In another case, the binder is being mixed by machinery with carefully graded road material ranging from fine sand to three-quarter inch stone, and is rolled upon a previously prepared surface in a two inch layer; a flush coat of asphalt is then applied, and spread in place with rubber squeegees, after which a coat of coarse sand is applied, and rolled thoroughly into the flush coat.

Surfacings of the kind mentioned, can be laid at a cost of from 40 to 60 cents per square yard. In experimental work of this kind, where special results are looked for, everything depends upon a suitable binder. As a rule, park superintendents and engineers are greatly deficient in the knowledge of the theory and practice of road construction, where bitumen is employed as a filler, and it will be only by continued and systematic experiments that success will be achieved. It is necessary in carrying on a series of experiments of this kind that each binder shall be subjected to a thorough physical and chemical test. By employing the same person in all cases to make such tests, and by careful tabulating and comparing records, good pieces of work can be duplicated by means of rigid specifications and the purchase of material. This is a point which should be given careful consideration in all road work where bitumens are employed, whether for mere surfacing or for work of a more permanent character.

A DISASTROUS RUNAWAY

North Monaghan Farmer is Likely to Lose a Valuable Horse---Ran Headlong Into Lumber Pile, Scattering It On All Sides

FURIOUS FLIGHT CAME TO A SUDDEN STOP

A team of horses belonging to a North Monaghan farmer named Sisson gave an exhibition fast run this morning that was a real startler. He had driven into the city and was in the act of tieing the team on Simcoe street in front of the Peterborough hardware store, when for some unaccountable reason they started to run eastward. The pace was exceedingly furious, and it is fortunate that no accident resulted, as might easily have been the case had anyone been in the way. They came to grief near the Peterborough Cereal Co.'s mill, a pile of lumber was directly in their path and they ran headlong into it, actually scattering the six-inch lumber on all sides. One of the horses was badly injured, its right fore leg being broken and its head and breast being lacerated and bruised. A man unloading lumber at the scene of the finish had a very narrow escape, as he did not notice the oncoming team until they were close to him.

The injured horse was taken to Dr. Johnston's barn for attendance, and a big effort will be made to save it.

CANON DAVIDSON'S MESSAGE FROM FATHER POINT

A message has been received by Mrs. Davidson from Rev. Canon Davidson from Father Point to the effect that he expected to arrive in Montreal today at noon. If this is the case the rector of St. John's will probably arrive in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Rev. Canon Davidson has been in England since May 15, where he went to attend the Pan-Anglican Congress. Since the conclusion of the sessions of that great gathering he has been visiting with many friends and has made many new ones. Upon his arrival in the city he will receive a welcome from his old friends.

MINISTRATION OF REV. DR. FOSTER NOW CONCLUDED

Rev. Dr. Foster concluded his ministrations in St. John's church last evening. He left the city this morning by the 8 a.m. C.P.R. train for Steubenville, O., via Toronto and Pittsburg. Among the friends who assembled to wish him good-bye and God speed were Mr. and Miss Aylmer, Mr. C H N Mitchell, warden, Mr. R J Devey, organist, and Messrs. W F Johnson and M Poumsette.

CHARGES MADE AGAINST CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS

County Magistrate Edmison may go to Havelock to-morrow to preside over county police court there. A number of patrons of cheese factories in that vicinity are charged with sending deteriorated milk and as several lawyers are interested an exciting time is anticipated.

Owing to the burning out of the motor in the Examiner Press Room this afternoon four pages of to-day's issue had to be dropped.

CALGARY FACTORY IN WHICH A LOCAL MAN IS THE MANAGER SUFFERS HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

A very disastrous fire occurred in Calgary on Saturday night, in which the Standard Soap Works suffered greatly. The manager of the company is Mr. Fred Weir, formerly of Peterborough, and a son of Mr. Frank Weir, of Otonabee Township. Mr. Fred Weir has been out in the West for some years and has a splendid record in the business world and the loss to the company of which he is manager will be regretted by his friends. Meagre details of the fire have as yet been received. The extent of the loss is said to be almost $75,000. The origin and amount of the insurance have yet to be learned.

SATURDAY, THE JEWISH NEW YEAR'S DAY WAS CELEBRATED HERE; SPECIAL PRAYERS WERE SAID FOR RAIN

Rabbi Garfenkal of Toronto Conducted Two Days' Services at Home of Mr. Mr. D. Florence —Cast Sins on the Water Yesterday Afternoon

SPECIAL PRAYER SHAWLS

Yesterday afternoon shortly after five o'clock an Examiner reporter witnessed for the first time one of the ceremonies connected with the celebration of the Jewish New Year festival. About a dozen of the members of that faith had gathered on the end of one of the scows which are tied up at the Wolfe street wharf, there to perform one of the last rites of the feast of the first day of their New Year which was Saturday.

Rabbi Garfenkal, of Toronto, was officiating and was chanting from a book which he had brought with him. Nearly all the others had smaller books and prayed and chanted in the same tone. After continuing their hymns and prayers for some time, the Rabbi cast a package into the water and the others were seen to take articles from their pockets and do likewise. The ceremony was concluded by further chanting, and afterwards the men returned up town to their homes.

Prayed for Rain

Mr. Abraham Low, one of the more prominent Jews of the city explained to the reporter that at the water's edge prayers were offered up for the people of this city, for the general welfare of all, for the members of the Jewish religion here, for those who are ill, who are on the seas and a special request was made for rain. The package which was thrown into the water represented the sins of the different members, they being written on paper in the parcel.

House Service

As mentioned above Saturday was the Jewish New Year's Day. At an ish families (it is learned that there ish families (it is learned that there are about that number in the city) gathered at the home of Mr. D. Florence, Simcoe street, where the services were commenced. They were continued until about eleven o'clock and yesterday were begun again, but were of longer duration. Sunday's ceremonies were of a more important nature.

At the house services the Rabbi wore a long prayer shawl or tallis, as it is called in Hebrew, of purest wool, and the married men in the assembly were similarly attired. A week from Monday the atonement services begin, lasting through the week. Rabbi Garfenkal while in the city was a guest of Mr. A Low. He left to-day for Toronto but will return next Saturday for the other services, which will also be held at Mr. Florence's residence.

CHOLERA THINNING RUSSIA'S POPULATION

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28.—Special.—Since the beginning of the epidemic, 15,683 cases of Asiatic cholera and 7,102 deaths have been reported in Russia. In St. Petersburg alone, 4,931 cases and 1,875 deaths have been reported. Such is the manner in which the dread disease is thinning out the population in the great capital of the Russian Empire.

Old Veterans Are Jealous Of Their Name; Make Complaint

Some of the old Imperial Army veterans are up in arms against the press referring to the men who fought in the South African war in the same terms. "It's an outrage on the English dictionary and the best traditions of the British Army to call these beardless boys 'veterans,'" quotes the Toronto Star in an interview with one of them. His views, he said, were shared in by the majority of the members of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association.

Lieut. James Kennedy, president of the Toronto South African Association, states that they have no desire to be classed with the old soldiers.

"You see," said President Kennedy, "a large percentage of our fellows are still connected with the Canadian militia, either in the regulars or volunteers. They do not call themselves 'veterans,' for the very reason that the word veterans suggests men too old or too crippled for service. We were very careful in forming the association to avoid the word 'veterans.' Our organization is the Toronto South African Association — not the South African Veterans' Association."

South African Meeting Tuesday

Next Tuesday, at 8 p.m., is the date, and the Armouries' lecture room the place, for the meeting of the Canadian members of the South African Association regarding the Northwest land grants.

The committee has a lot of information to place before the men, and the advice of all is—stick to your land; don't dispose of your bounty-right for a mess of pottage. Almost every day reports reach this office of new schemes of land speculators to get hold of blocks of these bounty lands. Everybody entitled to be present at the meeting on Tuesday is asked to bring his medal or other credential for the purpose of identification.

T.A.S. Library Is Free To All Members---Good Bank Account

The flourishing financial condition of St. Peter's T.A.S. is a source of pleasure and satisfaction not only to the officers and trustees but to all the individual members. It was decided at yesterday's meeting that since the treasury presents the encouraging balance of $1,500.00 on the credit side, it would be advisable to do away with the fee of one dollar which allowed the members the use of the library. All those who are paid up members of the society are entitled to enjoy the privilege of reading any of the books on the shelves. This is indeed a boon which should be appreciated by all the members, as they are given free use of the library which in the number and quality of the books is well up to the standard.

At the meeting yesterday 32 new members were received into the society. Next Sunday they will receive holy communion in a body.

Indians Of Hiawatha Planting Rice In Front Of The Reserve

The Indians of Hiawatha Reserve are planting wild rice along the shore in front of their reserve. The high water a few years ago before it was properly regulated, caused the destruction of the rice beds on the lake front at Hiawatha so that no harvest has been reaped since. However, the water has been so conserved and regulated as to be favourable to the growing of rice again.

Warm Weather Defective For Successful Hunting Of Duck

The duck shooting season, owing to the continued warm weather, has not been quite as good as in former years. Those who have been enjoying the sport say that the game is more plentiful in the creeks along the river and just at its mouth. A gentleman who spent Sunday at Jubilee Point states that during the night the birds could be heard dropping into the water in the bay west of the hotel. They are plentiful enough in those parts, but will be much better when the chills of October drive them from their northern haunts.

WAS THE AXE USED?

A Difference of Long Standing Between Neighbours Breaks Out Afresh---Back Yard Was the Scene of the Fracas

BUT NOTHING SERIOUS HAS RESULTED FROM IT

As the result of a mixup between two families living on George street, an interesting police court case is likely to develop. It appears that the two have not been living in that harmony which one would naturally expect in the case of neighbours and yesterday came the culmination of the trouble. One man is said to have made some unpleasant remarks in regard to the other's wife and when the latter's son went to inquire as to the reason for the allegations, it is stated that the neighbour instead of giving any explanation made a swing at him with an axe, fortunately missing him and then followed it up by throwing the axe at him. The weapon struck the young fellow grasign him on the arm and did no damage. As a result of the trouble the police had to be sent for and P. C. Meharry restored law and order. The man who threw the axe will be charged with assault.

HAMILTON TIGERS EASY VICTORY

Beat T.A.A.C. of Toronto in Opening Rugby Game.

Hamilton, Sept. 27. — About 2,000 fans turned out at the exhibition match here on Saturday between the Toronto Amateur Athletic Club and Hamilton Tigers. The day was more suitable for an ice cream social than a football match and both teams got a boiling out that was very trying.

There was some little speculation as to what kind of a showing the T.A.C. would make against the Tigers, and how the new timber in the latter organization would stand in the match. The play was very one-sided. Only once or twice was Hamilton's goal in danger, while, on the other hand, Toronto's back field were forced to play like Trojans against the incessant hammering the Tigers gave them. The score at full time was 25-2 in Tigers' favour.

Two trys were scored in the first half against a rouge. In the second two more, along with some rouges and converted triest totalled up 25 points.

A SMALL BLAZE IN MEAT SHOP

Insulation Burned off the Wires—Looked Dangerous.

A small blaze suddenly broke out this afternoon in Edwards' butcher shop on George street, and but for the quick work of the proprietor it might easily have done considerable damage. As it was it did not get a chance to burn anything. Without any warning the insulation on the wires leading to the motor blazed up and a low rumbling sound was heard. Fortunately some one pulled out the switch leading to the street wires, and a pail of water extinguished the fire on the wooden panel.

Be sure and see "The Tyranny of Tears" at the Grand, Wednesday, Sept. 30th. Plan now open.

DETROIT ONCE MORE IN THE LEAD

Champions won Sunday and are one Ahead of Cleveland—Sensational Race

The pennant races in the two major leagues are closer than ever to-day. Detroit having regained the lead in the American by one point over Cleveland, while New York has a bare lead of a single point over Chicago in the National. There is a difference of only four points between the first and third teams in the American. New York Nationals have eleven games to play and Chicago only six. Both won two games Saturday, the Giants from Cincinnati and the champions from the Brooklyns. St. Louis and Cincinnati broke even yesterday and Detroit and St. Louis won in the American. The disputed New York-Chicago game will have an all-important bearing on the National League race.

G.T.R. TIME TABLE BACK TO OLD SCHEDULE

The time table of the Lakefield division of the G.T.R. was reverted to the winter schedule to-day. Trains now travel as follows:

Leave Peterborough station at 8.30 in the morning, returning again at 10 a.m.

The second train goes to Lakefield at 12.20, returning at 5.15 p.m.

ELECTRIC WIRE GROUNDS AT GREEN'S FACTORY SHOCKING MEN AND HORSES SEVERELY

A short circuit in the wiring at the G. Walter Green foundry this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, literally filled every conductor with electricity, handing it out to three or four men in rather liberal doses, to others in a milder form and to a team of horses in an extra allowance. The cause of the short circuit is believed to have been caused by the insulation on one of the outside wires wearing off against the sheeting. The current ran throughout the latter and with the rain was carried in every direction. The flash was an unusually brilliant one and at the same time Mr. Bert Scriver, of the pattern shop was knocked down by the shock and Mr. Thos. Donaldson, of the office also received a slight charge.

A team of horses in front of the building were knocked off their feet, but picked themselves up and ran away, being finally stopped at Jackson Park. Mr. Hetherington, their driver was charged with the "juice" and so severely that several hours afterwards he was still weak.

A small fire started up and the brigade was called, answering in excellent time. Their services were scarcely required, as the blaze was not a serious one.

BOYS OF THIS DISTRICT WHO WERE IN THE FIGHTING RANKS IN SOUTH AFRICA HAVE FORMED ASSOCIATION

Already Have Appointed Officers and a Large Membership is Assured—Will Have Club Rooms and Meet Regularly

TO CONSIDER LAND GRANTS

A largely attended meeting of the men of Peterborough and the surrounding district who were with the Canadian volunteers in the South African war was held on Friday night in Mac's tobacco store when a South African Veterans' Association of Peterborough was formed. Among those present were: Messrs. R Biggs, Geo. McDonald, J Pilling, Harry Wilson, W Donovan, Geo. Might, Vance Wilson, D Forsythe, F A Coates, Ed Roddy, W F Morrison, V Hamilton, Cal Fee, Reg Turner and R Pearce, of Norwood.

The following officers were duly elected:

Hon. Presidents—Hon. J R Stratton and Mr. T E Bradburn.

President—Mr. Cal Fee.

Vice-President—Mr. Robt. Biggs.

Secretary—Mr. Victor Hamilton.

Treasurer—Mr. Reg. Turner.

The Association was instituted under most auspicious circumstances and has every promise of a successful future. There are quite a number of veterans of the South African war in this district assuring a good membership as practically all have signified their desire to join the club. The intention is to secure comfortable quarters, hold regular meetings and provide a social time for the boys, bringing them together under the friendships which were formed on the South African veldt.

These associations are springing up all over the country and it is highly probable that they will all be united under one body. There is a meeting in Toronto to-morrow night when this suggestion will likely be brought up at the discussion regarding the Northwest land grants. A delegation from the local association will attend this meeting. While some of the delegates are already selected the representative from there will be known after a meeting which is called for to-night at 8.30 o'clock at Mac's tobacco store. All the members are requested to be present as important matters will be considered.

Among the other veterans who are expected to join the club are Messrs. Thos. Miller and Wm. Leach, of Millbrook; Achilles Turner, Lee Connors, Jas. Judd, Fred Hubbs, (Hastings,) Richard Stewart, Roland Carter (Lakefield,) M Murphy, Dr. Blanchard, Fred McDonnell (Oshawa,) Wm Ballantyne, Thos. Angleasy, Bert Beach, Bert Gibson, Rich Turpin (Cobourg,) Geo. Humphries (Westwood,) Jas. Baskin (Norwood,) and W Waltord, of Bewdley. There are others that the committee are looking after and it is likely that all the surviving volunteers that left for South Africa from this district will join the association which will be affiliated with the others throughout Canada.

THE CHARM OF THE TURNED-UP NOSE

Those Who Look Like Mrs. Newlywed Must Have Slight Tilt to Nose

Everyone has his or her opinion of what constitutes feminine charms, and while brown eyes, golden hair, or blue eyes and dark hair, have always been mentioned as decided assets to the possessor, there has not been the same unanimity as regards the slightly tilted nose. Mr. Geo. McManus, the artist who draws the Newlywed family for the New York Sunday World, however, says this is a real attraction, and in the characterization of the woman of the trio you will notice there is the shadow of an upturning.

Mr. Bratton, of Leffler & Bratton, who is trying to discover the original Mrs. Newlywed, to put in his forthcoming production of "The Newlyweds and Their Baby," is daily visited by ladies from Hoboken, The Bronx and Richmond Hill.

Their introduction goes thusly, "Oh, Mr. Bratton, everyone out our way says I look just like Mrs. Newlywed, and you know I would just love to play the part. I have four children."

"Why, yes, how nice," replies Mr. Bratton. "But I am awfully sorry, you are just a little bit too tall (or short), but otherwise I would be delighted to give you the part. It is a terrible disappointment to me because I am sure I have never seen anyone more like the original Mrs. Newlywed."

The lady then straightens her hat, takes a kink out of her glove and departs. Happy? Perhaps all ladies with turnedup noses are happy. They say, and George McManus says the attraction of Mrs. N. is her turned-up nose.

HAVELOCK YOUNG FOLK HOLD AT HOME

Pleasant Evening Spent—First Social of Season

Examiner Special

Havelock, Sept. 28.—The first "at-home" of the season was held on Friday evening and was given by a number of the young men of town. Being the first, it was largely attended and greatly enjoyed by all present. Dancing commenced at 9.30. Music was supplied by a number of town ladies, assisted by Miss Louise Smith and Mr. Jos. Lonergan of Norwood. A dainty luncheon was served in the lunch room at 12.30, after which a few farewell dances were enjoyed, and everyone left for home delighted with their evening's enjoyment.

Rev. Dr. Symonds Is Spoken Of As A Probable Successor

Montreal, Sept. 28. — Special. — Throughout the entire Anglican community the question of the appointment of a successor to the late Bishop Carmichael is the subject of much earnest thought as well as a good deal of speculative discussion. There have been no formal gatherings to consider the selection, but many views have been exchanged, both by clergymen and representative laymen.

Four or five names are mentioned, among them being Dr. Symonds, vicar of Christ Church Cathedral. His scholarly attainments and strong mental force would, it is said, be likely to find fitting scope in the episcopal see. Whether he would have the influence over all sections of the Church that is regarded as a most desirable quality in an ideal bishop is a matter that a goodly number are disposed to question. The vicar of Christ Church belongs to the advanced wing of the Church. He is progressive in every sense, and he stands high unquestionably in the estimation of the intellectual churchmen of the city. Many think, however, that his very pronounced views would appeal to churchmen of the next generation more strongly than to those of the present.

An Indian Found To Be Drunk; Where Did He Get His Liquor?

Robt. Tobico an Indian from the Alnwick reserve, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on a charge of being drunk in Peterborough on Saturday last. The Indian pleaded guilty and was remanded until Saturday at the request of the Chief, who is anxious to discover, if possible, where the young fellow obtained the fire-water. Tobico told the Chief a story about the manner in which he was able to get liquor, and the authorities are anxious to investigate the truth or otherwise of the statement.

"It's about time this Indian business was stopped," remarked the magistrate, as he remanded the prisoner.

CAR SCARED HORSE

A Runaway At Bridgenorth Village---Steed Not Found Until The Following Day Was Leading the Horse To Water

ANIMAL GOES DISTANCE OF OVER EIGHT MILES

Examiner Special

Bridgenorth, Sept. 28. — As Mr. Chas. McConkey was watering his horses at the lake the other day they were frightened by an automobile while they were crossing the road, and one of them ran away. It went through the village at a lively rate for a heavy horse and disappeared from view. Mr. McConkey found it next day at Mr. John Moore's farm, on the fourth line of Smith, a distance of eight miles.

FARMERS' WIVES FAIL TO EVADE PAYING A TOLL

Mr. Wm. A Stahler, who assists Market Clerk Ball on Saturdays, stopped a little game that some farmers were trying to play last market day. They had sent seven baskets up stairs as usual but had not gone up with them. Instead they went among the stores and disposed of their produce and then returned to take it away to the stores. Mr. Stahler got wise right away and told them that they would have to pay the toll. The women remonstrated with him saying that they had not sold anything. He replied that he was quite aware of that fact but he wanted them to understand that they could not leave their baskets on the tables upstairs and in the meantime dispose of their goods to the merchants. They paid the toll.

WAS PRESENTED WITH A CHINA FRUIT DISH

Havelock, Sept. 28. — A number of the members of the Junior and Senior Auxiliaries of St. John's Church met at the rectory on Friday evening, to bid farewell to Mrs. E. Chapman, who with family leave on Monday morning for West Toronto, where they have decided to reside, and to show in some way their appreciation of her services in all church work, and more especially as a member of the W. A. in which she has been a devoted and earnest worker. Mrs. Chapman has filled for a number of years the office of president of the Junior and vice-president of the Senior, and in these offices has proved herself to be a willing worker, never growing weary of her duties, which were most ably fulfilled.

The incumbent, Rev. H. Caplan, made a short address on behalf of the ladies, after which Mrs. Chapman was presented with a dainty china fruit dish and a very pretty silver fern pot. The presentation was made by the president of the Senior Auxiliary, Mrs. Caplan.

Mrs. Chapman, although taken by surprise, replied in a few words thanking the members each and all for their great kindness in remembering her, and assured them they would always be treasured, and also that she would not forget the ladies of the W. A. and the many pleasant afternoons she had spent at their meetings, and although she had always tried to do what she could in all church work, still their kindness bestowed upon her on her departure seemed too great. Mr. Chapman was present and spoke in a few words of their regret in leaving Havelock, having been residents for the last twenty-one years, but found it necessary in his work to move to Toronto. He extended a most cordial invitation to all present that whenever in Toronto they would always receive a warm welcome at their home.

The evening was brought to a close by a general farewell. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and family leave on the local on Monday morning for their new home at West Toronto, followed by the best wishes of their Havelock friends.

SURPLUS FROM THE FAIR

A Rough Estimate Places The Amount at $750.00—Satisfactory Return

TOTAL RECEIPTS $3800.00

Roughly estimated the surplus from the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will amount to about $750. The secretary, Mr. Fred J. A. Hall, has not been able to give a detailed return, as all the accounts have not been handed in. The total proceeds amount to about $3,800, and the expenses are in the neighbourhood of $3,100. Some of the members were more sanguine than others and judging from the crowds that attended the fair they hoped to see an even thousand dollars to the good. This expectation, however, will have to wait another year for its realization.

THE PRAYERS HAD TO BE SAID BESIDE THE RIVER

Claim of the Jews of Peterborough—Rain Follows Supplication

On Sunday, the Jewish New Year, a number of the local representatives of the Chosen People, went down to the river's edge and prayed for rain. Mr. Lowes, in speaking to the Examiner yesterday, stated that their prayers had been answered by the refreshing downpour yesterday.

"If we had not gone down to the river to pray," said Mr. Lowes," the rain would not have come."

SUDDEN ATTACK UPON A YOUNG MAN LAST NIGHT

Knocked Down on Sidewalk at Corner of Charlotte and Aylmer

Last night about 5.30 o'clock there was witnessed by some a sudden attack upon a well dressed man of about twenty-four years of age by two others. The affair occurred at the southeast corner of the intersection of Charlotte and Aylmer streets. The former was knocked completely down, after which a few kicks were administered. Blood flowed from his head quite freely and he showed evident signs of the fray. He claimed he did not know the cause of the sudden attack.

NEW LIGHT ON STORY OF NEIGHBOUR'S QUARREL

In connection with the report of a fracas between two neighbours in yesterday's issue, one of them has requested the Examiner to make the following statement: "I was watering my grounds on Sunday when the mother and her two sons began casting slurs on me. I answered them and they advanced in line, one boy having a couple of stones in his hand and the other with his sleeves rolled up. They talked in a threatening manner. I retreated into the house and began taking the hose after me. They pulled it out of my hand and turned the water into my own house. When going in I took the axe with me but threw it out on the verandah. They took it from my house and kept it. I sent for the police, but when P. C. McIlwrry arrived things had quieted down."

Model For Statue Of Late Mrs. Nicholls Executed By Clever Peterboro Sculptress

To be Submitted to Council by The Artist, Miss Katherine Wallis—Bronze Monument Proposed for One of City's Parks

MISS WALLIS' ACHIEVEMENTS

The success achieved in recent years in the realm of art by Miss Katherine Wallis has been a source of much commendation from the lovers of the beautiful in art in Peterborough. Miss Wallis is recognized as a sculptress of ability by all the leading critics of the day, her work in executing the famous statue, Mercury, being among the best of her achievements. She is a Peterborough lady of culture, and is in the city at present. She has sketched a model for a bronze figure of the late Mrs. Rebecca Nicholls, with a view to executing a life size statue on a granite pedestal for one of the Peterborough parks, in honour of her memory.

The model was executed in the old Bank of Montreal building, and has been the object of much admiration by all who have seen it. It will be submitted to the city officials, and if ordered by them Miss Wallis will go to Paris to perform the work. She is a pupil of Oscar Wahlmann—probably the greatest sculptor of the present age—and in Paris will have the inestimable advantage of working beside this eminent sculptor.

The model was carved from the bust of Peterborough pottery clay, and those who know, claim it is a remarkable resemblance of the deceased benefactress. Not only the figure as a whole, but the expression and the mid-century Victorian dress are most natural. The posture is a sitting one, appropriate for a woman advanced in years, as was the late Mrs. Nicholls.

Miss Wallis' clever work, which has distinguished her among her Peterborough and Canadian friends, has been performed in Paris, France, where she had the advantage of the criticisms of the great Waldmann. Nevertheless, in the statues Mignonne and Mercury, now in Toronto, she is represented in the Dominion by some clever work. There is a possibility that Mignonne will be purchased for the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. On Thursday afternoon the model will be on exhibition at the old Bank of Montreal building, between four and six o'clock, on the occasion of the tea served by the King's Daughters.

Miss Wallis, in conjunction with Oscar Waldmann, intends holding an exhibition of her work in Montreal about the middle of November. The Woman's Art Association of Peterborough are making arrangements to have in December a similar exhibition in Peterborough, and if so the lovers of art here will be given a splendid opportunity of seeing the best that there is in the sculptor world of to-day—a privilege rarely enjoyed by any city or town in the Dominion of Canada.

Representatives of the city council, including His Worship the Mayor, visited the Bank of Montreal building yesterday and viewed the model, and were impressed with Miss Wallis' work. If the city decides to erect the monument to the memory of Mrs. Nicholls it is practically assured that Miss Wallis will be assigned the important task.

FOUGHT WINNING BATTLE WITH A DEVIL FISH ON THE OCEAN'S BOTTOM

San Francisco Diver, Gripped in Tentacles of Giant Antagonist, Plunged Knife Into Monster's Head Cutting Himself Free

IN THROES OF OCTOPUS

San Francisco, Cal., Sept.—Special—Wrapped in the tentacles of a giant devil fish, Martin Lund, a diver employed by the Coast Wrecking Company, fought for his life in the hold of the wrecked steamer Pomona, which lies in thirty feet of water in Fort Ross Cove, off the Martin County Coast. Lund arrived in this city after an experience which comes to few men and will enjoy a vacation before donning a diver's dress.

The devil fish had evidently entered the vessel's hold during the night and Lund was at work some time before he became aware of its presence. A giant tentacle four inches in diameter first gripped one leg. Before Lund could realize what had happened another encircled his thigh. The diver began to chop frantically at the rubber-like bonds and at the same time signalled to the barge above that he wished to ascend. Unable to free himself in time two more tentacles squirmed out of the darkness and one twined about his neck. The efforts of the men on the surface to comply with his signal threatened to pull off his helmet and he was forced to signal them to desist. With only his right arm free he hacked at the tentacles until they were partially crippled, but he was being drawn toward the deadly beak when he saw the outline of the devil fish's body. Plunging suddenly toward it he drove his knife with all his force into the head, repeating the blows until he had smashed it into sections.

In its death throes the octopus tightened its tentacles until the diver was almost crushed in its embrace. Lund then cut himself free and was brought to the surface in a fainting condition.

Another diver brought some of the severed tentacles to the surface and it is hoped to raise the body and bring it to this city for exhibition.

THE WORK ON THE TRENT CANAL GOES STEADILY ON; TENDERS ARE BEING CALLED FOR ANOTHER SECTION

Tenders are being invited by the Department of Railways and Canals for the construction of the work connected with Section No. 7, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Trent Canal. The plans may be seen at the Trent Canal Office here, between Sept. 26th and Oct. 20th.

Section No. 7 includes the stretch of canal between Healey's Falls and Rice Lake. This at the present time is navigable, but sufficient dredging has to be done at various points to constitute a nine foot channel. The work also includes a new swing bridge at Trent Bridge, new guide piers at the G. T. R. crossing above Hastings, and a new lock, dock, dam and entrance piers at Hastings.

A LARGE MADOC GRIST MILL IS DESTROYED BY A FIRE

Madoc, Sept. 29. — Special. — The three-storey grist mill owned and operated by Whytock and Sons was completely gutted by fire early this morning. The elevator and engine room were saved after a hard two hours' struggle by the firemen. The loss is about $5,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from a hot box in the basement. Fortunately it rained nearly all afternoon yesterday — the first here in nearly two months — otherwise the fire would have spread rapidly to the nearby wooden building.

CITIZEN SUGGESTS THAT THE FAIR SHOULD BE ADVOCATED IN WINTER

One of those who are interested in the welfare of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, was speaking recently about plans for increasing the interest among the farmers in next year's Fair. "I believe the directors could do a little work during the coming winter if they would in some way have their prize lists made out and given to the farmers in the winter and not wait till the following autumn. This would insure the farmers getting them early, and it is likely that a larger entry list would be the result," This is an idea suggested by one man, and he went a little further in his suggestions. He considers that it would be advisable to send a man around to the meetings of the Farmers' Institute in this county and thus reach the farmers who attend. They are generally the best of their class, as they are interested in securing the latest methods of carrying on their work. Some campaign like this was what appeared to be a progressive and profitable idea to get the farmers anxious to exhibit their products. In concluding, he remarked, "When the farmers of this section begin to be really interested in the Fair we will have good ones, and it should be the aim of the directors not to rest on their oars until next August, but in a quiet manner, to keep the Fair before the farmers during the intervening months."

A COMPARISON.

A comparison between the reports of the speeches at the Liberal and Conservative Saturday night rallies, respectively, will be instructive and bring characteristic contrasts. Those at the Liberal meetings speak of enthusiasm and confidence, they quote records of achievement by a Liberal Government and by Liberal representatives of West Peterborough. They speak of something positive and of promise—of positive benefits received by Canada and Peterborough and West Peterborough, at the hands of a Liberal Government and Liberal representatives. The speeches at the Conservative rallies speak of something negative and—nasty—petty scandal and childish claims of success—founded on sand. There is no talk of records of advancement by the party the speakers represent; there are no records of achievement by the candidate they are supporting, no promise of effective service in support of a party that can give promise of power to benefit the country even if it had the will.

Herein consists the relative merits of the two candidates and the two parties as represented by the Government and Opposition leaders, by the Government and Opposition candidates. This is not a contest to elect the president of a debating society, but to select a representative of one of the most important ridings in Canada, industrially and agriculturally. Peterborough city and its industrial interests want a representative of business capacity and familiarity with business enterprises, to be a friend at court and watch with vigilance and intelligent appreciation of advantages, the interests of the city. Peterborough county wants a representative who knows every inch of soil, and can realize, appreciate and effectively work to provide every legitimate need.

A careful study in contrasts by the thinking elector, who desires live, energetic and effective representation of West Peterborough, will not leave him in doubt as to the man he should support.

THE STORY OF PROGRESS.

A Peterborough gentleman this summer, after a few years' absence, visited the town of Welland and spent several days in trying to discover the old town of his birth and boyhood time, or even that of a few years previous. But he met with little success—the town had grown so rapidly—progress and improvement had so overrun the old landmarks that it was practically a new town. The nutting fields, pastures and vacant places of other days were covered with new industries, and in place of stagnation there were busy factories, and all around the hum of industry and thriving progress. This transformation was accomplished under the conditions attending the administration of a Liberal Government, a direct fruit of the forward impulse projected when the Liberal Government took power a dozen years ago.

It is not an isolated case, either. The same story of growth applies all over the country from Halifax to Vancouver. But owing to conditions, the West shows the greatest change. As remarked by the Toronto Star, the marvellous growth of the West is one of the stubborn facts which confront the Conservative campaigners. But the prosperity and growth of the West do not need to be proven by statistics. Anyone who, as the Star points out, visited the West in 1896 and again in 1908 will tell you that he saw virtually two countries. In 1896 there was one Province, and a great stretch of unorganized territory, thinly peopled and cultivated in little districts few and far between. To-day there are three Provinces vying with each other in population, settlement, and cultivation, and each with splendid prospects. The Calgary and Edmonton of 1908 are hardly to be compared with the Calgary and Edmonton of 1896. There are thriving towns in Saskatchewan which had not even a name twelve years ago—some of them not twelve months ago. There was one transcontinental railway in the West in 1896. There are three to-day, eagerly seeking for the privilege of sharing in the business of carrying the Western grain. And still the cry is for more railways. The Calgary Herald, a Conservative paper, is carrying on a campaign for more railways in Alberta, to act as feeders for the three transcontinentals. While the new Provinces are progressing at this tremendous pace, Manitoba is not lagging behind. The splendid city of Winnipeg is an object lesson teaching the prosperity of Manitoba.

Confronted with these solid facts, the Conservative campaigner falls back upon history, and says that the Conservative Government built the Canadian Pacific Railway. It promoted the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and it was entitled to a share of credit for that, although the chief credit must go to the bold financiers who risked their fortunes in the enterprise. But the Government was entitled to some credit, and it had its reward in a lease of power extending from 1882 to 1896. At the same time, in the making of the contract with the Canadian Pacific Railway, errors were made which retarded the progress of the country, especially the locking up of an enormous area from settlement. Fault was found also with the settlement and homestead laws, and the immigration policy was feeble and ineffective. The result, as declared by the Hon. Edward Blake in 1891, was "a Northwest empty still," and it need hardly be said that from the death of Sir John Macdonald to 1896 there was little or no improvement.

If the appeal is to be made to history, it can easily be shown that George Brown, the leader of the Liberal party, was the one public man who for twenty years upheld the advantages of the West and urged its union with Canada. It can be shown that up to the time of Confederation Sir John Macdonald was indifferent to the value of the West, except from the point of view of military defence. It can be shown that the bringing in of the West was a plank in the platform of a Liberal convention held in Toronto in 1857. But we live neither in 1857 nor in 1882, but in 1908. We are dealing with the present, and with the work done in the development of the West in the last twelve years, under the present Administration. If the Government had failed in the West, no excuse would have saved it from public condemnation. As it has succeeded beyond all expectation, it will receive credit from all fair-minded men.

Vote for the Liberal Government and its supporter in West Peterborough, and insure a continuance of effective administration and good live representation.

BEARING FALSE WITNESS:

Mr. Borden must suffer the responsibility arising from the company he keeps. He sat on the platform in Peterborough on Friday night last and listened to Mr. Roblin's slanderous, libellous and untruthful attack in the matter of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway matter, in which the Manitoba Premier sought to make the Liberal Government responsible for what a Conservative Government was guilty of—if there were guilt. Mr. Borden should have known, when he listened to Mr. Roblin's ravings, that as the Globe points out the Government at Ottawa had nothing whatever to do with granting the charter which alienated 400,000 acres of British Columbia lands to a private syndicate. He must know that not one acre of that land belonged to the Dominion; that the charter which covered it was granted by a Conservative Government in British Columbia to a syndicate every man of whom was a Conservative and that for seven years that charter was held by Conservatives, and its requirements unfulfilled, before any Liberal held a dollar of its stock. He should know, too, that 250,000 acres of the original grant went ultimately to the C. P. R. and 250,000 to the coal company, and that Mr. Cox and Mr. Jaffray never held more than one-fourth interest in the coal company, three-fourths remaining in Conservatives hands. And he can scarcely be ignorant of the fact that the one "deal" the Laurier Government made in those coal lands was to exact from the company 50,000 acres, which are still held by the Dominion as a public safeguard and protection against private monopoly. Instead of the "job" Mr. Roblin charged, the granting of a subsidy by the Dominion Government secured the speedy construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, by which the Kootenay district of British Columbia was opened up, with great development results, and trade directed from the United States. And it was one of the conditions of the bargain made with the Canadian Pacific, who built the road, that the C. P. R. should grant substantial reductions in freight rates, inwards and outgoing, to the farmers of the West. The reduction of freight rates thus secured on wheat alone in five years amounted to $3,750,000 or more than the total amount of the subsidy paid. These are the facts in connection with the whole-cloth yarn which Mr. Roblin told in Peterborough about the Globe and the Crow's Nest affair, which Mr. Borden, if he had the knowledge of affairs to be expected of a man in his position, must have known to be false, and what has since been proved to be false by the editor of the most decent and dependable Conservative journal in Canada. Mr. Roblin's platform charges are of similar character. Not one of them has been brought to proof, not one of them proven, but all substantially disproved. Bearing false witness is a favourite form of Conservative argument.

THE FARMER'S INTERESTS WELL LOOKED AFTER.

One has only to turn to the trade returns to be convinced how greatly Canada's chief industry, agriculture, has prospered under Liberal rule.

In the first place, the country has in Hon. Sydney Fisher a minister of agriculture who is a practical and educated farmer, who during the eleven years he has been at the head of the department has proven himself a most progressive administrator and who has devoted his energies and outstanding ability to the promotion of the interests of agriculture.

Some of the services rendered Canada by Hon. Mr. Fisher, which have had much to do with bringing about present satisfactory conditions, are the removal of the quarantine between this country and the United States; the enactment of the San Jose scale act for the protection of Canadian orchards against a most insidious pest; the inauguration of the distribution of agricultural information to the farmers; the appointment of a practical agriculturist to manage the tillage and live stock at the Central Experimental Farm; the appointment of a live stock commissioner to deal with the various interests of live stock production and management in Canada; the appointment of experts to give instruction in all phases of the farmer's work, and the establishment at a chain of cold storage for the transportation of the perishable products of the dairy and the farm to the markets of Great Britain.

In the five years ended June, 1896, the exports from Canada as agricultural products of all kinds, including animals and their products, amounted to $234,751,654; in the five years ended June 1908, they had increased to $535,418,297, or a gain of over $290,000,000 under Liberal rule. In other words, in the last Conservative five years the agricultural exports averaged only $50,000,000 a year, while the average for the five Liberal years was $107,000,000, or considerably more than double. So, too, as regards domestic produce of all kinds, including agricultural products. In the Conservative period the exports of such produce totalled $520,907,274, as against $1,035,174,328 in the Liberal five years.

A comparison of exports of the three important commodities, butter, cheese and bacon, in Liberal and Conservative five year period, is of interest:

	1892-1896 Conservative	1902-1906 Liberal	Increase
Butter	$ 6,185,028	$ 30,818,3 2	$ 24,13,297
Cheese	68,557,846	113,317,469	44,759,823
Bacon	14,473,855	66,804,650	52,330,795
Totals	$88,127,536	$210,467,351	$122,230,825

And in every other branch of agriculture the same remarkable development is seen. For these results the wise administration of Mr. Fisher deserves a large measure of credit.

The cold storage system established under Mr. Fisher's direction is generally acknowledged to be the best in the world. By means of it the Canadian producer is enabled to transport perishable commodities to the old world, outstripping even his enterprising United States competitor in the struggle to capture the profitable markets of Great Britain and the European continent.

The Liberal Government deserves well of the farmers of Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. R. P. Roblin's Crow's Nest proves to be a mare's nest.

Waterloo has been Seagram's for years, but this election, the London vertiser thinks, will probably be Seagram's Waterloo.

Nothing must be more distasteful to the editor of the Toronto News than the party compulsion of whitewashing Mr. Foster, the man whose western dealings, the News, before it had become an out-and-out Conservative organ, described as "nasty, underhand and wholly inexcusable."

HOW THEY STAND.

Mr. J. A. Macdonald comes out of Premier Roblin's Crow's Nest scandal vindicated—cleared of the unfounded slanders directed against him. Mr. J. S. Willison comes out with credit as a man whose sense of fair play and regard for truth led him to do the right thing at the right time. He was not a compellable witness; he might have kept silent; but he did the manly thing. The only one of the trio directly concerned in the incident, who comes out thoroughly discredited is Hon. R. P. Roblin, whom Mr. Borden in the Opera House here dignified with the title of Premier of Manitoba. He is branded as a convicted slanderer, a political Cassandra, whose prophecies and charges will henceforth be discredited and discounted in advance of their utterance.

The Success Of Mr. Daniel Derbyshire, Known As The Cheese King Of Canada

Large Limbed and Big Hearted Senator Has Made a Name For Himself—His Honesty in His Relations With the Great Cheese Industry

WORK HE HAS PERFORMED

Writing in the October number of the Busy Man's Magazine, G O Keith, a brother of the Rev. H J Keith, of Peterborough, tells of how Senator "Dan" Derbyshire became the Cheese King of Canada. He says:

Senator Daniel Derbyshire, known throughout the farming community as "Our Daniel," has done, perhaps, more than any single individual in private life in Canada to develop the cheese industry along scientific lines. He started the manufacture of cheese in the early seventies in the township of Bastard, Leeds County, Ontario. Previous to this he was a practical farmer, and the place of his birth is known by the poetic name of Plum Hollow. He was educated at the classic village of Athens and taught school for a time, entering the cheese enterprise at the age of twenty-eight. He gave up manufacturing to enter the cheese supply business and to launch out as a buyer. So successful has he been along these lines that he is now known as the "Cheese King."

As a builder of this industry he has done much to raise and maintain the standard of Canadian-made cheese which now commands the highest price on the market. While Senator Derbyshire was working to elevate the standard of dairy produts in the east, the late Hon. Thomas Ballantyne was busy in Westegn Ontario and it was through their influence that instructors were employed with the object of improving the quality of the output. While not the founder of the Canadian cheese industry Senator Derbyshire is undoubtedly entitled to the honour of being one of the greatest promoters of co-operative cheese-making as we have it in the Dominion to-day. He is the largest dealer in Canada in cheese factory supplies and furnishes factories with complete equipments.

He has been for years a favourite at dairymen's conventions and knows how to hold the attention of an audience. He can amuse and all say, "There is no one like our Dan. He is the Burdette of Canada." He takes the greatest interest in the education of cheese manufacturers and in improving the quality of dairy products. Through his influence and that of the men with whom he has been associated, he has seen the cheese factories of Canada increased in number to about three thousand, nearly all managed by farmers themselves. So popular is he that for over twenty years he has held the position of President of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association. His fairness in dealing with farmers and people and his keen sense of justice have made him a prime favourite. If a seller makes a point he always concedes it at once and thus wins another friend. Not only is he a favourite throughout the Brockville district but everywhere where he is personally or commercially known in Ontario and New York State. The salesmen are often heard to say, "You know we couldn't leave Dan's firm for they always treat us white."

Senator Derbyshire has found time from his business to take a great interest in the affairs of his town and served as Mayor of Brockville for two years. In 1891 his friends prevailed upon him to run for the Federal House but he was defeated in that contest and also in the one of 1900, but was successful in 1904. For his election he was indebted to the favours of his opponents as well as those of his friends. Picture Uncle Dan puttting that great hand of his on an opponent's shoulder and saying in his inimitable way "Well, my friend, how do you think it is going to go?" The answer would come, "I don't like your part, Dan, but I couldn't bring myself to vote against you. You won't tell anyone, though, will you?"

Hon. Daniel Derbyshire possesses a commanding figure, stands over six feet and is broad in proportion. He has a buoyant manner, though at first glance one would not think so. His interruptions in the House and in committee created a great deal of mirth and Sir Wilfrid Laurier at once christened him as "Uncle Dan," and the name stuck. As "Uncle Dan" he was introduced to Lord Roberts at Quebec and Sir Wilfrid could not repress a smile when he saw Uncle Dan with his six feet six and Bobs, the diminutive hero of Kandahar and Pretoria, walking together. It was one of the sights at the Tercentenary.

A good story is told about the earlier days of Senator Derbyshire. He was visiting factories at Lyn and accompanied his friend down to the station where he was to take the train west. They arrived at the station before the train was due and filled in the time walking up and down oblivious to the curious glances of two Americans on the platform. The tale relates back to the days when boots were made with extension or grass edges and Mr. Derbyshire, who has a large foot, wore a pair of these which were apparently size twenty. As soon as Mr. Derbyshire left the station the American approached his friend and inquired if the big gentleman lived across the water, "No," he answered, "why?" They replied that they were sure he resided across the river and that he had on a pair of scows to ferry himself over the St. Lawrence. Everyone knows that Dan is celebrated not only for his big feet but for his glad hand, cheery smile and large heart.

He is thorough in everything that he undertakes and this has made him many friends. He never indulges in fault measures. Mr. Ayer, with whom he has been doing business for the past thirty years, is proud of the business methods and straightforward dealing of the man who bought cheese for them for that length of time. His many other associates in the trade refer to the great work that he has done for the dairy business and say that he deserves the name "Cheese King."

In 1908 he was appointed a Senator to fill the vacancy made by the death of Hon. G T Fulford, of Brockville.

It was a deserving honour to one who has done so much to build up and maintain the high quality of the Canadian dairy output and keep the name of Canada to the front as a producer of high-class products.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS AT HALL'S GLEN, DUMMER

Mr. David Madill Sells to Mr. David Crowe—Coming to Peterborough

Mr. David Madill, for years post master, mail carrier, general store keeper, blacksmith and shingle sawyer, of Hall's Glen, North Dummer, has disposed of all his interests there. The purchaser is Mr. David Crowe, of Dummer. Mr. Madill has decided to come to Peterborough for the winter, and probably he will go to the west later.

Before the institution of Galesburg post office, between Lakefield and Halls Glen, Mr. Madill carried the mail and drove the stage between Warsaw and the Glen, but since that time he has made Lakefield his terminal.

SOME TESTIMONIALS FOR "THE OLD LOYALIST"

The new book, "The Old Loyalist," written by A R Davis, Esq., C.E., Winnipeg, is being spoken of very highly. Among those who have written testimonials are Rev. Dr. Young, Montreal, formerly of Peterborough, and Rev. Dr. Burwash, of Toronto. They are as follows—

Montreal, Sept. 2.

Dear Mr. Davis,—Rev. Dr. Briggs recently sent me a copy of your book, "The Old Loyalist." I have read it with very great pleasure and congratulate you upon your success as an author. The reading of the book brought vividly to my mind old associations when I had the pleasure of being the "Circuit Rider" at Adolphustown. I think in your book you have succeeded in combining in your characters many of the excellent traits of the U. E. Loyalists. They were a noble band and Canada is largely indebted to them.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) W. R. YOUNG.

Victoria College,
Toronto, Sept. 4,

My Dear Mr. Davis,—About midsummer I received from the Book Room a copy of your book entitled "The Old Loyalist," and during vacation was able to read it through. I am quite familiar with the entire region in which you have laid the plot of your story, and can fully sympathize with your life-like portraiture of the old people of the Bay of Quinte region. I am very glad that you have written this book and I hope that Dr. Briggs will place it in his catalogue of books for our young people's libraries, where it would do very good service in keeping in mind the heroism of the older days.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) N. BURWASH,
Chancellor.

THIEVING AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

Directors Afraid to Nail Lumber on the Stand

There are some people in the neighbourhood of the Exhibition grounds who have won for themselves an unenviable reputation, in the opinion of the directors of the Peterborough Exhibition. The time has come when the latter are preparing to look up the grounds for another year, and they refuse to leave loose lumber around the grounds. They will not even nail the pine planks on the platform in front of the grandstand, for they know that some one would carry them off even should they have to use a crow-bar in wrenching them from the beams. One of the directors states that it would be next to useless to put the lumber in the building, for this was done on a previous occasion, but the doors were burst open and the planks disappeared. He had left his umbrella at the grounds on the last day of this year's Fair, and going down the next day found at least forty young men and boys hunting around the grounds for something or another. Of course, the umbrella was gone.

THE NEWS FROM DOURO TOWNSHIP

Threshing is the Chief Occupation—Smoke Has Been Thick

Examiner Special

St. Joseph's, Douro, Sept. 28.— The surrounding country is beginning to assume the appearance of early autumn. The very warm and dry weather of the past week or two has given it a disagreeable and parched look. Forest fires in the vicinity add to the general discomfort, filling the air with smoke and making it at most impossible to see beyond two or three hundred yards.

Threshing is the only occupation which affords steady work just now, and McCliggott Bros. are having their hands full. They have got a new traction engine on the road and are making things hum.

This year so far has been a very healthy one for the township, there having been few deaths and little sickness. Prospects in matrimonial lines are brighter, and the attendance at the bachelor club is gradually decreasing.

Mr. Eakins, cattle buyer, was in the vicinity this week.

Mr. Arthur Carveth reports having had a pleasant time in the West.

Mr. Geo. Whibbs left for Ottawa last week to resume his studies at the university.

Mr. Roger Devlin left recently to continue a course in St. Jerome's College, Berlin.

BUSH FIRES RAGE AT HALL'S GLEN

Much Damage Has Been Done in That Vicinity—Wells are Dry

Examiner Special

Hall's Glen, Sept. 28.—Bush fires have been raging in the east of Dummer, much waste and devastation has resulted, and greater destruction is feared unless the country is favoured with rain. Farmers find it difficult to supply the engines with water for threshing this autumn. Most of the wells have been dry for months past. Mr. W. Carveth is paying frequent visits to his limits on the ninth line, protecting his property against the raging fires.

One of the largest 'lunge of the season was landed last week by Mr. A. Darling near McCracken's Landing. It weighed a little less than 17 pounds.

Miss Nellie Parsons attended the masquerade last week at Mr. N Armstrong's.

Mrs. M E Crowe has been attending the Toronto exhibition and spending a few days with her daughter while in the city.

Mr. D. Madill has returned from his long trip out West, where he enjoyed the fresh air and boundless tract of country. He is thinking of selling his stock and moving to the famous wheat fields.

The only nourishment that bread affords is that which the flour contains.

Undigested Food

When any portion of food remains in the stomach and refuses to digest, it causes the torments of indigestion. This undigested food rapidly ferments, irritating the sensitive coating of the stomach, while other parts of the body, particularly the head, suffer in consequence.

So long as this undigested food remains in the stomach, the discomfort continues. A few doses of stop all fermentation, sweeten the contents of the stomach and give natural assistance that relieves the stomach of its burden. The use of Beecham's Pills gradually strengthens the stomach nerves and soon restores them to a normal, healthy condition.

Beecham's Pills positively cure all stomach troubles, while their beneficial effects on the liver and kidneys greatly improve the general health.

Beecham's Pills have been used and recommended by the general public for over fifty years.

SPLIT, BRITTLE DULL HAIR

All Come From Dandruff, Which is Caused by a Germ

Split hair, hard hair, lustreless hair, brittle hair, falling hair, all owe their origin to dandruff, which is caused by a measly little microbe that burrows in to the scalp, throwing up the cuticle into dandruff scales and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root, causing the several discussed conditions of the hair till it finally falls out. Modern science has discovered a remedy to destroy the dandruff microbe, which is combined in Newbro's Herpicide, the delightful hair dressing. Allays itching instantly and makes hair soft as silk. Take no substitute; nothing "just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. THE WEATHER

The long-continued drought was broken yesterday and last night by the copious showers that fell. Since July 17th, there has been but one heavy rain (that of August 5th) and as a consequence the earth became baked, and vegetation burned, to an extent, fortunately, but rarely seen in this part of Ontario. Many streams became shrunken in their flow, and wells went dry that were never before known to fail. In addition, forest fires raged in different sections, filling the atmosphere with dense smoke, which almost completely obscured Old Sol for days at a time. This state of affairs is now happily past, or at least conditions are much improved. The rainfall of yesterday and last night amounted to 1 inch and 25-100. During April, the rainfall was about the average amount, while in May more than the usual quantity fell. The Examiner has been favoured with the official figures of the rainfall in Peterborough since June 1st. The figures given are inches and decimals of an inch of rainfall on the level.

Some Cold Weather Promised By Irl Hicks For Next Month

Snow Squalls May Take Place During First Few Days—Followed by Bleak Weather—Thunderstorms Towards End of the Month

A DANGER TO NAVIGATION

According to Prof. Irl Hicks October promises to be marked by several cold periods, particularly in the earlier parts of the month, although there will be some fine weather as well. It is possible the weather authority says, that there may be snow squalls during the first few days, followed by cold, bleak weather. Prof. Hicks' prediction for the month is as follows:

A regular storm period beginning in September will extend at least two days in October, during which days storm areas will be over sections toward the Atlantic, and sharp anti-storm conditions—that is, rising barometer, northerly winds and change to colder will be advancing from west to east behind the storms. It is quite probable that early snow squalls may come with the northern and western tangents of these storms.

A cautionary storm period is centred on the 4th, 5th and 6th. The chances are that disagreeable, autumnal weather will continue into this perior from the preceding period, with an increase of cloudiness, fall of the barometer and quickened rain and snow storms on and touching the 5th. The moon is at extreme declination at this time, also at first quarter, hence winds will naturally flow from notherly directions in most parts, adding bleakness and autumnal chill to the weather.

A regular storm period is central on the 10th, covering the 8th to the 12th, inclusive. The influence of earth's autumnal equinox, in diminished force, will extend into this period, as will also the beginning of the Mercury disturbance. The storm diagram for October illustrates these facts. The opposition of the planet Saturn with earth and sun on September 30th, will also be a disturbing factor at this period, and also at the two or three preceding storm periods. The moon is in perigee on the 7th, also at full moon and on the celestial equator on the 9th. There are valid reasons to hope that seismic unrest will have greatly subsided by this time, but within three days of sunset on the 9th is a period of marked seismic probability. Change to low barometer, much warmer, and growing cloudiness will appear at the beginning of this period, especially in the extreme southwest parts of the continent, and during the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th storms of wide magnitude and marked violence will visit many parts of the country. Peril on the gulf coasts should take up one by surprise at the beginning of this period, and all should know that danger is probable on the lakes and in the lake regions before its close. On or not far from the 9th you will hear of, or witness, some big autumnal storms and gales. "Mind if you don't." Northern States will have early snow about the 10th to 12th, and an October cold wave will ship down over the country between the 9th and the 14th.

A reactionary storm period will express itself on the 15th, 16th and 17th. On and touching these dates look for change to warmer, falling barometer, change of wind directions with return of cloudiness and precipitation. This period is at moon's first quarter and greatest north declination. The Mercury period is central on the 17th. Thick, continued cloudiness, resulting in autumnal drizzle, winding up with sleet in many sections, is the general outlook for this period. Rising barometer, sharp northerly winds, frosts and some freezing will mark the 18th to the 20th, over most parts of the country northward. The breath of Boreas, tempered somewhat as it goes southward, will reach the gulf regions.

A regular storm period covers the 21st to the 25th. The 23rd is the central date of this period, but it will reach beyond its normal limits because of the moon's conjunction with earth and sun on the 25th. By the 23rd, low barometer and autumnal thunderstorms will be in progress from west to east, and these conditions will cover wider areas and gain in intensity as they march across the country. Barometric pressure will rise, the temperature will fall to decidedly cold readings, and boreal gales will follow from the northwest immediately in the wake of these storms. The 22nd to 27th is another period of decided seismic possibility. Such phenomena may not occur during this or other October periods, but if they are felt or reported at all, we call upon all readers of Word and Works to note whether or not they hit the seismic periods herein pointed out. Do this every month.

A reactionary storm period is centrally on the 27th, 28th and 29th. The moon reaches its extreme south declination on the, 30th, not far from first quarter on Nov. 1. Hence northerly gales and boreal storms will mark this period and the closing days of the month. It will be well to figure on snow squalls in northern sections on and touching the 28th and 29th. Following the storm areas the barometer will rise rapidly and marked change to cooler will spread generally from west to east by the end of October.

There is, as a rule, a decided spurt of cold several weeks in advance of settled winter, and with a spell of fine, moderate weather intervening. This is especially true at times when a Venus equinox falls late in September or early in October. These months are free from the Venus disturbance this year, hence the probabilities of a premature dash of winter are minimized for this month. If we are to have such visitation, the probabilities are that it will come during one of the storm periods covered by the Mercury brace. See the storm diagram. As a rule there are decided tendencies to boreal gales over the great lakes in October. Those whose lives and interests are involved should not lose sight of this fact, but practical watch should be kept on all October storm and weather indications.

SAMPSON'S STRENGTH

Will Not Resist the Pulling Down Influence of a Kidney Aching Back

The strongest man or woman with a back constantly aching finds daily existence a struggle. Its the same way with urinary troubles. Booth's Kidney Pills cure these ailments. Peterborough people prove this statement.

W. Wormington, No. 121 Brock street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I had suffered with rheumatism for over three years. I had found little or no relief in any of the remedies I had tried. I became so stiff and sore that I could scarcely turn in my bed and had to lay off from my work. The urine was highly coloured and filled with a heavy sand-like sediment which plainly told the disordered state of the kidneys. I tried Booth's Kidney Pills through an advertisement at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I was surprised to see how quickly the urine cleared. The kidneys were soon active, and the uric acid went from my system. The rheumatism gradually became less severe and finally left me. I am better than in years previous, and could not hesitate to recommend Booth's Kidney Pills." Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Limited, Fort Erie, Ont., Sole Canadian Agents.

Work to be Done at Water Works—The Features of New Machine

Mr. Hammond, superintendent of the Water works will go to Peterborough to-morrow for the special fitting and connected apparatus owned by the Water Commissioners of that city. A hydrant is to be installed in front of the power house and the pipe leading to the building must be cut. Another 8-in. connection has to be made at the water works for Mr. Bridge and this machine will also have to be used there. The main feature about this apparatus is the short space of time that it takes to do the work, and the good results secured and that the connection can be made with the full pressure on.—Lindsay Free Press.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. County Council at Special Meeting This Morning is Asked To Appoint Arbitrators to Deal With The Question

$6,000 FOR THE BRIDGES

A special meeting of the County Council was held this morning for the purpose of giving By-law No. 933 its final reading, a by-law to provide for the issuing of debentures for the raising of $6,000 to be used in building bridges. Warden Thompson was in the chair, and all the members were present as follows:

Councillors Scott, Graham, Brown, Killen, Coben, Ingram, Booth, Haines, Maloney, Darling, Russell, Oakman, Moore, Breault, Fife and Porter.

The minutes of last meeting were read by the County Clerk and were adopted. By-law No. 933 was given its third reading by Mr. Breault, and was passed, signed and sealed.

A delegation, composed of Messrs. Ed. Jory, D. Darling and Ed. Westley, of Douro, and Mr. Chas. Tighe, of Dummer, were present, asking the council to appoint another board of three arbitrators to deal with the question of forming a new school section in the 5th Concession of Douro between Lakefield and S. S. No. 8. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared on behalf of the deputation, introducing the matter to the council. Many of the ratepayers of Douro and Dummer, he said, are dissatisfied with the long distance which their children have to go in order to attend either of these schools. Some have to walk three miles, others four, and the new school is intended to relieve this difficulty. The idea is to have it situated near the Pine Grove cheese factory, thus providing a reasonable distance for the children to go to school. Mr. Kerr read a petition signed by ratepayers in that section, in which they expressed their dissatisfaction with the decision of the former arbitration, alleging that it was not entirely disinterested. Mr. Kerr stated that in appealing all that was asked was that the council appoint three arbitrators, who should be non-residents of that section, and have no interest in the matter in any particular. The petitioners would be satisfied with their decision, whatever it might be.

Mr. Jory, Mr. Darling and Mr. Tighe then addressed the council, stating that from three to four miles were altogether too much for children to walk to school, especially in these times, when educational facilities were receiving so much attention. In winter it was almost an impossibility, and then the children had to drive.

Mr. E. A. Peck, county solicitor, stated that the appeal was presented in correct form and it remained with the council whether they would take it up or not.

Inspectors Brown and Lees pointed out that the first arbitration was quite disinterested, and stated that while the change would relieve some, it would create the same disability for others.

It was decided to go into committee in the afternoon to consider the question.

Mr. Dinsdale, of Keene, made a request for an extra allowance in the contract for Armstrong's bridge. It was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee.

The council adjourned to go into Roads and Bridges Committee.

Charity Will Be Distributed Systematically This Winter

King's Daughters Point Out The Needs of Re-arrangement to The Charity Board—The Matter Taken Up Last Night

TO BE NO OVER-LAPPING

The most important feature of the Central Charity Board held last night was the discussion that took place in regard to the distribution of charity systematically in Peterborough in order to prevent the confusion and over-lapping that has existed in the past. It was decided to make the Charity Board the central body and have all charity distributed through it. At the meeting the relief officer, Mr. F W Miller, reported to the board that representatives of the King's Daughters had been to see him in reference to the charity question. They stated that last year there was far too much overlapping and they would like to have the work done this year systematically. They suggested that a joint meeting be held and some plan agreed upon.

The chairman of the board said that two or three years ago, Mr. Miller had advocated that policy but that the other societies refused to fall in with the idea. He would be pleased to have a joint meeting not only with the King's Daughters, but with all the charitable institutions in the city.

It was therefore decided that the chairman should arrange for such a gathering and also that the ministers of all the churches be requested to attend. The object is for all institutions or churches or individuals who have charity to send it to Mr. Miller or to communicate with him so that he can keep a record of those being benefitted.

Five Prisoners From Local Gaol Sent To The Central Yesterday

There was rather a wholesale jail delivery at the Peterborough jail when the Provincial bailiff, J. J. Ryan, of the Central Prison, visited Peterborough to take away a number of the prisoners who have been sentenced to that institution, but who owing to the congested condition of the Toronto prison could not be sent there until yesterday. The Provincial officer arrived at noon and took his men away on the 5.25 G.T.R. train.

Five were taken from here—James Graney, Henry Hamilton, and Joseph Adams, the three men who were sentenced in August for picking pockets, Charles Pease, convicted of burglarizing the residence of E. G. Patterson on August 3, and W. Fallon, convicted the other day on a charge of burglarizing Mrs. Dennistoun's residence. Hamilton will serve two years, Graney and Adams one year, and Fallon and Pease six months each.

Mr. Ryan had also to pick up two prisoners at Lindsay, Fred Mallory, with a two year term ahead of him, for theft, and Lawrence Sylvester, sentenced to one year for assault.

Farewell To Rev. Wm. Major At All Saints, Peterborough

Congregation Regret His Departure—Strong Financial Standing

PRESENTATION WAS MADE

At All Saints' Church last night the retiring rector, Rev. Wm. Major, was the recipient of a farewell address and presentation from the members of the congregation, with which he has been connected for the past four and a half years. The large number of people present and the speeches of eulogistic nature that were made testified to the popularity in which Rev. Mr. Major is held by the people of All Saints' Church, and showed how deeply they regretted his departure from Peterborough.

The chair last night was occupied by Mr. J. H. McClellan. The meeting being opened by devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Mr. Major, Mr. J. Edgar, the people's warden, read the following address on behalf of the congregation of the church and Sunday school:

To Rev. Wm. Major.

Dear and Reverend Sir,—The members of the congregation of All Saints' Church have learned with deep regret of your intended departure from Peterborough, consequent upon your resigning the rectorship of our church, to accept a charge in a field which will undoubtedly afford wider opportunities for your recognized ability and aggressiveness in the spiritual welfare of our people.

During the four and a half years that you have been rector of our parish, great progress has been made in the spiritual and material welfare of our church. The increased attendance at our church during the past few years has been due almost entirely to your ability as a preacher, and to your untiring zeal in the interest of the various societies in connection with our parish. You have proved yourself to be ever faithful to the interests of every branch of our church work, your special interest in behalf of the choir being particularly appreciated. In your departure from Peterborough our Sunday school and Bible Class lose an able teacher and a true and valued friend.

It was the hope of our congregation that you might have been permitted to remain with us for many years to come, as we were confident that under your spiritual guidance the parish of All Saints' Church would grow to be one of the most important in our Province. We congratulate you, however, upon the honour that has been conferred upon you by the call you have received to a wider and more responsible field of labour. We take it as a well-deserved recognition of your capabilities, which we, the members of the parish of All Saints', have, we hope, not failed to appreciate.

We desire too, to express to you our regret in the departure of Mrs. Major from among us. She has endeared herself to the members of our congregation by reason of her many noble qualities, and her unselfish devotion to the interests of All Saints'. To both of you we extend our sincerest wish that God may prosper you in your new field of labour. We trust, however, that you may not soon forget your many friends in the parish of All Saints', Peterborough. And as a slight token of our esteem we ask you to accept this roll top writing desk from the congregation and children of the Sunday School. We hope that on the many occasions on which you may use it, you may look back with kindly recollections to your residence in Peterborough, and to your Rectorship of All Saints' Church.

In conclusion we may say in the words of David, "The Lord prosper you, we wish you good luck in the name of the Lord."

Signed on behalf of the congregation and Sunday School,

J. EDGAR,
People's Warden.
FRANK DAWSON,
Rector's Warden.

Peterborough, Sept. 28th, 1908.

The presentation was made by Mr. F. Dawson, the Rector's Warden.

Rev. Mr. Major, in his reply, thanked the members of the congregation and the Sunday School for their kind expressions of esteem, and also for the present, which he prized so highly, and expressed deep regret in leaving the associations which had been so congenial to him during the past four and a half years.

Alderman Buller, referred in feeling terms to the loss the church had sustained in the departure of Mr. Major from the parish of All Saints'. In fact the entire city of Peterborough regretted Mr. Major leaving the city.

Mr. John Green in a few brief words expressed the hope that Mr. Major would not soon forget All Saints' Church, but would, as often as possible, return and visit the parish where he had made so many friends.

Mr. Edgar, the People's Warden, gave a few interesting facts in connection with Rev. Mr. Major's rectorship of All Saints'. He pointed out how the church had prospered under his rectorship. The debt that was on the church when Mr. Major took charge four years ago, had been completely wiped out, and property costing $1,500.00 had been purchased and paid for. An interesting statement from Mr. Edgar was the fact that the amount of money collected during the four and a half years Mr. Major was in charge of All Saints' was $1,000 per year more than the current expenses of the church. Taking into consideration the comparatively small and new parish, it is most encouraging and certainly something of which the Rector can be justly proud. Mr. Edgar claimed that this very satisfactory showing was due almost entirely to Mr. Major's ability and to his energy in behalf of his congregation.

The meeting then adjourned to partake of refreshments supplied by the ladies of the Women's Guild, which was much appreciated.

The gathering last night was altogether a very representative one, and many sincere regrets were expressed in the departure of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Major from Peterborough. Rev. Mr. Major leaves Peterborough to accept a position in connection with one of the prominent churches in Montreal.

The dates for the local production of "All the Comforts of Home" are set for Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, November the 3rd and 4th. The amateurs are rehearsing day and night and a fine performance of this clever comedy may be expected.

THE MURDERER HAS DISAPPEARED

Man Accused of Killing Glengarry Woman Leaps Into Sea.

WAS PROBABLY DROWNED

Lee Johnson, Caught After Three Years on Charge of Slaying Belle M. Gilchrist, Eludes Captor and Jumps Overboard in Alaska Waters—Had Bare Chance of Escaping to the Shore.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 29.—Joel Warren, formerly chief of police of Spokane, now special agent of the Department of Justice for the Second Alaska District, who is in the city with Mrs. Warren visiting friends, has received advices that Lee H. Johnson escaped from his guards while on the way from Seattle to Nome by jumping overboard from the steamship Victoria while going through Unimaka Pass, 700 miles north of Nome.

It is not believed the man reached shore, as the pass is 12 miles wide.

Johnson was run down after a chase of three years by Special Agent Warren on the charge of having murdered his wife, who was formerly Belle M. Gilchrist, of Glengarry, in the Province of Ontario, at Nome in October, 1905.

Johnson maintained when arrested that his wife committed suicide by taking cynacide of potassium, and that he had concealed the body and the fact of her death in accordance with her request, contained in a note which she left. He confessed that he cut up the body and hid it under the shack in which they lived, and that the next spring he took the remains and buried them. He partly destroyed the fragments by saturating them with kerosene, and setting fire to them.

Johnson kept up a line of deception nearly three years to make the relatives of the dead woman believe that she was alive and well. He wrote letters to them purporting to have been dictated by her. At Nome he told his friends his wife had gone to the States, and when he was out of Alaska he said she was there.

With a power of attorney, afterwards declared a forgery, made apparently to him by his wife, he sold a house belonging to her in Ontario, and by a written order which he made in her name on an attorney in Butte, with whom he had left $4,000 to invest, he secured the money. It was while attempting to get the balance of his victim's property that he was taken into custody. He was at the time living at Seattle with Cora Tasch, who he pretended was his wife.

"I am sorry that Johnson finished his career before the Government could do it for him," said Mr. Warren. "I sent him from Seattle for Nome in charge of two guards on the Victoria, which left Sept. 6. I cautioned the guards to be careful and give him no chance. The woman, Tasch, said to him just before he was taken aboard the Victoria: 'If you are guilty, Lee, jump overboard.' While I believe that Johnson drowned, there will always remain an uncertainty of it."

A Fiendish Assault.

New York, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Mary Sample, 64 years of age, was attacked by two women and a man at the door of her apartments in Brooklyn and so seriously injured that she will be probably disfigured for life. Red pepper was thrown into her eyes to blind and then acid was poured over her face and body.

The police are looking for a man known in the neighborhood as "Jimmie." This man had been a frequent visitor at the Sample apartments and is said to have borrowed from Mrs. Sample more than $1,000. She recently tried to recover the money.

Robbed and Murdered.

Watertown, N.Y., Sept. 29.—Harry Hosmer, aged 31, while walking from Fine, St. Lawrence County, to his home, a mile distant, late Sunday night, was held up by a highwayman who took from him his watch and money, gagged him and made him walk through the woods and there shot him to death.

Leslie Combs, aged 18, who was released from the state prison at Dannemera, after serving two years for burglary, confessed the crime to his parents, who surrendered the lad to the police.

Unconscious From Morphine.

Brantford, Sept. 29.—William Doolin, a colored employe of the Warren Paving Co., who came here from Chatham, is lying at the hospital in a critical condition as a result of taking a dose of pills on Saturday. The preparation contained morphine.

He sank into a state of coma, and all efforts thus far have failed to revive him.

MAY BE SETTLEMENT IN STRIKE

William Whyte and Bell Hardy Are in Conference.

MAY GO BACK IN 48 HOURS

After Hurried Trip From Montreal to Winnipeg Strike Leader Is Expected to Reach Terms by Which Trouble Will Be Brought to a Close—Men Are Willing to Leave the Matter to Another Board.

Winnipeg, Sept. 29.—While no definite announcement has been made, there appears good grounds for expecting that the next forty-eight hours will bring about a settlement of the C.P.R. mechanics' strike.

Bell Hardy of Montreal, chairman of the strikers' union, has for some days been quietly conferring with Second Vice-President Wm. Whyte, and the transference of negotiations to the western management appears a good indication of the disposition of the company to reach an early settlement.

The company has so far succeeded in holding its own and replacing strikers that it can make concessions with good grace, and the move would no doubt be popular generally, as well as highly gratifying to political interests, both federal and provincial, which much desire a speedy settlement.

It is probable that the men would consent to go back to work conditionally on the whole question being reopened later at a date to be named, and on the status of their union being safeguarded.

With the exception of one regrettable incident the strike generally has been conducted here with moderation and courtesy on both sides.

West Toronto, Sept. 29.—The local union officials last night were quite jubilant about the latest developments in the C. P. R. strike, as everything points to a speedy termination of the struggle.

"Negotiations are on in Winnipeg," said a prominent official, "and Bell Hardy, general chairman of the federated trades of the C.P.R., left Montreal for Winnipeg last week in response to a telegram from the strike leaders in the west.

"We have no definite information, yet as to what is happening there, but certain facts which we have learned to-day make us feel very hopeful of the result."

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 29.—That the settlement of the C.P.R. strike is likely to be reached about Wednesday or Thursday is the general opinion among the striking mechanics in this city. One of the leaders among the strikers said yesterday:

"Things look more favorable toward a settlement at present than they have since the commencement of the strike.

"A C.P.R. official who attended the smoker given by the trainmen of the city on Saturday night, congratulated us on the clean and gentlemanly manner in which the strike had been conducted throughout, and assured us that although we had not received word there was something going to happen about Wednesday. Although he did not say what, we concluded that the company had decided what it was going to do, and was to do it about Wednesday."

Natural Gas Wrecks House.

St. Catharines, Sept. 29.—Just after John Reece of Niagara street got home late Sunday night and lit the lamp there was an explosion of natural gas, which badly wrecked the two-storey house. Reece was taken from under a pile of bricks and sent to the hospital with his limbs and body badly bruised.

HE BLAMES FIRE.

T., H. & B. Official Says Flames Caused Sunday's Accident.

Hamilton, Sept. 29.—The enquiry into the T., H. & B. accident Sunday morning in which the three trainmen lost their lives will be held Tuesday evening. E. E. Fisher, the superintendent of the railway, gave out the following statement concerning the accident:

"The lamentable accident at the bridge, west of Mineral Springs, was due solely to fire, which burned the floor system and piling between the passage of a light engine at 11.40 p.m. Saturday night and the arrival of train No. 60 at eight minutes after 6 a.m. Sunday."

The few bones that remain of the victims will be distributed in three caskets and buried in a plot, a Catholic priest joining in the ceremony.

Engineer McFadden was a prominent Conservative, and a warm personal friend of the late Sir John A. Macdonald.

FIRE ON CONGREGATION.

Four Are Killed In Front of Tennessee Church by "Drunks."

Jellico, Tenn., Sept. 29.—One of the bloodiest affairs in the history of East Tennessee, occurred near the Tennessee-Kentucky line north of Anthras postoffice on Sunday.

The scene was a little Baptist Church within 50 yards of which is a "blind tiger," which has been operated for months.

The service had closed and nearly the entire congregation had emerged from the church when a crowd of drunken men who had visited the "blind tiger" began firing into the worshippers with pistols. Three were shot down at the church door and died almost instantly. The preacher was shot and mortally wounded, falling in the church yard. Another worshipper was shot, but not dangerously hurt.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Several dental offices at St. Catharines were entered by burglars on Sunday.

The wife of George Albert Davies has written the mayor from South End on Sea, Eng., asking for assistance in locating her husband, who was last heard from in West Toronto.

Political disturbances have begun to assume some gravity in Cuba. A Conservative meeting at Sancti Spiritus in Santa Clara Province, was the occasion of a riot at which many were injured.

The report of the Canadian Real Properties, Limited, London, Eng., states that the land sold averaged $126 an acre, notwithstanding the depression in Canada; all expenditure was met by revenue.

The will of the late James McDougall, C.E., county engineer of York, has been filed by his friend, A. G. F. Lawrence. The estate totals $3,324.58, and is all personalty, save a town lot in Warman, Sask., valued at $200. Four nieces divide the estate.

The 22 medical students who wrote at the supplementary examinations have presented a protest to the medical faculty against what the students call unfair treatment, with special reference to the chemistry paper, which has been criticized as unduly severe.

A Russian Train Robbery.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—A successful train robbery of $100,000 has been executed by a band of thirty men near Vilna.

The guard on board the train consisted of six men only. The robbers took possession of a small station before the arrival of the train and shot down the train guards as the engine slowed up.

A CRIME THAT IS NOT PUNISHABLE.

How many people reading this article have gone into a drug store and asked for some well known and highly tried medicine and the unscrupulous druggist has said, "Yes, we have that, but have you ever tried this remedy, it is just as good and costs less." Any druggist doing this has not the interest of your health at heart, but the interest of his pocket, as he can make more profit out of the cheap substitute.

For the protection and benefit of the public, we wish to say that DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY has been used in thousands of homes for the past sixty-three years and has never failed to give prompt relief and cure in all cases of Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Stomach Cramps, Summer Complaint, Sea Sickness, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all Fluxes of the Bowels. When you buy DR. FOWLER'S, you are not experimenting with a new and untried remedy, but are getting one that has stood the test of time.

Miss Lettie Reid, Vivian, Ont., writes: "Last year I suffered untold agony from cramps in the stomach and did not know what to do until a friend suggested I should try DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY and as I was glad to try anything I purchased a bottle.

"When I had taken four doses I found relief and since then I never fail to keep a bottle in the house."

Will Hurtubise Be Able To Hold Fritz Mohl On Friday Night? The Match Is Exciting The Fans

The announcement that Fritz Mohl, the Buffalo heavyweight wrestler, is to meet Gene Hurtubise in the Brock street rink here on Friday night of this week has set the wrestling fans agog and they are busy discussing Gene's chances against the big German. Mohl is a wonderful wrestler, there is no doubt of that, as his grand showing against Yanker Rogers in the two matches recently pulled off here showed that. He is strong, heavy, scienced and aggressive, with a knowledge of the game both on the attack and defensive that will make him a most formidable adversary. In going up against him in a match in which there are no handicaps, Hurtubise has the hardest contest of his mat history before him, and if he gets away with it the local fans will go crazy. Gene is confident that he can at least give the German an awful argument, and his recent matches have shown that he is capable of giving the best of them a grand fight for the honours. Both men will be in the best of condition, and there is no doubt that the match will be one of the hardest fights ever seen in this city. Mohl will be here on Thursday and writes that he is in as good shape as he has ever been and that he realizes he will have an light task in taking on Hurtubise.

Corney Burns is in training for his four-round boxing bout with Tommy Daley and is confident that he can make the clever Brantford boy realize that he has been in a fight, at least. Daley has been seen here before, and is widely known for his ability in the ring. Burns has had no trouble in disposing of the men who have been sent in against him since he has been in Peterborough, and he will not back up any from the aggressive visitor. The fans are delighted with the idea of having boxing bouts as preliminaries, and a great deal of interest is being taken in the Burns-Daley match, which is the main preliminary and for which the management have offered a purse.

There will be two preliminaries. Geo. Lillie, formerly of London, Eng., who shapes up like a clever boxer, will go four rounds against "Kid" Turner, a dark horse, who promises to make things interesting for him.

Two local boys, Fred Sullivan and Ken Morris will wrestle for fifteen minutes for a side bet. The two have had a great deal of argument over their respective merits, and the result has been that they have asked the management for a chance to settle the matter Friday night. They stripe at 115 pounds and should put up a lively argument.

With three lively preliminaries and the main bout bringing together two such interesting principals, the programme looks the best of its kind that has ever been offered the local sporting fraternity, and no doubt a large crowd will be on hand to see the fun.

The Chieftain's Athletic Club Was Organized Last Night

A new athletic club composed of youngsters who have already made a showing for themselves in sport was organized last night with most encouraging prospects. The new organization will be known as the Chieftains' Athletic Club, who, under the name of the Y.M.C.A. Chieftains, won the Church League baseball championship this summer, and were the undisputed junior hockey champions of Peterborough last winter. A most enthusiastic meeting was held last night in the office of Dr. Wightman with a large attendance. Harry Munro occupied the chair, and the others present were Hal Wallis, A. Hall, Geo. Minorgan, H. Lees, Peter Wallace, Saxby, Hutchinson, Ray Scott, W. Fertye, Dr. Wightman, F. D. Craig.

It was unanimously decided to form an athletic club and to go into all branches of sport. The boys will have a track team and basketball team to start with this autumn, and will follow it up with a hockey team in the winter. The club has plenty of material and should make an excellent showing.

The following officers were elected:
Hon. Pres.—Dr. Wightman.
Pres.—Fred A. Clarke.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. Thirnbeck.
2nd Vice-Pres.—N. E. McWilliams.
Sec.-Treas.—Hal Wallis.
Manager—Peter Wallace.
Executive Committee—F. D. Craig, Art Hall, Geo. Minorgan, W. Fertye.
Captain of track team — Harry Munro.

The club's colours will be red and black and jerseys will be made up of an attractive combination of those colours.

Conkle's Unknown Issues A Challenge To Gene Hurtubise

The Examiner has received the following challenge to Gene Hurtubise from Charlie Conkle, which explains itself.

Sporting Editor of the Examiner,

I hereby challenge Hurtubise, on behalf of my "Unknown," to a wrestling match, two out of three falls, for $50 a side and the gate receipts. My man is not Gotch, Beell, Penny or Mays, and weighs less than Hurtubise. Your giant got the decision over me here, but it was the handicap that beat me—not the wrestler. You can make this as strong as you like, for I will be there with the goods.

Canada Won The International Sporting Congress Convention

Rome, Sept. 28.—Canada won the gymnastic competition at the International Sporting Congress here by a score of 19 points. Ireland was second, with 18 1-2 points, France, Italy and Belgium following in that order.

The International Sporting Congress was organized as a feature of the Pope's jubilee, and which is taking place in the courtyard Belvedere, in the Vatican, and is the most important that has ever been held in Rome. The courtyard has been converted into a stadium, and over 2,000 picked athletes of the National Gymnastic Union are participating in the contests.

Canada is represented by twenty young men, mostly from Montreal; the Catholic Athletic Clubs of Dublin by 50; various towns in Belgium by 100; France by 380; Piedmont by 130; Lombardy by 200; Venice by 100; Sicily by 140, and Liguria and Rome by 200 each.

Twenty thousand spectators attended the games Saturday. The Pope's sisters occupied a tribune. A flourish of trumpets announced the arrival of the Pope, and the spectators all knelt.

Went To See The Lindsay Fair; Ended Up With Jag In Peterboro

A young man named Wm. Eagleson, who hails from Sonya, 18 miles from Lindsay, appeared before Magistrate Dumble at Police Court this morning on a charge of being drunk. He pleaded guilty and was mulcted to the extent of $2, which he paid promptly, and departed, amid the warnings of the magistrate to let liquor alone.

RACE IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland, Sept. 28.—The Cleveland team in the American League are at the present time playing the best game in their baseball history. Not since the team won the Temple Cup in 1890 have there been so many nerve racking games played in the American League Park in the Ohio city as at the present time. The largest crowds in the history of their career are now attending the games, as a result of their great playing, so close to the finish of the league. At the conclusion of each game the crowds parade around the field for an hour each night, and finally have to be driven from the grounds by special police. And down in the city, around the newspaper offices and public squares, the crowds are so dense that often the street car traffic is stopped temporarily and the greatest excitement and enthusiasm are manifested in the great team controlled by the great Napoleon Lajoie. The result of the sensational finish in the American League will be decided a week from this Tuesday, when the league race is brought to a close.

The winner of this great league is not an easy matter to pick. Starting from the beginning of the week but one point separated the Detroit and Cleveland teams, and four points difference in Detroit and Chicago, so that any person can see that one day's play only separates the first three teams. But from the present standing and the following games that are to be played, the Naps have slightly the better of the remaining schedule of the games yet to be pulled off before the curtain of the great race is to be dropped. Each team has eight games to play. Detroit starts off the week with Washington, and as that team is certainly playing great ball, the Tigers will have to go some to take the majority of the games from the Senators. Then St. Louis, always a stumbling block to the Detroit team, will come to Detroit for three games, and to finish the season the Tigers journey to Chicago to try and put the White Sox out of the running; while Cleveland tackles the Athletics three games, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and then the White Sox come to the Forest City for two games and then the Naps journey to St. Louis to finish up the season for three games. So the wise ones who think they can pick the winner in this great race will certainly have to squeeze their money tight before they attempt to try and dope out which way the flag is going to fly when the world's series is called to start between the American and National Leagues.

THE OTONABEE ATHLETIC CLUB MEET NEXT MONTH

Promises to be a Success—Many Entries Expected

Interest in track athletics is growing every week, and it is probable that there will be a big entry list for the Otonabee Athletic Club's meet in the Brock Street Rink. The Business College has fallen into line, having organized recently with the following list of officers:

President—J. H. McKone.
Secretary-Treasurer—T. Miller.
Manager—H. Dinsdale.
Trainer—D. Morrow.

A practice will be held on Wednesday afternoon at the Driving Park, when the following are requested to be present: Morrow, Dinsdale, Doughty, Smith, Drummond, Dixon, Graham, McDonald, Pugh, Spence, Armstrong, Palmer and Munro.

The meet of the Otonabee Athletic Club will be held probably on Friday, Oct. 16th, in the Brock Street Rink. The arrangements are now being considered and it is likely that something will be made public in a few days.

PALMERSTON WANTS TO PLAY THE WINNERS

The following telegram was received by the Toronto Globe last night, and "speaks for itself"—

"Palmerston Baseball Club hereby challenge the winners of the Peterborough-St. Andrew's series to play a game or series to decide the Ontario championship, time and place to be mutually agreed upon.

"W. M. Fulton, Secretary."

The Otonabee Athletic Club meet, which will be held next month in the Brock street rink, promises to attract athletes from various parts of the county. Details are now being worked out, and in a day or two the events will be made known.

A MEETING OF FAIR DIRECTORS

Pleased With General Results—Thanks to Press—Exhibitors Express Appreciation

THE POSTING WELL DONE

The directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition held a meeting last night for the purpose of settling the accounts connected with the Fair, which this summer has proved a success. Those present were Messrs. Jas. Bell, Geo. Gillespie, Robt. Leary, W. E. Conway, Geo. Elliott, Jas. Storey, Wm. Switzer, Fred J. Hall, and Dr. Johnston.

On the whole, the directors are very well pleased with the result of their efforts this year, and the encouragement they received will mean greater endeavours next year. The secretary had not the full account of the expenses, as all the bills had not been handed in.

A vote of thanks to the local press was moved by Messrs. Conway and Elliott for their assistance in keeping the Fair before the public. The directors were also pleased with the manner in which the advertising had been carried out through the country by Mr. Walter Stocker.

Another source of gratification was the fact that many of the exhibitors had expressed their appreciation of the treatment they had received at the hands of the local management.

"Get them talking in that way," said President Leary, "and the future will take care of itself."

THE SHAREHOLDERS RESIST

Do Not Care to Pay the Double Liability—Claim Absolution From It By Action of Other Banks

WAITING FOR THE CALL

When the liquidator calls upon the shareholders of the defunct Ontario Bank for their double liability he is apt to find it necessary to sue them to recover the amount. So the Star was informed by some of the shareholders this morning.

"They'll have to sue me," said J. A. Latimer, "I won't pay a cent, and I'll fight paying anything as long as I have a dollar left."

Why They Will Fight

The following are the grounds upon which the shareholders hope to succeed if they are sued for their double liability.

First, they say they were induced to buy stock in the bank by reason of the false statements made to the Government.

Second, they say the raising of the percentage to 7 per cent. was illegal and done for the sole purpose of inducing the public to take up the stock.

Third, they maintain when the bank was seen to be on the ragged edge they were not consulted in the matter, they were simply ignored. The very procedure of the other banks at that time, the shareholders claim, will absolve them from the double liability.

"The Ontario Bank was never insolvent," one of them said. "But when it was seen things were getting shaky the Bankers' Association sold the Ontario Bank to the Bank of Montreal for $150,000. It was the cheapest bank ever bought in this country or anywhere else. Why, the Bank of Montreal will clear more than the $150,000 they put up in two years on notes.

"Had we been consulted in the matter at the outset, by putting up much less than our double liability will amount to we could have kept the bank on its feet. But no, we were not consulted in the matter."

There is still talk of sending a deputation to Ottawa to interview the Minister of Justice with the view of having him appoint a commission to investigate the bank's failure. A number of the shareholders favour the idea, and if they are called upon for their double liability a sufficient number will doubtless be secured to have it carried out.

Object to Being Puppets

"We have been treated like puppets in the whole matter," said another shareholder. "Take what happened at the last meeting, for example. The question came up for discussion whether or not a liquidator would be appointed. I asked what would be the result if all the shareholders voted against the appointment. I was told that it didn't make any difference what way we voted, the result would be the same. The result was I left the meeting. If my vote as a shareholder didn't count for anything, there was not much use in my staying."

Mr. Gzowski Silent

One of the best posted shareholders is Mr. C. S. Gzowski, and the Star asked him about the report that the shareholders would resist the double liability call.

"There has been no call for the double liability, for the liquidator has not yet been appointed," said Mr. Gzowski. "Until we are called upon for it I don't think I am in a position to say anything."—Toronto Star.

BRIGADE MADE A QUICK RUN

Blaze at the Lock Works Gave the Fire Fighters a Run

A blaze which broke out in the oil room of the Peterborough Light and Power Company at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon gave the fire brigade an opportunity to demonstrate their ability in making a quick run. Before the alarm had finished sounding they were at the scene of the fire and quickly extinguished it before any damage could be done. Flames were bursting out through the roof when the brigade arrived, but a stream of water put a quick damper on the fire. The damage was slight. The quick run made by the brigade was the subject of much favourable comment from the large crowd of citizens which quickly gathered.

NEW YORK LEADS NATIONAL

New York, Sept. 28.—The National League race is just as close as that of the American League, and from the present standpoint, New York, Chicago and Pittsburg have equally good chances. The greatest excitement prevails, and the crowds that attend the games are the largest in the history of the game. The Chicago Cubs and the New York Giants are separated by only one point in the standing, and the team that wins the league will have to go some to beat the others out. But the wise ones will certainly not want to overlook the Pittsburg team with the great Wagner at the helm. It looks at the present time that the team which beats the Smoky City outfit will certainly win the race for this old league and will earn the right to play for the world's championship with the winners of the American.

MAKING PROGRESS WITH THE RINK

The Curler's Headquarters on Charlotte Street Will be Ready for Season

Great progress is being made with the new curling rink on Charlotte street and the structure it is expected will be ready for use when the season opens. It will be a modern building in which all the latest ideas in regard to conveniences for curling will be incorporated. There will be seven sheets of ice available for curling and the new building will contain comfortable quarters for the knights of the broom. It is the intention of the curlers to develop an interest in the 'roaring' game among the young men of the city and it is proposed to buy a number of stones for use by them. Curling "stones" are expensive luxuries which are out of the reach of the average young man's pocketbook and this new move on the part of the curlers to keep a number of stones for their use will no doubt be appreciated.

Rev. Canon Davidson Home; Returned To City Last Night

TO BE RECEPTION TO-NIGHT

The flag flying on St. John's Church yesterday afternoon was in honour of the home coming of the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, who arrived in the city last evening on the 4.48 C.P.R. train after spending four and one half months in England, where he was one of the Canadian delegates to the Pan-Anglican Congress in London. The rector was met at the station by the Wardens, Messrs. Joseph Mills and C H J Mitchell, and representative members of the congregation and given a hearty welcome back to Peterborough and to St. John's church, after his long absence.

To-night he will be tendered a reception by the congregation.

Rev. Canon Davidson was seen by the Examiner this morning in regard to his trip and while he preferred not to discuss the Congress until he had reported the matter to his parishioners he talked of the outstanding features of his Trans-Atlantic voyage. The trip back was tedious owing to the fog and smoke in the St. Lawrence, the worst on record, according to the sailors. The Kensington of the Dominion Line upon which he was a passenger, lay at anchor for thirty-eight hours, unable to proceed, with other steamers close at hand in the same predicament. Canon Davidson left the steamer at Quebec and came on to Peterborough by train from there instead of travelling by boat to Montreal.

Some 200 cabin passengers were on board and were a most interesting collection of people, including many five or six University professors. Rev. Canon Davidson was appointed chaplain for the voyage, his duties being to administer daily advice and instruction to the 120 immigrants on board in regard to their life in Canada. A sad feature of the voyage was the burial at sea of a young child which died on board, Canon Davidson officiating at the ceremony.

The Pan-Anglican Congress lasted ten days, after which he spent the remaining time in visiting different parts of England. The Kensington left Liverpool on the return voyage on Sept. 17th, reaching Quebec on the evening of Sept. 28th.

At the reception to-night more will probably be learned of the Pan-Anglican Congress.

Twenty-Five Dollars Reward For Information Re False Alarms

A reward of $25 is offered to any person who will give such information as will lead to the conviction of anyone sending in a false fire alarm. This nuisance is not only annoying to the fire brigade, but even presents a danger, for when the brigade is answering one of these calls a genuine one may be sent in and there is no one to answer it. The Fire, Water and Light Commissioners want to stamp out this work, and hence have made this offer of reward for any information that will be exclusive.

CHILDREN AT THE SHELTER PLACED IN SPLENDID HOMES

The success which followed the recent publication in the Canadian Dairyman and Farming World of the work of the Peterborough branch of the Children's Aid Society and of the pictures of the homeless boys and girls was indeed remarkable. At that time there were ten children in the Shelter, and as the result of the widespread popularity of the paper, nine of them have been placed in good homes. The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World states that they received about seventy letters from various parts of Canada, including Provinces so far away as Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and Manitoba. The remaining child is a little baby and the Society will endeavour to keep it a ward a while longer.

Harvey, the handsome curly-haired youth, has found a splendid home in Peterborough, while others are now in Norwich, Baillieboro, Burketon, etc., with good families.

The communications from those who were unsuccessful in securing children have been sent to Mr. J. J. Kelso, the superintendent, Toronto, and these homes will be provided for from Shelters in the nearest towns or cities.

Mr. Henry expects seven or eight children this week, and the Society will probably be in a position to answer more of the inquiries.

Business Brisk On The G.T.R.; Grain Through From Midland

The Grand Trunk Railway is busy these days bringing down grain from Midland, to which point it comes by train and boat from the Northwest. This afternoon before the regular left for Hastings, Campbellford, etc., two double headers went out on that line. The freight was laden with grain from Midland. The other double header went east for empty cars to take back to Midland.

WEDDING BELLS

McMILLAN—JOHNSTON

A pretty autumn wedding was celebrated this afternoon at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. T. Johnston, Brown street, when their daughter, Miss Effie M. Johnston, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert McMillan, East City. The ceremony was performed in the drawing-room, which was tastefully decorated with the season's floral offerings. The bride was married in her travelling suit of navy blue broadcloth with hat to match. Miss Addie Dickson played the wedding march.

After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served in the dining-room, Mr. Thos. Hooper catering for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for a trip to Buffalo and Toronto. Among the many presents received was a handsome cheque from Mrs. Jas. Dickson, aunt of the groom.

THE FIRST FROST OF SEASON LAST NIGHT

The cold wave that followed the welcome rain, came out of the distant west of the Dominion — from the Mountain Province. A post card dated Victoria, B.C., Sept. 26th, states that they had a sharp white frost the previous night, the first since December last. If the cold wave started east at that time it would cross the continent and reach Peterborough last night, as in fact it did. The thermometer went down last night to 31—one degree of frost—our first sharp frost since—the last one. No damage was done, however, to speak of, the salvia plants, our most tender annuals, having escaped.

SIDNEY FISHER THE FARMERS FRIEND.

In presenting a few suggestive facts as to what the Liberal Government has done to promote the interests of agriculture and better the conditions of the farming community, emphasis will be given these facts by a little reference to the conditions existing under the years of Conservative administration. In the ten years from 1876 to 1886, the total exports of butter were $22,706,360; in the next ten years, from 1886 to 1896, the last ten years of Conservative rule, the exports of butter were $8,250,088, a decrease of $14,456,272.

Such a tremendous falling off showed that there was something radically wrong with the conditions, and the Liberal Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Sidney Fisher, on taking office in 1896, took prompt and practical steps to improve conditions. This was done, with the result that in the first ten years of Liberal rule, and the application of business methods to improvement of conditions, the exports of Canadian butter, which had decreased at the rate of nearly a million and a-half a year in the last ten years of Conservative administration, or fourteen and a half millions of dollars in ten years, rose in the first ten years of Liberal administration from eight and a half millions to forty-six and a half millions, and in the full twelve years of Liberal rule the exports of butter have totalled the important sum of $56,680,095. These improved results are chiefly due to the spread of knowledge, by Government action, of stock breeding, are of animals, and increased milk production.

This is, however, only one example of the Liberal Government's appreciation of the importance of the farming industry, and large and well-directed expenditure in the promotion of its welfare. In the last year of Conservative rule—'95-'96 — the total expenditure for Agriculture was $1,488,274. The expenditure under the Liberal Government, '07-'08, was nearly four times greater, namely, $5,141,607. When the Liberal Government found, and worked out, what conduced to the advantage of Agriculture they had the courage necessary, and did not hesitate, to ask Parliament for large sums of money. The results have justified the expenditure, for the present Minister of Agriculture has always insisted that, before taking hold of any proposal, there was an assurance that it would produce benefits to Agriculture and its allied interests, commensurate with the expenditure.

The interest of the Liberal Government in the promotion of the welfare of the farming community of Canada, thus generally indicated, is felt and appreciated by every thinking farmer; but he may forget, or fail to realize as he should do, all that he owes to the energy and solicitude of the present Government. It would take a large book to adequately set forth all the Liberal Government has done to assist the enterprise of the farmer in developing the great agricultural wealth of this great country. Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, highly skilled in the science of farming, is exceptionally well equipped to occupy the position he has filled with such fruitful results for the past twelve years, and it is indeed a bitter opponent of agricultural progress who would fail to give him credit for doing a vast amount of good work. A few of the prominent items of benefit he has conferred upon the farming community may be specified briefly :—

Hon. Mr. Fisher instituted a complete equipment of cold-storage refrigeration transportation for the perishable products of farm and orchard, and it is admitted to-day that it is the best system in the world.

Hon. Mr. Sifton also provided a complete systematic supervision and inspection of the handling, shipping and transport of Canadian food products from the point of production in Canada to the British market. The result of these two great achievements has been of tremendous importance, as any thinking farmer can see on a little reflection. Our perishable products, which, previous to Fisher, went largely to waste, or yielded inadequate returns, are, as a result, placed upon the British market in their original prime quality, and their reputation has been greatly enhanced, and higher prices are obtained. This is proven by the fact that, during the term of Mr. Fisher, the value of the farm products of Canada sent abroad has totalled the enormous sum of one thousand millions of dollars, which went into the pockets of the farmers, exactly double the amount realized in the previous twelve years under a Conservative Government, with a brewer instead of a farmer as Minister of Farming.

Mr. Fisher, shortly after taking office, secured the abolition of the quarantine on cattle sent from Canada to the United States. The result of this was that the glutted market in Canada was relieved, the price of all horned live stock advanced greatly, and from that time till to-day, the market for cattle in Canada has been a good one.

Under Mr. Fisher's direction, a Live Stock Commission was appointed to deal with stock production and management. The Veterinary Department was completely reorganised and brought to a high state of efficiency. A new meat inspection law, rigidly enforced, has insured to Canadian farmers, British and foreign markets, where very strict inspection is demanded. Hog cholera has been stamped out in Western Ontario, and auction sales of pure-bred stock have been inaugurated.

These are only general indications of the work that has been done, and they do not include the great improvement that has been brought about in the condition of dairying interests, in the improvement of stock, and the development of milking strains, nor the attention paid to the promotion of the improvement and practical efficiency of the Dominion experimental farms, which have been greatly advanced. There has never been a word of serious criticism of the Liberal expenditure made to secure these results. And there never has been a serious statement that the great agricultural interests of Canada have not been efficiently guarded and promoted by the Liberal Government of Canada under the leading of Hon. Sidney Fisher. The interests of farming, the greatest interests of the country, upon whose prosperity and progress national prosperity and progress depend, demands that this efficient and intelligent management should be continued under the auspices of Mr. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture in the Liberal Government of Canada.

NO BASIS FOR THE CRY.

The Canadian Courier, which no one will accuse of having a partisan bias towards Liberalism, has the following:—

"Every large railway or other corporation in Canada occasionally pays prices which are too high. Further, every such corporation or company is occasionally cheated by employees. The fakir does not confine his attention to the great spending departments of the Dominion Government. It is, therefore, unreasonable to expect that all Government purchases shall be at the lowest possible price, or that it shall always get what it stipulates for. If private companies and individuals cannot do it, governments are not likely to be more successful. This is not written to justify the Marine Department. Its methods were certainly in need of improvement. So far, however, there seems to be little real basis for the large-sized charges which have been thrown at Mr. Brodeur. There was basis for criticism; there seems to have been little basis for the cry of 'wholesale graft.'".

The above article refers to the scandals alleged by the Conservatives in connection with the Marine Department, and the Courier is correct in saying that there was no basis for a cry of "wholesale graft." The Civil Service Commission was instituted by a Liberal Government who took civil service reform seriously. The Commission made a report based upon evidence of one side only, in which the acts of some civil servants in the Marine Department were questioned. All the officials whose names were brought into question were appointees of a former Conservative Government. The accounts referred to as extravagant by the Commission, and which form the basis of the graft charges, had been certified to by these Conservative officials as "fair and just," and were paid. The auditor-general relied on the integrity of the men who certified to the accounts, and any censure should attach to the Conservative officials who certified to extravagant accounts, if such were the case, and all the blame that should attach to the Liberal Government would be for acting upon the certificates and relying upon the honesty and competency of the officials appointed by a Conservative Government. The present Government at once suspended the officials whose acts had been specified by the Commission, and had brought indirect discredit upon the Government, and a new commission was issued to Judge Cassells to make a thorough investigation and definitely place the blame, and this investigation is now going forward.

While the facts show that there was, as the Courier suggests, "ground for criticism," in respect to some of the prices certified to, they show that there is no ground, as the Courier points out, for "wholesale charges of graft." Any excessive charge alleged was certified to as "fair and just" by officials, appointed by a preceding Conservative Government, and, with unstaken generosity, as results show, retained by the Liberal Government, against no member of which any charge of any act of corruption or wrong-doing is laid.

Moreover, the departmental action in connection with which the wrong-doing of these officials was said to have been committed, has been instrumental in making the St. Lawrence channel as well lighted as the Strand in London. This condition resulted in a reduction of insurance on shipping of $500,000 last year.

FAIR WAGES UNDER LAURIER.

Among the measures in the interest of honest labour introduced by the Laurier Government, the fair wages act is certainly entitled to a foremost place.

Under the Conservative Government the sweating system has become a public scandal. Even its own commissioner, Mr. Wright, in a report on the subject, declared that contracts for Government clothing had been executed in sweat shops, that in some instances women were receiving on Government work the pittance of two and a half cents an hour. All the while the Government and its supporters had been telling the people that such a thing as sweating did not exist in the country.

Shortly after entering office the present Government commissioned Mr. Mackenzie King to make a thorough investigation into the methods by which Government clothing contracts were being carried out. As a result of his report steps were at once taken to put an end to such methods. At the outset the Postmaster General, Sir William Mulock, had a clause inserted in all contracts for letter-carriers' uniforms and mail bags, securing to the workers thereon a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, and subsequently, in the session of 1900, a resolution was introduced by the Government and carried setting forth that all Government contracts should contain such conditions as would prevent abuses which might arise from the sub-letting of such contracts, and that every effort should be made to secure the payment of such wages as are generally accepted as current in each trade for competent workmen in the district where the work is carried out.

The establishment of the Department of Labour in July, 1900, enabled the Government the better to enforce this resolution. From that time to the present in every Government contract there have been inserted conditions for the suppression and prevention of sweating, and practically every contract that has been awarded has contained a clause requiring the contractor to pay to those in his employ the rates of wages current in the locality in which the work is being done.

The fair-wage conditions have been extended to every department and fair wage officers employed by the Government see that contractors pay the proper wages and that the hours of labour inserted in the contracts are not exceeded. Up to the end of March last no less than 1,157 Government contracts have had these fair-wages conditions attached to them. The principle has been extended to the railway act of 1903, the Government having inserted in that measure a fair-wage clause bearing upon the labour employed in the construction of railways.

Occasionally complaint is received of contractors failing to live up to the fair-wage conditions, but if investigation proves the complaint to be well founded redress is promptly secured.

So successful has been the working of the new system that it has been copied by the Government of Manitoba and a number of municipalities throughout the Dominion, while the Government of Natal has promised legislation along similar lines.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

What, turn out Laurier, Fielding, Fisher, Paterson, Brodeur and Graham, and hand the country over to the Foster-Fowler, Lefurgey-Bennett - Montague - McGillivray-Wilson-Zandray Zandrauk-Zardring Borden-Bayne-booze combination? Tush, tush!—Montreal Herald.

A tree is judged by its fruit. Can any one imagine Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the time of an election, despatching a telegram like this, "Send me another $10,000," or writing a letter like this to the distributor of the (Conservative) corruption funds in the general elections of 1904—"Money must not be sent to be handled by men in the party in public life."

WEDDING BELLS

CULLIN—CONWAY

At Bridgenorth last night at the home of Mr. William Conway, the marriage of his daughter, Miss Annie was celebrated to Mr. James Cullen, son of Mr. Thomas Cullen, also of Bridgenorth. The young folks are among the most popular in Bridgenorth village, and at the wedding there were more than a hundred guests. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore. The bride was attended by Miss Gertrude Cullen and Mr. William Conway was best man. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful fur lined coat and the arrray of handsome presents testified to the esteem with which the young couple were held by their numerous friends. After the wedding supper the guests enjoyed a pleasant social evening until midnight, when the happy gathering dispersed. Mr. and Mrs. Conway will reside in Bridgenorth.

LONDERVILLE—HUBBLE

The wedding took place this morning at ten o'clock at the residence of Mr. Henderson, Perry street, of Mrs. Mary Hubble, Round Lake, and Mr. John Londerville, Peterborough. The bride and groom were accompanied by Miss Laura Manley and Mr. Cornelius Burns. Rev. E. A. Pearson performed the ceremony.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures sick women.

Miss M. R. Morin, 335 Ontario St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was in very poor health and doctored for months, receiving very little benefit. I had lost all ambition, was nervous, and subject to dizzy spells and painful periods each month.

"A friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the proper medicine for me. I procured a bottle of this remedy and began taking, and before it was finished, I felt so much better that I continued its use and gave it a thorough test, with the result I am to-day well and a much healthier girl than I was three years ago. I have no more painful periods, dizziness or nervous troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Board of Trade Meeting Brings Many Prominent Citizens Together Discussing How to Prevent Fires — Chief Howard's Paper

AN INTERESTING MEETING

To all those who attended the meeting of the Board of Trade in the Council Chamber last night it must have been a source of gratification to see so many of the citizens and merchants showing a decided interest in the best welfare of the city. It had been announced that Chief Howard would read a paper on "Fire Protection," dealing almost entirely with prevention. Afterwards Dr. Morrison, who occupied the chair as President of the Board, invited a general discussion of the points brought out by the Chief, and it is no exaggeration to say that the citizens present entered most heartily into the consideration of the subject.

The attendance was large and the feeling manifest, was one in which all were united. Practically every phase of fire prevention was taken up by some speaker or other, special mention being made of the defective wiring of buildings for the use of electricity. Chief Howard's address dealt with the subject in a thorough manner and the resulting discussions brought out many facts that the general public are not entirely aware of.

The Chief's Address

Dr. Morrison stated that Chief Howard, although a comparative stranger in the city had made many friends and displayed efficiency as a civic official. The president remarked that after the address a general invitation was extended to all present to discuss the points brought out in the paper.

The Chief then read the following paper:

One of the necessary qualifications for good citizenship, is a constant desire on the part of individuals to protect their fellows from harm. One of the greatest that can visit any people is fire; hundreds of persons are burned to death annually, and thousands of successful business men are ruined and become bankrupt, and numberless happy homes crumble and fall never to be re-built, by their former occupants.

Quite fresh in our memory is the terrible Iroquois Theatre disaster, where hundreds of women and children lost their lives in the stampede that occurred. The fire loss was a mere bagetelle, but no one can estimate the actual value of the lives that were lost.

During the first three months of the present year, there occurred fifty-eight fires in schools, in the United States and Canada; and in these fires over two hundred lives were lost, and upwards of five hundred children were injured more or less seriously.

In nearly every case the cause of fire can be traced to the carelessness of some one who should have taken the proper precaution to safeguard the lives intrusted to his care. In many instances we find that persons in charge of public buildings, do not realize the tremendous responsibilities they are compelled to assume. The same can be said of business men, manufacturers, managers, and superintendents of large concerns. They allow their whole time to be occupied with the financial end of their business, and neglect keeping a constant watch upon their employees; and thereby permit carelessness to exist on the premises of which they have the management.

Collection of Combustibles

Too often business men are compelled to leave the care and protection of their buildings to some trusted employee, who is overworked. Two-thirds of the fires that occur, start in the basement of buildings, or in the garret, where accumulation of combustible rubbish is permitted, such as waste paper, broken boxes, etc. As a rule people are very careful when handling gun-powder and other explosives, but are indifferent about this waste paper business, which has such a horror for the average fireman.

A common saying of to-day is "We live in the electric age." Public speakers frequently make use of the term, and it is generally conceded to be a fact. But Fire Chiefs put it differently, we say "We are living in the cigarette age." The expression may seem humourous to the average person, but it has a very serious side for firemen.

The cigarette and combustible rubbish have been the means of starting some of the most disastrous fires that have occurred on the Continent of America within the last ten years. It is a dealy combination that the people should be taught to fear.

Remove Rubbish

The cigarette habit may be beyond our control, and we may not be able to legislate against it, but it is possible for each and every one of us, as citizens, to remove every particle of combustible rubbish, from the buildings and premises where we have the management. By so doing we remove a portion of the danger that exists by the careless handling of fire.

One cannot lay too much stress upon this very important question, and it is the duty of every good citizen to exercise his authority, and influence, to safeguard the lives and property of his fellow-citizens. In some cases it may mean a financial sacrifice, but it is our honest and lawful duty. Fire protection and prevention is a subject worthy of much thought.

Your representatives to the Municipal Council have, within the last two years, made an earnest endeavour to improve the fire fighting facilities in this city, and therefore are deserving of the encouragement, and co-operation of every public-spirited citizen.

The judicious expenditure of public money for fire protection, will in many instances prevent disastrous fires, which so often prostrate business and retard prosperity, and is properly managed will prove a profitable investment.

Within the last twenty-five years there have been many clever inventions for the prevention and extinguishing of fire, some of the brightest and brainiest men of the country have given their time and talents to invent efficient appliances, such as the modern steam fire engine, the chemical fire extinguisher, the quick hoisting device of the aerial ladder, the sprinkler system, the automatic fire doors, the high pressure system, and many other devices too numerous to mention.

Some of these inventions are beyond our reach financially, but quite within the reach of every man, is the spirit of caution, and if this spirit is cultivated along the line of fire prevention it will be productive of much good.

And when we endeavour to prevent fire in or about our own premises, we are not only acting honestly towards ourselves but doing our duty to our neighbours and the whole community.

I trust the few suggestions and hints I have given, will be in a measure, either directly or indirectly beneficial to the citizens of Peterborough.

President's Reply

Chief Howard's treatment of the subject was received with favourable applause. Dr. Morrison in reply stated that he was personally interested in the new fire brigade and believed that the city has not had in years a Fire, Water and Light Committee that has rendered the city such efficient services as that which is doing duty during this term.

Mayor Rush was pleased with Chief Howard's paper and agreed with what he had said about the careless throwing to one side of cigarettes and cigars, without considering where they fall.

Improper Wiring

Mr. D. W. Dumble, referring to the chemical engine, stated that it was conceded that between seventy and eighty per cent. of the fires in the United States were extinguished by its use. By its lightness of structure it can quickly reach a fire and does not deluge the place with water, adding to the damage. "It pays to have the proper apparatus," Mr. Dumble remarked. Speaking about cigar butts and cigarettes, he said that one has only to look through the grates along the sidewalk to be impressed by the danger from this careless habit. Invariably there is a quantity of loose paper and other inflammable material which needs only a cigar stub to start a slow smouldering fire, which will quickly burst into a blaze. The cellars are generally stored with packing boxes, etc., thus adding to the danger.

But a more prevalent cause of fires is improper electric wiring, he said. "It is a kind of devil taken into our houses to burn us up. The wires in cases touch gas pipes or other good conductors, and then there is a blaze. Mr. Dumble cited several cases where it was known that electric wiring, done by inefficient workmen, was directly to blame.

There was so much bad wiring done some years ago by men who were unqualified that many buildings are surely in danger, although it may not be realized by the occupants." The mechanics who do this work should be responsible, Mr. Dumble said. "We must be protected against those who put the wires in."

"We have a plumbing inspector to see that all plumbing work is properly done, why should we not have a man to pass judgment on electric wiring?"

Faulty Chimneys

Continuing, Mr. Dumble introduced poorly constructed chimneys. "In many of the smaller houses there are three or four feet of bricks resting on mortar and wood. Through time the wood is slowly changed to charcoal. It may be years, but often a heavy wind starts a fire which is said to have been caused by accident. It is nothing of the kind," Mr. Dumble said.

A man has no right to do as he pleases. He must consider his fellow citizens, and by protecting his own property he thereby protects the community.

Mr. Walter Stocker remarked that he had known a case where the wiring of the two houses was done as cheaply as one, and they all practically of the same size. The owners was to blame, as a high price was not what he wanted to pay, showing that the electrician is not always entirely at fault.

Insurance

Chief Howard, Ald. Neill and Mr. Robt. Fair pointed out that by increasing the efficiency of the brigade to that state of perfection, as desired by the Fire Underwriters, thus lowering the key rate there would be a total decrease of insurance amounting to far more than the cost of maintaining the brigade, in this way it could be made to pay for itself.

Ald. Phelan was pleased that the citizens appreciated the programme the council had outlined.

Better Pumping Plant

Dr. Morrison asked what was required of the city by the Fire Underwriters in order to be accepted at the lower rate. Chief Howard replied that a pressure of 80 lbs. per square inch was required at the hydrants which would mean an extension to the pumping plant. A chemical engine would cost about $5,000.00 and the number of men in the brigade be one permanent man per thousand. This would mean that Peterborough would have to have 16 men in the hall.

Mr. Henderson of the water works stated that there was ordinarily a pressure of from 65 to 75 lbs. per square inch for domestic use and whenever a fire alarm was sent in, the pressure is increased to 100 lbs. per square inch. The change is made in 5 seconds by increasing the speed of the pumps.

Ald. Buller was the next speaker. At one time, he said, fires were generally attributed to ash piles, now it is electric wiring. He mentioned that it had been stated that an auxiliary pump was needed at the station to be used in case something should happen the others. Ald. Buller remarked that in making any further changes in the fire department they should be given time, as the department had already spent a considerable sum in the improvements that have been made.

Have Standard Brigade

Mr. Fair said that he believed that it would be a good idea to have a plebiscite taken on the question of having the city put in class A. He would educate the people into understanding that this would mean a saving of money for the city. Many people will vote against a bill often merely because there is mention of an expenditure of money. He would have a paper published settting forth the benefits of a standard brigade and send one around to every home.

Mr. Dumble then moved, seconded by Mr. E. M. Roy, that it was the opinion of the meeting that the Council be requested to appoint a qualified man to inspect all electric wiring done in the city. In seconding it Mr. Roy stated that engineers had to have papers and the care entrusted to them was no more important than that which falls upon the shoulders of the electrician. A great deal of work is done by inexperienced boys who are certainly not capable of doing the work.

Mr. Fair moved, seconded by Ald. Neill, that the City Council be requested to take such steps as were necessary to have a plebiscite taken in January on the question of the advisability of further equipping the fire brigade in order that the city's rate of insurance be moved from class B, to class A.

This was carried without any dissenting voice. The meeting then adjourned.

RESOLUTIONS

"That the City Council be requested to take a plebescite at the next Municipal Elections as to the advisability of expending such a sum of money to further equip the fire department as will bring the present city rate of insurance from class B. to class A."

"That it is the opinion of the Board of Trade that the City Council should be requested to appoint an expert as inspector of electric wiring for the city."

POINTERS FROM MEETING OF BOARD OF TRADE

Have no chimneys resting on wood and mortar.

Have electric wiring done by competent workmen.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

Disease of The Kidneys Brought on By Catarrh.

Peruna Made a Well Man of Me.

I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

Mr. George King, 453 St. Denis St., Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."

MR. GEORGE KING

CATARRH of the kidneys is a very much neglected disease.

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realise that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognise the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

INTERNAL CATARRH REACHES THE KIDNEYS.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognised as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the catarrh and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1112 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Annuity Association, writes:

"I am a well man to-day, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

ANNUAL MEETING HELD

Of The Women's Art Association on Monday—Secretary Presents Report

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Women's Art Association of Canada was held Monday afternoon. The secretary's report was as follows: During the season of 1907-08 there were four executive meetings held at which there was a good attendance. The principal event in the history of the Peterborough branch was the exhibition of Dutch water-colours and engravings. Through the courtesy of Mr. A. Montizambert, of the Bank of Montreal, the building formerly occupied by the bank was placed at the disposal of the association for a week, lighted and heated free of charge. The exhibition was held in February, and on the opening night we were pleased to have with us again our president, Mrs. Dingman. She very kindly gave us a short history of what the modern Dutch school of painters is doing for art to-day. During the season the meetings of the Art Club Reading Circle were held regularly, once a fortnight, the members taking great interest in the subject, "The Art of the Early Italian Renaissance." The interest was much stimulated by the books of the travelling library procured from McGill University.

The medal offered by our branch for the best original drawing, to be competed for by the pupils of the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute, aroused great interest and was won by Master Harold Lynn. The medal was the gift of Mrs. J. R. Stratton.

The "International Studio" was subscribed to, and after being distributed among the members, was placed in the reading room of the Y.W.C.A.

The thanks of the branch are due to the Board of management of the Y.W.C.A. for many courtesies shown.

An interesting exhibit of homespuns, laces, and other home industries also took place during the winter. The season was brought to a close by a lecture given by Miss Roberts on "Westward the Course of Empire Takes Its Way," held in St. John's schoolhouse, which was also placed at our disposal free of charge.

IMMIGRANTS SHOULD RESENT HANNA'S LIBEL

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Hon. W J Hanna at Ingersoll says, "The acute situation with regard to the increase in lunacy in Canada was due directly to the Dominion Government." This is of course a libel on the immigrants and they should resent the slander by voting for the Liberal candidates.

Yours truly,
W. A. BAILEY.

Much Business Transacted At The Presbytery Meeting

The Resignation of Rev. Horace Peckover Accepted—Addresses By The Ministers

THE LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT

The Presbytery of Peterborough met at Campbellford yesterday, and had a most interesting gathering. Rev. H. E. Abraham, moderator, occupied the chair. Rev. Messrs. Wm. Johnston, Millbrook; D. A. McKenzie, Centreville; H. E. Abraham, Port Hope; W. H. Brokenshire, Port Hope; James Skene, Baltimore; James G. Potter, H. J. Keith, Peterborough; Dr. Marsh, Springville; S. S. Burns, Lakefield; Horace Peckover, Omemee; G. A. McLennan, Norwood; D. D. McDonald, Keene; M. C. Reeves, Campbellford; G. A. Gouin, Ponty-pool; J. E. Smith, Seymour; Jacob Steele, Campbellford; D. A. Thomson, Hastings.

The elders present were: J. F. Clark, Port Hope; Rev. A. McNaughton and D. Laurie, Port Hope; Bruce Miller, Knoxville; R. Campbell, Roseneath; Wm. Madill, Robert Hamson, Peterborough; John McIntosh, Springville; Jonathan Smith, Peterborough; A. Bennett, Omemee.

The Rev. Geo. C. Pidgeon, D. D., of Toronto Junction, convenor of the General Assembly's Committee on Moral and Social Reform, was also present and took an interesting part in the discussion on important questions.

The congregations of Roseneath and Bethesda will be placed under the charge of the Rev. Wm. Beattie, of Cobourg, as interim moderator, until they secure a settled pastor.

The resignation of the Rev. Horace Peckover as pastor of Omemee, Lakevale and Mount Pleasant, was accepted to take effect after October 11th. The Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's, Peterborough, was appointed interim moderator, and the pulpit will be declared vacant Oct. 18th.

The Home Mission Committee reported regarding the congregations under its care, and from the reports of the visitors to the different mission circuits throughout the Presbytery excellent work had been done by Mr. F. D. Robinson, at Marmora and Cordova; Mr. A. McKenzie, at Apsley and Clydesdale, and Mr. Duncan, at Harvey. These students were certified to their various colleges.

At three o'clock a public conference was held, when addresses were given on special phases of work adopted by the General Assembly held in Winnipeg in June last.

The Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough, referred to the work of the committee on church life and work, as showing most gratifying results throughout the Dominion. All along the line ministers and workers were standing for a righteousness that exalted the nation.

The work of the board in social and moral reform was emphatically commended, and the scope of its influence outlined. Mr. Potter referred particularly to the splendid work being done in the foreign mission field of the church. The Presbyterian Church in Canada, eastern and western sections, are at work in the New Hebrides, North Formosa, Central India, Honan, China Macao, China; Shanghai, China. Among the Indians and Chinese of the Dominion, and among the Jews of Toronto. The agencies that seem destined to move the church of the future to larger missionary enterprise are the Young People's missionary movement and the laymen's movement.

The Rev. H. J. Keith followed with a very interesting address on church union. Mr. Keith held that while there did not seem to be as much enthusiasm over organic union as existed a few years ago, such influences as the Young People's and Laymen's missionary movements were in reality forcing the hands of the churches towards practical union. He urged co-operation in the home and foreign mission work.

Mr. J. F. Clark, of Port Hope, gave an exceedingly useful address on the Aged and Infirm Ministers' Fund. Mr. Clark is evidently alive to this important department of the church's work, and in view of the importance of Mr. Clark's presentation, the Presbytery decided that the address be published in all the church papers.

Dr. Pidgeon then gave a racy speech on the work of the Moral the Social Reform Board. He said that while the work of ministers was to sow the seed of the kingdom they had as wise men to see that the conditions for growth were also favourable, and in this his committee had already done a great deal of good work. The great policy was to get all the churches to unite on a strong policy in which they were all agreed, and it was most encouraging to note the large number in all the churches of the Dominion who were willing to stand together in the suppression of vice and public wrong.

On resuming business again the Presbytery, in view of the increased work of the clerk of Presbytery, the Rev. D. A. Thomson decided to increase his salary from $100 to $120 per annum, and to install in the manse at Hastings a telephone.

Dr. Pidgeon appeared before the Presbytery to urge definite interest in the objects of the Laymen's Missionary movement. He stated as a matter of great moment the fact that the world was organized as never before for evangelization. The representatives of all the Protestant churches had met and arranged a system that should prevent overlapping, and at the same time give to a special charge some section of the heathen world. To the Presbyterian Church in Canada had been given the care of 12,000,000 souls. All that this would mean to our people throughout the church would be 25 cents per family a week or 10 cents per communicant. The Presbytery of Peterborough might look up on its share of the amount required as $31,000.

All the members were deeply interested in the address, and in a resolution of thanks to the speaker it was decided to aim at the sum suggested. The matter was given into the hands of a committee, of which Dr. Marsh, of Springville, is the convenor.

The Presbytery then adjourned to meet in St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, on Tuesday, December 15, at 9 a.m.

The Independent Telephone System Is Proposed For The Stewarts Settlement

It appears as if the rural districts surrounding the city will soon be all in telephone connection with Peterborough. Only recently an independent telephone company was organized in Apsley and the work of connecting with the Bell line at Mount Julian is already underway. Proposals are being discussed to have Crowe's Landing in Dummer township on the Bell line, and an independent line at Zion, Otonabee.

A meeting is called for to-morrow (Thursday) night in Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, to discuss the advisability of organizing an Independent system connecting with the Bell in Peterborough. Residents of Otonabee who would be benefitted by such a line have received the following communication:—

"I have caused notice to be posted of a public meeting to be held at Stewart's Hall, to consider establishing telephone communication between your neighbourhood and Peterborough. Mr. Hill will be at this meeting next Thursday night, Oct 1st., at 8 o'clock to explain fully how a line may be established at nominal cost and remain entirely under your control.

Mr. Sexsmith and Mr. Tanner, your political nominees, have been invited to be present. Kindly bring your friends."

Fiftieth Anniversary Of Their Wedding Takes Place To-day

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green, Water street to-day have reached that point in married life which but few attain—the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day. Just fifty years from to-day on Sept. 30, 1858, they were married and they have spent the half century of their married life in Peterborough, witnessing in that time the growth of Peterborough from a struggling village to a prosperous flourishing city of over 16,000 population. Startling changes have been accomplished, many old friends have passed away, but they still are hale and hearty, with none of their faculties dimmed by age.

Mrs. Green's maiden name was Mary Ann Wallace, she being a daughter of the late Capt. Thomas Wallace, of Emily Township. The wedding ceremony was performed by the late Rev. W. D. Roger, then pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

Their golden wedding will be celebrated quietly. It had been planned to hold a re-union of the relatives, but as the majority are in California or in the Canadian Northwest it was found impossible to arrange it.

Miller's Drink Cure has made thousands of happy homes. Sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, Peterborough.

SOMETHING CAN BE DONE

To Stop the Increase of Catarrh in Peterborough.

Catarrhal troubles are increasing, not only in Peterborough, but all over the country.

Catarrh is a germ disease, and to cure it, germ life in the nose, throat and lungs must be destroyed, and this can be done only by breathing Hyomei.

There is no dangerous stomach drugging when Hyomei is used; no tablet or liquid mixtures whereby the digestion is often destroyed.

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit its healing balsams penetrate the most remote air cells, destroying the catarrhal germs so that quick recovery follows. The complete outfit costs but $1, and Wm. Madill agrees to refund the money should Hyomei fail to do all that is claimed for it. For sale by Wm. Madill, corner Hunter and George streets.

Swelldom in Women's Garments

Our garment buyers have surpassed themselves. The exhibit of Suits, Coats, Skirts and Waists they have arranged beggars description. Never have we shown such a galaxy of garment styles, so much of originality, of new ideas, of fabric variety.

The influence of the "Directoire" style is plainly evident in Suit and Skirt Styles: the long, graceful swing of their clinging lines; the tight fitting, long, trim sleeves; the elongated collar effects. Truly the "Directoire" period has lent the Fall Styles many charming and pleasing innovations.

You MUST see the new garments. Come! glean the new style ideas. It's time to consider the Fall wardrobe, time to plan your purchases. You find Suits here at $50.00, and others priced low as $15.00. Coats from $12.50 to $35.00. Skirts from $3.00 to $18.00, and Waists from $1.00 to $15.00.

But forget about prices for awhile.

This is primarily a viewing time.

We want you to come --- with or without buying intentions, then

When you do buy you will know where to obtain the best and most stylish garments at the least expense.

Stratton's Splendid Meeting In North Monaghan Town Hall

The Hall Crowded With An Enthusiastic Audience---Telling Speeches by Messrs. R. R. Hall and Hon. Mr. Stratton --- The Township Strong For Stratton --- Will Contribute Largely To His Majority in the West.

On Tuesday evening the Town Hall, North Monaghan, was crowded with electors, at the first meeting in this township in Mr. Stratton's interest. Several ladies were also present. The temper of the meeting, the enthusiastic reception given to the facts presented in the addresses indicated that North Monaghan will be strongly behind Mr. Stratton in the present contest. During the evening, between the speeches of Mr. Hall and Mr. Stratton, Miss Greta LeBar, grand daughter of Mr. R. Sanderson, a pretty and clever girl, gave a recitation with a political bearing, in a manner well worthy of the hearty applause it called forth.

Mr. Thomas Hunter, who was elected chairman, spoke of the great pleasure it was to the electors of North Monaghan to again have Mr. Stratton in the field as a candidate. The Liberal Government had been the best government that any country ever had. Under its wise administration the country was more prosperous than anyone would have thought possible twelve years ago. It was the duty of every elector in the riding to support such a candidate as Mr. Stratton, and particularly so when it was to maintain a good Government in office. He then called on who was received with hearty applause. He thanked the electors for the support they had given himself and the Government at the last elections, and he had the satisfaction of feeling that the course he had taken had met with the approval of the people. In supporting Mr. Stratton they were not placing their faith to a new man, as he was a true and tried representative, whose course in the past had ever been taken in the interests of the riding. The Liberal Government had always taken a wide view of the requirements of the country in every department of Administration. They recognized that we had the elements of nationhood, and they immediately took steps to see that our natural resources, which had been so much neglected by the Conservative Government, were developed to the utmost. The Department of Agriculture had been one of the first to feel the effect of the progressive Liberal policy. In 1896 Canada was decidedly behind the times. Since then the exports of butter, cheese, fruits and dairy produce had been enormously increased. In 1896 Canada was not able to place here farm products in the British market in proper condition. One of the first things accomplished by the Liberal Government was the establishment of a cold storage system in connection with the railway and steamship companies. The railways were induced to put on refrigerator cars which would insure the proper shipping of fruit and other perishable goods to the market port, and the steamship lines to put in a system of cold storage so that the goods would reach the British consumer in good condition. In addition to this there had been established a system of inspection of the refrigerator cars, and of the cold storage plants. Instruments had been installed in ocean steamers for the purpose of ekeping the temperature at the proper point. The Government were also instrumental in having the cold storage system established in connection with creameries, and warehouses, properly equipped had been placed at tthe different shipping points, so that the exports might be properly cared for. These, however, should be more equally distributed and the Government was giving its attention to that necessity now. The only way to judge of a Government's policy was by the results. In 1896 the value of cheese exported to Great Britain was about $13,000,000. This year it was $24,000,000, and the increase in the export of butter had been even greater. In the export of fruit there had been an increase of about 240 per cent., surely an enormous increase for such a short period as twelve years. As a result of the Liberal policy, Canada to-day sent 75 per cent. of the cheese that was imported in the English market. Agricultural interests had also been assisted by the appointment of a Seed Commissioner, who would see that the seed supplied to farmers was pure, and that the farms would not be overrun with weeds. Mr. Hall then dealt with some of the other wise measures introduced by the Government for the establishment of Canada's trade with foreign markets, which included the deepening of the St. Lawrence waterway from nine feet to fourteen feet. This gave a stretch of 2,300 miles from Duluth to Montreal that was navigable for large vessels. In the matter of railway transportation 7,000 more miles had been built since 1896, enough to build three transcontinental lines. The country's trade conditions had been improved in every direction. In 1896 trade with Mexico had been only $37,000, this year it was $1,300,000, which was brought about by the establishment of a steamship service between the two countries. The total trade with Belgium amounted now to about five times as much as in 1896, and another striking example of the increase under the Liberal Government was the fact that the trade with the British West Indies had increased in the twelve years by nearly nine million dollars. The country was now reaping the benefit of the capable administration of these departments which it had had for the past twelve years, and their return to power would insure a continuance of the prosperity. (Cheers.)

Mr Stratton

when he rose to address the meeting, was received with great applause. He expressed his great pleasure in once more meeting his old friends of North Monaghan, and he was glad to see that among those friends he saw so many of the ladies. He was appealing to them as the supporter of a progressive Government, a Government that had done much for Peterborough. The policy of the Government throughout had not been the advancement of one district at the expense of another, but had been for the general advantage of Canada. Mr. Stratton referred to the policy of slander of the Opposition, and contrasted it with the business-like policy of the Government. The people of West Peterborough would, however, be able to decide between progressiveness and the do-nothing policy of the Opposition. The Conservatives had criticised the expenditure of the Government, but it was necessary to have a large expenditure to secure the necessary results. Money was needed for a project like the Grand Trunk Pacific, for the Trent Canal and the Hudson's Bay Railway Company. Under the so-called National Policy the country was not progressing, its expenditure exceeded its revenue, but when the Liberal Administration came into power, although the expenditure had been materially increased, the revenue had exceeded it, and we had increasing surpluses every year. By means of the transportation policy, goods were now put on the British markets at prices profitable to the farmer. The tariff question was one that must be considered on a fair basis. The Government, however, had endeavoured to regulate the tariff to suit both the manufacturer and the consumer. Legislation should be framed to bring about the greatest good to the greatest number. The result of the Government's policy could easily be seen. Last year the revenue had increased to $95,000,000 from $36,000,000 in 1896, and the rate of taxation per head had been very considerably lowered. In the last twelve years we had had nineteen millions in surpluses. Portions of this money were spent in developing the transportation systems, and in the improvement of navigation facilities. One of the striking evidences of improvement was when we considered the total trade of the country. In 1878, when Alexander Mackenzie went out of power it was 172 millions, in 1896 it was 239 millions, and in 1908 it was 650 millions, or an increase of 411 millions. In 1896 the banks of the country had on deposit only 183 millions, and in 1907 they had 589 millions. Mr. Stratton then quoted the Toronto News to show how it had adopted one policy with regard to its friends in the Ontario House, and another with regard to the Dominion Government. When Col. Matheson had brought down his budget, showing an increase of three and a half millions over the Liberal expenditure, that journal had justified it on the ground that it was necessary in the development of the province, but it had condemned the Liberal Government at Ottawa, and had stated that their expenditure was not a legitimate outlay. If there was any justification for increased expenditure it certainly was for a growing Dominion. Every province was expanding and enlarging and needed to be assisted in its expansion by a broad progressive Dominion policy. (Applause.) Mr. Burnham and his leader were at variance on the Transcontinental Railway question. (Mr. Borden had declared it to be a public necessity, and Mr. Burnham did not want it. However, the people of Canada might be certain that before many years the growing needs of the country would require another transcontinental railway. The Government had made wonderful progress in connection with the building of the railway. There were already 875 miles of railway drawing grain from a district that had no railway facilities whatever two years ago. The only way to induce settlement was to provide the proper means of transportation. The Conservative Opposition had no policy to advance that could take the place of the present progressive policy of the Government. Their slanderous statements were being disproved. They were accusing Sir Wilfrid Laurier of stating that the Grand Trunk Pacific would cost only $13,000,000. What Sir Wilfrid had really said was that the ultimate cost to the country would be thirteen millions, the interest on the cost of the Moncton-Winnipeg section for seven years, after which the Grand Trunk would pay the interest. Mr. Roblin had also been indulging in some false statements with regard to the connection of the owners of the Globe with the Crow's Nest Pass Land Company. The statements of the present editor and the late editor had shown his assertion to be entirely at variance with the facts. Mr. Stratton then showed the increase in revenue that had taken place in all departments since the advent of the Liberal Government to power, and contrasted it with the record of the Conservative party for the eighteen years previous. He concluded his address with an appeal to the electors to support honest, capable Government. (Cheers.)

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, the ladies, the Government and the candidate.

THE STREET LIGHTS ON ARMS

Fire, Water and Light Committee Discuss Question—Cost Will be $2.00 Each

THE PETITIONS FOR LAMPS

Several matters of more or less importance came up for discussion last night at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. Those present were Chairman Ald. Johnston, Ald. Buller, Turner, McIntyre, and Mayor Rush.

A letter was received form the Davis-Thompson Co. in reference to insurance on horses and live stock of all kinds.

The City Clerk was instructed to write the Davis-Thompson Co. and ask for full particulars re the insurance of horses.

At a recent meeting the chairman was authorized to interview the Light & Power Co. re the price of having several street lamps on arms reaching out over the street. Chairman Johnston said he had seen the company and had received a letter in reply. The company proposed to put the lamps on arms for the cost of $2 per year per lamp above the regular cost. The matter was left over for the time being.

A petition was received asking that lights be placed at the corner of Smith and Park streets, and Smith and Freeburn streets. A petition was sent in some time ago and the Council granted it, but so far no light has been put up. The writer of the last petition had gone to Smith township Council, and that body had consented to pay one-third of the cost.

The difficulty is that the distance from the nearest lamp is over 800 feet, and the Council cannot compel the company to put one there. It will be necessary to place two lights up.

On motion, the Council will be recommended to place a lamp at the corner of Smith and Park streets, and another at the corner of Smith and Freeburn streets, providing Smith township pays one-third the cost of the latter lamp for five years.

Another petition for a light at the north end of Charles street was received.

"THE RUBBER IN THE WOOD-PILE"

Thousands of people go through life feeling more or less miserable without ever knowing the reason. They suffer from headaches, indigestion, pains in the back, and at the slightest chill get rheumatism or neuralgia.

They try to cure these separate outbreaks, never suspecting that the root of the whole trouble is the failure of the bowels to move regularly, and in many cases the sluggish action of kidneys and skin. The result, of course, is that the whole system gets clogged with impurities, which soon turn to poison, and show their presence in many ways.

"Fruit-a-tives"—or fruit juice tablets—promptly stir up the sluggish liver, regulate the bowels, and stimulate the kidneys and skin to do their work properly. Thus they cure all these troubles by removing the cause, and make it possible to really enjoy life. 50c a box—6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE PRISONER TO PLEAD INSANITY

James Creighton of Owen Sound Will Call Experts.

THREE CHARGES OF MURDER

Man Who Slew Wife and Step-Daughters Is Placed on Trial and Pleads Not Guilty — Prominent Alienists Will Be Put on Stand —Court-room is Crowded With People to See the Prisoner.

Owen Sound, Sept. 30.—What may prove one of the most notable criminal cases in Canadian records opened here yesterday afternoon, when James Creighton, self-confessed murderer of his wife, Lillie Eliza Creighton, and her two daughters, Katherine Belle Chapman and Claire Belle Chapman, by a previous marriage, on May 26 last, at their home on Union street hill, was placed on trial.

The Assizes opened with every seat in the court-room filled, while the aisles and corridors were packed with humanity eager to get a glimpse at the prisoner and listen to any evidence which might be offered. Though there is an extensive docket, that of Creighton is the only criminal case to be heard.

Justice Riddell opened the court promptly at 2 and after a few explicit instructions to the grand jury, left the case with them.

It was only a short time before the grand jurors returned a true bill in each of the three separate charges of murdering the mother and her two daughters.

Creighton was then brought up from the cells, and as he was led between two constables a more dejected spectacle could scarcely be found. Trembling, he was led to the prisoner's dock where, when the indictments were read he entered the plea of not guilty. He wore a bandage over the eye where the self-inflicted wound was made after he despatched his three victims.

The prisoner was not detained any length of time and was led back to his cell, where he has been guarded day and night since his commitment.

The evident intention of the defence is to plead insanity and several experts will be called, among them being Dr. Beemer of Mimico Asylum; Dr. Bruce Smith, inspector of prisons and asylums; Dr. J. M. Cotton and Dr. Clark of Toronto Asylum. Several local doctors have also been summoned, though not as expert witnesses.

George Tate Blackstock, K.C., is conducting the case for the crown, and A. G. MacKay, K.C., M.P.P., for the prisoner.

COL. LESLIE FREED.

Grand Jury Brings "No Bill" on the Charge of Stealing Funds.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—The session grand jury yesterday brought in no bill" in the indictment charging Col. J. Knox Leslie with the theft of $18,946.53 from the Industrial Exposition Association.

This does not, however, of necessity, close the Leslie case. Should Crown Attorney Drayton seek it, Judge Winchester may grant his fiat allowing the presentation of another bill to the grand jury. This bill may be presented either to that now sitting or to the grand jury of the next sessions. It may be presented upon the evidence as it now stands or upon that together with any further evidence which the county crown attorney may gather.

Swedish Socialists Gain.

Stockholm, Sept. 30.—The elections for the second chamber of the Riksdag have been concluded and of those elected 138 are Liberals, or Socialists, and 98 are Conservatives. The Speaker is not included among the latter.

In the last chamber the figures were respectively 117 and 112.

The situation in the Conservative Cabinet is precarious, and a change of Government may be expected in the spring.

Missionaries Say Farewell.

London, Sept. 30.—(C.A.P.)—A farewell service was held in Southwark Cathedral for Dr. Willidge E. Frampton, who is leaving for Qu'Appelle; Miss M. Lampard for Calgary, and other colonial missionaries who volunteered their services as a result of the appeal made at the Pan-Anglican Conference.

Woman Badly Burned.

London, Ont., Sept. 30.—Mrs. N. K. Argus of 366 Oxford street is lying at the point of death in St. Joseph's Hospital to-day as the result of being badly burnt in a lamp explosion.

Hundreds Die of the Plague.

Pekin, Sept. 30.—There have been 500 deaths from bubonic plague at Tong Sha, 60 miles northeast of Tien Tsin, since the outbreak of the epidemic.

Elopes With Chauffeur.

Atlanta, Sept. 30.—The greatest sensation in Atlanta society for many years came yesterday in the announcement of the marriage of Silver Speer, granddaughter of one of the wealthiest and best known men in Atlanta, now dead, to Russel Thomas, the chauffeur of her family. The license was procured by the father of the bridegroom and the marriage was performed by the Rev. Henry Atkinson.

Mrs. Thomas is just 17 years old. She is worth anywhere from $800,000 to $1,000,000 in her own right, the fortune to come to her when she is 21. The young couple are on the way to Washington. The bride's family is furious, and lawyers have been employed on both sides.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 30.—The American party, the anti-church organization, Monday night nominated a state ticket and adopted a platform which declares that polygamy is still actively practiced in Utah by prominent Mormon church officers and others without pretence to conformity with President Woodruff's manifesto in 1893, and that there is no intention of discontinuing the practice.

COST IS BILLION A YEAR

Professor at Washington Tuberculosis Congress Makes Startling Statement Regarding Peril — Annual Death List in the United States is 138,000 Persons — Tendency of Hereditary Was Discussed.

Washington, Sept. 30.—What 5,000,000 people now living in the United States are doomed to fill consumptives' graves unless something is done to prevent it, was the startling declaration of Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, in an address on "The Cost of Tuberculosis," before the International Congress on Tuberculosis yesterday. Prof. Fisher's address, which was the feature of the day, created a sensation among the hundreds who listened to his statements. Prof. Fisher further declared that the 138,000 persons who die of consumption annually in this country cost in hard cash over one billion dollars a year.

Surgeon-General Simon Von Unterberger of St. Petersburg, honorary physician at the Czar's Court, contributed his views of "Heredity in Tuberculosis." "All tendency to disease appears in any individual," asserts Dr. Unterberger, "is to be regarded as hereditary, whether or not the corresponding disease can be traced back each time to parents or ancestors. The tendency to consumption is inherited and may be developed by various agencies. Numerous autopsies show that every man over thirty years of age has old remains of a tuberculous infection. These facts show how comparatively easily the human organism can overcome the tubercule bacilli and give us the indication for our treatment, the strengthening of the organism by hygienic and dietetic means."

Triple Funeral.

Hamilton, Sept. 30.—The triple funeral of Robert McFadden, Edward Brown and William Maloney, the trainmen killed in the wreck on the T. H. & B. near Mineral Springs on Sunday morning, was held yesterday afternoon. The few bones which were found were placed in one casket and three funeral services were conducted. Rev. Father Holden conducted the Roman Catholic service for William Maloney and Rev. Mr. Fletcher and Rev. J. C. Sycamore conducted the services for the other two men.

The body was found floating in the mill race by one of Snider's mill hands.

Two More States.

Albuquerque, N.M., Sept. 30.—Just at the close of the morning session of the national irrigation convention here yesterday a telegram from President Roosevelt was received.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter H. Steinmetz, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to St. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at St. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic. I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Bill Cavanaugh Is Playing Great Lacrosse This Year

Scores Two Goals Out of Five in Last Game Against the Chicago Shamrocks

McDONOUGH IN THE GAME

Bill Cavanaugh is doing splendid work with the Illinois Athletic Club lacrosse team. In the last game played in Chicago on Saturday, his team won from the Shamrocks with the famous "Patsy" McDonough, by the score of 5 to 2. "Bill" scored two of the five goals. The Chicago Record says of the game:

Another tie exists in the lacrosse race for the Comiskey cup, as the Illinois Athletic Club's team defeated the Shamrocks at the West Side ball park Saturday afternoon, by the score of 5 to 2, necessitating one more match to decide the championship. The game was played in a rain which amounted to a downpour at times, and the fourth quarter had to be held over for a period on account of the deluge.

So dark did it become toward the end that the goals could not be seen from the stand, but the spectators showed no disposition to go on the field, which was flooded at all low points. It was late before the game was over. Referee Cattanach, of St. Paul, was the presiding official.

The first quarter opened under lowering skies and Donnelly made the solitary score in that period. The game was fast to that time, and in spite of the drizzle, which preceded the heavier rain, the men did accurate work. In the second quarter Wright carried the ball close to the I. A. C. goal and scored in less than fifty seconds. McDonough promptly came back for the Shamrocks and repeated his teammate's performance. Culbertson followed, making the score a tie, but West cast the deciding vote by sending home a goal for the I. A. C. midway in the period.

Cavanaugh then came to the front and proved the star of the moment by tallying two goals. The line-up:

I. A. C.		Shamrocks 2.
	Goal.
Barrett		Byrne
	Point
Young		Grogan
	Cover point
Gibbs		Gilligan
	First defense
McIntyre		Kelley

Goals: First quarter — Donnelly, five minutes. Second quarter — Wright, one minute; McDonough, five minutes; Culbertson, six minutes; West, nine minutes. Third quarter—Cavanaugh, five minutes; Cavanaugh, nine minutes. Referee—Cattanach.

CONKLE TO MEET TREMBLAY IN MONTREAL ON FRIDAY

Montreal, Sept. 30.—Charley Conkle, the Hamilton, Ont., wrestler, who has made a name for himself in the welterweight class, will be Tremblay's opponent at Sohmer Park next Friday night.

Conkle defeated Tremblay at Kansas City last season but the French Canadian wrestler, who will have to give Conkle over ten pounds this time, feels confident that he can turn the tables on the Ontario boy, and beat him out.

The match will be catch-as-catch-can style, the best two out of three with only the strangle hold barred.

Conkle is one of the best in his class, but Tremblay is not content with lightweight honours, and is now after the welterweight championship, and his contest with Conkle will prove whether or not he is of the calibre to add another championship to that of the lightweight title.

Longboat's Running Days Over; Must Stop Long Distance Work

Toronto, Sept. 30. — The career of Tom Longboat as a Marathon runner is about at an end. Dr. Wilson informed him yesterday that he must stop running long distances owing to an affection of the heart. It was, therefore, decided that this autumn shall see the end of the Marathon career of the greatest distance runner who ever appeared before the public. Longboat will run in the Ward Hamilton Herald and Montreal Star Marathons, which latter will be his last. The trouble from which he is suffering is the outcome of his numerous races over great distances of ground. Dr. Wilson contends that two or three long races are all that a man should undertake, whereas Longobat has run in and won about fifteen.

It will not be necessary for the Indian to forsake the cinder path altogether, and he will continue to run three and five-mile races if his condition grows no worse. His physicians say he will enjoy a full measure of health if he takes care of himself and runs no more long races, his affliction not being at all serious in its present state. Tom wants to win the three Marathons this autumn as a fitting close to his campaign in long distance races. At a meeting of the Irish-Canadian Athletic Club it was decided to see that the great runner is not neglected when he quits racing.

A Big Programme Of Events For Friday Night's Big Bout; Four Preliminary Contests

Peterborough has been favoured with a good many wrestling matches recently, but none has aroused more interest than Friday night's match between Frits Mohl of Buffalo and our own Gene Hurtubise. Since the fans have learned that they are to come together they have been talking of nothing else, and the indications point to a bumper house. Mohl is respected by the sporting fraternity here as a clean, game wrestler, who may be depended upon at all times to put up a hard argument. He has the advantage of being over thirty pounds heavier than Gene and his weight may count in the struggle, which is sure to be one that the spectators will remember for a long time. Hurtubise feels confident he can make things decidedly interesting for the husky German, and as Gene is in excellent shape from his matches last week there seems no doubt that he will keep his word. In addition to the preliminaries previously announced there is very likely to be another boxing match. Two local lightweights have asked for a chance to settle their differences during the evening, so that the programme will include three boxing and one wrestling preliminaries and the main wrestling bout, surely a grand bill.

Tom Daly is in active training for his four-round bout with Corney Burns. When in Hamilton last week Chris Graham warned the clever Brantford boy that he was going up against a classy "miller" and that he had better not take any chances by not being in shape. Daly remarked that he would take no chances but would set to work at once. Burns is also working hard, and the set-to will be second in importance only to the Mohl-Hurtubise bout.

Geo. Lillie, the English boxer, who is to go four rounds against "Kid" Turner, was sparring at the rink last night, and the rail birds who watched him had their eyes opened as they saw his clever work. He is undoubtedly some boxer, and the fans will have a treat on Friday night.

The programme will be:

BOXING.

Corney Burns of Peterborough vs. Tom Daly, Brantford; four rounds for a purse and decision.

Geo. Lillie of Peterborough v. Kid Turner, Peterborough; four rounds.

Two local lightweights, three rounds.

WRESTLING.

Fred Sullivan v. Ken Morris, fifteen minute bout.

Fritz Mohl v. Gene Hurtubise, catch as catch can, two out of three falls.

HURTUBISE TO WRESTLE CONKLE'S UNKNOWN

The Match Will Likely Take Place in the Near Future

Manager Chris. Graham states on behalf of Gene Hurtubise that he will accept the challenge offered by Charlie Conkle which appeared in yesterday's Examiner. Conkle's "unknown" is yet unknown to the local man, nevertheless he has got to go some to trim Gene in the wrestling game. The match will likely be arranged for the near future.

Sporting Comment

The Peterborough Baseball Club is considering the advisability of accepting the challenge of the Palmerston team to a game, and will write to them to make arrangements if possible. The Petes may take a trip to Palmerston on Saturday. The Northerners evidently think they are entitled to consideration when the Ontario championship is being figured on, and the locals are anxious to put themselves in a position where they can justly claim the title of champions.

• • • •

There will be a meeting of the executive of the City Rugby League to-night at 7.30 for the purpose of perfecting the junior league, drawing up the schedule, and making arrangements for the senior series. The following junior teams are asked to have representatives present—Crescents, Rough Riders, P.C.I., and T.A.S. All clubs who intend to enter the senior series are also asked to send representatives, as it is important that some headway should be made in the senior group to-night. The meeting will be held at the Examiner office.

RUGBY

It is altogether probable that Peterborough will see some O.R.F.U., or Inter-Provincial Rugby this year after all, and the lovers of the game will likely see two local junior O.R.F.U. or Inter-Provincial teams battling for the honours in this district with the Bindsay team. At to-night's meeting of the executive it is probable that this will be decided upon. The T.A.S. and Y.M.C.A. will each have strong teams and the fans will likely see some good Rugby.

FLOODS IN INDIA.

Hundreds Drowned and Thousands of Houses Destroyed.

Bombay, Sept. 30.—Thousands of native houses have been washed away and hundreds of lives lost in the Hyderabad and Deccan Districts as a result of floods which followed an unprecedented rainfall. The river rose sixty feet; all the bridges were carried away and the country was devastated for many miles in either direction.

Corpses are strewn everywhere and scores of bodies have been found stranded high in the branches of trees, where they were lodged by the swollen waters. The native hospital at Hyderabad was undermined by the waters and collapsed and all the inmates were buried in the wreckage.

RALLY AT AYLMER.

Hon. Sydney Fisher Addresses Rousing Meeting.

Aylmer, Sept. 30.—The most rousing meeting of this campaign was held here last evening, when the Town Hall was crowded with an audience which listened with the closest attention to Hon. Sydney Fisher and W. W. Rutherford, the Liberal candidate for East Elgin. The address of the Minister of Agriculture was an intelligent survey of the situation, and an intelligent survey of the situation, and an enlightening insight into the practical workings of his department, by which the Canadian farmers had profited so much.

Miss Barrymore's Peril.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—The Diamond Special, southbound, on the Illinois Central Railroad, ran into an open switch at Diveron, 20 miles south of Springfield. The locomotive plunged into a ditch and was demolished. Elizabeth McGuire, 7 years old, was playing in a yard near the tracks, and flying fragments of the demolished locomotive killed her.

Ethel Barrymore was on the train. She could not get out of the coach door and a porter pulled her through a window.

GENERAL CONDITION OF CROPS

The Reports Received by the Dominion Government

The Census and Statistics Monthly, issued by the Dominion Government, gives the following conditions existing during the month of August

The rainfall of August was generally sparse and the temperature high, and the condition of the later ripening cereals was somewhat lowered as compared with the promise of June and July. A fairly constant uniformity was maintained in the Maritime Provinces, excepting in the case of spring wheat in Prince Edward Island, where it was injured by the joint worm. In Quebec the outlook has continued to be favourable, and in Ontario also in spite of the drouth the conditions have been fairly maintained. West of the great lakes cereals were considerably affected by hot winds, but less in Alberta than elsewhere owing to the earlier ripening of crops there. In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the estimated yield of wheat is 104,-663,800 bushels as compared with 119,-524,000 bushels at the end of July. The estimated yield of oats has also fallen from 120,358,000 bushels to 107,-960,000 bushels, and of barley from 28,597,000 bushels to 25,951,000 bushels.

Yield Underestimated

Reports sent in after the first of September are more sanguine, and the results of the threshings show higher averages than the earlier estimates. But the next Monthly will give figures of production largely based on threshing results, as well as on the quality of cereals in all the provinces.

The report on corn for husking gives a condition of 83 per cent. at the end of August and 56 bushels per acre, of potatoes 71 per cent. and 150 bushels per acre, of turnips 76 per cent and 306 bushels per acre, and of other field roots 74 per cent. and 308 bushels per acre. For fodder corn the condition is reported at 90, for sugar beets at 76 and for tobacco at 91 per cent. The average condition of pasture at the end of the month was 76 per cent. of a standard.

THE LATEST HAPPENINGS FROM OMEMEE VILLAGE

Examiner Special

Omemee, Sept. 29.—The first political meeting held at the Bradburn Hall Monday evening was one of the most orderly in the history of the place. It was in the interest of Dr. Wilson of Fenelon Falls, the Liberal candidate for Victoria, and Col. Sam Hughes' opponent. Arriving on the noon train, the doctor made several calls on brother physicians and other prominent citizens of his former acquaintance, who gave him a hearty welcome.

The heavy rain storm coming on at noon was a welcome visitor. However, the Bradburn Hall was fairly well filled by 8 o'clock. Mr. Harvey, teacher, was called to the chair, and he filled it very acceptably. Dr. Wilson was called upon for his address and he gave a very good account of himself. He felt proud to be a representative of the Liberal Government. If elected, he would do all in his power in the best interests of the constituency independent of party affiliation.

Mr. R. J. McLaughlin followed with an address on the Liberal Government's administration for the past twelve years, asking any one present to contradict, or ask questions. He then dealt with the career of Col. Sam Hughes, asking any one present to point out any five dollars ever spent by him for the benefit of the constituency. How could such be done, he asked, he being only a servant of the McKenzie and Mann railway, and his attention divided, but always in the direction of Col. Hughes' own benefit. Ten five thousand or six thousand dollars spent in this constituency was not done by his efforts, but by those of the defeated candidate. He advised and recommended them to support Dr. Wilson, as an honest, upright man, whom he had known from a boy.

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER

It is no wonder that a Scotia man who went to see the Lindsay Fair tried to hide his sorrow in the bowling bowl.

It's a wonder the Lindsay ball team hasn't challenged for the Ontario championship. Such a strong baseball town as Lindsay imagines itself to be should at least be able to...

Even in the excitement that is reaching the final game of the American League race, the Chicago fans are not forgetting their privileges. Yesterday some one slugged the umpire just as they do when times are dull.

If the Spec. knew what the people around here said because our space was wasted upon such an unimportant subject as Hamilton, it would look upon it as an act of charity. Anyway, Hamilton is not such a bad place when you haven't to live there.

DEL VAL TO STEP OUT.

Italian Paper Says Rampolla Will Succeed Him.

Rome, Sept. 30.—According to the Vanati, Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, is about to retire.

This step is supposed to be an outcome of the representations made to the Vatican by American and English prelates, but particularly Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland, who objected to the secretary's deliverance against modernism.

Merry del Val probably will be succeeded by Cardinal Rampolla, who had formerly held that office.

Rampolla's return to power will mean a policy of dignified conciliation with regard to France, and an attitude of greater reserve toward Italy.

Merry del Val is well-known in Canada because of his part in the settlement of the remedial bill embroglio.

RAISING DISTRESS FUNDS.

Great Britain's Unemployed Will Have Terrible Winter.

London, Sept. 30.—The problem of dealing with the unemployed in the great centres of population throughout the United Kingdom is being seriously considered by the Government authorities, all of whom agree that the number of persons out of work will be greater the coming winter than in many years before. No census has been made of the unemployed in London, but a census taken by the newspapers of provincial cities shows alarming numbers.

The conditions at Glasgow are probably worse than in most of the other cities, there being 22,000 men now seeking work at that place. Sunderland has 13,000 unemployed, Birmingham 10,000, Liverpool 14,000, Manchester 8,000 and other cities from 1,000 to 5,000 each. These figures do not include the great army of strikers in the Lancashire cotton trade. Distress funds are now being raised throughout the country.

$100,000,000 COUNTRY.

Hon. Mr. Fielding Justifies Increased Expenditure.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 30.—"We have a hundred million dollar budget, but we have given you a hundred million dollar country to represent it." This sentence from the speech of Hon. W. S. Fielding at a great Liberal meeting here last night seemed to clinch his argument justifying the increased expenditure of Canada, which has been so generally criticised by the Conservatives. The sentiment of the Minister of Finance was appreciated by 2,500 people who heard it, and it was the cause of an ovation rarely equalled in this city.

Accident at Soo.

The steamer was down bound, laden with ore. The Lyman C. Smith is 525 feet long and 56 feet beam.

A doctor who was summoned gave as the cause of death an overtaxed stomach. He had been intoxicated.

Wolverine Probably Safe.

Selkirk, Man., Sept. 30.—The tug Cygnet, which arrived here from Warren's Landing and reports very rough weather on the lake, brings word of the steamer Wolverine, which relieves anxiety for the vessel, now four days overdue.

"HERE! MAN, YOU MUST BE CRAZY - HOW CAN I TALK EXPENDITURE WHILE YOU SHOW THAT?"

CHARGE OF PRACTISING MEDICINE WITHOUT BEING REGISTERED WAS DISMISSED BY THE MAGISTRATE AT POLICE COURT THIS MORNING

Magistrate Dumble gave judgment to-day in the charge against "Doc" Taggart of practising medicine without being a registered physician. The charge was laid some weeks ago by Charles Rose, of the Medical Council, and the evidence in the case was heard by the Magistrate after which he reserved judgment until to-day in order to give the matter proper consideration. This morning, the Magistrate dismissed the charge.

Mr. Rose will have to pay the costs of the action which amount to $5.65.

Following is the judgment of the Magistrate:

The charge is laid by Charles Rose, a man in the employment of the Medical Council, charging the defendant with practising medicine between April 1st, 1908 and 26th Aug., 1908, for hire, gain or hope of reward, without being registered as a medical practitioner.

The particulars allege practising on "one Bolton Cunningham, of Peterborough, and others, to wit, on Edwin Walton."

There was evidence that Taggart once gave Cunningham from his pocket a headache tablet, when Cunningham told him his head ached. No charge was made and nothing was paid.

This under the authorities was not practising medicine for hire, gain or hope of reward.

The charge there fails as to Cunningham. There are authorities establishing that when the information charges practising on a person named and others, and the proof fails as to the named person, the charge drops. I think it very doubtful if this charge could be supported by proof of practising on Edwin Walton.

There was evidence that Taggart gave Edwin Walton a bottle of pellets out of his pocket on the street when Walton complained that he had a pain in the stomach and wanted something to help him, and the defendant, when put in the box by the prosecution, stated that he gave medicine to Cunningham's wife and daughter and charged for it, but he could not fix the date.

There is no evidence that the medicine was given to Walton or to Cunningham's wife and daughter within the dates alleged in the information as required by the Act to create liability under the Act under which the information is laid.

I must therefore dismiss this charge with costs to be paid by the informant.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Police Magistrate.

Peterborough, Oct. 1, 1908.

THE PLOUGH IS AGAIN AT WORK

Farmers Have at Last Began Operations Which Are a Month Delayed

The country fields are now resounding with the loud shouts of the ploughman, as he turns furrow on furrow in the soil that has been softened by the recent rain. The plough has reasserted itself, although the farmers [illegible] of the earth has long kept it inactive. The farmer must hurry with the work, for he is now a month behind in the operations of autumn. The days will prove all too short from now until the work is completed.

G.T.R. LIGHT ENGINE SMASHES INTO BUGGY ON WATER STREET; OCCUPANT THROWN TO GROUND

Mr. John B. Montgomery Had a Narrow Escape To-day—Was Badly Shaken Up by the Fall

DID NOT SEE THE TRAIN

Mr. John B Montgomery, who resides at 210 London street, had a narrow escape from serious injury this morning when the buggy in which he was riding was struck by a G.T.R. engine at the Grand Trunk crossing on Water street. Mr. Montgomery was driving north on Water street and talking to notice the approaching engine which was running "light," tried to cross the track. When he discovered his predicament he was too late to get out of the way and although the horse got clear the cow-catcher of the locomotive struck the buggy and tilted it up so that Mr. Montgomery was thrown out, striking heavily on the road.

The shock of the fall was sufficient to render the unfortunate man unconscious and he remained in that condition for some time. There were several witnesses of the accident and they hurriedly came to the rescue. It was thought by those who reached him first that Mr. Montgomery was dead, but he was soon revived with some cold water and conveyed to his home on London street, Dr. McClelland attending him. It was learned that beyond a bad shaking up he was apparently none the worse for the accident and this afternoon although he is still weak from the shock no serious effects are looked for.

The vehicle was only slightly damaged, one wheel being somewhat bent. The train was not moving fast at the time or the accident might have been much more serious than it was. The approach to the crossing from the west is hidden by buildings.

Horse Struck By C.P.R. Engine. Walked With Two Legs Broken

A horse belonging to Mr. John McGee, who resides near May's School House, was struck by a C. P. R. engine during the night, and had to be killed this morning, owing to the injuries it sustained. One of the front legs was broken, as also one of the hind and yet this morning, when it was found in the ditch beside the track, it managed to struggle to its feet, and on the good legs hobbled along for a considerable distance with many falls.

The gate of the pasture must have been left open and in that manner the animal got out onto the track. It had strayed about a mile west of the gate before it was hit by the train. Mrs. McGee found the horse this morning and patted it on the head. It was then that it endeavoured to follow her as she walked away.

SMALL POLITICS.

"G.T.P. 206,767." This is the legend seen on a box-car passing along the Grand Trunk tracks, Bethune street, this morning. What does it mean? It means many things. It means that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and its rolling stock will take a large place in developing the great West, in planting population on now unoccupied millions of acres, in bringing under the plough millions of acres of fertile wheat lands and rolling out to the seaboard on its way to the British markets millions of bushels of wheat. And what does this mean? A home market for the manufactured supplies of our factories, and the warehouses of our wholesale merchants, representing direct benefits to the artisan and commercial and farming interests of Ontario. What more does it mean? It means that by the construction and operation of this railway the population and occupation of Canada will be doubled, and that doubled opportunity will be presented to every Canadian. It means that this road passing through the heart of New Brunswick, brings into practical being rich timber and mineral areas, now commercially valueless because inaccessible. It will pass through a thousand miles of Ontario and Quebec and bring now unknown regions into touch with development. The building by the Liberal Government of Ontario of the Temiskaming Railway into a region scoffed at as valueless, has been followed by the discovery and operation of the richest silver deposits in the world. If a hundred miles of railway in one part of undeveloped Ontario does such things, what may not be the results of the opening up of 1,200 miles of virgin territory in New Brunswick and Ontario and Quebec.

Our Little Canadian contemporary, the Review, through its Little Canadian editor, scoffs at the Transcontinental Railway as a waste of money and enterprise, and an injury to Ontario; and it and he have actually offered a prize of $10 for the best essay showing the injury the Grand Trunk Pacific will do Ontario—how it will impair the value of Ontario farms.

Here is a suggestion for some groping essayist. In the Township of Ennismore there lived a few years ago a farmer with a family of seven sons and four daughters. They occupied a farm of a hundred acres. When the boys grew toward man's estate it was found there were too many for a hundred acre farm to profitably keep busy and comfortably support. In addition a farm was leased, but there were still too many mouths to feed, too little profitable work, too little prospect of improvement of conditions. The family decided to remove to the Canadian West. They went, leaving one son on the homestead, and settled in the vicinity of Calgary. To-day the father and every son have each a splendid farm, well stocked, with fine buildings, and all are prospering and are, as farmers go, wealthy. All the girls are married to equally prosperous farmers and doing well, while the son is also doing well on the old homestead, which has not decreased in value, but increased through the conditions created by the Administration of the Liberal Government, which brought prosperity to farmers and removed the farm mortgage business. This case is but a type in kind of tens of thousands of instances in many parts of the province. The narrow, small-souled idea of stick-in-the-mud policy propagated by the Review and the Conservative candidate is only fit for dead men.

Richard Hall & Son's Old Store Simcoe Street

Open each evening until after election. A hearty invitation is extended to all friends and supporters to attend.

One must not open new areas to settlement in New Ontario, because some farmers' sons from old Ontario might go there to settle and thus decrease the value of farm lands. One mustn't build a new house in Peterborough because it would decrease the rental value of the landlords' property. With the spirit of such a policy carried out stagnation and decay would blight the whole country. One must not open a new shop or establish a new factory because the business of another merchant or manufacturer would be affected. That's the logic of the Conservative candidate.

And that is the policy and idea of the man who aspires to the representation of a live constituency, the man who opposes the building of a great railway, which will create another Canada, as large if not larger, than the present fruitful area. We must go ahead. We have been gloriously on the move for the past twelve years. We must keep on the move, but it must be done by adopting parish politics and debating school theories.

GIFTS VERSUS LOANS.

The Farmers' Sun, published ostensibly in the interests of farmers, is always strong in its condemnation of bonuses to railways. Apart from the benefits of railways as engines of national development and aids to transportation in marketing the products of the farm, it is to be remarked that there are bonuses and bonuses. In Conservative days the railway bonus was a gift. Under Liberal Administration railway bonuses are loans. The Conservative bonus was an out and out gift. The only way it was "earned" was by doing certain construction work and with its payment the responsibility of the railway ceased. The Liberal Government makes the railway company doubly "earn" its bonus—by doing certain work and doing public service to the amount of the bonus. The Liberal Government makes it a condition that the railway companies shall really "earn" their bonuses by carrying mails to the extent of a fair interest on the amount of the subsidies paid. Isn't that good business?

ONE SIDED.

The Weekly (Farmers') Sun in a front page table, attempts to contrast the expenditure under eleven years of Conservative rule and eleven years of Liberal rule, to show "where some of the money went;" and points out that in eleven years the Conservatives spent only $939,000 on the Trent Valley Canal, while the Liberal Government in eleven years spent $3,889,000. Thanks. A contrast like that is what redounds to the credit of the Liberal Government, and the benefit of the Midland district and Canada. In the eighteen years the Conservatives were in power they largely used the Trent Canal as a vote compeller. In the fifteen years after Sir Charles Tupper, as Minister of Railways and Canals, made his memorable voyage of discovery of the Trent Valley Canal and officially adopted it as a Conservative vote maker, the Conservative Government spent the enormous average sum of $60,000 a year on Trent Canal construction. In the eleven years, since the Liberal Government undertook to give Canada administration on business principles—to do things—the Liberal Government has spent the average annual sum of $350,000 per year on building the Trent Canal, and will have completed it before the coming parliamentary term expires. Why can't the Sun be fair in its comparisons of expenditures? It selects the growth of expenditures in various services and condemns them. Why did it not select the expenditure on agriculture, in the interests of the farmers for whom the Sun arrogates to itself the right of speaking with authority? Why did it not quote the largely increased expenditure upon agriculture, in the interests of its farming readers? In the past eleven years the Liberal Government spent $5,441,607 to help the farmers, as against $1,459,274, spent by a Conservative Government in a similar period. Why not condemn the Liberal expenditure? Because it can't be honestly condemned. It was so expended as to help the farmers to increase the output and export of farm products from 80 millions in 1895 to 121 millions in 1908. Play the game fairly.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, slumming with Mr. Borden, calls in that odorous animal, the skunk, in aid of his platform work. Apology is due the skunk.

"When in sport or controversy a man loses his temper, it'd a sign the game or the facts are going against him. Mr. Borden is losing his temper; he is becoming vituperative and shrewish in speech, or, maybe, it is only evil associations that are corrupting him. A man needs to be thoroughly germ-proof to safely hear Mr. Roblin, not to speak of sitting cheek by jowl with him on the platform and being compelled to endorse him.

If anybody owns a foot of land in the Canadian Northwest provinces for speculative purpose, it is a part of the huge tracts granted under the administration of the Conservative Government.

Mr. "Joe" Seagram, for years the member for North Waterloo, didn't get the Conservative nomination this time. Though he might have won, as he had the habit of doing in the matter of the King's plate. North Waterloo got tired of having a representative who did nothing—who neglected his duties. West Peterborough, in 1904, "turned down" a member, who neglected his duties. Now, does West Peterborough want another member who presents no stronger claim to be elected than abuse of his opponent? Let the Conservative candidate cease scandalmonging long enough to tell the people what he proposes to do—what he can do to advance the interests of West Peterborough in a representative capacity.

PARISIAN SAGE

Puts Hair on Your Head and Keeps It There

What's the use of being bald? What sense is there in deliberately allowing your hair to turn gray?

Do you want to look old before your time? Give up the thought; old age will come all too soon.

Look after your hair. Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs, and is the only preparation, so far as we know, that is guaranteed to do so.

Man or woman, no matter how old you are, Parisian Sage will make you look younger.

Why not go to Wm. Madill, corner of Hunter and George streets and get a large bottle to-day, it only costs 50 cents, and your money back if it does not cure dandruff, stop falling hair, or itching of the scalp. It will make your hair luxuriant, bright and beautiful and it is the most refreshing, pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

PESTILENCE AFTER FLOOD.

India Is In Peril of Plague—Death List Heavy.

Hyderabad, India, Oct. 1.—It is feared that pestilence will follow the floods that have occurred in the Hyderabad and Deccan districts as a result of the unprecedented rainfall of the past few weeks.

The waters subsided Tuesday and the country is strewn with unburied bodies estimated to number not less than 1,000.

Most of the corpses are those of women and children. They are decomposing already, and as it will be impossible to get them under ground promptly an outbreak of illness is feared.

Many elephants are at present employed in removing the dead.

Later reports from the flooded districts point to a much heavier mortality than was at first supposed.

The rescuers up to the present time have only touched the edge of the desolated area, but from the numbers of bodies already found it is feared that the fatalities will total several thousand.

One report places the death list at 10,000. The Village of Ghoulligoods, which consisted of one thousand houses on the bank of the River Musi, has been entirely engulfed in the mud.

The catastrophe that overwhelmed Hyderabad, the capital of the Nizam's dominions, was one of the most sudden and most appalling of many visitations on India.

In the Nizam's dominions are many tanks or lakes, the largest of which communicates with the River Musi. Tremendous rains caused the lake to rise, which in turn burst its banks, overflow into the river, which in turn burst its banks, swept down upon the city, carrying everything before it, and completely devastating several quarters of the city. The flood actually wiped out a district a mile long and half a mile wide.

Son Cut Off In Will.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—The will of Leslie Carter, once a millionaire, was filed for probate yesterday, disposing of an estate of $75,000. The estate is divided between a sister and a brother, thus disinheriting a son. Of the son, the will says: "I leave nothing to my son, Leslie Dudley Carter, for the reason that he has left the home which I maintained for him without cause or justification. This, I believe, can result only to his personal injury, if not his ruin."

Took Boat Too Far.

Belleville, Oct. 1.—In the Police Court yesterday morning Capt. Roys of the steamer Aletha was fined $175 and costs for taking his boat, which only had a bay and river permit, to Cobourg on Lake Ontario, last summer, without permission. Three charges of overloading were dismissed.

Business Deal at Sarnia.

Sarnia, Oct. 1.—The executors of the estate of the late Thomas Symington have sold his extensive dry goods and carpet business to Geddes Bros. of Sarnia and Strathroy. The business, valued at $50,000, was established over 40 years ago by Messrs. T. & J. S. Symington.

Shot; Won't Tell.

Winnipeg, Oct. 1.—Robert Bains, victim of a shooting Tuesday night at Norwood Hotel, is still in a critical condition. Johnson, his assailant, was remanded yesterday morning.

Bains is very reticent and will not talk of the shooting.

Thinks Thaw Dangerous Lunatic.

New York, Oct. 1.—Sheriff Lane of West Chester County, yesterday, at White Plains, declared he would refuse to deliver over Harry K. Thaw to Federal authorities of Pittsburg, even should they send for the prisoner with an order of a Pittsburg Federal judge.

"I will have the matter adjudicated in the state courts here," said the sheriff. "I will exhaust every possible recourse I have in the state courts before I will permit him to go to Pittsburg.

"I consider him a dangerous lunatic."

The Lakefield Fair Goes Up Another Notch; A Record Is Made In All Departments

Excellent Exhibit of Horses Resulting in Keen Competitions — Many Peterboro People Present —Largest Crowd in the History of the Society

WAS A SUCCESSFUL SHOW

"I believe we have surpassed all former years both in attendance and in the quality and quantity of the exhibits," said Mr. H. C. Garbutt, the president of the Lakefield Agricultural Society to an Examiner reporter yesterday afternoon. "This Fair is particularly encouraging in more ways than one," he continued. "We have a splendid display of horses, in fact I have never seen better at a township fair. The grains are also above the ordinary, and the inside exhibits could scarcely be improved upon."

Mr. Garbutt's opinion of the Lakefield Fair is exactly the same as that expressed by the large crowd that was present. Secretary-Treasurer W. Sherlin were a broad smile as he informed the other directors of the substantial amount of the gate receipts, and it is certainly a fact that the Fair more than upheld the reputation it has gained in the past. The day was not quite as pleasant as it might have been, but that did not in any way affect the attendance.

A feature of the day, apart from the Exhibition itself, was the good feeling that was manifested on every hand. Many of the townships were represented, especially Smith, Douro, and Dummer, and the crowd seemed to be one great family. This evidence of acquaintanceship impressed the stranger with the importance of holding township fairs and of doing everything possible to make them a success. Everyone appeared to know everyone else, and salutations were the order of the day. A great number of Peterborough people were present, many of them being retired farmers. The people were out for a holiday and it was a real enjoyment to meet friends, some of whom had not been seen in months. This feature of township fairs commends itself to everyone, and is certainly one of the strongest points in its favour.

Exhibits Good

However, the crowd was not the chief consideration. The exhibits were fine, particularly the horses. The number and appearance of the heavy and light agricultural horses, and the splendid showing in carriage horses, would be difficult to improve upon, and it may be safely said that this was the most interesting competition of the whole day. In deciding the winners in these classes the judges had an exceedingly difficult task. They were all good specimens of horseflesh, and in their grooming and well-kept harness they showed that their owners took a real interest in their appearance. The sheep and cattle entries were up to the average, as was also the swine. The poultry exhibit brought out some fine birds, and in this respect it might be remarked that all the Fair directors should try to make the competition in these exhibits more keen. One of the best displays was on the fruit shelves, where all the Ontario fruits were shown, as good as will be found anywhere. The ladies' work displayed the ability of the women of the several townships in the gentle art of needlework. All the classes cannot be mentioned here as they were too numerous.

The Races

During the afternoon several fast running and horse races attracted the crowd to the track. A boy's one-half-mile event was hotly contested, resulting as follows:

1, L. Kennedy.
2, W. Quinn.
3, L. Armstrong.

All were Lakefield boys, and the crowd was interested in their respective favourites.

The men's race was three laps around the track, the total distance being a little over a mile. The winners were:

1, W. Carveth, Warsaw.
2, W. Johnston, Chemong.
3, E. Blewett, Buckhorn.
Time, 5 mins. 30 secs.

The trio hung close together through the whole course, and at the finish were not far apart. Carveth had lots of energy left for a spurt, Blewett was unable to hold second place, the Indian beating him out by a few yards.

The green race was amusingly exciting. "Nat" Nicholls had pretty much his own way, although Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle gave him a close run each time. The finish was as follows—

N. Nicholls	1	1
W. A. McIlmoyle	2	2
G. G. Headren	3	3

During the afternoon the Lakefield band gave a concert that enlivened the proceedings, and added very much to the pleasure of the occasion.

The officers of the Lakefield Agricultural Society who are responsible for the success of yesterday's fair are as follows:

President—H. C. Garbutt.
Vice-President — John Fairbairn.
Secretary-Treasurer W. W. Sherlin.
Honorary Directors—T. E. Bell and C. Quinn.
Directors—W. A. Baker, M.D., G. W. Mann, R. Garbutt, Thompson Braden, R. Duff, Levi Payne, T. Fitzgerald, T. T. Milburn, W. J. Stillman.
Auditors—W. M. Graham and A. Fairbairn.

Notes

There were many Peterborough people in Lakefield for the occasion.

The retired Smith farmers, who have moved into the city, were everywhere in evidence, and had their horses and buggies to be seen on the grounds.

Yesterday was review day for the farmers with the "nifty" outfits. They would drive up and down past the grand stand as if it were Hyde Park.

Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle made a good showing in the events in which he entered his fast driver. He won two second and three third prizes. They were second in the green race, and second in the best lady driver class, Miss E. Fitzgerald driving; third in the novelty race, and third in the class under 15 1-2 hands.

In the carriage horse class, under 15 1-2 hands, there was the keenest competition of the day. Of all the large number entered the three prizes were won by Peterborough horses. The following men were their owners: 1st prize, Mr. Jas. Bushnell; 2nd, Mr. Jas. Storey; 3rd, Mr. W. A. McIlmoyle.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

There was quite a noticeable absence again of Special Exhibits at the Lakefield Fair. With one exception, Lakefield's business interests were unrepresented—a fact that shows a deplorable lack of interest in the success of the Fair on the part of the local merchants and manufacturers.

THE LAKEFIELD MILLING COYS. EXHIBIT

Considerable interest was centred round the flour exhibit made by the Lakefield Milling Company, which was in charge of Mr. J. W. Cornish. The exhibit was well displayed inside the building, close to one of the main entrances. It consisted of a pyramid of Ogilvie's high grade western flour which has obtained so favourable a reputation throughout the Dominion. The brands shown were displayed in printed cotton sacks and are the "Regal Household," a perfect household flour for bread and pastry, and the "Gleaner," a medium grade of baker's and family flour. The Lakefield Milling Company have the local agency for these flours and receive shipments in car lots. Mr. Cornish was kept busy answering the inquiries of visitors regarding the special merits of these flours. Copies of "Ogilvie's Book for a Cook" were freely handed out to the ladies. The Lakefield Milling Company also handle "Five Roses" flour, which also holds high rank among the western brands of western blended wheat.

The Lakefield Milling Company, since the erection of their new and commodious elevator near the railway station, possess splendid facilities for buying and handling grain of all kinds, for which they are now offering the highest cash prices.

GRAFTON AND CO. HIGHGRADE TAILOR MADE CLOTHING

The biggest, brightest and best of the special exhibits on the grounds was made by Messrs. Grafton & Co., of Peterborough. They had erected a beautiful exhibition tent of red and white striped material in which was made a very striking clothing display. This included some of the smartest, new 1908, styles in men's suits, overcoats, top coats, rain coats, etc., also boys' Russian overcoats and reefers with fancy brass buttons. There were also displayed several samples of the fancy coloured wool knitted vests now so popular with men in cold weather.

The popular overcoat for the season was shown in a heavy dark brown tweed, with Prussian collar; it has large, deep pockets and flaps and is made 52 inches long with a deep vent in the skirt at back. Striped patterns are very fashionable this season and so are new styles of flaps and cuffs on the suits out in the latest fashion. The exhibit was in charge of Mr. Herb. Conway and was tastefully dressed with fancy cards, flags and other appropriate decorations. Throughout the grounds, Grafton & Co. had a monopoly of all the preferred positions for their signs and fancy bulletin boards, and their advertising features were carefully looked after by their invincible advertising representative, Mr. Robt. Howland.

THE EMPIRE CREAM SEPARATOR

In a prominent place inside the fair building the Empire Cream Separator was demonstrated by two representatives of the Mutual Agency Co., Limited, of Peterborough. The exhibit attracted crowds of farmers and farmers' wives, who seemed to appreciate the privilege of obtaining all the information possible in the wise selection of a cream separator. "Clover, cows and the Empire Cream Separator make dollars for sowrowens," so runs the legend of the Empire Separator Company. This company offers three types of cream separators to choose from, viz.: (1) The Improved Fractionless Empire, (2) The Empire Star, (3) The Empire Disc. Buyers can thus choose the type of separator they want, the size they want, and the price they want to pay. Much confidence was created in the minds of many visitors that the representatives in charge, Messrs. W. H. Cunningham and N. C. Bundle, secured quite a bookful of prospects. The United Agency Company of Peterborough, and their representatives will hold themselves always ready to offer dairymen a choice of any one of their separators, feeling confident that they find in some one of them just the cream separator that will fill their particular needs.

The Victor Gramaphone proved an attractive feature in connection with this exhibit, and reproduced some of the most popular songs in a remarkably clear manner. The United Agency Company are the Peterborough agents of the "Victor," and keep a select stock of discs, etc., on sale.

Fight to the Death.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—As the result of a jealous quarrel, David D. Reardon, office manager for the Electric Transfer Co., is dead, and Thomas Fox, a mica expert, lies in the hospital probably fatally injured. The two men fought on the edge of the cliff known as Primrose Hill, in the western end of the city, and fell over the brink in a clinch. The woman in the case has not been located.

160 Drown.

Smyrna, Oct. 1.—A Turkish steamship ran down the steam ferryboat Stambul outside the harbor yesterday. One hundred and forty persons were drowned.

KILLED BY BLAST.

One is Dead and Another Badly Hurt Near Kingston.

Kingston, Oct. 1.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday afternoon at Westbrook, seven miles from here, when Henry Smith was killed by explosion while blasting, and his brother Alfred Smith badly injured.

He was brought to the General Hospital here, where the right arm was amputated. He will recover.

The young men's mother died a few days ago.

Henry Smith lives at Collins Bay, and his brother belongs to Cleveland, having been called here to attend his mother's funeral.

Mrs. Alfred Smith has been in the hospital several weeks undergoing an operation and has not been told the sad story. Henry Smith's body was terribly mutilated. There will be no inquest.

An American Camel.

Amherst, Mass., Oct. 1.—Professor Frederic E Loomis of Amherst College has just returned from the west with a perfect skeleton of a new series of dwarf camel about the size of a goat, which he discovered imbedded in sandstone near Lusk, Wyoming.

This find is claimed to establish the fact that the camel originated on the North American plains a million and a half years ago. He has many more imperfect skeletons and the bones of scores of camels.

Strike Situation Quiet.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—There has not been any new move in the present efforts to end the strike on the C.P.R. yesterday.

It was, however, stated yesterday evening by James O'Connell, president of the metal workers' section of the International Union of Railway Mechanics, that a prominent Canadian was now interested as intermediary between the men and the company, and that he would very speedily open negotiations.

Human Freak Dead.

Kansas City, Oct. 1.—With his body full of holes and scars, the result of many years of feats such as sticking pins, needles and sharp instruments through the face, neck and arms and swallowing of tacks, broken glass, rough on rats and other deadly poisons, Henry J. Johnson, "human freak" and strong man, was found dead in bed in a rooming-house here Tuesday night. Physicians attribute his death to rupture of the heart.

COLONEL ARRIVES AT EDMONTON

Mr. E. B. Edwards Speaks of His Trip to Kingston and Peterboro

The Edmonton Bulletin says: — Colonel E. B Edwards returned to the city this morning after a five weeks' trip to Eastern Canada. For two weeks he was at military camp in Kingston in command of the 7th infantry brigade, and later he visited the old home in Peterborough, as well as in Ottawa. He was particularly impressed with the development of some of the eastern cities, particularly Toronto and Ottawa. Business is quiet in manufacturing circles, but prospects have brightened considerably since the success of the western crops has been assured.

During this visit east Col. Edwards saw Adjutant General Lessard and other leading military officials with reference to the local infantry corps. He was assured that the officers of the new corps would be gazetted shortly, and the regiment put on an effective footing this fall. He was also assured that a new armoury was to be erected shortly, but in the meantime temporary quarters will have to be used for arms and accoutrements.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto is visiting in this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on Friday, October 16th.

DANDRUFF DON'T WASH OUT

The Germ That Causes it has to be Destroyed, to Cure Dandruff

Many a woman spends an hour twice a week scouring her scalp, thinking that by scrubbing off the scurf she will cure the dandruff. Two hours a week, at the age of 40 years she has spent 260 days of 12 hours each, or two-thirds of a year of her life, in that vain hope; vain because you can't cure dandruff without killing the dandruff germ, and the only hair preparation on earth that will do that is Newbro's "Herpicide" — also a delightful hair dressing; thorough antiseptic against all contagion from use of other's hair brushes. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—50 cents and $1. McDermid & Jury and the Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

Reception To Canon Davidson; St. John's Schoolroom Crowded

Rector Speaks of His Visit to England—Congregation Expresses Pleasure at His Return to Peterborough

FINE MUSICAL PROGRAMME

That Rev. Canon Davidson holds a very warm place in the hearts of his parishioners was shown by the grand reception which was tendered him last night in the school room of St. John's Church, on the occasion of his return from England, where he was one of the Canadian delegates to the great Pan-Anglican Congress. The school room was crowded and a significant fact was that the gathering was not composed entirely of members of the congregation, for the citizens of Peterborough generally were well represented. Welcome from the congregation was tendered by Dr. Boucher and from the Ministerial Association by Rev. J. R. Webb, while Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's Church, also expressed his pleasure at the return of the rector The reception was in every way a grand success, proving not only a demonstration of the popularity of Rev. Canon Davidson, but a most enjoyable affair in itself. A delightful programme was rendered and the occasion was one of social enjoyment.

Captain Mills, rector's warden, officiated as chairman in a pleasing manner. The programme was opened by the hearty singing of a verse of "Home Sweet Home," by the gathering.

Dr. Boucher, on behalf of the congregation, expressed the pleasure of the congregation at his return. He trusted that the trip had been an enjoyable and profitable one. It was pleasing to note that during the absence of the rector, the affairs of the church had been carefully looked after.

The speaker referred to the importance of the Pan-Anglican Congress, and remarked that the coming in contact there with so many luminaries of the church must have been an inspiration to the rector.

Rev. Canon Davidson, in reply, expressed his warm gratitude for the reception and welcome home which he had received. The warmth that was evident was more than he could find words to express.

The surroundings of the Pan-Anglican Congress were even more remarkable than the event itself. It was simply astonishing to the delegates to see the interest that was taken in the enterprise. Between 3,000 and 4,000 invitations came in from people living in the country to spend some time as their guests, and there were only some 1,200 delegates from over seas. The hospitality shown was remarkable.

Speaking of the trip Canon Davidson remarked that he had enjoyed a series of remarkable and delightful experiences during his visit to England. The Pan-Anglican Congress was so great a subject that he would not venture to deal with it on that occasion, but would merely allude to some of the social features which sprang from it. Three great garden parties were held, one being attended by 6,500 people. At Marlborough House the speaker enjoyed, through the brother of a parishioner, the pleasure of a presentation to the Prince of Wales.

Following the Congress Canon Davidson enjoyed several of the multitude of generous invitations offered throughout England to the members of the Congress, and was a privileged guest at a number of well known country houses at Cloverly, Worcester, Weston-supermare, where the Canadian bowlers were being magnificently entertained at the time, and at Kidderminster, where he preached in the Kidderminster Church, a meeting afterwards the relatives and friends of the employees of the Brinton Carpet Company in this city While at Kidderminster, Canon Davidson was the guest of Mr. J. Brinton.

August was spent at Lowestoft, a well known fishing port, where the speaker assisted in a remarkable work being done among the fishermen and residents of that flourishing town. He was afterwards entertained in other parts of England by relatives of some of his parishioners here.

As one result of the visit he had become convinced that the chief charm of England lay in its country homes and their pure, sweet life.

Near St. Leonard's the speaker was the guest of the Rev. G. B. Frewer, father of Capt. Frewer and Mr. Fred Frewer, of Peterborough, who, when leaving presented him with a beautiful flag to be given to the church.

Mr. Fred Frewer was called to the platform and presented the flag to the congregation of St. John's amid much applause. It is a splendid ensign, the design being ecclesiastically correct. The background is of white with a red St. George's cross.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Frewer by the gathering, and included in the motion was a vote of thanks to Mrs. Richardson, of England, mother of one of the members of St. John's Church, who contributed to the funds of the church.

Three cheers were given for Mr. R. J. Devey, the organist of St. John's, who was instrumental in getting up the splendid programme which was given last night.

A piano duet by the Misses Gladman was rendered with a brilliancy of attack and sympathy of tone that made it most enjoyable.

A mixed quartette, composed of Mr. Chandler, Mrs. Seward, Mrs. Devey and Mr. Greenhalgh, was a number that was much appreciated, and was received with much applause.

Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church, and president of the Ministerial Association, expressed the pleasure of that body at the safe return to Peterborough of the rector. He welcomed Rev. Canon Davidson, not only as a minister but as a man.

Miss Gladys Seward delighted the audience with a piano solo that was exceedingly well rendered.

Mr. Chandlers' fine tenor was fittingly displayed in a vocal solo with flute accompaniment by Mr. J. Butcher.

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt spoke briefly, welcoming Canon Davidson back to Peterborough. He referred to the regret that the members of the 57th Regiment had expressed at his absence from the camp.

A recitation by Miss Hill was given with dramatic spirit and was warmly received.

A musical sketch, entitled "The Doctor," by Mrs. Devey, Miss Morse, Mr. Greenhalgh and Mr. Chandler proved very amusing, and was cleverly given by all four artists, showing dramatic ability and exhibiting excellent quality.

At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served and a pleasant social time was spent, the congregation taking advantage of the opportunity to personally express their pleasure at Canon Davidson's safe return.

Emancipation of the Fat Folks

To have to sit through the hot weather quiet as a log, scarcely daring to breathe simple because one is so fat that the least exertion will start the perspiration in a stream is not a very lively prospect. But it has been the lot of the fat since time began until now.

Fat folks have been emancipated from hot weather misery at last, by a home mixture; 1-2 ounce Marmola, 1-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 4 1-4 ounces Sirup Simplex, of which they take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime until — which is not a very long time—they have lost all the fat they care to.

Simple and inexpensive (any druggist will fill it for a small sum, as this receipt is, the results it obtains are unexcelled. Some folks have lost as much as a pound a day within a week after starting. Yet, radical and delightful as such an effect is, there is no aftermath of wrinkles or stomach troubles; the mixture is harmless except to the fat itself.

ADDRESS ON QUESTIONS OF TEMPERANCE

To be Given at Y.M.C.A. on Friday Afternoon—Other Meetings

Those interested in the Moral Reform Temperance League are reminded of the meeting to-morrow afternoon in the Y. M. C. A., at 1.30 o'clock. It will last one hour. Dr. Kettlewell, of Toronto, will be present and will give an address.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. HAS RETURNED FROM MANITOBA

Mr. Clarence Hicks States That Farmers Are Satisfied With Harvest

YIELD IS ABOUT AVERAGE

Mr. Clarence Hicks, Park street, has returned from Manitoba, where he has been for the past month or more, having gone out on one of the harvesters' excursions. He went as far as Treberne, a little village about seventy miles west of Winnipeg. The work that had to be done found many applicants for it, although there were not so many gathered in the villages as in the larger towns. The general plan of the majority of the harvesters was to go as far as their tickets would allow them. This resulted in their crowding in the cities where there were already more men than was needed.

In the neighbourhood of Treberne the farmers were well contented with their harvest. The average yield was from thirty to thirty-five bushels an acre, and many reported forty bushels to the acre. They had enjoyed heavier yields than this but were quite satisfied.

ACCUSED OF UNLAWFUL DISPOSING OF LUMBER

Civil Case in Lindsay Courts From Cavan Township

Lindsay, Oct. 1.—The first civil case to engage the attention of His Honour Judge Harding at the county court yesterday was that in which Mr. Johnston Murphy, of Cavan Township, and Mr. Ross Staples, of Manvers Township, are interested. Mr. Murphy alleges that some lumber which had been cut for him at Staples' mill had been unlawfully disposed of to a Peterborough firm and he accordingly entered action against Staples for payment for same. Stewart & O'Connor for plaintiff, R. K. Wood, county crown attorney, Peterborough, for defendant.

REASONS WHY

We can save you money on lenses.

1st—Those buying finished lenses in small quantities from the States are compelled to pay the highest price, also a duty of 30 per cent. If they meet our price they do so by the misrepresentation of quality.

2nd—We buy lenses in the rough in large quantities for cash.

3rd — Our lens grinding plant is second to none on the continent. The result being a perfectly finished lens.

4th—Our policy — Honest goods at honest prices—satisfaction to all or money refunded.

A British Journalist Has Praise For Intercolonial

Editor of The Colonizer Writes of Splendid Train Service—Compares Favourably With Any British Railway

A DELIGHTFUL CHANGE

The editor of The Colonizer, an English magazine devoted to colonization, exploration, emigration and travel, was in Canada recently, and part of his journey was from St. John N. B., to Halifax, and from thence by the Intercolonial Railway Maritime Express to Quebec, where he connected with the homewardbound steamer. That the British journalist was most favourably impressed with the I. C. R. train service is shown by the following extract from a graphically-written article which appears in a recent number of the magazine:

"We left St. John by the Intercolonial Railway for a twelve hours' ride to Halifax. This railway is owned by the people of Canada, and is called the People's Line—Canada's All-rail Route to the Sea. Excellent train service is given.

"One of the features which we fully appreciated was the most excellent service on the dining cars. Each meal costs 75 cents and a splendid choice is given. On each occasion we enjoyed well-cooked meals, served by courteous and obliging waiters, and were struck by the variety of the carte. After our experiences of the slip-shod meals on other railways the change was delightful. In place of tasteless soup (a near cousin of dish water), indifferent slabs of meat, etc., we were served daintily, and our appetites correspondingly responded thereto. It is a matter of concern to all travellers on long journeys to receive good meals. The average person much prefers to have small portions and enjoy a mixed menu, rather than the a la carte service which so many American railways now provide. We have tried the dining cars where these latter meals are advertised, widely as 'famous,' and unhesitatingly affirm that the 75-cent meals on the Intercolonial cars proper are miles ahead in every way, and meet the public needs most nearly. We could write much on this topic, but have said enough in praise of the Intercolonial, and hope the management of the line will persevere in giving the public that which, with our much-travelled experience, we declare to be equal, if not superior, to that on any railway it has been our experience to use, in either Great Britain, America, or the European Continent."

Loss Due To Viamede Fire Amounted To About $11,000

The loss by fire at Viamede Summer Resort, Stony Lake, is estimated by Mr. W M Graham to be fully $11,000, against which there was an insurance of only $4,000. The question of rebuilding has not yet been decided upon; no serious a loss, coupled with the largely increased cost of building material and labour rendering it very difficult to decide what to do. Viamede has always been very popular with American tourists to our lakes, and there was always a greater demand for rooms than the villas could supply. But it has been estimated that it would take five good seasons to catch up for the loss sustained by this unfortunate fire. No new clue has been obtained as to the cause of this fire. Another most regrettable incident of this fire is the fact that Mrs. Graham has been seriously indisposed ever since.

WEDDING BELLS

UMPHREY—WILSON

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. W. E. Wilson, 32 Russell street, when Miss Martha A. Wilson was united in marriage to Mr. Geo. W. Umphrey of East Toronto, formerly of Lindsay.

On account of the serious illness of the bride's brother, Mr. W. E. Wilson, who was taken to the hospital with typhoid fever, all the wedding invitations were cancelled.

Rev. J. R. Real officiated at the ceremony, which took place in the presence of the bride's parents.

Miss Alice Stenton of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Stanley Umphrey of Burnt River, brother of the groom, officiated as groomsman.

The bride was dressed in cream point d'esprit over cream taffeta silk trimmed with Irish point lace and ribbon, and the bridesmaid in cream raw silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Umphrey left on the 8.23 train for Stratford, where they will spend a few weeks. After their return they will take up residence at 223 Gerard street, East Toronto.—Lindsay Post.

CAMERON—HARTWELL

The marriage of Miss Edith Leroy Hartwell, a professional nurse, and Dr. Pattison Cameron, a prominent young physician of Detriot, took place on Sept. 15th, 1908.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. U. Cameron, pastor of Immanual Presbyterian Church, at the residence of the bride's brother, Everet G. Hartwell, No. 287 Commonwealth avenue. Mrs. Weir, of Peterborough, sister of the groom, assisted as matron of honour and Mr. Carman Gramison as groomsman.

The bride wore a gown of white silk trimmed with Valenciennes lace and Mrs. Weir wore white baptiste and lace. After a short trip west the couple will be at home after Oct. 1st in the Woodward apartments, Woodward and Forest avenue, Detroit. Dr. Cameron is a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, and has practised in Indiana, Chicago, and for several years in Detroit. He is a son of the late Rev. D. Cameron, formerly of Port Hope.—Port Hope Guide.

And Boys Play Truant Beside the Railway Bridge

Yesterday afternoon Truant Officer George Cochrane, while on duty, discovered three boys at the C. P. R. railway bridge, who had forsaken the fountains of knowledge for the banks of the Otonabee and idleness.

"Why are you not in school?" asked the officer.

"My mother is sick," was the reply.

"And you?" he asked of the second.

"My grandmother is sick, sir."

It was not many minutes before the trio were off on a merry gait towards school.

Splendid Concert at The Salvation Army Barracks To-night

At the Salvation Army barracks to-night the "King and Queen of the Harvest" will be repeated by special request. It was presented last Thursday night and was so successful and such a splendid affair that it was decided to give those who were asking for its presentation again an opportunity of seeing it. In addition one of the bandsmen will give a recitation entitled the "Veteran's Cornet" in which he will be assisted by the entire band. This is an unusually fine number and should appeal to all those who will be present.

TO IMPROVE THE FAIR GROUNDS

The Lakefield Directors Intend Making Some Changes

It is likely improvements will be made to the Lakefield exhibition grounds before next year's Fair is held. One of the directors stated that a cattle ring was needed, and remarked that it would likely be built by 1909. The intention is to lay it out in the centre of the grounds and make it large enough for the judging of heavy horses and waggons as well as the other stock. It was found yesterday that the people crowding around while the judges were doing their work interfered with them to some extent. This would be relieved by having the work done in the ring.

Other changes are contemplated, but just to what extent they will be carried out is hardly known.

BOWLING ALLEYS ARE POPULAR

Large Number Always in Waiting—Many in Gymnasium Classes

The Peterborough Y. M. C. A. is rapidly becoming one of the busiest spots in the city these autumn evenings. The bowling alleys are in big demand, and the games cannot be concluded too rapidly to satisfy those in waiting. The bowling alleys have been a great success and promise to continue such.

The gymnasium classes are exceedingly large and it is expected by the middle of October they will have reached a size never before equalled in Peterborough.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF POULTRY ASSOCIATION

THREW APPLE THROUGH WINDOW

Interrupted The Progress of Dance at Wedding Reception

While a dance at a recent wedding festival in this county was in progress, a momentary alarm was caused by the window of the dance room being broken by an apple being thrown through it from the outside. Immediately there was a rush on the part of some of the men for the door to capture the guilty party but he succeeded in securely hiding himself. Some of those present understood the reason for his action, which is attributed to jealousy of some kind. The apple sent the glass in all directions and narrowly missed the violinist.

EXPERTS DISAGREE IN MURDER CASE

Creighton Insane, But Knew of Crime, Says Dr. Beemer.

VERDICT EXPECTED TO-DAY

Evidence Is All In In Owen Sound Murder Trial and Doctors Differ on Degree of Responsibility—He Was Quite Aware of His Actions According to Medical Men Called by the Prosecution.

Owen Sound, Oct. 1.—The evidence for the crown at the Creighton murder trial yesterday led up to practically no new developments other than were given at the coroner's inquest and the preliminary hearing before the magistrate.

The empanelling of the jury occupied a much shorter time than was anticipated. For the crown only three were challenged, while for the defence 13 were rejected.

Several witnesses called for both sides gave evidence regarding the incidents leading up to and surrounding the crime and tending to show the prisoner's state of mind. Those called for the defence testified that he had frequently threatened suicide.

Dr. Beemer, medical superintendent of the Hospital for the Insane at Mimico, had found the prisoner insane, suffering from a morbid melancholy and narrated incidents which occurred while the prisoner was under observation and hallucinations, with which the prisoner was possessed. He did not think that the prisoner knew what he was doing when he committed the crime.

Cross-questioned by Justice Riddell, he admitted that Creighton had known that he was doing wrong.

Dr. McWilliams of Dundalk, Dr. Jamieson, M.P.P., of Durham, and Dr. Cotton of Toronto stated that they thought that the prisoner had been overcome by an irresistable impulse, and was not aware of what he was doing.

As additional evidence for the crown, Isaac Dixon, milkman, stated that he called at the house at 5.15 on the morning of the tragedy and saw accused in the backyard and there were no marks of blood about him. The prisoner spoke to him quite rational.

The crown called Drs. Allan Cameron, T. H. Middlebro, H. D. Comper of Owen Sound, and Dr. Charles Clark, superintendent of the Toronto Asylum, and Dr. J. Bruce Smith, inspector of asylums and prisons. The evidence of the Owen Sound medical men was that the prisoner was quite rational, while the Toronto experts both claimed that they had not the slightest doubt in their minds, but that the prisoner was perfectly aware of what he was doing when he killed his three victims.

Rigid cross-examination by A. Jas. Mackay, K.C., failed to shake this contention, and this concluded the evidence. The jury were then locked up for the night, and to-day counsel are delivering their addresses.

The intense interest in the trial was manifested by the hundreds who wished to gain admittance to the court room.

Ocean Mail Will Be Big.

London, Oct. 1.—The Postoffice Department is prepared to handle a largely increased mail from the United States, resulting from the introduction of penny postage.

It is expected that this week's mails will be particularly large.

The Philatelic Society has issued commemorative envelopes as souvenirs of the occasion. The decorations on the envelopes include the arms of the two countries, with the dates of important postal reforms.

Burned Bridge Caused Wreck.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—It was shown at the inquest into the Mineral Springs disaster, in which Engineer McFadden, Fireman Brown and Yardmaster Maloney were killed on Sunday, that the bridge collapsed through the supports being burned during the night. The company proved conclusively that the bridge had burned during the night, and that it was impossible for it to have caught from the engine after it broke through. A verdict was rendered accordingly.

Evangelist Wanted $3,000.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—The Dr. Chapman evangelistic meetings have been called off on account of the guarantee of $3,000 asked, and because the business manager insisted upon his renting a big hall after all arrangements had been completed for holding the meetings in Centenary Church. The committee in charge was very much incensed over the conduct of the evangelist's business manager.

LIBERALS RALLY ROUND THEIR CHIEF

Stormont Liberals Pay True Tribute to Premier.

LAURIER RUNS IN OTTAWA

Senator Belcourt Announces That Sir Wilfrid and Hal McGiverin Will Be Running Mates in Capital—Big Group of Speakers Open the Campaign in Stormont—5,000 Attend Enthusiastic Meeting.

Cornwall, Oct. 1.—Stormont's welcome to the Premier last night took the form of a civic reception at the station, and a monster meeting in the auditorium, which was packed by an audience numbering at the lowest computation 5,000 people. Few, if any, political demonstrations of such magnitude and enthusiasm have ever been held in the riding, and the Liberal standard is leading to victory if the many remarkable receptions accorded to Sir Wilfrid on his tour mean anything. "The greatest public tribute," as Hon. Mr. Graham put it, "ever paid to a man in Canada," and that of the Stormont Liberals will rank as not the least.

The speakers were Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. G. P. Graham, Hon. Chas. Murphy, Col. R. Smith, the Liberal candidate in Stormont; John A. McMillan, ex-M.P.P., the Liberal standard bearer in Glengarry, and W. J. McCarthy. The latter acted as chairman.

The first two speakers were Col. R. Smith and J. A. McMillan.

Then came Mr. Murphy, the new Secretary of State, who said that Col. Smith's greatest claim on them was the record of the Liberal Government. He made light of the charges of scandal against the Government and ridiculed the Conservatives for talking of purity in elections.

Sir Wilfrid, who is a personal favorite in Cornwall, was introduced through the medium of an address from the [illegible] Liberal Association.

Referring to Mr. Foster's charge of extravagance, he claimed that while Mr. Foster had a succession of deficits, his Government had one surplus after another, the last amounting to $19,000,000. He regretted that the financial depression in neighboring countries had prevented him from having his way in the matter of deepening the Welland Canal.

He expressed his appreciation of Hon. G. P. Graham and Mr. Murphy, the youngest member of his Cabinet, and took unto himself considerable credit for selecting good men, among them being the late Mr. Blair, the late Mr. Tarte and Mr. Fielding. He concluded with a few remarks in French.

Hon. Mr. Graham pointed to the quick work in fixing the break of the Cornwall Canal as an evidence of the business-like administration of the present Government.

Ice Famine In Brockville.

Brockville, Ont., Oct. 1.—Though a supply larger than usual was harvested last winter the source of the local ice supply is well nigh exhausted.

The excessive hot dry summer increased the demand and in addition to this much melted away in the storehouses. The hospitals have the first call on what is left and the stock is being conserved for these institutions, leaving little for the general public.

The same conditions are said to prevail in many places in this district.

Hit Over Head With Bottle.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—Sheridan Randall, a colored stableman, says he was struck over the head with a bottle, held up and robbed, near the racetrack last night. He was taken to the city hospital with a broken nose. His story is that he was sent to an hotel to get a bottle of whisky, and in taking the purchase got a $10 bill changed. When he got outside he claims that a gang set upon him, knocked him down and robbed him.

This is the trade-mark which is on every genuine bottle of

WOMAN WAS HORRIBLY MURDERED

Mrs. William Peak Outraged by Negro Near Stratford.

SLAYER ASLEEP BY BODY

Sons at Work In Field Find Their Mother Dead In Cellar With Her Assailant Drunk on Floor Near Her—He Had Been Loitering In Vicinity and Was Ordered Out of Town by Magistrate.

Stratford, Oct. 1.—A terrible tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon at the rural home of William Peak, a farmer living on lot 11, con. 1, Downie, about two miles from this city.

While the husband and two sons were absent from the house a tramp negro named Frank Roghmond entered the house and, it is believed, outraged Mrs. Peak, the woman being found about four o'clock lying dead on the cellar floor.

Roghmond was also lying asleep in the cellar, his hands, face and clothing spotted with blood, while blood covered the face of the victim. Marks would indicate that the woman had been choked and that a hemorrhage resulted.

The tragedy happened between noon and four o'clock. Mr. Peak and the boys, George and John, had gone to work. About four o'clock John returned to the house to get a jug of cider, and arriving at the cellar he saw the form of the sleeping negro. Rushing to the field he informed his brother that a negro was asleep in the cellar. Both returned to the house, when the horrible discovery was made that their mother was lying dead with a portion of her face covered with blood.

George hurried across the road to a neighbor's, Robert McIntosh, saying "Hurry over, Bob, I believe mother is dead." Other nearby neighbors were soon on the scene, while John Peak was despatched to Stratford for Chief McCarthy.

Before the chief arrived, however, the negro awakened and tried to escape from the house. He was pounced upon by the brawny and incensed farmers, while Robert Fuller placed the noose of a heavy rope over his body, pinioning his arms to his side.

Roghmond told a very unlikely story to the effect that he had been carried to the cellar by three men and robbed of $15.

Roghmond is about 33 years old. He was found loitering around Stratford Tuesday night and jailed by the police and arraigned yesterday morning on a charge of vagrancy. He was given a couple of hours to get out of town, but before he left he purloined a coat belonging to one of the police officers, which he wore when caught. The farmers who gathered at the Peak household were infuriated, and there were murmurs of lynching.

Mrs. Peak was 60 years of age.

I.C.R. Arbitration Successful.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—The conciliation board appointed by the Dominion Government to hear the grievances of the station clerks and freight handlers on the Intercolonial Railway will send in a unanimous report.

The board secured an amicable arrangement regarding the organization of the work. The equally important matter of wages will be reported to the Government before the details are announced, but it is considered that the men made a strong case and that this feature will be adjusted. The scale of wages was very low, averaging less than $300 a year.

The arbitration of the grievances of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen made against the C.P.R. will not be taken up until November.

Shoots Girl and Self.

Central City, Col., Oct. 1.—Christopher Crenise, treasurer of Gilpin County, early yesterday shot and mortally wounded Jeannie Hicks, the 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Addie Hicks, at whose house he boarded, and then committed suicide.

Following the shooting Mrs. Hicks became hysterical, but it was gleaned from her incoherent statements that Crenise entered her home and the shooting followed refusal of a demand made by him.

Strike-Breaker Shoots.

Winnipeg, Oct. 1.—What might have been fatal shooting took place about 9 o'clock last evening on the corner of Main and McDermott streets within a stone's throw of "Newspaper Row," when Archie McKay, a strike-breaker, pulled a gun on strikers who were threatening to hustle him. He fired three shots, one of which struck a foreigner in the foot. McKay was arrested.

Offers Reward For Evidence.

New York, Oct. 1.—Firm in his belief that evidence exists which, if brought to light, would b g about the arrest and conviction of his son's murderer, Henry Dexter, multi-millionaire and nonagenarian, made public yesterday the announcement that he would pay a reward of $10,000 for such evidence.

POPULAR PRICES FOR WRESTLING MATCH AT THE RINK TO-MORROW; MOHL IN THE BEST OF SHAPE

Word has been received from Fritz Mohl that he will not arrive in Peterborough until noon to-morrow for the big match with Eugene Hurtubise at the Brock street rink to-morrow night. He writes that he is in the best of condition and that he has no fear of the result although he realizes that Hurtubise has improved greatly and is likely to make him extend himself to the utmost.

The wrestling fans in Peterborough and surrounding district are taking great interest in the bout and a record crowd is looked for. The change in the prices has been appreciated and will likely result in a much larger crowd than has been the case recently. There will be 200 more 25c. seats than there were at the last match and there will also be more thirty-five cents seats. The 50 cent seats which will be reserved are situated in the middle of each side of the rink and a splendid view of the stage can be obtained from there, although the bouts can be seen to advantage from any seat in the house. Ringside seats are being sold at 75c., a drop that will be popular. The boys who will go up against one another in the preliminaries are hard at work and last night a number of them had a good workout. The curtain raisers will be about the best that have been offered here particularly that between Tommy Daly and Corney Burns, which will go four rounds. Both are fast, clever boxers and they will not spare each other any. The fans are agog over the bout and there is every reason to expect that they will be rewarded with a lively go.

As for the main bout there is no doubt about it. It will be fast and furious from the handshake and the man who wins will have no trouble in remembering that he has been in a wrestling match. When you get two men of that size trained to the minute and armed with a knowledge of the fine points of the game, you can depend upon a strenuous battle. It will be exciting and strenuous all the way.

WANDERERS ARE WAITING FOR ADVANCES FROM EDMONTON

Montreal, Oct. 1.—That the Western teams will put up a big fight for the Stanley Cup this season is now very evident. Lester Patrick, of Nelson, one of the foremost exponents of Canada's great winter pastimes, is reported to be bubbling over with enthusiasm this fall and is getting together a team which he hopes will be able to wrest the mug from the clutches of the Wanderers. The nucleus of a cup team is already in Nelson and Patrick believes that the material for such a team can be found without going outside of British Columbia. Frank Patrick, brother of Lester, and a former Victoria team man, and one of the best defence men in the game, is a sure player along with other famous western players.

The Edmonton hockey team, champions of the Inter-Provincial Hockey League (Alberta and Saskatchewan) already have their challenge for a series with the Wanderers in and accepted by the trustees. The definite arrangements for this series for the coveted mug are left to be decided upon by the two clubs themselves.

Two letters have not long since been received by the Wanderer Hockey Club from the trustees; one a copy of the letter to the Edmonton Hockey Club accepting their challenge and the other a letter to the Wanderers asking the present cup holders to see that necessary time is allowed for this series when the league schedule is being drawn up for the season.

In his letter to the Edmonton Hockey Club in referring to the challenge, Mr. W. M Foran, on behalf of the trustees, says in part:

"I now beg to inform you that the said challenge has been accepted by the trustees and that the Wanderer Hockey Club, the present holders of the cup, have been notified. The trustees have decided that the matches must be played prior to the opening of the regular hockey season in the Eastern Canada Hockey League, but have not deemed it advisable to fix any particular dates preferring to leave this as well as all other arrangements for the proposed series, to be mutually agreed upon between the two clubs."

The Wanderers are now awaiting some communication from the Edmonton Club, but as yet no word has been received from the Stanley Cup seekers.

FRITZ MOHL, The German Giant Who Meets Eugene Hurtubise At Brock Street Rink To-morrow Night

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE FOR OPENING CITY RUGBY LEAGUE

Affairs shaped definitely at the meeting of the City Rugby League last night at the Examiner office, and a three-team junior series was formed. The teams entered are the T.A.S. Athletic Association, Rough Riders and P.C.I. The Crescents, who thought of entering a team in the junior division have withdrawn. There may be four teams in the series, the entry of the Y.M.C.A.'s being the one required to make the quartette. It would seem that the "Y." should be able to get a husky aggregation together for the junior division, and their entrance into the ranks is looked for. There will be no senior series as the T.A.S. Athletic Association and Y.M.C.A. are thinking of placing teams in the Junior series of the O.R.F.U. or Inter-Provincial.

The question will be taken up by the temperance players at a meeting on Monday night, when the Y. M.C.A. will also decide what steps they will take in the matter.

Saturday next will see the opening of the Rugby season in Peterborough, when the Rough Riders play the Collegiates at three o'clock at Riverside Park in the first championship game of the junior series. The game will doubtless be fast and interesting, and as it will set the season going a big attendance seems assured. A nominal admission fee of ten cents will be charged, and with the price so extremely reasonable a big gate is anticipated.

Those in attendance at last night's meeting were quite enthusiastic over the prospects and the clubs are pleased that such a healthy interest is being taken in city Rugby this year. The club representatives at the meeting were, Y.M.C.A., C E Casson; T.A.S. Athletic Association, J Deanard; Peterborough Collegiate Institute, Norman Geale; Rough Riders, Park Porter and L Giroux. The president, Mr. R F McWilliams, was in the chair, and Secretary Clark was there in his capacity.

A handsome silver cup has been donated by the H. Love sporting goods house, Toronto, and will be the championship trophy of the junior series.

The Collegiate Cross Country Run And Field Day Of Sports

The annual field day of sports for the Collegiate Institute pupils will be held this year somewhat later than last year. The cross-country run will be held Monday, Oct. 12 at 4.15 p.m. It will start in front of the Collegiate Institute and proceed along McDonel street to the boundary, up the boundary to Smith street, down Smith to Water street, and down Water to McDonel, thence proceeding to the school.

Most of the students are getting into shape, and as far as can be learned, about twenty runners intend entering. The jumps will be held the following Wednesday at Riverside Park, and the field day proper will take place Friday afternoon at Nicholls Oval. All relatives and friends of the P.C.I. students are cordially invited to attend all the sports.

Jack Seymour Out With The Great Lindsay Rugby Team

A couple of dozen husky men turned out for Rugby practise last night and cantered around the field in fine style for upwards of three-quarters of an hour.

Sides were chosen and the pigskin was chased around at a lively rate. Under the instruction of Manager McHugh some good work was gone through.

Leon Koyl and Basil Newton represented the Midget hockey team, and were right in the thick of the fray. Both are sturdy men and will be useful.

Jack Seymour turned out for the first time and impressed the critics favourably. Jack Dougan, who learned the game at Queen's University, Kingston will also be an addition to the local fourteen.

Various formations and plays were gone through afterwards. The weather was perfect for the game and the men went at it in snappy style.—Lindsay Watchman-Warder.

THE PETES MAY PLAY IN PALMERSTON

Local Team Will Probably Journey to Northern Town Saturday

Corney Burns is making arrangements whereby the champion Peterborough baseball team will most likely journey to Palmerston, to play the team up in that town this coming Saturday. Arrangements will most likely be made by this evening. It seems as though these challenges will never cease coming in but it will be a good thing for the team as far as keeping in condition is concerned, till they meet the winner of the Toronto series for championship in a couple of weeks' time. By the way the team is playing ball at the present time, it looks as though they would clean up everything in sight, but of course, it would not do to underestimate the strength of the Toronto teams. Their League will be decided this coming Saturday and then the local team will journey up to Toronto and endeavour to add one more championship to their already long list.

ROUGH RIDERS CALL A PRACTICE FOR TO-NIGHT

They Meet the Collegiate Boys on Saturday Afternoon

The Rough Riders Rugby Club will practise this evening at the Riverside Park and the following players are urgently requested to be on hand; Giroux, Porter, Corkery, Kelly, Wareham, Hayes, Pugh, O'Brien, Cahill, Bogue, Stoco, and others who intend turning out this year.

They will go up against the P.C.I.'s aggregation on Saturday, and no doubt a good game will take place.

WATER POLO TO BE ADDED TO PETERBOROUGH SPORTS

Effort Being Made to Have It Introduced in Y.M.C.A.

The very interesting game of water polo is about to be introduced in this city. A number of Y.M.C.A. members are making all necessary arrangements and it is expected that some very interesting play will be witnessed. Any person wishing to take part in any of the teams should hand in their names to the secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

A MYSTERIOUS BEARDED HERCULES

He May Give Exhibition Here To-morrow Night

Professor Octavius Charles Cogan, an invisible-slack-wire artist, arrived in the city to-day and has made application to the Mayor to perform across the street in front of the city hall or court house. This is now being considered by His Worship and his ultimatum will be given to-night.

The Professor is known as the Wonder of the World with South Africa's Giant Beard. The latter will possibly be undisputed when one looks at his face, as there is scarcely a square inch of it uncovered with beard.

He claims to possess unexampled brilliance in feature and absolute inimitable skill, Herculean strength and daring on the high invisible thread. He sings the Holy Oty in mid-air and in a tug-of-war claims to be invincible. He says he can prove and demonstrate that a miraculous light exists within him and that he can point out to a person the colours of the rainbow on the back of the hand. This he will do to-morrow providing the weather is fine.

DUSTY HAT AND BOTTLE FOUND BY THE ROADSIDE

Picked Up by Peterborough Man Returning From Lakefield

A dust-covered, stiff brown hat and a bottle of Seagrm — two articles which are very often found accompanying each other by the roadside—were picked up on the Lakefield road between the third and fourth concessions this morning by a Peterborough man. The latter was coming home after attending the Lakefield Fair, early this morning, accompanied by his niece when he observed the hat and the bottle. On noticing that the cork remained undrawn he picked them both up and brought them to Peterborough. The owner, on claiming property, may secure them at Young and McConkey's implement store, 388 Water street.

Another Splendid Liberal Meeting in May's School House

A Very Enthusiastic Audience Was Present—Addresses by Messrs. R. R. Hall and Hon. J. R. Stratton—Foretells Success

The most enthusiastic meeting of Mr. Stratton's campaign was held last night in May's Schoolhouse, North Monaghan. There was a large attendance of the electors, who listened with deep interest to the discussion of the questions of the day. The chair was occupied by Mr. Thomas Williams, who expressed the pleasure the people of that section felt at having Mr. Stratton again as their candidate. The able manner in which he had represented them in the Provincial Parliament surely warranted their sending him to Ottawa as the member for West Peterborough.

Mr. R. R. Hall

who was the first speaker, was warmly received. He appreciated very much the efforts that had been put forth by his North Monaghan friends on behalf of the Government at the last election. The Government was even more worthy of support now than it had been four years ago, and in Mr. Stratton they would have a representative whom everyone was anxious to work for to the best of his ability. Everyone was interested in the financial affairs of his country, and in seeing that they were administered in a businesslike way. He then made a comparison with the financial situation in 1896, when the Government came into power. Instead of there being big deficits as in 1896, under the Liberal Government we had had a long succession of surpluses. Notwithstanding this, the average debt per head was only $46, as compared with $50 in 1896; in other words, about twenty per cent less per head. The increase in the debt had not been anything in proportion to the increase in growth and population. The money that had come into the country through the introduction of foreign capital was an indication of the confidence that the European capitalists had in the progressive policy of the Government. The trade of the country had been enormously increased by the facilities provided for transportation. The deepening of the St. Lawrence waterway from nine feet to fourteen feet permitted of the passage of vessels that could handle a much greater quantity of freight. Money had also been spent in the improvement of the Welland Canal, the Murray Canal, the Trent Canal, and the establishment of elevators at Port Colborne would add to the usefulness of the route. As a result, foreign trade had increased to a remarkable extent. Instead of eighteen thousand bushels of grain being brought down from the West, we had eighty thousand. Part of the scheme of development was the expenditure of money on the Soo Canal. In 1896 there were about seven million tons of goods passing through that canal. In 1907 there were nineteen million tons, nearly three times as much. Surely a waterway of so much importance should receive the greatest measure of assistance, in order that it might cope with the growing needs of the country. Our exports of dairy products to the Mother Country had enormously increased during recent years. Canada now exports to Great Britain six times as much cheese as the United States, and five times as much as Denmark. The exports of bacon in 1896 had been three millions, now it was twelve millions. Should not an Administration that could accomplish so much in such a short time, be allowed, for the benefit of the country, to continue in office? Mr. Hall concluded by urging upon the electors the necessity of everyone putting his shoulder to the wheel to make sure of Mr. Stratton's return. (Applause.)

on rising to speak was received with hearty applause. He stated that he was pleased to see such a large gathering of the electors of that particular vicinity. He was rather surprised at the number who were present. It showed the interest that was being manifested in the campaign. From what he observed, he believed that North Monaghan would give him a larger vote than he had had at any previous election, and there was every good reason why they should. There was not a park lot, there was not a market garden, there was not a building in the town or in the vicinity of Peterborough, not a farm in the county of Peterborough which had been properly managed, that was not more valuable now than it was twelve years ago, when the present Administration took charge. The city had grown by leaps and bounds. The building operations had been of a very extensive character, and he hoped to see Peterborough in ten years from now a city, not of 16,000, but of 25,000. This could only be done by push, energy, and public-spiritedness, and by those who were in a position to do so putting their shoulders to the wheel. It was not by standing still and idly looking around hoping for better things, that they would be accomplished. It was by doing something to bring about the accomplishment. The people wanted go-ahead tiveness. Drones were of no assistance to Canada. In every walk of life, whether it be the pulpit, Parliament, or the municipal council, fitness and capability should always be considered. The election of a member of Parliament in a country like Canada should be very seriously considered. Ontario was as large as France, Quebec was as large as Germany, Labrador as large as Austria, the British Isles would hardly cover the smaller Provinces, Alberta was as large as Germany, Saskatchewan as large as Texas, the largest state in the Union, and it would take two Germanies to make British Columbia and the Yukon. The selection of representatives who would increase the progress and development of such a country was of the utmost importance. See with what rapidity Ontario had advanced. When Illinois was in its prime, Ontario had been a wilderness. We saw our young men carrying off prizes in agriculture in that state. We find the West yielding crops that stagger the statistician, and if we continue to go ahead during the next twelve years as we have during the past twelve, our country will have reached a condition that will be surprising even to ourselves. (Applause.)

Mr. Stratton then instanced some of the things that had been done. He showed that in the eleven years of Conservative administration only $939,000 had been expended upon the Trent Valley Canal, which had been held up as an election cry for many years, but the Liberal Government had spent nearly four millions. The contracts had now been practically all let, and the canal would be completed and ready for business during the coming Parliamentary term. Complaint had been made of the revenue. The revenue had increased from thirty-six millions in 1896 to ninety-six millions in 1908, an increase of sixty millions. For the three Conservative years prior to 1896 they had over six millions of deficits. Since then they had had a surplus every year, until on the 31st of March, 1908, it amounted to nineteen millions, and in the twelve years the total surpluses amounted to one hundred and thirteen millions. The Grand Trunk Pacific required money to build it. There were under contract at the present time 1,225 miles east of Winnipeg, and there were ready for tender 518 miles. Six hundred and seventy-five miles were now carrying grain from territory hitherto producing nothing. In about a year there would be immense strides taken in connection with the growth of the West. As the Toronto News had said: "The defence of growing expenditure in a new and progressive country should not necessarily be a difficult task," and it was not a difficult task to shew where the progressiveness of the present Administration had benefitted Canada in every direction. The discussion that was taking place as to the giving away of lands in the West was nonsense. Not an acre of land fit for settlement, on which settlers could work and make a livelihood, was given away, except to the actual bona fide settler. Timber lands were sold to the highest bidder. Mr. Stratton dealt with the increase in postal facilities, and showed that there had been an increase of seven hundred and twenty post-offices in the Dominion, and there had been over eight thousand additional money orders issued. There had been three hundred and twenty-nine post-office savings banks, and the number of miles covered in the carrying of the mails had increased by fourteen millions, had, in other words, increased from $30,500,000 to $44,000,000. There had been two hundred and eighty million more letters carried in 1907 than in 1896. There had been three and a half millions more parcels carried. Yet the results in 1908 showed that there was a financial improvement in the Post-office Department of $1,883,000, as against a deficit under the last Conservative Administration of $750,000. City delivery had been established in the cities, the rate of postage on drop letters had been decreased from two cents to one cent, and on ordinary letters from three cents to two cents, yet in every direction the Post-office Department had expanded, and still there was a surplus. Then, Mr. Stratton said, if we took the total trade of Canada, in 1896 it amounted to two hundred and forty millions. It had jumped ahead every year since then, until in March, 1908, it exceeded six hundred and fifty millions. In twelve years it had grown by four hundred and eleven millions. He mentioned as one of the instances of the legislation that the Government had passed an account to authorize the issue of Government pensions for old age, and had also authorized the sale of annuities, and that for a small payment per annum anyone could make provision for old age. In the case of death, before they attained the age of sixty, the amount was payable to the heirs, together with interest.

Labour Question

Mr. Stratton referred to the establishment of the Department of Labour, and to the publication of the Labour Gazette for the benefit of the labouring classes. From month to month events and occurrences of interest to the workingmen were given, and he had an authoritative source of information as to industrial conditions. When the Liberal Government came into power they found the sweating system in vogue to a great extent, and a Commission was appointed to deal with the question, with the result that the abuse had been remedied. Now a Minister of Labour was to be appointed to look after industrial conditions more closely. In 1896 contracts for Government work contained no stipulation as to the payment of wages, now clauses are inserted which prevent the sweating system, and secure to the workman a fair day's wage for a fair day's work. The fair wage policy of the Government insures that contracts shall contain the provision that labourers shall be paid the wages that are being paid in the locality in which the work is being done. On important contracts the wages are based upon a fair wage schedule. No Government in the world had adopted a more enlightened policy than the Liberal Government of the Dominion, with its fair wage policy and the manner of its enforcement. The act for the prevention and settlement of labour disputes was one which would improve the relationship between the employer and the employee, between what is commonly called capital and labour. Industrial peace was substituted for industrial war, and such eminently just and fair enactments were passed that the way was paved for peaceful adjustment of industrial differences. The Liberal Government were the first to enact a law to prohibit the importation of Alien Labour under contract. There were large numbers of aliens being employed to the exclusion of Canadian labour, and the Government through the Department of Labour had instituted this enactment, and the law was now being respected. The Government had also dealt with the question of Oriental labour, a tax of $500 being imposed upon each Chinaman entering the country. The protection of the health of the employees on public works was not forgotten. The protection of the working man against accidents to life and limb were also looked after. The records showed that thousands of workmen were killed annually while engaged in their several trades, and more than three times the number suffered from the loss of limbs. These matters were of the utmost importance and must be attended to. Altogether the whole record of the Liberal Administration was an endeavour to improve the conditions of the working classes, and formed a chapter in social and moral reform which constituted one of the brightest pages in the political history of Canada. (Cheers.)

Money was pouring into the country, and although there had been during the last year a slight restriction of trade, it had existed to a far greater extent all over the world. Times were now improving, and in a few months conditions would be so remedied that Canada would be once more in the enjoyment of her past happiness and growing prosperity. Peterborough had experienced as little depression as any portion of the country. Mr. Stratton concluded by hoping that the people of North Monaghan would consider fully the different questions which had been placed before them, and that they would record their votes in the best interests of the city, of the riding, and in the best interests of Canada. (Applause.)

PETAWAWA----CANADA'S GREAT MILITARY TRAINING CAMP SOLVES DIFFICULTY OF COMPETITION IN ARTILLERY PRACTICE

No Range in All England as Good—Equipped by Department of Militia—Benefits of Combined Training

ADAPTABILITY OF CANADA

During the past few years a great central training camp has been acquired and equipped by the department of militia and defence at Petawawa and on this virgin ground, formerly a timber limit, the engineers' corps has wrought so great a change, while at the same time receiving practical training, that the place is a modern and up-to-date permanent camp for the training of all branches of the service, and especially those requiring large tracts of rough country such as the artillery. In a wilderness of pine, rock and almost impenetrable forest the Canadian Artillery association has placed its ranges which will be changed every year and the artillery, the most scientific arm of the combative service, now goes there to do its firing practice with the heavy guns.

This great camp which was chosen on account of its natural advantages of pure air, sandy soil and good drainage, in providing accommodation for a large number of men, giving railroad accommodation and supplying suitable rifle and artillery ranges and ground for cavalry and artillery manoeuvres, takes its name from the river which flows through it and empties into the beautiful Ottawa at a small lumbering centre where the hotel floors are pitted with the hob-nailed boots of lumbermen who have alone frequented the district for years past. For miles the vast holdings of the government stretch along the sand-beached reaches of the Ottawa and from the river far into the interior the rough roads still lead over the camp enclosure which has been dedicated to the use of the Canadian militia. Far from line of regular communication and remote from all settlement, but still provided with its own railway station, the place is an ideal one for the purpose and in choosing that particular spot the military authorities have hit on a location which will not for many years feel the encroachments of civilization, while, owing to its size, it may be used as an artillery range perpetually.

No Range in England as Good.

Until Petawawa was purchased, it was out of the question to have a competition with Great Britain in artillery practice owing to the lack of proper ranges for the more modern guns with which the Canadian forces are now armed. This difficulty was solved by the Dominion government when they secured the Petawawa ranges, and established there a great central camp for the training of all branches of the militia, and last year a team from England crossed and went down to defeat at the hands of the Canadians.

In view of this victory the statement that the Canadian militia is far from efficient, is, to say the least, nonsensical, while the comments made by visiting prominent officers from England also tend to prove the absurdity of the claim, which, by the way, has been made by civilians only. In the series of competitions the Canadians won the Londonderry challenge cup by 91 points with 4.7 guns; the Prince of Wales cup and the King's cup, while the English team took the association cup for field artillery. It would take page after page to enumerate the victories won and lost on the ranges, the trifles which diverted the destination of challenge trophies and the many instances of exceptionally good soldiering on the part of the bodies of Canadian militia who trained there. So, returning to the camp itself, it is a feather in the cap of the military authorities to have so distinguished and well-informed a soldier as Colonel the right honorable, the Earl of Stradbroke, C.B., C.V.O., A.D.C., and president of the council of the National Artillery association, say that: "During the stay of our team we have all taken a great interest in the Petawawa camp, there being no artillery range in England to equal it. It would have been well worth while bringing the team over from England if only for the experience they gain in practicing on that ground." Lord Stradbroke also said before leaving the country: "From what we have seen I feel sure that no enemy's admiral would care to bring a fleet under such a fire. Defence, not defiance, is a very suitable motto for Canada. You have stout hearts and strong arms and need to put every energy into the development of these resources."

Canada's Adaptability.

Every energy is being put into the development of these resources and great credit is due to the present administration for the manner in which it is being done and the efficiency of the militia of the country which sometimes comes in for adverse and inexperienced criticism from those who have not followed the units through training camps. The president of the Dominion Artillery association, Lieut. Col. Hendrie, said: "The majority of the Canadian gunners had never seen anything approaching the precision and mechanical expertness displayed by their comrades from across the water. When the British team took their 4.7's to the firing point for the first elementary series, the Canadians were amazed at what they saw, and the camp commandant said that he had never seen anything like it at Petawawa. But the Canadians saw what was being done, and with that adaptability peculiar to themselves they found out their faults, with the result that they were comparatively equal in the final stages." This was made possible by the training given and while Canada does not maintain a standing army trained to compete with British regulars, they will do as well, as has been proven, after being quartered with regulars for a brief time.

In every step towards acquiring and equipping this magnificent camp ground, the minister of militia and his colleagues have been obstructed, and it is due only to the hard work of the minister that the dreams of the council of the Canadian Artillery Association and officers interested in the establishment of a central training camp were realized at all.

Developing a Fine Site.

The accomplishments of three years ago are great and when the Winnipeg Field Battery arrived at the training ground this year they found a new railroad siding constructed, some fine new buildings, including a $4,000 bungalow erected by the Association, excellent and extensive stables, a drainage system being completed, and a fine water supply provided. There were several cases of typhoid fever this year in the camp, but all were traced to Quebec and had developed before the patients had arrived at the camp. The Petawawa water supply has been tested and found free from contamination.

The annual congregation of artillerymen from all over the Dominion, representing every battery, is one of the chief events at the big camp and old comradeships are renewed for the four days spent there and acquaintances of previous years inquired after. In this respect the 13th is one of the most welcome units with the members of A and B batteries of R. C. H. A., which furnish the horses and drivers for the visitors in competitions. With the members of the 13th their annual visit to Petawawa is looked forward to with pleasure, while among the permanent men the Winnipeg gunners are regarded as not only the best of the visitors from a social point of view, but as the best aggregation of soldiers who attend training practice at the camp.

As the training camps of the troops in the eastern military districts were interfered with on account of the Quebec celebration the Petawawa camp was used only by the artillery this year and was somewhat lonesome as compared with a year ago, when several thousand men representing all the branches of the service were in camp there. The Quebec celebration also made some difference with the team which went from Winnipeg, as several of the best men who had obtained holidays to go to Quebec could not get off for the live shell practice at Petawawa. In everything but shooting the 13th did exceptionally well, while on the opening day in the preliminary they did much better than any of the batteries which had attended. Unfortunately the preliminary shooting is the part that counts for the least and the competitive practice, in which they did much poorer work, is the part which counts for the most. On the recommendation of the militia council that the ranges were beginning to be too well known to competing batteries and that the grounds over which they were manoeuvred were too smooth, new ranges of a most difficult nature were constructed and the batteries this year had some pretty rough ground over which they were galloped by those excellent horsemen the R. C. H. A. Mile after mile of rough cross country full of boulders and stumps were covered and the men were as badly shaken up as though on active service. When brought into action and ready to fire they had the most difficult ranges to tackle, ranges that were ingeniously constructed to baffle the range finders and the officer directing the firing and conditions which could hardly be imposed even by an enemy thoroughly conversant with the ground. It is hardly right to state that the 13th fell down or made a complete failure of the competitive practice, as high scoring cannot be expected to prevail over such ranges and conditions, but the results so far as known were well below the scoring made when the battery was victorious and carried off the first place.

Canadian Made Ammunition.

It is a notable fact that the ammunition for the artillery has all been manufactured in Canada at the Dominion arsenal at Quebec, and not a complaint has been heard regarding it. Canada is manufacturing her own shells, small arm ammunition and the small arms themselves, while in a very short time all the clothing, ornaments, swords and other habiliments of war will be placed on the market by Canadian factories. All of this has been accomplished in the past few years and the policy of the militia council, outlined by Sir Frederick Borden to make the Canadian militia self-contained is fast becoming enforced, while the small arms and the ammunition have been favorably commented upon by experts in England. During the firing this year not a shell missed fire and no improvement could have been made in the ammunition supplied.

Improvements and Possibilities.

Many members of the administrative staff are compelled to spend the greater portion of the summer and fall in the camp and the erection of a theatre, officers' shooting and fishing club and the preparation of a polo ground are in contemplation. The district is famed for its shooting and fishing resources and is situated very close to the Algonquin park, the national game preserve. Cottages on the beautiful grounds some 100 feet above the island dotted waters of the Ottawa are to be erected for married officers and permanent men who have to spend many months there and the place will be made as attractive as possible.

It would be a vast improvement to have the batteries of the entire Dominion train there, but the expense of transport makes it almost impossible. Were the entire battery taken there the cost for transporting guns, horses and drivers would swell the expenditure by large amounts and the more preferable and economic plan of making Brandon the central camp for the west would be more satisfactory to all as, taking all things into consideration, Brandon has a camp ground which is equal, in many ways for combined training, to Petawawa.

The benefit of combined training lies in the fact that officers of infantry and cavalry units have an opportunity of seeing the effect of artillery fire at all ranges, while artillery officers have also the opportunity of getting an idea of the work of the other branches. This is considered a very important point in England where combined training is carried out as much as possible. Canada is fast getting a militia force that is the wonder of the world and on the floor of the U.S. senate it was commented upon, one of the military inclined senators remarking that he could not see how such a force could be maintained and trained at so small an expense to the public. Petawawa camp has in a large degree added to the efficiency of the eastern units, has given to the C.A.A.A. range for its competitions better than anything in England and will in time become one of the chief training grounds for the soldiers of the empire. Commenting on the training of the regular army in the London Times a military reformer lately suggested that the units of the regular force should be sent to the colonies for training under foreign conditions and if this suggestion were ever acted upon Petawawa would be one of the chief centres thus utilised. Already there is a system of exchanging officers with the mother country and the colonies and there were this year in attendance at Petawawa a couple from Australia and one from India.

Ignorance or Malice

Mr. Borden Deliberately Misrepresents the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company Deal---He Knows the Facts But Suppresses Them.

Mr. Borden has fallen into the same error as The Mail and Empire with respect to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company. Although the facts have been stated over and over again, Mr. Borden persists, either maliciously or ignorantly, in misstating them.

This company bought two parcels of land. One from the Qu'Appelle and Long Lake Railway Company, and the other from the Government. From Qu'Appelle & Long

Lake Ry. Co. 669,600 acres at 1.50	$1,303,500
From Government 250,000 acres at $1	250,000
	$1,553,500

Therefore the Company was out of pocket the sum of $1,553,500 which they risked and had to get back before a dollar of profit resulted.

In speaking of the Company's operations, Mr. Borden and his friends invariably confine their allusions to the 250,000 acres purchased from the Government, losing sight of the 669,000 acres purchased from the Qu'Appelle and Long Lake Railway Company, and they make it appear that the $2500,000 realized from the sale of the land represents the sum received from the 250,000 acres bought from the Government.

It is a scandalous way of placing the affair before the people, and affords evidence of the weak character of the Conservative case, when it becomes necessary to distort and misrepresent a simple business transaction, which resulted in the opening up of a great belt of land heretofore regarded as unproductive and of little value.

Ontario's Wealth

Prosperity Enjoyed Under Policy of the Liberal Party.

FARMERS ARE SATISFIED

Figures Which Prove That the Province Has Experienced Great Benefits as the Result of a Wise and Progressive Government.

The West is so great, so new, so prosperous that much attention has been directed to it. It has been fostered by the Laurier Government, its problems solved, and its transportation facilities provided. The result has been that the country as a whole has received the benefit.

It must not be assumed, however, that other portions of the Dominion have been neglected, or that they have failed to prosper in proportion. The Province of Ontario is, of course, settled, and one does not expect such great changes as are possible in the West, but at the same time Ontario has made rapid progress in development, and the agricultural and manufacturing interests have increased largely the last few years.

The following particulars from the official records will be read with much satisfaction by the people of Ontario:

MANUFACTURING.

That the manufacturing interests have developed under the Liberal policy is demonstrated by the results: The Tories talk blue ruin, but the figures which follow do not supply any evidence to support their pessimistic attitude. There was a special manufacturing census taken in 1906. The following information was secured:

A Daughter of Vesuvius.

By Pierce Vincent.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

It was a small two edged stiletto that Zabetta Gemella bought at Antonio Mordo's shop in Naples, a very tiny plaything of a stiletto; but, as every Italian knows, the heart lies barely two inches below the surface and a blade that will reach that distance is long enough for all practical purposes.

On the crucifix handle of this particular stiletto Zabetta had sworn that it should drink the blood of either Caesar Pino or of his betrothed, Maria Vincente.

They were a very ancient family, the Gemellas. One ancestor had escaped from the eruption that overwhelmed Pompeii and another had been mummified at Herculaneum. The race had a certain fierce sturdiness inherited from some lava born forefather before Romulus.

They also had an unpleasant mediaeval habit of keeping their oaths regardless of consequences, as family traditions and court records bore witness. They took life seriously, as many had found to their cost.

So when people heard that Caesar Pino had thrown over Zabetta Gemella for Maria Vincente they shook their heads. Zabetta herself went home, dry lipped and fiery eyed, and at midnight swore the sibylline blood oath, a strange and terrible curse intrusted to her by the muttering old crone, her grandmother.

Zabetta dwelt in the outskirts of Boscotrase on the slopes nearest Vesuvius. Her first view at dawn from her little attic was of the purple plume and mighty shoulders of the great volcano heaved against the sky, and her last glimpse at night was of the same plume streaming wildly across the sunset. She knew the mountain in all its moods and from its nature shaped her own. Its heart of fire was no wilder than that within her breast.

Caesar Pino belonged to the aristocracy of Boscotrase. His olive trees were the best in the place, and did not the choicest Lachryma Christi come from his grapes grown on the scoriae of Vesuvius? Caesar was dark and handsome, a fine singer and dancer, a hard worker, a good fellow all round. All the girls in the village were in love with him.

Handsome Caesar fell in love with handsomer Zabetta. True, her family was poor. But what difference did that make? Caesar had enough for both. Their betrothal soon followed. Nobody could deny that they made a fine looking pair. To be sure, some families whose daughters would not have objected to occupying Zabetta's place hinted privately at the record of the Gemellas. But none spoke openly, remembering that same record.

All went well until Maria Vincente came to Boscotrase. Then Caesar's affection for Zabetta cooled. Not that Maria deliberately did anything to tempt the young man away. But it soon became known through the town that Caesar and his sweetheart had quarreled; next, that he was betrothed to Maria.

Then, indeed, people shook their heads and some said, "Poor Zabetta!"

But others, who knew her family's record better, said, "Poor Caesar!"

And everybody waited to see what would happen.

It was the next day after the break that Zabetta bought the dagger. The Gemellas always acted promptly. But she found it difficult to decide whose blood the sharp point should drink.

Sometimes she felt it would be Caesar's, sometimes Maria's, and on one black day when the two passed her arm in arm she determined that it should be both and she had hard work to restrain herself from putting the sentence into immediate execution.

Then came the great eruption.

For generations Vesuvius, muttering and grumbling, had looked down on the promontorious vineyards and olive groves, boldly pressing nearer the region where it had decreed no living thing should grow. Unheeded it had given warning after warning, like a cross old man who is continually making threats, but whom no one takes at his word.

At last the giant that dwelt in the mountain's fiery heart decided that it was time to teach the forgetful race of men one lesson more. So poof! He blew off the cone and descended in streams of lava and sheets of ashes.

Boscotrase was one of the worst sufferers. For a time its citizens hoped they might escape with a shower of stones and cinders. But one night the scarlet ribbons that had been trickling like rivers of blood down the rough slopes turned toward the village and flight was the only resource.

In a few hours Caesar had seen his vineyard and olive grove damaged beyond hope of reparation in his own lifetime. From a wealthy man he had become poor. Although he did not notice it, Maria's affection had cooled perceptibly from the moment when she realised that her lover was now no richer than his fellows.

Zabetta was gloomily preparing to flee from her home at the coming of the lava. To her whether she escaped or not mattered very little. The cataclysm without found a responsive echo in her heart, fiery, scorched and blasted.

With a small bundle of her belongings she was hurrying along the street amid the ashes and falling stones when a pale faced, shrieking figure rushed past her.

Zabetta's hand involuntarily sought her bosom, whence lurked the stiletto. She was alone with her hated rival. In that fearful semimidnight who would know if she slew Maria?

The other shrank back, seeing her stern face and guessing the import of her bosomed hand.

"Where is Caesar?" grimly questioned Zabetta. Maria cowered away.

"I left him at his house a little while ago. The lava was coming. As he entered to get a bundle the walls fell and buried him. I dared not go in. He is dead."

"Coward!" hissed Zabetta. Dropping her load, she gave the shrinking girl a push that hastened her flight, then flew back through the lurid gloom along the well known way that led to Caesar's house. Why she went she did not know. Caesar was dead to her, so her heart whispered. Yet instinct told her to hasten back.

Soon she saw the ruined house. Only a few rods away a red stream was rolling slowly down the street. She entered the tottering walls and beheld a prone figure partly buried under the fallen stones.

It was Caesar!

The peril of her former lover made Zabetta forgetful of her own danger and of the fact that he was the betrothed of another woman. Madly she tore with bleeding fingers at the debris that covered him. His heart was moving; he was alive. With strength increased tenfold she tugged at the wreckage until she had cleared away everything but a heavy block that pressed down the little finger of his right hand. This block resisted Zabetta's utmost efforts.

It was growing hotter and hotter. A few minutes more and the lava would engulf the house. Death would be the portion of any living thing therein. Zabetta drew her tiny dagger.

At that instant Caesar returned to consciousness. Seeing her bending over him, knife in hand, he gave a cry of terror and appeal and swooned again just as the blade descended. It severed his crushed finger at the second joint and he was free.

There was not a second to lose. Already the air was scorching. With a man's strength Zabetta lifted the insensible Caesar in her arms and carried him out into the street. Through the showers of ashes she staggered with her burden. She had not got fifty feet from the door when the lava boiled against the walls and the whole house fell in ruins.

But Caesar was saved!

So Zabetta kept her vow, sworn on the crucifix of the little dagger, that it should drink the blood of either Caesar or Maria. And it was probably the first instance on record where the fulfillment of a Gemella's blood oath resulted in a marriage.

Too Complicated.

Modern household improvements are appreciated by the initiated, but to the unenlightened they sometimes prove discouraging. Mrs. Gordon was showing Ina, the new maid, who had agreed to work for $4 a week, the conveniences of her up to date kitchen.

"It's a very easy place," explained the lady, "because I have so many contrivances for making the work light.

"Now, here's a new patent bread mixer. When you're ready to use it I'll shew you how to put it together. And this is a splendid meat grinder. It saves hours of labor with the chopping knife. Here is a fine apple parer that takes the cores out too. And this hardwood slab is a wonderful potato slicer.

"Then," continued Mrs. Gordon proudly, "I have a patent dishwasher, a percolating coffeepot and an automatic ash sifter."

"Messis," said Ina firmly, "eef I is to spend all mys time learning how to make dose fonny t'ings go I must hov t'ree dollar a mont' more. She vor too moch work."—Youth's Companion.

THE cost of living is an important thing in most homes. You may have to figure closely in these matters. A little extra on a barrel of flour may look big to you.

But there is a difference between spending money wisely and spending it foolishly.

Sometimes it is economy to spend instead of to save. It is in the case of Royal Household Flour. Those few extra cents a week, that give you in preference to inferior flour, buy health.

Nothing contributes so much to the food you eat as flour, and therefore nothing should be more carefully bought. Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour is the whitest, cleanest and most nutritious flour that's milled. It is the only flour that is absolutely pure.

Eastern Dairymen's Association Held An Executive Meeting

From The Canadian Dairyman.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, held in Toronto at the time of the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, it was decided to hold the next annual convention of the association in Prescott, Ont., next January. Brockville tried to get the convention, as did also Cornwall and Perth. It looked for a while as if Brockville would get the convention, but acting upon the advice of Chief Instructor Publow, who advised that the convention should be moved around and held at a place that had never had it before, it was decided to hold it in Prescott.

The officers of the association who were present included the president, J. R. Dargavel, M. L. A., Elgin, Ont.; Senator D. Derbyshire, Secretary R. G. Murphy,, of Brockville; G. A. Putnam, Director of Dairy Instruction, Toronto; Chief Instructor G. G. Publow, Kingston; J. H. Singleton, Smith's Falls; Henry Glendinning, Manilla; T. B. Carlow, Warkworth; Ed. Kidd, North Gower; Jas. Whitton, Welman's Corners; T. A. Thompson, Almonte, and Mr. Whittaker, Winchester.

Chief Instructor G. G. Publow reported that there had been a greater improvement this year in the quality of the milk received at the factories, and also in the quality of the cheese made than ever before in the history of the association. There had also been a great improvement in the condition of the cheese factories and creameries. The improvement was attributed largely to the interest aroused through the holding of district dairy meetings and by the sending of speakers to the annual meetings of the factories.

Mr. Publow stated that this year he had been paying special attention to looking after cases that had been tried in the courts to convict patrons of factories of adulterating their milk. The public prosecutor, who had been apointed by the association to prosecute such patrons, had been very active and had done good work. Twenty-five convictions had been secured and 30 cases were pending in the courts. No case taken against a patron had been lost although several had been defended. The average fine that had been imposed on the patron was $20. The average costs were about $15. The fines ranged from $5 to $40. Mr. Publow stated that he considered that the appointment of a public prosecutor had been productive of good and that he thought that the publicity given in the local papers to the cases would do more than anything else to stamp out the adulteration of milk.

Messrs. Putnam, Murphy and Publow were appointed a committee to select the places where the district meetings will be held this fall for the appointment of directors of the association. This committee will also select the speakers.

Mayor L. H. Daniels, of Prescott, as well as the president and the secretary of the Prescott Board of Trade, were present, to urge that Prescott should be selected as the next convention point. These gentlemen, together with Messrs. Dargavel, Derbyshire, Murphy, and Mr. Sanderson, the director of the association for the district were appointed to act as a business committee in arranging for the convention. Messrs. Derbyshire, Murphy and Dargavel were appointed to act as a programme committee.

Messrs. Dargavel, Putnam and Publow, were appointed a committee, to consider the advisability of pressing for legislation that will require all cheese and butter makers to hold certificates showing them to be competent to act as makers. This committee will report at the annual convention. Mr. Publow stated that he was securing reports through the instructors and through the buyers in regard to the ability of the different cheese and butter makers in eastern Ontario.

The editor of the Ottawa Valley Journal, was present. This paper, claiming to represent the farmers, has been conducting a campaign for about a year favoring a change in the present method of selling cheese. While the Journal is considered to have been right on a number of points it has made a number of unfair attaks upon the association as well as upon the directors of the association, including Senator Derbyshire, Mr. Singleton, and the association itself. Several of the officers of the association, including Senator Derbyshire, told the editor of the Ottawa Valley Journal, in very plain language, what they thought of the campaign of abuse that he had carried on through his paper. The editor of the paper in his reply, stated that he had not expected that the matter would be discussed at the meeting. He wanted to ..e a committee appointed by the association, and other bodies, to see if something could not be done to devise a better system of selling cheese. His suggestion was not adopted as it was the feeling of the meeting that such a matter should be dealt with by the Dominion Dairy Division and not by the Dairymen's Association.

Some Exhibitors Complaining; Want The Breeds Kept Apart

From The Canadian Dairyman.

Some of the exhibitors at the Toronto exhibition kicked vigorously because Polled Angus cattle and Ayrshire cattle were mixed in one barn and Polled Angus and Jersey cattle in another barn. They contended that each of the different breeds should have been kept together.

The barn and stable, belonging to Mr. Geo. Bryant, Myrtle, near the new station, was recently burned to the ground. The unfortunate owner had just threshed. A large quantity of grain and over $150 worth of clover seed were destroyed. Two prize horses in the stable also were burned.

The Post Office Department at Ottawa is already at work giving effect to the announcement of the Hon. Rodolph Lemieux at Niagara Falls on Tuesday, September 15th, promising that free rural delivery would be promptly installed throughout Canada. Applications for the installation of mail boxes along mail routes are now pouring in at a great rate and the department is hard at work sending out mail boxes as fast as applications come in.

The next annual meeting of the American Association of Farmers' Institute Workers will be held at Washington, D. C., November 16 and 17. At the same place and beginning November 17 will be held the annual meeting of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations. The Secretary of the Association of Colleges and Stations writes: "It seems impossible to secure reduced railroad rates." Notice is sent out thus early in order that the farmers' institute workers of the country may have time to arrange for attendance upon this meeting.

SOME RECENT RESULTS OF THE COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

From The Canadian Dairyman.

In three herds in the North Oxford, Ont., cow testing association some good records were made in the last regular monthly test. One cow gave 1,340 lbs. milk, testing 3.1 per cent. fat, and two other cows in two other herds each gave over 1,550 lbs. milk, testing 3.0 and 3.1 per cent. fat.

In the Bagotville, Que. association in each of the six herds recorded there were individual cows giving over 1,000 lbs. milk, all of them testing 3.3 per cent. and over.

Ormston, Que., also had a good record, for in ten herds tested, some one cow gave 1,000 lbs. milk; one went as high as 1,516 lbs. milk, testing 3.6 per cent. fat. Such cows are well worth keeping. But the fact remains, unfortunately, that there are probably hundreds of cows in the Dominion that are not worth keeping.

For instance in the Dixville, Que. association 14 cows in one herd gave a total yield of 427 lbs. of butter fat in the month; but in an adjoining farm it took 21 cows to give 403 lbs. of fat during the same time. Think of it, half as many cows again to feed and milk and provide accommodation for, and yet receive no more income from! The work of these associations helps farmers to discover the cows that are worth keeping, and enables them to detect and dispose of the unprofitable summer, and winter, boarder.—C. F. W.

Some Great Records Made By Ontario Cows In Giving Milk

From The Canadian Dairyman.

In a recent number of the Overseas Daily Mail, an English publication, appears the record of a cow shown at the Tumbridge Wells and South Eastern Counties Exhibition. The cow referred to belonged to Messrs. Green Bros. of Goring and gave, as they state, the astonishing quantity of 77 lbs. 12 oz. of milk during 24 hours, this quantity being equivalent to more than seven and a half gallons of milk. This milk, it is stated, was so rich in fat that the cream after separation produced 3 lbs. 9 1-2 oz. of butter.

This is surely a good record but it is a long way short of the records recently made by two Holstein cows owned by Brown Bros., Leeds County, Ontario, photos of which cows have of late appeared in our columns. These cows, the one, Sarah Jewel Hengerveld the third, recently made the stupendous record of 93 lbs. of milk in one day, 640.1 lbs. of milk and 30.397 lbs. of butter in 7 days. The other, Sarah Jewel Hengerveld, gave 100.4 lbs. of milk in one day, 635 lbs. milk and 28.13 lbs. of butter in 7 days. The record of this English cow appears small beside these two great performers. The English cow, reckoning from her record for one day, would have given 25 lbs. 2 1-2 oz. of butter in 7 days. This one cow of Brown Bros. gave 30.397 lbs. of butter in 7 days by actual test.

Some Splendid Cattle Were Exhibited At Toronto Fair

From The Canadian Dairyman.

The Shorthorns were as usual the feature of the beef cattle exhibit. The entry in this class alone was nearly 200 greater than last year and the display made was a credit to the breed. Mr. D. D. Flatt, Hamilton, placed the awards. No judge in recent years did his work better or gave more general satisfaction. He was consistent throughout, selecting a type and following it through to the end. He judged solely from the breeders' standpoint, which will account for some animals of good blocky type, but lacking in breed character, not getting as high up as their owners expected. On the whole Mr. Flatt did his work very well indeed and made very few mistakes.

The bull classes were well filled, though not as even a lot as the females. In the aged bull class, Sidelight, a Royal Wonder bull, shown by The Little Missouri Horse Co., Meadville, Pa., was a bull particularly worthy of mention. The principal exhibitors were E. A. & J. A. Watt, Salem, Ont., W. C. Edwards & Co., Rockland, Sir Geo. Drummond, Beaconsfield, Que., John Gardhouse & Sons, Highfield, J. E. & G. C. Robson, Ilderton, S. Dyment of Barrie, J. & D. J. Campbell, Woodville, W. R. Elliott & Son, Guelph, Arthur Johnston, W. & S. Auld, Eden Mills, Eastwood Bros., New Toronto, Kerr & Davidson, Balsam, W. G. Pettit & Son, Freeman, H. Smith, Exeter, J. F. Mitchell, Burlington, G. Amos & Son, Moffat and others.

The cow classes were particularly strong. The aged cows that lined up before the judges were as good a lot of Shorthorn matrons as have ever graced a Canadian show ring. Queen Ideal of the Beaconsfield Herd was placed first. She was brought out in good form and though showing the effects of frequent fitting for the show ring, her many good qualities were to the front.

The class for Shorthorns in milk was not as strong as it should have been. There should be at least two classes, one for three-year-olds in milk and another for four-year-olds or over. This would enable a championship to be given for the best cow in milk, and not have the winner come in competition with the beef matrons for sweepstakes honors.

That veteran feeder and breeder, James Leask was strong in the steer classes sired by a Shorthorn bull; winning both 1st and 2nd in the two-year-old and yearling classes. Joseph [illegible] Saintfield was first in the calf class, with a steer bred by Leask.

The Hereford show was not as strong as last year. W. H. Hunter, The Maples, had both the senior champion and junior champion bulls. His aged bull, Improver, looking well and showing his deep massive qualities to advantage, being given the grand championship. H. D. Smith, Hamilton, had the first prize yearling bull. J. A. Govenlock, Forest, had the best of it in the female classes winning both championships on two very good cows. He was also to the front in the herd classes, winning all but the junior herd, which went to Hunter. R. J. Mackie, Oshawa, judged the Herefords.

The Aberdeen Angus made an excellent show with a couple of new exhibitors out. John Lowe, Elora, had the senior champion bull, and James Bowman, Guelph, the junior and grand champion bull in his imported yearling, Magnificent. Bowman also had both championships in females on two splendid animals. He also won in graded herd. L. B. Broadfoot, Fergus, won first on aged cows, with Elm Park Kyma 11th, a good deep individual.

There was nothing sensational about the Galloway display. D. McCrae, Guelph, and R. Shaw, Brantford, were the contestants. The former had much the best of it in the bull classes, winning both championships. Shaw was stronger in females, winning the senior and grand championship, senior honors going to McCrae. John Davidson, Ashburn, judged the Angus and Galloway classes.

System Of Pasteurizing Should Be Used By Every Creamery

From The Canadian Dairyman.

We have come to realize in these later years that one of the most important problems in agriculture, is the control, the regulation of soil moisture. It is a large subject, and, if discussed fully, would involve the question of drainage, a matter of considerable interest to the orchardist, the question of aeration of the soil, and several others. I propose mentioning two phases only, phases that immediately touch upon our work under discussion in recent issues of The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World—cover crops in the orchard.

All the soil-formed food that plants absorb must be in a state of solution before the crops can utilize it; the feeding rootlets can only appropriate as it were highly-diluted food. In order to obtain their food from the soil, crops require vast amounts of water. It has been estimated that at least 300 lbs. of water are taken up by the roots for every pound of dry matter stored up in stem, leaf or fruit. During the growing season then we are to understand that there is a constant stream of water passing through the tissues of the tree, parting with its dissolved material to build up here and there the various parts and organs of the tree, and finally transpired by the leaves of the tree, and so returned to the atmosphere. In this way probably more than one thousand tons of water an acre each season are absorbed by the roots of a mature orchard, and this in addition to the water retained in the tissues of the tree and fruit and that lost by capillarity and surface evaporation.

What is true of the tree, is likewise true of the grass. To produce a crop of hay will require at least from 500 to 600 tons of water. Unless the season is one characterized by an abundant rainfall there are few soils that can support both grass and trees with all this moisture, and, as I have already said, it is the trees that suffer.

It is essential then that while the tree is making its growth, and its fruit filling there should be a sufficiency of soil moisture. This, as we have seen, is not likely to be the case if during that period a second crop—a soil feeder—is grown on the same area.

But it will not merely suffice in many districts to leave the trees the undisputed crop upon the soil during this growing season. In soil that is bare of foliage and left undisturbed, capillarity is set up and surface evaporation takes place. How can this be prevented? By occasional cultivation. The dry earth mulch so formed breaks up the capillary tubes, and thus arrests evaporation. It seems clear then that cultivation should be practised during the spring and early summer. Is it essential or desirable that it should be continued throughout the season? I think not.

Some few years ago we determined during the autumn and winter the moisture content in the twigs of 10 varieties of apples. These apples included some of the hardiest and some of the most susceptible to cold of the varieties that can be grown in the Ottawa district. Our results showed that the hardiest were those containing the least water. Indeed the order of their moisture content, was the order, or practically so, in which the horticulturist, Mr. Macoun, had arranged the varieties, according to observed hardiness. This goes to support the view that growing tissue contains more water than mature wood, that cessation of growth and early maturity of the wood may be induced by limiting the soil moisture supply, and that such mature wood is better able to withstand very low temperatures. It seems quite probable from the results of this investigation that the character of the autumn, both as to rainfall and temperature, may have very much to do in determining the immaturity of the trees during the following winter.

Arguing from these premises, it is clear that to check the growth of the orchard trees in the autumn, by the abstraction of soil moisture, is very desirable. This can be accomplished through the growth of the cover crop sown in July.

ENGLAND'S EGG SUPPLY

Consul-General Robert J. Wynne of London, reports that suggestive figures in reference to England's egg supply are furnished by a member of the National Poultry Organization Society, from which we compile the following:

"The total import of eggs in 1906, in great hundreds (120) was: Russia, 7,132,928; Denmark, 3,823,943; Germany, 2,644,242; Belgium, 2,444,746; France, 1,401,269; Canada, 231,719; and other countries, 1,105,263. Altogether these figures represent an import of nearly 2,255 millions of eggs, of the total value of [illegible]

"Although the number of eggs imported from Denmark fell off in 1906 by 34,195 great hundreds, as compared with 1905, the value of the total import increased by $843,000. In England, the production of eggs has in the last few years increased enormously. The value of last year's home product was $12,500,000 greater than was the case twelve years ago, while the $7,500,000 paid to France, for eggs, a few years since, has now dropped to $3,000,000. Yet experts are of opinion that it will be many years before home producers have caught up with the demand for eggs of high grade.

"In 1906 the import of eggs from the United States was but 41,000 great hundreds, valued at $86,000. In 1901 the number imported was valued at over $6,000,000; in 1902, at $320,000; in 1903, at $300,000; in 1904, at $50,000; and in 1905, at $24,016, in great hundred lots.

The decline in imports from the United States was, as stated in an annual report from this consulate-general undoubtedly due to the vastly increased supplies from European countries."

WOLFE'S IMPRESSIONS

GENERAL'S DESCENDANT DISCUSSES CANADIAN TRIP.

Monuments In Deplorable Condition, Particularly That of His Warrior Ancestor—He Found No Wolfe Relics Worth Talking About—Roads In Quebec Are Terrible—Plains of Abraham a Waste.

The Yorkshire Herald publishes an interview with Mr. George Wolfe of Acomb Priory, York, and County Kildare, Ireland, who, at the invitation of the Dominion Government, attended the Quebec Tercentenary. In part, the article is as follows:

Naturally, Mr. Wolfe paid particular attention to the Plains of Abraham, where Wolfe defeated Montcalm in 1759 and Levis triumphed over Murray six months later. These precious Plains, sacred to French and English alike, appear to have been a sort of Tom Tiddler's ground.

"They are in a most deplorable condition," said Mr. Wolfe, in answer to a question. "There are no trees, perhaps there never were any; there is plenty of stones and rubbish; there is no grass. Really, the look of the place is disgraceful. A great deal has been encroached on, many houses have been built, and there are big market gardens. Very little remains. One of the objects in view in organising the pageant was to raise money to help to buy out those people who have acquired rights over the plains in one way and another, and turn the place into a park."

"The famous Plains of Abraham look like a piece of waste land?"

"Exactly so. Like a city building plot not ready for the market."

"And what about the monuments?"

Mr. Wolfe picked up a picture of a memorial. "That is Champlain's monument. It is a beautiful piece of work. Champlain was the founder of Quebec, you know, and the celebrations were really in honor of the Champlain tercentenary. You see they had to be careful of French susceptibilities. They could not expect the French-Canadians to rejoice over the capture of Quebec by the English."

"Did you see Wolfe's monument?"

"Yes; it is nothing but a straight pillar with a bit of green painted railing round."

"It is not elaborate, then "

"It is sadly neglected. The place seems to be the resort of all the cats and dogs of the neighborhood. It is in very bad condition. The joint memorial to Wolfe and Montcalm is a little better, but not much. That also is a straight pillar. The monument to Murray is a little better, too."

"Nelson's monument in Trafalgar square is a pillar, and we think a lot about it."

"Oh, but this is nothing like Nelson's monument. These pictures flatter it very much. It is a small affair. But then, of course, one could not expect the French to join in any glorification of Wolfe and Murray. The restoration or re-building of these monuments is part of the scheme of improvement."

"What do you think of Quebec?"

"It is a beautiful city—but their roads! They are terrible! Never again will I grumble at our roads. Nobody ever seems to make up a road. Some of them look as if they had never been made at all—full of ruts and great holes. And the motor cars scudded about in the wildest fashion. How they kept upright is a mystery to me. Why, if this road out here was a tenth part as bad as the roads in Quebec, the hedges would be dotted with smashed motors."

"One of the most interesting visits we paid was to the Ursuline Convent. Quebec is full of nuns, and the Ursuline order played a great part in the early life of Quebec. We received the permission of the archbishop to visit the place. Montcalm was buried in a chapel there, and they keep his head under a glass shade. It was a gruesome sight, the eyes and nose cavities being filled with a sort of soft wax When Count de Montcalm saw it he nearly fainted. The sisters have also the last letter Montcalm wrote, and a table Gen. Murray wrote his orders on."

"Did you see any Wolfe relics "

"No, there doesn't seem to be any. He lived a very austere life, and his possessions were of the simplest. It is said when he was dying he presented the two pistols he was wearing to his doctor. The doctor's family are anxious to sell them to the Government, but they want an enormous price—about £4,000. There seems no doubt about their genuineness. By the way, there is a little cottage near Montmorency Falls where Wolfe lay for some weeks sick after the fight on the Plains where the English got defeated. I visited it, and the owner presented me with a bit of plaster off the wall of the room where Wolfe lay. He had nothing else to give."

McNicoll Celebrates.

Mr. David McNicholl, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has just celebrated the forty-second anniversary of his entry into the field of railway work, which took place on Aug. 20, 1866. Mr. McNicoll began as a clerk in the goods department of the North British Railway, and after eight years of service came to Canada. Here in nineteen years he rose from a clerkship to his present position as second in command on one of the world's greatest railways. He has the reputation of being one of the hardest-working men in a profession that calls for hard work all the time from whoever would rise above the average level, and he has well deserved all the success he has won.

C. T. P. Shortcut.

The Grand Trunk Pacific has just adopted a cut-off in Northern Cariboo that will effect a saving in mileage of between 100 and 150 miles. The main line as now finally located will run across the country due west from Grand Rapids, on the south fork of the Fraser River, to Fort George, on the main river.

COSTLY CLEANLINESS.

Water in Goldfield Sold For a Cent and a Half a Gallon.

We who can bathe and splash about in cool, fresh water as we will can hardly appreciate the inconveniences of a condition in which each drop of water is carefully measured out. In Goldfield the two problems of dust and water give most trouble. There is never a time that there is not plenty of the former and little of the latter.

Without warning of any sort great whirlwinds come down the canyons and through the streets, carrying blinding clouds of dust. A blow of some sort is a daily occurrence. The fine white dust sifts into the houses and covers everything. It is a case of dusting a dozen times a day and never really having things quite clean.

The water supply of Goldfield comes from wells in camp and at Lida, fifty miles to the southwest. Whether bought from the man who goes around with a cart or from the water company, every gallon costs on an average at least a cent and a half. At best it is an expensive luxury. Every precious drop has to be put to as many uses as possible. The bathing establishments offer baths at $1 each, with the bath joke thrown in. The joke runs like this: In the early days of the camp, when baths cost $2, after the man who had elected this luxury had finished, as a matter of economy the water had to be put to some use, so it was offered to a second bather at a reduced price, $1, then again to a third for 50 cents and to a fourth for "two bits." Following this came a few feats of dishwashing. Times have changed, but water is still the problem of the desert. Ice being too expensive a luxury for general use, everybody resorts to African water bags. These are filled and hung in shady places where the breeze can strike them. By puncturing them with a needle sufficient water oozes out to wet the outside, and the damp cloth and air keep the contents cool. Hanging on the shady side of every house, shack and tent, strapped to the saddle of every prospector, in the hand or fastened to the neck of every Indian, is a water bag. The weather, in other places a plank on which to slide gracefully into conversation, here is a fruitful and interesting topic for unending discussion. In its variety it is uncloying. One summer is wet—wet for the desert—and the next one dry. Usually there is a little rain, and when it does come the downpour lasts only five or ten minutes. Rarely does it lay the dust.—New Idea Magazine.

Rehearsed His Funeral.

Inviting the brothers in his lodge to gather around him, Joseph Sandlin, a charter member of the Red Men at Advance, this county, climbed into a coffin which he had made to his order, stretched himself out as he will lie when he is dead, crossed his hands over his breast and bade them pass around and view him. Mr. Sandlin is a veteran of the civil war and is eccentric. He is sixty-eight years old. Mr. Sandlin made a coffin of the best yellow poplar, superior in workmanship and quality, and bought a lot in a cemetery, and he has placed a monument over the spot where he desires to be buried. He left the coffin in the care of the lodge, inside of which he placed written instructions as to funeral arrangements.—Lebanon (Ind.) Cor. Indianapolis News.

The Pup's Picnic.

A Boston bulldog owned by George H. Clapp was so determined to capture a woodchuck which he had chased into its den that he followed after and stayed in the hole all night. When the dog had got his jaws about the enemy he found that he could not get out owing to the small size of the animal's hole. Rather than lose his prey the dog retained his hold on the woodchuck overnight and was helped out by his master in the morning. The dog was nearly exhausted and revived after feeding and drinking in a curious manner. He consumed about two quarts of ungnarded ice cream which had been set aside for a party. After this the dog seemed still somewhat dazed and capped the climax by falling into a bucket of lemonade.—Worcester Telegram.

Safety Valve For Vesuvius.

An Italian scientist proposes to supply a safety valve for Vesuvius by boring a tunnel in the base of the mountain and letting the lava escape into the sea. His idea is to bore the tunnel while the crater is in a state of coma, and he believes that when the volcano becomes active such a channel would be sufficient to carry away the lava. His whole proposal, however, is not to let the lava escape altogether, but to run it into molds and make it into blocks for use in the streets and quays of Naples. In all probability his scheme will die a natural death.—Popular Mechanics.

PHARAOH THE OPPRESSOR.

This Is the Rameses Who Looms Over the Egypt of Today.

Like a cloud, a great gallon cloud, a glory impending that will not, cannot, be dissolved into the other, he (Rameses) loomed over the Egypt that is dead; he looms over the Egypt of today. Everywhere you meet his traces; everywhere you hear his name. You say to a tall young Egyptian, "How big you are growing, Hassan!"

He answers, "Come back next year, my gentleman, and I shall be like Rameses the Great."

Or you ask of the boatman who rows you, "How can you pull all day against the current of the Nile?" And he smiles, and, lifting his brown arm, he says to you, "Look; I am as strong as Rameses the Great."

This familiar fame comes down through some 3,220 years. Carved upon limestone and granite, now it seems engraven also on every Egyptian heart that beats not only with the movement of shadoof or is not buried in the black soil fertilised by Hapi. Thus can inordinate vanity prolong the true triumph of genius and impress its own view of itself upon the minds of millions. This Rameses is believed to be the pharaoh who oppressed the children of Israel.—Robert Hichens in Century.

FERN LEAVES.

They Are Valuable For Preserving Articles of Food.

The fern plant, which grows almost everywhere, is an excellent preservative for packing articles of food, fruit, etc. People who have lived in England know that the English have used it successfully for many years. Valuable fruit, fresh butter, etc., are no longer seen in the English markets packed in grapevine leaves, but almost always in fresh fern leaves, which keep the articles excellently. This is done where grapevine leaves are to be had in abundance. Every one posted well in botany knows the high preservative power of fern leaves with reference to vegetable and animal substances.

On the Isle of Man fresh herrings are packed in ferns and arrive on the market in as fresh a condition as when they were shipped. Potatoes packed in ferns keep many months longer than others packed only in straw. Experiments made with both straw and fern leaves in the same cellar showed surprising results in favor of ferns. While the potatoes packed in straw mostly showed signs of rotting in the spring, those in ferns were as fresh as if they had just been dug.

Fresh meat is also well preserved by fern leaves. It would seem as if the highly preservative qualities of fern leaves are due to their high percentage of salt. No larvae, maggots, etc., approach ferns, as the strong odor keeps them away.

Postmaster Not to Be Hurried.

A nobleman's new land agent and steward, who went to live on the estates about fifteen miles from Granada, sent letters to the village postoffice every day for three weeks, but got no replies. Thinking this very strange, he rode over to the village and interviewed the postmaster.

"Oh," exclaimed the postmaster, "you are the new agent on the ducal estates! "Well, your letters are all safe. The villagers rarely write letters, and as I have to ride on my donkey four miles to the railway station to catch the mail train you don't suppose for one moment, do you, that I am going to undertake this pilgrimage every day with your stupid letters? I have them all here in a broken jug, and when the jug gets full I shall take a ride to the station and post the whole lot at once."

Couldn't Keep Track of Them.

Martin Littleton, the famous lawyer of New York, is one of a family of nineteen children, so they say, born to a heritage of poverty and pluck. When he was a small lad down in Texas he fell into the creek one day, and Michael, the next younger brother, ran whimpering to Littleton, the elder: "Dad, dad! Martin is drowning!"

"Martin, Martin!" repeated the father of nineteen. Then he turned dubiously to his wife.

"Wora," he inquired anxiously, "have we a Martin?"

New Zealand Industries.

Figures bearing upon New Zealand industries have been furnished to the Wellington Provincial Industrial Association, compiled from the 1906 census, which show that 56,350 hands were employed in industries throughout the country. The wages paid for the year totalled £4,457,819. The approximate value of buildings, land, machinery and plant, exclusive of the value of the crown lands, was £12,509,286. There were more than 4,000 hands employed in flax mills alone, over 3,000 in meat freezing and preserving works, a similar number in dressmaking and millinery establishments, nearly 3,000 in the tailoring trade, about 4,000 in the printing and bookbinding businesses, and over 9,000 in sawmills and sash and door [illegible]

Magician of the World.

What is the engineer of tomorrow to be? We have a suggestion in the enthusiasm for airships. The problem of flight will never be solved by merely mechanical means. The man who flies won't be a man who merely has to turn on a valve or open a switch. He will be a man who knows something of what the resources of nature are. He will be a magician—in fact, a wielder of power.—Magazine of Commerce.

Emigrant Dumping.

Britain still regards the colonies as dumping ground for her irreclaimable criminals. She no longer sends them out in convict ships, but when she sees a colony recklessly offering home and sanctuary to all comers she releases her jailbirds and covertly packs them off to the new land.—Melbourne Age.

CATCHING THE POISONER.

How Sir Thomas Stevenson Conducted Toxicological Tests.

The recent death of Sir Thomas Stevenson calls to mind many of the most memorable criminal cases on record during the past twenty-five years. He was the foremost analytical chemist of the day. [illegible] knowledge of the inside of [illegible] passed by no one.

The methods employed by official analysts engaged in the detection of poisoning crimes are both curious and interesting, while their investigations occasionally lead to unexpected and startling results.

The first step taken in such cases is at the post-mortem examination of the victims, when certain organs are placed in hermetically-sealed bottles and delivered at the official laboratory. Of course, in a great many cases the symptoms exhibited previous to decease point to a particular poison as having been the cause of death, and this, naturally, somewhat simplifies the work of research. But even then Sir Thomas showed on certain occasions that, although the suspected drug had been taken, it had not caused the death of the subject, which had been brought about in some other manner. So that the analysis is made equally carefully whatever is suspected.

When testing for the cause of death, the organs submitted to the analyst are divided into a number of portions, and each portion is tested for a different poison, so that the trial is one of elimination, and there is very little fear of death by any known poison going undiscovered when once the official analyst starts on the trial.

The toxicological expert is nearly always the principal witness in poisoning cases, and it may almost be said that it rests with him whether the verdict shall be "Guilty" or "Not Guilty," so that he has to be something of a legal expert as well as a scientific man. Sir Thomas was one of the cleverest and fairest witnesses that ever stepped into a court, and the preciseness of his answers was only equalled by their brevity.

Here are one or two antidotes for well-known poisons: Chalk or magnesia in water counteracts the bad effects of oxalic acid, while nitrate of silver is neutralised by common salt dissolved in water. Hydrated peroxide of iron has been regarded as an antidote for arsenic, but its efficacy is doubtful.

Half Men and Women Face Death.

How do men and women face death when the sentence is pronounced by the doctor? A medical man tells us his experience. Tell the man of higher type and greater intelligence, he says, that he is facing death and he begins to fight, demands a consultation, talks about going to specialists and fights grimly to the finish. Tell a woman the same facts, and she lies back to await her fate. All women are fatalists. On the other hand, tell a man that he has one chance in a thousand to recover if he will undergo an operation, and he will trust to his own strength and endurance rather than undergo the knife. The woman will choose the thousandth chance and submit to the operation with astounding calmness.—Woman's Life.

Burning With Curiosity.

A certain famous authoress wife is much worried by unknown correspondents has taken her revenge in a somewhat eccentric fashion. She received a letter from a woman informing her that the writer had named her last baby after her and requesting the authoress' views on her choice. She received a thick envelope, heavily sealed, with this inscription: "Not to be opened till baby's thirtieth birthday." Now the mother is worrying herself day and night as to the contents of the envelope.

The brave man may fall, but he cannot yield.—Irish Proverb.

The Human Ear.

Experts tell us that in all the world you will not find a perfect human ear.

Yarn.

In the United States "right hand" yarn is yarn of which the twist slopes up to the right similar to the threads of an ordinary right hand screw. Germans call this "left hand" yarn for the reason that if held in the hand it has to be twisted to the left to twist it together, whereas including to the right unwinds it.

MURDERER CREIGHTON IS TO HANG

Owen Sound Man Must Pay the Death Penalty For Crime.

EXECUTION ON DECEMBER 3

Jury After Two Hours', Deliberation Finds Murderer of Wife and Her Daughters Sane at Time of Act and Responsible—Judge Riddell Coincides With Verdict and Passes Death Sentence.

Owen Sound, Oct. 2.—The result of the trial of James Farish Creighton, who was accused of having on the 26th of May last murdered his wife and two step-daughters, is that, unless he obtains a reprieve he will be executed on Thursday Dec. 3.

He was found guilty by the jury after two hours' deliberation and sentence was pronounced upon him at 8.30 last night.

Justice Riddell in passing sentence said that the accused had been guilty of one of the most atrocious crimes known to law. The prosecution had been fairly conducted and the defence brilliantly and skilfully conducted. No stone had been left unturned, no research had been too much, to bring forth anything which would assist the prisoner in his defence. But it was plain that no twelve honest men could have found a different verdict.

The prisoner's career in this world would probably be short. He could hold out no hopes of clemency. He would not, he ought not to say, that there was any hope for him in this world. In the short time that was left to the prisoner he could adjure him to prepare for the next world. While there was no hope for mercy or pity here, there was no chance of mercy being refused if he sought it at the proper place.

The judge then put on the black cap and sentenced the prisoner to be executed on Thursday, Dec. 3.

The prisoner, on receiving sentence, broke down completely, and had to be practically carried out of the court by his guards.

AN OBLIGING ROBBER.

Hamilton Lad Who Held Up Operator Has Diary.

Hamilton, Oct. 2.—Percy Bowerman, a 16-year-old boy who lives in the Dundas road, was arrested last night, on the charge of carrying unlawful weapons. When searched at No. 3 police station it was found that he was a veritable walking arsenal. He had a revolver, a bowie knife, a dagger, a club and several other weapons. Amongst his possessions was a diary in which the youth related all his deeds of prowess during the last few days. It sets forth in a graphic style how he and two companions robbed Operator Robinson at the Junction Cut on Wednesday night, and how he had stolen a couple of bicycles and thrown them into a pond. The wheels were found by the police yesterday. The diary will be used as evidence against the prisoner when he comes to trial.

Three young thieves went masked and got $20 from Robinson.

'TWAS REARDON'S FAULT.

Girl Says Dead Man Was to Blame For Cliff Tragedy.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—A warrant was issued by the police yesterday for the arrest of Thomas Fox on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the tragedy of Wednesday night, whereby David Reardon, assistant manager of the Electric Transfer Co. of Ottawa, lost his life. Further details of the quarrel between the two men show that, according to the story told by Eilena Williams, the girl in the case, Reardon approached her and Fox while they were sitting near the edge of the cliff behind the convent on Primrose avenue, and told Fox he was a private detective and the latter had better move on and do his courting in a less public place. Fox moved away, and Reardon, it is said, insulted the girl. Fox then came back and attacked Reardon. In the fight which followed both men fell over the cliff, which at this point is forty feet high. Reardon was almost instantly killed, but Fox, who is 33 years of age, and an employe of the Laurentide Mica Co., escaped with a compound fracture of the right arm and a few bruises. He is now in the hospital. The girl is an English immigrant, and is being held by the police as a witness.

POST-MORTEM HELD.

Examination Shows That Mrs. Peak Was Ravished After Death.

Stratford, Oct. 2.—The post-mortem in the case of Mrs. William Peak who was murdered on Wednesday, revealed that the victim had been ravished after she had been done to death. There was no evidence of death from strangulation, death being rather due to shock.

The theory that the negro, Boghmond, her alleged assailant, is partially insane is discredited at the jail, where during twenty days' imprisonment, he gave evidence of being a remarkably shrewd chap and chatted intelligently.

He carried on a running conversation in French occasionally. He claims to have hailed from Three Rivers, Que.

Feeling against the prisoner, who is now locked up at the county jail, is running high.

REVIEWS THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

Mr. Fielding Gives Some Plain Figures in Toronto.

AYLESWORTH JOINS RALLY

Ministers of Finance and Justice Unite in Grand Gathering in Massey Hall and Get Magnificent Reception—Editor of Globe Cheered—Government's Policy is Wholesome and Sound.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—There was a thrilling example of Toronto Liberals' devotion to the principles of Liberalism at the meeting in Massey Hall last night, when that huge auditorium was filled to the very doors with a cheering, enthusiastic and public-spirited audience. There were orators in plenty, but more important, they had a story of progress to tell that appealed to the best in the hearts of every one present. Rarely has such a meeting been seen in this city. The Minister of Finance, Hon. W. S. Fielding, was in the best of speaking form, and as he piled fact upon fact, argument upon argument, coupled with telling and convincing comparisons, the building reverberated with applause. No less hearty was the greeting to Hon. Mr. Aylesworth and the two local candidates, Messrs. T. C. Robinette, K.C., and W. H. Shaw. The meeting was indeed a splendid omen for the future of Liberalism in Toronto.

HON. W. S. FIELDING.

"You hear something about someone paying two cents a pound more for tobacco on an Arctic expedition, or something of that sort, but you hear nothing of the story of the splendid progress of Canada," said Mr. Fielding, referring to the speeches of the Conservative leaders.

"In the game of politics — a noble game as long as properly played—there is a rule laid down for guidance," remarked Mr. Fielding. "Find out what your opponents want you to do—and then don't do it."

"The Conservatives wanted them to discuss scandals and he proposed to stick to the achievements of the Laurier Government. No charge of corruption had yet been levied against any member of the Laurier administration," he repeated amid cheers. He repudiated the spoils system and lauded that "grand, clean Canadian, Sir Wilfrid," and took credit for the fact that men of different creeds and races came together and lived in peace and harmony in Canada. The east had formerly cared for the west, and now he thought the farmers of the west should consider the manufacturers of the east. The French and other treaties and the preferential tariff were shown by statistics to have contributed to the welfare of trade, and the tariff was asserted to be 2 per cent. lower than in 1896.

The most enthusiastic reception received by anyone was given J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe, and his five minutes' speech was a brilliant bit of spell-binding. The Conservatives, he said, had forgotten, or did not know, the greatness of Canada. Men of vision were required, men who believed in the future and in a larger Canada. Only readers of The Globe, it was to be inferred, were in that class, but Mr. Macdonald's forceful sentences roused great enthusiasm.

When the Hon. A. B. Aylesworth was introduced the audience rose and cheered lustily for the candidate for North York. He began by making a quaintly humorous reference to the Conservative banners showing Mr. Borden as "Canada's Coming Premier." The public had been told that there was no difference between the two great political parties in Canada; but this was not so. To-day the lines of difference were as marked as ever.

The candidates for North and Centre Toronto had a rousing reception, and while taikng pains to make their platform clear, tactfully effaced themselves in favor of Mr. Fielding.

Put Poison In Well.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—Anthony Dacey, a well-to-do farmer of Cantley, has been placed under arrest, charged with attempting to poison Robert Brown, and other residents by putting Paris green in Brown's well.

MAN BLAMED IS MISSING

Engineer Quinn is Dead, Fireman Jarvis Seriously Hurt and G.T.R. Engineer Smith Has a Broken Leg—Operator Left the Switch Open—Doctor Heroically Climbed In to Aid Imprisoned Men.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Through the neglect, supposedly, of an operator, Nicholas Taggart, or McTaggart, the C.P.R. express, Hamilton bound, dashed into an open switch at Mimico last evening and crashed into a G.T.R. shunting engine.

Th collision brought instant death to the C.P.R. engineer, Wm. Quinn, of West Toronto, while his fireman, Willis Jarvis, also of the suburb city, is now in the Western Hospital in a serious condition with a broken and scalded legs.

G.T.R. Engineer John Smith of this city sustained a broken leg.

Jarvis was held in the wreckage for some time. He was suffering the excruciating pain, and to relieve the suffering Dr. Godfrey, M.P.P., pluckily crawled twice into the debris and administer an anaesthetic.

The operator could not be found after the accident. One report has it that last night was his first on the job, but this an official denies, and says he has been on that duty for a fortnight. He came from Teeswater.

It is claimed that Taggart (or McTaggart) acting as a sort of combination switchman, operator and yardman, and stationed some 200 yards from the scene of the wreck, left the switch open and the express took to the siding on which G.T.R. engine 231 happened to be. The impact sent the latter engine 250 yards along the track while the shock threw Quinn from his cab a distance of some 30 feet. His skull was fractured and he died instantly.

Willis Jarvis, the fireman, was jammed with his right leg against the fire-box of the engine, the front wheels of which were derailed.

The fireman, though suffering intensely, displayed signal heroism. Between his cries of pain, he directed those without how to release him. Every effort was made to break into the collapsed cab, and finally the wreckage was pulled away.

The screams of the fireman were agonising and Dr. Forbes Godfrey crawled in through the narrowed window of the engine cab and gave a hyperdermic injection to the fireman's leg, which lay roasting against the firebox. The screams continued and again the doctor made the dangerous trip in through the clouds of escaping steam to the suffering man and administered an anaesthetic.

Lashes For Brute.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—Milton McCulloch of North Dumfries was yesterday sentenced to 2 1-2 years in Kingston Penitentiary and to receive 14 lashes for an assault committed on a 12-year-old girl on Sept. 6 last.

Justice Boyd commented strongly on the crime, which, he was told was altogether too common in this country, and he hoped the sentence passed would be a strong deterrent to others.

The prisoner was deeply affected and completely broke down, crying aloud as he was led from the court room.

Hopeful of Settlement.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—The labor leaders who have been in the city for the past few days in connection with the C.P.R. mechanics' strike appear today to be so hopeful of a settlement that they are planning to leave town on Monday. They state that high influences are being brought to bear to end the difficulty.

At C.P.R. headquarters yesterday it was announced that no advances had yet been made to the company looking towards a meeting between the railroad officials and the union representatives.

Bad Fire at Bradford.

Bradford, Ont., Oct. 2.—About 3 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in the John Hill Carriage Works and spread rapidly, so that the buildings and contents are a total loss. Adjoining dwellings, owned by W. B. Scott, R. McKintry and Harry Parler, with all outbuildings, were also destroyed. The total loss is $10,000, with partial insurance. It is not known how the fire originated.

British Cruiser Refloated.

Portsmouth, Oct. 2.—The British cruiser Gladiator, on which salvagers have been at work ever since she was sunk April 25 off the Isle of Wight by the liner St. Paul, was refloated yesterday afternoon. The cruiser will be docked here. The work of salvaging her has cost between $250,000 and $300,000. Many experts are of the opinion that the vessel can never be used again.

BORDEN COVERS GROUND.

Addresses Meetings in Stratford, Listowel, Hanover and Durham.

Hanover, Oct. 2.—Though only one meeting was on the program for yesterday, Mr. Borden found it impossible to escape the task of addressing no less than four, in the ridings of North Perth and South Grey. He also was seen and acclaimed as he touched the fringe of North Wellington and South Bruce.

The day's work began immediately after breakfast at Stratford, where a meeting was held in the City Hall and later in the morning a rousing gathering was held at Listowel.

At Listowel several hundred gathered at the depot at noon, although it was raining heavily. Mr. Borden was invited to address the meeting in the freight shed and this commodious building was crowded. Both Mr. Borden and Mr. Hanna spoke briefly. Benjamin Rothewell was chairman.

There was a short stop at Palmerston.

At Stratford, A. F. McLaren, the Conservative candidate, brought down to the depot at 8 o'clock in the morning the regimental band and several hundred people, and a procession was formed, Mr. Borden, Mr. Hanna and Col. Clark being escorted to the City Hall, J. J. Coughlin presided. Mr. Hanna made a strong protectionist speech.

At Hanover, in the riding of South Grey, Mr. Borden addressed a meeting, which was held during a drizzling rain in the agricultural hall. It was largely attended and enthusiastic and Mr. Borden was given a splendid reception.

Another meeting was held last night at Durham.

ALIEN STRIKE-BREAKERS.

Ten Are Deported in Manitoba—To Work For C.P.R.

Emerson, Man., Oct. 2.—There were lively times yesterday morning at Noyes, just across the line from here. Upon the arrival of the Soo train Officers Agnew and Connell of the immigration department of the Canadian Government, boarded the train and had it held while they searched cars for strike-breakers being taken to Winnipeg, under contract with the Canadian Pacific to work in the shops.

Search revealed about a dozen men who were about to enter Canada in violation of the Alien Labor Act and of the regulations governing the immigration of aliens. The men were placed in custody of the police and all but two admitted they were about to enter Canada in contravention of law, and were thereupon shipped back to the places from whence they came.

Ross Rifles Have Arrived For The Warsaw Rifle Association

Raspberries Still Ripe in Dummer And One Man Has Bushes in Blossoms

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST

Examiner Special

Warsaw, Oct. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Delaney and family, who reside a mile south of here, were the recipients on Thursday of the sad intelligence that their son and brother, Michael, had died that day at Kamloops, B. C. Mr. Delaney left here some twenty years ago, and after spending some time in the Western States, went to British Columbia, where he was engaged in mining. Mr. John Delaney, brother of the deceased, left on Friday for Kamloops to ascertain the particulars and to arrange for burial.

Mr. Jos. Edwards has in his garden one of the finest crops of late tomatoes to be seen in this county. The yield from the vines has been enormous both in size and quantity, some of the tomatoes weighing over 1 1-2 pounds, while three ordinary ones tipped the scales at 6 3-4 lbs.

An article appeared in the Examiner a short time ago to the effect that a North Monaghan farmer had found a few ripe tomatoes on his bushes. This is very good for that township, but how does it compare with Dummer, where Mr. John Clements has been picking berries, both red and white, every week lately, and now has a crop in blossom and in course of ripening?

Although it is getting late in the season for fish yarns, there is one that has gained a large circulation to the effect that two local gentlemen paddled up to Quarry Lake one day last week and returned in a few hours with five 'lunge, which, when weighed, averaged eight pounds. This is a true story, but if you don't believe it, ask Mr. Jos. Edwards or Dr. Munro.

The new Ross rifles recently issued to the Warsaw Rifle Association arrived on Friday and are in the hands of the members. Preparations are being made for the annual three day matches, which will be held shortly.

Mr. Thomas Wilson, who recently sold out here, has purchased a residence and blacksmith shop at Buckhorn. Mr. Wilson and family move on Thursday.

Boys Of The Grove, Lakefield Hold Picnic At Sandy Point

Pleasant Autumn Day Spent With Nature—Go by Steamer Stoney Lake

GAMES PLAYED ON SHORE

Examiner Special

Lakefield, Sept. 30.—On Tuesday a most enjoyable picnic was indulged in at Sandy Bay, Clear Lake, by the boys of "The Grove," Lakefield, and by those who through the kindness of the Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, had the pleasure of joining the party on the "Stony Lake." On Monday, when the long drought gave way to a violent storm of wind and rain, the outlook was anything but hopeful; at midnight, however, when there was a remarkably fine display of the Northern Lights, the weather took a cooler turn and Tuesday was bright and reasonable. Starting from Lakefield wharf at 9.30 a short stop was made at Fairy Lake, off Stony Lake, whence the steamer returned to Clear Lake. Sandy Bay having been selected as the picnic ground—an ideal spot, certainly, with its glorious tints and good sandy beach for bathing—the latter being enjoyed in spite of the chilly breeze, though, perhaps, the occupants of one canoe would have preferred to choose their own time for their dip. The return trip was made in good time, Lakefield being reached at 5.15, thus bringing to a close a most successful day's outing. The coolness of the atmosphere added considerably to the pleasure of the games indulged in on board the steamer, and the rain had successfully extinguished the forest fires, thus adding the lakes of the pall of smoke which had been overhanging them for so many days.

THE WIND STORM OF MONDAY PLAYS HAVOC WITH THE TELEPHONE LINES

Examiner Special

Warsaw, Sept. 30. — The terrific winds of Monday evening played havoc with the telephone lines. The lines to Lakefield and those to Stony Lake were put out of business by trees and limbs falling over them, in most cases causing breaks. Not only was the line of talk shut off, but the highway on the boundary between Dummer and Douro was blocked with trees to such an extent that half a dozen men spent half a day clearing away the debris. Several narrow escapes are reported from different sections, and in many cases the glass was blown out of the window sashes. In one instance a large light in a door was carried with terrific force across a room, and large sections imbedded in the plastering. A lady who happened to be in the room narrowly escaped being struck full in the face with flying splinters.

Mr. H J McManus suffered considerable loss by having the roof of his stable lifted off and carried some distance by the gale. A pile of lumber near by was scattered broadcast over his farm.

A little girl of about 12 years, who was returning home from school here and took a short cut, was struck by the storm in an open field and was blown about, unable to choose her course until the wind and rain had ceased. Fortunately no obstruction presented itself or serious injury might have been done the child.

Miss Sarah Martin spent Sunday at her home in Scharbot Lake.

Mr. Harry Toman, who is taking Mr. Chiles' place on yard engine at Peterborough, was home over Sunday.

We are sorry to report the illness of Mrs. (Rev.) H Caplan.

Fire again visited Havelock on Saturday evening about 7.30, at the west end of the town, Mr. Jake Reid's house being burned to the ground; cause not exactly known, ... and had a raging fire on. Contents of house, with the exception of a few things down stairs were all destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $1,200.00 with only a very small insurance. The bucket brigade turned out in full force as usual, and saved the buildings on either side. Had the night not been very calm, the loss would indeed have been great. It is being learned by the townspeople that the one thing that Havelock is very badly in need of is fire protection.

Rev. Mr. Adams of Norwood, conducted the services in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening.

Miss Lizzie Heathall has taken the organ in the Methodist church in the absence of the organist Mrs. Roy Campsey, who is under quarantine.

Mr. Jas. E Thompson, M.P.P., has decided to build a large building on the lot between the stove and that of Mr. Jas. E Watson. This will be used, part by Mr. McGregor, of Peterborough, who will open up a large confectionery store, and the other part will be used by Mr. Kenneth McKay, of town, as a gentlemen's furnishing department. These two are greatly needed in Havelock, especially since the big fire, which destroyed so many stores.

Mr. S S Joyce's large brick building is being rushed right along and will soon be completed. Mr. Joyce intends putting in boots and shoes and also a line of gentleman's furnishings.

Mr. E A Tanner, of Lakefield, Liberal candidate for East Peterborough, arrived in town on Monday, and was met with enthusiastic receptions.

Mr. Wilmot Herrington and family leave on Tuesday for West Toronto, where they will reside in future. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Treadeau intend moving to West Toronto also in a week or two.

Mr. Herrington and Mr. Treadeau have both been changed from this point, to run from Toronto to Bradbury. Their many friends, although sorry to hear of their departure, wish them every success and prosperity in their new homes.

A Committee Appointed To Formulate Plans For An Independent System

Stewart's Settlement, Otonabee, will in all probability have an independent telephone system connecting it with Peterborough and the outside world. Last night a meeting was held at Stewart's Hall, called by Dr. McClelland of Peterborough, and the question was discussed thoroughly by those present.

It was practically decided that an independent system would be undertaken by the farmers there, and a committee consisting of Messrs. E. Deyell, Wm. Stewart, Bruce Savigny, Fred Stewart and Mr. Gibbs, and one or two more prominent farmers of the neighbourhood, was appointed to formulate plans with a view to constructing the line.

ENGINEERS CONQUER MANY NATURAL OBSTACLES IN CONSTRUCTING G.T.P.

Deep Cuts Through Rock Sections, Small Lakes and Swamps Retard the Progress of the Work —Grade is an Easy One

THE SUPPLIES BROUGHT IN

Mr. Holden Blackwell, son of Mr. W. Blackwell, architect, has returned to the city after spending the summer on the engineering staff of the Transcontinental Railway. He will leave in a few days for Toronto to resume his studies at the School of Practical Science, where he is taking a course in Civil Engineering. He has been engaged on the new railway since May 1 on the section near Rennie, the point where the C. P. R. is crossed.

One of the most difficult parts of the road is now being laid. It is all east of Winnipeg, and after Rennie is passed the work is almost entirely through a rocky country. As far as Nepigon this part is almost all of the same character. Heavy cuts have to be made, and these are scattered all along the line with swamps, which are known as "muskegs."

The Order of Work

The work is done in the following order: The bush is first cut off (all of which has been done); then the line is graded, and it is in this work that the great difficulties are experienced, and of course the most time must be expended; the steel-laying follows, and then comes the ballast work. The final operations are the laying of sidings, building of stations, and erecting of the telegraph lines. The grade of the G.T.P. Railway has been made very easy, in fact it is said much better than the C. P. R. The continual work of cutting the way through the rock has retarded the progress to a great extent, and this is heightened by the swamps which have to be filled in. The roadbed through these is constructed of rock and earth, and a similar plan is followed in the crossing of the smaller lakes with which the country is dotted. This has been done in many cases, as it was considered better and cheaper to make the direct line across. The economical operation of the line was also aimed at in the elimination of difficult grades.

Other Difficulties

The nearest point on the C.P.R. to the section where Mr. Blackwell was located is Ingolf, a distance of eight miles from the G. T. P. line. The bringing in of supplies from the nearest point on the C.P.R. is another of the great difficulties which has to be coped with. The heists, small engines, derricks, dynamite, and all the necessaries connected with the work have to be drawn over the newly-made roads through the woods. They are called "tote roads," and are very similar to the old corduroys. The progress of the construction is most interesting, particularly to see the rails being laid end to end, forming the railway which promises so much for the still undeveloped parts of Ontario and the other Provinces through which it will pass. The grading is carried on day and night, gasoline torches and lights being used to enable the work to be proceeded with during the hours of darkness. There are few settlers in that country, and in some parts none at all are seen. Sidings are being placed at regular intervals along the road, and the stations, water tanks, etc., are in course of construction.

A FAMOUS TELESCOPE MANUFACTURER WILL LECTURE IN THE CITY

Rev. Dr. Marsh, president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, Peterborough centre, received a letter yesterday from Mr. Warner, the manufacturer of the greatest telescopes in the world, stating definitely that he would come to Peterborough on Nov. 17th, and will lecture before the above society on that date. This will give the people of this city an opportunity of hearing one of the ablest men in the country, and a capacious hall will be secured as there will undoubtedly be a large crowd present to hear him. Further particulars will be announced at a later date.

POPULATION OF THE CITY HAS INCREASED

The assessors' returns show a total increase in population of 1491. Last year the figures for the total population of the city were 16,000; now they are 16,491. In 1906 the population was 14,962; thus in two years the increase amounts to 1,529. The latest returns show an increase that is less than half that shown by the assessors' returns last year.

He came to Winnipeg in 1876.

MOOREHOUSE'S COMET SEEN BY DR. MARSH AND LOCATED BY HIM

Rev. Dr. Marsh reported having seen Moorehouse's comet last night in right ascension, 21 hours 9 minutes and in north declination 11 degrees 28 inches. It is too faint to be seen by any instrument less powerful than a three or four inch telescope. The comet will be seen at nine o'clock to-night, directly north and 18 degrees higher than the north star.

THE CONS. SEE-SAW

SEVENTEEN YEAR OLD BOY WAS BRUTALLY ASSAULTED BY AN UNKNOWN THUG; HE LAY UNCONSCIOUS FOR OVER THREE HOURS

Raymond Perry Sand-Bagged on Aylmer Street Last Night—Was Robbed Of His Watch by His Assailant

THE AFFAIR IS A MYSTERY

To be sand-bagged within a few yards of his own home, to lie unconscious for three hours in an alleyway while hundreds of people passed close by, coming to his senses to find his pockets ransacked and his watch gone, was the terrible experience last night of seventeen-year-old Raymond Perry, son of Mrs. M E Perry, 251 Hunter street. The identity of the assailant is unknown, in fact the whole case is a mystery to the police. Even the motive that would lead to such a brutal assault upon a boy is not easy to see and the fact that the crime was committed at 7 o'clock in the evening on a street on which the traffic is notably heavy, adds to the mystery which hangs over the case.

As far as could be learned by the Examiner no reason save that of robbery can be assigned for the assault. Young Perry left his home shortly before seven o'clock last evening to take some collars to the Chinese laundry situated just across the road from where he lives. Having attended to this errand he says that he decided to take a little walk before returning home and accordingly turned north on Aylmer street. As he was walking slowly along near Brightman's tannery, half way between Hunter and Brock streets, he states that he was suddenly struck heavily from behind by some blunt instrument, behind the right ear and remembered nothing more until he was carried into Dr. Leach's surgery some three hours later.

Dragged along Alleyway

It is not very dark at the spot where the assault was committed and the assailant was evidently not afraid of taking any chances. He was evidently lying in wait in the obscurity of the alleyway near the tannery, and as young Perry came along stole up behind him and knocked him unconscious. He then dragged his victim along the alleyway to a spot behind the tannery and after going through his clothes and taking his watch and fob which was the only thing of value upon his person, he made good his escape, leaving the unconscious boy to lie there. Meanwhile there was anxiety at the boy's home. When he did not return it was supposed that he had gone up street, but when nine o'clock came his brother went out to look for him, but failed to find any trace. It was not until twenty minutes after ten o'clock that they heard of the assault.

It appears that shortly after ten o'clock Mr. H L Tar Bush, of Toronto, a commercial traveller, who was staying at the Oriental Hotel, happened to be passing along Aylmer street. As he reached the mouth of the alleyway a young lady coming along the other way stopped and said, "There's someone hurt in there," and he heard somebody moaning. Mr. Tar Bush entered the alleyway and found young Perry there in a semi-conscious condition unable to tell what had happened to him. With the assistance of another passer-by he picked up the unfortunate boy and carried him around the corner

BOYS RODE BAREBACK AND ONE OF THEM WAS BADLY INJURED

Gordon Maniece, the little son of Mr. Robt. Maniece, East City, was rather seriously injured on Wednesday by falling off a horse's back. In company with his cousin, a son of Mr. Thos. B. Maniece, he was taking the horse to the river to water it. Both rode on horseback, with Gordon sitting behind, so that when the steed began to run he fell off, and his young friend on top of him. He was rather badly hurt at the time, but no very serious results are anticipated.

Almost A Death Results From Burning Of Valuable Barn

A serious fire occurred in Newtonville early on Tuesday morning as a result of which Geo. Payne's stable was destroyed along with the valuable contents, including a horse worth $150. The building was owned by Mrs. Milligan of Newtonville and was worth $1,200, insured in the Guardian Company. Three horses were saved. A heavy thunderstorm broke over the village, and in the midst of the storm lightning struck Mr. Payne's barn. Mr. Will Rutherford, in the structure at the time, was all but killed by the electric fluid, and a horse quite near him was struck dead. While in a semi-conscious condition another horse kicked him severely about the head and body while only the uppertune arrival of a party saved the man's life.

It was with the greatest difficulty that the other buildings were saved, they being only ten feet from the blazing barn. The contents were insured in the Monarch Company.

Young Elora Grocer Figures In Breach Of Promise Case

A writ for $20,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage was on Wednesday served on Roland Boswell, of Elora, the complainant in the case being Miss Wilhelmina Cummings, of Union street, Toronto.

The circumstances will be well remembered. On June 30th last Boswell was to have married Miss Cummings. All preparations had been made, the bridal party were at the brides home in West Toronto waiting for Boswell. The minister, Rev. Mr. Hazelwood, was ready to perform the ceremony. But Boswell never came. Later it was found that he had left the city on the day on which the wedding was to have taken place with a party for England on one of the Cuthbert's tours.

He has just returned from the trip and Miss Cummings has immediately taken steps to recompense herself for the damage to her feelings occasioned by Boswell's desertion.

The nature of the defaulting bridegroom's conduct caused much indignation at the time. No reason could be found for it. Miss Cummings being an attractive lady of twenty-one while Boswell was only twenty-two years of age.

He has plenty of money, it is said, and, in fact, has a cot endowed in his name in the Sick Children's Hospital.

Boswell spent a few hours in Peterborough visiting friends, leaving here with the Cuthbert party for the old land.

The City's Population Takes Another Forward Stride In Spite Of Adverse Circumstances

Assessor's Returns Shows Increase in Assessment and in Many Other Departments — Every Department On the Jump

AN ENCOURAGING SHOWING

A glance at the assessors' returns shows that the city during the past year has been forging ahead. The progress was not so pronounced as that made a year ago; in other words, the boom experienced at that time has diminished to a slight extent, but the figures are still favourable and encouraging. With all the openings in the West and the other new parts of the country which are calling many of our best citizens, particularly among the young men, the city has more than held its own. In every department there has been an increase, even to the number of dogs. Despite the severe law against tagless canines which, it was understood, would greatly deplete their numbers, the dogs have increased. Those accounted for, however, have the necessary tags which give them permission to remain in existence.

The fact that Peterborough's population has been swelled by 491 persons is certainly a good showing, and with a reawakening of the times in the near future the city should grow at a much faster rate.

The total assessment is over ten millions, and is in excess of the unrevised total assessment of last year. It will be remembered the Court of Revision knocked off a considerable sum from that total as a result of protests from many of the citizens.

The recapitulation given herewith shows a decrease in the estimation of the value of buildings, while the land is placed at a higher figure.

The re-division of the wards gave the assessors some trouble, but in future years this will not likely be experienced. The West Ward at present has the largest share of the population, while, as might be expected, the Central Ward has the highest figures in the business and income

Vito Spino Is Innocent Of The Charge Of Stabbing A Countryman At Fenelon

Examiner Special

Lindsay, Oct. 2.—Vito Spino, an Italian who was charged with stabbing a fellow countryman named Patsi Marcaretti at Fenelon Falls some days ago, was discharged by Judge Harding to-day after a lengthy trial. It was proven that Spino was not the man who did the stabbing, and that the real culprit mingled with the crowd at the time and escaped. The injured man got out of the hospital only the other day, a fact, such having been inflicted in his stomach.

GAS LEAKED FROM COAL STOVE WHILE FAMILY WERE SLEEPING

Four of Children Overcome By Fumes When They Arose in the Morning — Cause Due To No Coal In The Feeder—A Narrow Escape

THE FIRST OF THE SEASON

As regular as the cold season itself comes, the stories of the narrow escapes of families from asphyxiation by coal gas and probably the first to be recorded for this autumn is that of several of the members of Mr. Alex Reid's family, 715 George street. Yesterday morning when Miss Annie Reid arose from her bed she was overcome by gas when she attempted to stand on the floor. Her sister called for help and was herself under the influence of the fumes. One of the brothers rushed into the room and attempted to lift his sister, but was, for the time rendered powerless, seeming unable to exert his strength. Another brother, Robert, came to the rescue, making straight for the window which he meant to raise. For a time he was unable to do so as the heavy fumes acted upon him.

It was a predicament which for the time being looked very dangerous. The boys finally succeeded in relieving the situation but after considerable difficulty. The father, Mr. Alex Reid was not in the house at the time, having gone out shortly before to meet an early train. He had noticed the odour of gas but the room was in a part of the house more remote from the stove from which the gas had leaked. Mrs. Reid was not at home, having just returned today from visiting friends out of the city.

The Cause

The cause of the escape of the gas is explained by a small fire having been made in a coal stove in the front of the house. It was mainly to drive off the chill of the October weather and the feeder had not been filled. The gas therefore went up through the feeder and easily leaked through the crown to the room, when it went on and upwards to the second story.

The family have all recovered from the experience but they will not soon forget it.

CHOCOLATES UPSET FROM THE AUTO CAR

The small boy with the sweet tooth was very much in evidence about one o'clock to-day at the corner of Charlotte and George streets. Mr. Geo. Stevens was turning the corner in his automobile, when accidentally a pail of chocolates upset from the car and spilled all over the road. The boys were on hand immediately and stuffed their pockets with the saccharine goods.

THE BLOWING OUT OF A CYLINDER HEAD DELAYS THE TRAIN

As a result of the blowing out of a cylinder head on the Grand Trunk flyer last night, that train did not arrive in the city until about 12 o'clock. It is due here at 10.15. The accident occurred near Markham.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to meet with us on these occasions.

A Purse Containing Seven Or Eight Dollars Lost In River

There is possibly nothing so disconcerting as to see your own pocketbook and money go floating down stream, and you in a helpless condition to recapture them. Such was the unlucky experience of an East City woman this morning, who while crossing the Hunter street bridge, dropped her purse in the Otonabee River. It contained between $7 and $8. The lady's brother was present and both walked down the C. P. R. siding to attempt to recover the lost.

Miss Johnson Displays One of the Many Uses of the Chafing Dish —Classes Now Begin Regular Courses of Lessons

THE ATTENDANCE LARGE

The autumn term of the Y. W. C. A. School of Cookery was opened last night by an introductory demonstration which was witnessed by a large number of ladies. The gymnasium had but little room to spare as well was the opening display attended. It served to impress upon those interested in the science of all branches of food preparation, the work which is undertaken by this course of instruction, and will be thoroughly taught by the instructor, Miss Johnson, graduate of the Mechanics' Institute, Rochester, N.Y.

JUBILEE POINT CLOSED FOR SEASON

Mr. J. J. Gilman Returns to the City After Good Season.

Mr. J. J. Gilman, proprietor of the hotel at Jubilee Point, was in the city this afternoon and states that he has closed up the house for the season. He wishes to make this announcement so that those who make the week-end trips to the Lake will not expect to find him still prepared for them. Mr. Gilman states that he has had a very good season, and will in all probability be at the Point when the season opens next spring.

GOOD READING.

On another page of this issue is presented the second address to the electors by Hon. Mr. Stratton, Government candidate in this contest. In his first address he indicated in more or less detail what was accomplished to the advantage of West Peterborough by Liberal Governments under Liberal representatives. In his second address he sets forth in bare outline—the vast extent of accomplishment forbids detail—the record of what the Liberal Government has done to promote the prosperity and effect the upbuilding of Canada and its advance to the status of nationhood. It is shown that under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. That it found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; finances in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. It shows that all these things were changed under the Liberal Government; that the tide of prosperity began to rise; that the revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. It shows that this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada two hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country.

The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, should be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

Under these circumstances Mr. Stratton as a supporter of such a Government of progress, is justified in appealing to the hearty support of the electors of West Peterborough, West Peterborough wants a live representative to support a live Government and bring its claims for Government consideration persistently to the notice of the parliament and administration of the country.

VOTE FOR STRATTON AND A GOVERNMENT OF PROGRESS AND PERFORMANCE.

THE LAND FOR THE SETTLER.

On the first day of the present month there were thrown open by the Government for settlement nearly nineteen and a half million acres of land, being the surveyed portion of odd-numbered sections, amounting to thirty-one and a half million acres, reverting to the country from the reserve set apart by the Conservative Government to satisfy its lavish railway grants.

What has been the result? Did the homeseekers in the west act as though they believed the stories told by Mr. Borden and Mr. Roblin in Eastern Canada, and by Mr. Ames in the west? Did they behave as though the public domain, under the Laurier Government, was held for the speculator, and that it was of no use for the bona fide settler to expect a square deal at its hands in the distribution of public lands? Not at all. All through the night preceding Sept. 1, at the doors of all the Dominion lands offices in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, hundreds of men stood in line, many of whom had travelled great distances, not to see the land parcelled out to a privileged few, but because they were convinced they would be justly dealt with, each in his turn, according to his place in the line. Could any fairer plan be devised? So satisfied are the settlers with it that on every day this month the Dominion lands offices have been kept busy dealing with the applicants for free homesteads or homesteads at the fixed statutory price of $3 per acre in the new areas thrown open for homesteading. The result has been that during the first half of the month one million acres of land in the three provinces passed from the possession of the Government into the ownership of farmers. If the Government were composed of men such as pictured by the chief speakers at the Opera House on Friday night, surely in the reversion of these millions of acres of land was a chance to realise millions of dollars for private pockets.

The policy of the present Government means fraud or crooked dealing of any kind impossible, as it completely shuts out the speculator from the lands, and secures them to actual settlers. First choice is given to new homesteaders, and when these have been satisfied the lands remaining are procurable by purchase, at the statutory price of $3 an acre by men who have already homesteaded, and who must fulfil settlement conditions before they can acquire title. It will thus be seen how completely these odd-numbered sections are placed beyond the reach of the speculator and, the grafter.

While the Conservative Government set apart the immense area of over 64,000,000 acres, from which nearly 32,000,000 of railway land grants were to be picked, the Liberals, since being in power have not given an acre of land to any railway, their policy being that as the land belongs to the people it should be reserved for the people.

INCOME AND OUTGO.

The Liberal party viewed with alarm the growing expenditure in 1896, for the reason that the public debt was increasing, and there was no proportionate augmentation of revenue. The attitude of the Liberal party was that having regard to a revenue of $33,978,129, the Conservative Government had no right to expend $38,122,005, thus creating a deficit of $4,153,875, as was the case in 1894-5.

The policy of the Conservative Government was based upon such unsound and unsatisfactory principles that the revenue in 1896 was less by $3,000,000 than it was in 1889-90, with no diminution in expenditure and an excessive rate of taxation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised, if returned to power, to remedy the evil which led to this condition of affairs. Speaking at Toronto, on February 6, 1895, he said:

"We want a revenue tariff, a tariff not based upon principles of protection, but simply calculated to give the greatest amount of revenue with the minimum of taxation. This is the policy we have in view."

The Liberals promised, if returned to power, that they would design a tariff that would produce a revenue. In 1896 the total revenue of Canada was $3,000,000 less than it was in 1889, and the public debt was over $40,000,000. It had been found necessary by the Conservatives to borrow money to pay the ordinary expenses of the country. The public debt had been piling up year by year, and the time had arrived to change the Government. The people were promised an increase in revenue, and this is how the Liberals kept their promises:

In 1896 the total revenue of the country under Conservatives was $36,618,590.

Under Liberal rule this was exceeded:

In	1897 by	$ 1,211,188
In	1898 by	3,936,648
In	1899 by	10,122,650
In	1900 by	14,411,404
In	1901 by	15,896,111
In	1902 by	21,432,200
In	1903 by	29,418,478
In	1904 by	34,051,226
In	1905 by	34,564,182
In	1906 by	43,520,770
In	1907 (9 months) by	31,350,738
In	1908 by	50,881,410

The total revenue in 1896, after the Conservatives had been in power eighteen years was $36,618,590.

The total revenue in 1908, after the Liberals had been in power twelve years, was $96,500,000.

THE EXCESS OF REVENUE IN 1908 OVER 1896 WAS $59,881,410.

In 1896, the total revenue from excise was $500,000 less than it was in 1893. It amounted to $8,034,877.

Under Liberal rule this was exceeded:

In	1897 by	$ 1,254,603
In	1898 (no excess)
In	1899 by	1,768,193
In	1900 by	2,019,090
In	1901 by	2,577,200
In	1902 by	3,422,813
In	1903 by	4,368,089
In	1904 by	5,300,501
In	1905 by	11,902,252
In	1906 by	6,401,480
In	1907 (9 months) by	4,063,569
In	1908 by	8,219,563

The total revenue from excise in 1896, after eighteen years of Conservative rule, was $8,034,077.

The total revenue from excise in 1908, after twelve years of Liberal rule, was $16,253,640.

THE EXCESS OF REVENUE FROM EXCISE IN 1908 OVER 1896, WAS $8,219,563.

In twelve years the revenue from excise more than doubled. It was twice as great in 1908 as it was in 1896.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised not only to increase the revenue, but to reduce the rate of taxation, and the tariff was ultimately designed to accomplish this result. How successfully this was done the following official figures will demonstrate.

Average rate of customs taxation in 1896 (last year of Conservative rule), $18.38.

Average rate of customs taxation in 1906, under Liberal rule, $15.88.

This means that the Liberal reduction of the Conservative taxation is equivalent to 13 per cent.

The Liberal Government has effected a reduction in the rate of duty and taxation. On all goods entering Canada for home consumption, the average rate of duty in 1896 was 18.38 per cent., and in 1907 it was 15.66 per cent., a reduction of 2.62 per cent. In other words THE LIBERALS REDUCED TAXATION $2.55 UPON EVERY $100 OF GOODS ENTERED FOR HOME CONSUMPTION.

On dutiable imports, the average rate in 1896 was 29.97 per cent., and in 1907 it was 26.33 per cent., a reduction of $3.64 per cent. In other words, THE LIBERALS REDUCED TAXATION $3.64 UPON EVERY $100 OF GOODS IMPORTED.

On the total imports in 1896 the average rate was 19.12 per cent., and in 1907 it was 16.03 per cent., a reduction of 3.09 per cent. In other words, THE LIBERALS REDUCED TAXATION $3.09 UPON EVERY $100 OF GOODS ENTERING CANADA.

The above figures prove that although taxation was reduced, the revenue increased. This was an exact fulfillment of the pledge made to the people in 1895, TO INCREASE THE REVENUE WITHOUT ADDING TO THE BURDEN OF TAXATION.

The Liberal Government stimulated the revenue without adding any thing to the public burden, but on the contrary bringing about the reductions indicated above.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The rum-ble of discontent with the Liberal Government comes from Colchester.

Mr. R P. Roblin, who spoke in the Opera House here, has used his voice with so much recklessness—as he does his facts—that his physicians say he is threatened with paralysis of his voice. His conscience was paralyzed long ago.

Ladies, have you ever been at a quilting party? If you have, you will know that while some women get their frames full when the breaking up time comes, others only have done some part; and when you ask "why," you will find out that it is because they have been gossiping instead of having worked. The Laurier Administration quilts all the time, while the Opposition gossips. Which do you prefer? A Government which does things, or an Opposition which does nothing but call names?"—Hon. Geo. P. Graham.

A SEVENTEEN YEAR OLD BOY BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

to Dr. Leach's surgery on Hunter street where he was soon revived and taken to his home. He was not only badly shaken up by the blow which left a lump behind the right ear, but he was stiff with the cold as well, having lain unconscious for three hours.

Robber's Probable Theory

When found it was noticed that the boy's pockets had been ransacked and an investigation disclosed the fact that his silver watch and chain were missing, while some papers which were in his pockets had been taken out and torn in two. It is thought by his relatives that the assailant had supposed that Perry was carrying some money. He was in the employ of Mr. Bradshaw, the Charlotte street grocer, and sometimes locked the store up at night, and it is supposed that the thug thought that he was in the habit of carrying the money home instead of leaving it in the till over night. The unfortunate boy is still very ill as a result of his experience and is confined to his bed to-day although he has recovered consciousness and is able to talk of the assault. He states that he saw or heard no one approaching him and that the first intimation that he was being attacked was when he was struck on the head.

The police were notified and are working on the case.

ARE THE DEAD ALIVE?

In the October Delineator there begins a remarkable account of what has been done to date by various scientists working in various countries to unravel the mystery of life as it is revealed to us by the agency of death. Do the dead really live? You are confronted by a subtle question here. Strange things are happening — no doubt have been happening these thousands of years, but only now man is beginning to get a faint understanding of what they mean. Telepathy, clairvoyance, clairaudience, trance and spirit writing, dual personality, possession, levitation, materialization — these are strange and new terms to which is being added an even stranger and newer significance.

We are living in a time when brick and stone are not near as solid and impenetrable as they used to be, and space is not nearly so empty. The clouds are hardly more evanescent than we, and our houses and the things which we consider so solid and durable are as shadows only. All the world is awakening to the idea that force is the great thing — a strange, great ocean of unknown force, which storms and rages about us. And man, on his little planet, is like a sailor in a little boat, or a bird in the ocean of the air. Whither cages he? Where does he go?

Scientists are asking this question, but not in the old way! Now they watch and weigh and prepare tests and set traps in a subtle effort to surprise the Great Artificer at His work and to make Him reveal how it is done. That it is for which they are striving. That it is for which you and I are awaiting their reports. We want to know how it is done.

Your hens will lay better if free from lice. Empire Poultry Duster is guaranteed to do it. No trouble to use. Ask your dealer about it. 25 cents package.

IS SOUTH WARD THE HEALTHIEST?

Assessor's Returns Certainly Point to That Fact.

Is the South Ward the healthiest part of the city? The vital statistics as shown by the assessors' returns would lead one to believe so, for the death rate is considerably lower than that in any of the other wards and at the same time the birth rate heads the list. It may be seen that the South Ward is doing its share in increasing the city's population and having almost the largest percentage of the people, still has only registered against it the small showing of three deaths.

The table is as follows:

	Births.	Deaths.
South Ward	30	3
North Ward	32	19
West Ward	34	7
Centre Ward	17	6
East Ward	31	5

Mr. Stratton's Lakehurst Meeting Attracts Big Crowd

Splendid Addresses on Political Questions of the Day by Mr. F. D. Kerr and Hon. Mr. Stratton—Hall at Lakehurst Well Filled Last Night

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the electors of South Harvey was held on Thursday evening in the Township Hall at Lakehurst. Mr. Stratton and Mr. F D Kerr addressed the meeting, and their addresses were listened to with close attention, the hall being crowded to the doors and the audience including nearly all the electors of the district.

Mr. Archie Wilson acted as chairman and expressed the pleasure the people of the vicinity felt in having an opportunity of hearing the questions of the day discussed, by men capable of discussing them. He was certain that Mr. Stratton occupied as warm a place in the hearts of his friends as he had when he formerly represented the riding. He appealed to everyone who was anxious for public improvements, who wanted to see things done, who wished to see good Government continued in Canada, to put forth their best efforts between now and election day to secure Mr. Stratton's election. He then introduced who was very cordially received. He had had the pleasure of appearing before them some years ago, in Mr. Stratton's last election contest and he was glad to see that he had as many friends as ever, and that the same enthusiasm prevailed. The policy of the Conservative candidate was entirely one of personal attack. But the difficulty with that plan of campaign was that everyone knew Mr. Stratton well, and no one knew Mr. Buchanan. No intelligent man after reading this address to the electors could have any doubt that he was not the proper representative to send to Ottawa. You would think to read it that the people did not know what was in their own best interests. He had denounced the Government for opening up lands in the Northwest, saying that Ontario was only half populated, and that Ontario farms were not increasing in value. Sir John Macdonald had said that in the West there was a great heritage, and the Liberal Government had recognized the importance of developing it to the fullest extent, to make homes for young Canadians, who had under the former Government been pouring into the United States. The result was an immense increase in trade with the mother country, due to the increased transportation facilities that had been provided. Thousands of acres of land were still awaiting the settler, and the Government, in spite of Opposition statements to the contrary, was saving the land for the settler, and had never given away an acre of land that could be fitly used for settlement purposes, except to the bona fide settler. Contrast the policy of the Conservative Government and the C. P. R. with the policy of the Liberals in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific. Sir John Macdonald had given away millions of acres of good western lands, while the Liberal Administration, believing that it should be kept for the Canadians, who would one day want to occupy it, had not given an acre to railways. In 1896 our total foreign trade with all countries was only 239 millions, to-day it has increased to the enormous amount of 650 millions. Our total exports in 1896 were 121 millions, while in 1908, after twelve years of Liberal Administration, they had increased to 280 millions. Mr. Kerr pointed out that although the West had been opened up, and the condition of the settler had been greatly improved, Ontario had not suffered in that respect, either. Any of the people he was addressing would appreciate the added comforts and conveniences they had now, as compared with a decade ago. He closed an interesting address with the reminder that it was in the best interests of every elector and every citizne of Canada to see that the Government was supported by capable men, such as Mr. Stratton had proved himself to be. (Cheers.)

Mr Stratton

on rising to address the electors was greeted with hearty applause. He expressed the great pleasure he felt at the presence of so many ladies. He was sure that, the ladies being on his side, the election was already won. It was always a great pleasure to find on re-visiting a locality that one's old friends were still ready with a welcome. They would all appreciate that there should be a representative elected who would not only do the best he could for the riding, but who would be a supporter of the best Government Canada had ever seen. Canada was a country that required thoughtful and progressive administration. Few people appreciated the fact that each of its Provinces was as large as most of the nations of Europe. The policy of slander and abuse of the Opposition was very unsatisfactory to intelligent people, who were interested in seeing that the country was well and capably governed. The progress made in connection with the Trent Valley Canal was an instance of the progressiveness of the Liberal Government. Under the Conservative Administration the total expenditure on the canal was $989,000, or at the rate of $52,166 a year, while in the last twelve years the amount spent had been the large sum of $3,889,000, or $324,085 per year. He referred to the fact that with the completing of this canal a great stretch of beautiful waters would be available for navigation purposes. They were already known to the angler and the sportsman, and he hoped to see the establishment of a fish hatchery at Peterborough before many years roll around, to assist in the maintenance of this sport, and in the development of the Kawartha Lakes as a fisherman's resort. Over 16 millions had been spent in the state of Maine last year by United States sportsmen, and there was no reason why this region, which was acknowledged to be quite as beautiful, if not more so, should not have the same patronage. It was necessary to keep the waters replenished, and it was desirable that some better means of propagation and re-stocking should be adopted. He trusted that he would have the opportunity of seeing that this was accomplished. He dwelt on the progress and prosperity that the country had experienced under Liberal rule. The total imports and exports had immensely increased, and the total foreign trade had shown a tremendous improvement, as had also the trade with Great Britain alone. The products of the mine, of the forest, of the fisheries and all branches of manufacture had increased many fold. The progress of manufacturing industries was particularly worthy of notice, and the increased capital necessary to keep the manufactures of the country in operation, as well as the employment of labour was a proof of the great advantage the country was deriving from the Government's policy of development. The wages paid to employees in factories had been increased, and provision was made in all contracts to force the contractor to pay the wages payable in the locality. All this had tended greatly to increase the population, which had advanced from two millions in 1896 to seven millions in 1907. The National Policy had certainly not added to the growth of the country, nor had it made them rich. The tariff policy had also been formed in the public interest. In many instances articles had been placed on the free list that were of daily necessity to the farmer, the labourer, and the manufacturer. The duties on iron and steel, which formed the staple of many industries, had been reduced. The preference to Great Britain had increased our trade over the rest of the world. Canada's exports of butter to England exceed those of the United States and Denmark many times over. He believed that the people recognized and appreciated to the fullest extent that the various interests of Canada necessitated and demanded a fiscal policy framed, as far as possible, in a spirit of moderation, and one adapted as well to distribute the burdens of taxation, as well as the benefit arising therefrom, as equally as possible. Mr. Stratton closed an altogether interesting address by pointing out many local improvements that were required, but had not been given attention. The telephone service should be extended from Buckhorn to Lakehurst. There was certain dredging required in the neighbourhood that would improve navigation and help the district of South Harvey. There were many things that the people appreciated could be done, and a representative should be elected who was able to give his best efforts in looking after the interests of that part of the riding, the county, and the Dominion as a whole. (Cheers.)

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER

As might be expected the Peterborough Camera Club is developing well.

It was rather cruel of the Dominion Government to fix upon November 9th as Thanksgiving Day. The Conservatives will have nothing to be thankful for by that time.

John Henniker Heaton, M.P., says that the value of every Irish immigrant to America is at least $1,250. Well, a good policeman is no doubt worth that much.

Jack the Hugger is at work in Kingston. Poor misguided man, or, perhaps, alas, he's blind.

A Bainsville man accuses his father of arson. Strange, it is generally the son that makes a hot time around the house.

Why, of course, Carrie Nation is a tailoress. She makes the saloon keepers close.

Most married women if they do not choose their husbands' clothes at least pick the pockets.

The farmers have performed a remarkable operation on Toronto by cutting off the city's milk.

Presidential Candidate Taft, while talking a constitutional the other day collided with a peddler, knocking him over. As he stopped to pick up his wares, he grumbled to himself, "And yet they say these dirigible balloons have been perfected."

Sporting Comment

The Rough Riders will hold a meeting to-night at the Royal Bank at 8 o'clock to elect officers.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

Fritz Mohl Confident Of Victory; Everything In Readiness For The Big Wrestling Match To-night

Fritz Mohl arrived at noon to-day looking fit and well and confident of victory over Gene Hurtubise in to-night's big battle at Brock street rink over which there has been so much discussion during the past week. Mohl bears no traces of the recent hard battles that he has gone through and says that he never was in better shape. He certainly looks the part and there is no doubt that Gene will have a terrific struggle with the German giant.

It will be a grand match and the lovers of the mat game cannot afford to overlook what promises to be the most scientific and strenuous engagement seen here this year. The opinion on the fans as to the result seems to be about evenly divided but the general feeling is that if Gene does not win he will not be defeated without making herculean efforts to overthrow the Buffalo expert.

Tommy Daly the Brantford boxer arrived last night and says that he is in good shape for his four round bout with Corney Burns to-night in the principal preliminary. Daly looks to be in good shape and will extend Corney to the limit. Burns is in condition and will open the eyes of the fans to-night.

The other bouts between Geo. Lillie and Kid Turner and Ken Morris and Fred Sullivan will be lively affairs and altogether the crowd will have a great evening's sport. The preliminaries will start at 8.15 o'clock and will be refereed by Mr. G. N. Graham.

FIRST RUGBY GAME OF SEASON AT RIVERSIDE PARK TO-MORROW

The first City League game in Rugby takes place to-morrow afternoon on Riverside Park. It begins at three o'clock and the admission is ten cents. The opposing teams are the Rough Riders and Collegiate Institute, both of which have been practising hard since they decided to enter the game. There should, therefore, be considerable excitement when the two meet each other to-morrow afternoon at Riverside. Mr. R. A. Morrow, who is an enthusiast of the Rugby game, will kick the ball off and officially open the season.

MAY FINISH OUT THE LEAGUE

Peterborough and Belleville May Play for Final of Lacrosse League

There is a possibility that Peterborough and Belleville will yet play off for the championship of the Trent Valley Lacrosse League. The suggestion has been made, and it is understood that the Belleville boys are willing to play the game. The locals should get together and discuss the matter, and if they can work out any proposition that will be suitable to Belleville to communicate with them before the time gets too late. They should advise Belleville as to what they are willing to do regarding the game.

CONKLE SORE ABOUT THE WRESTLING MATCH

The Hamilton Herald says—Charlie Conkle is a little sore over last Friday's wrestling match—not physically sore, but mentally. He says that the Herald was the only paper that gave him any credit for the showing he made against the big fellow, Hurtubise. He blames the manager of the Olympic Club for imposing such a handicap on him. "It was the handicap, not the football giant, that beat me," he said.

Conkle announces that he has sent a challenge to the Peterborough papers for Hurtubise to meet his unknown. He says he has a 170-pound man that he will match against him in an even up bout for $50 or $100.

BASKETBALL.

The Y. M. C. A. Business Boys played off their first game of basket ball last evening, R. Hutchinson's team winning both games. The line-up for the team being: Hutchinson, centre; W. Hastie and R. Hunter, forwards; and Lang and W. Kerr playing defense.

The first game between Hutchinson and E. Hamwell resulted in a score of 4—2 in favour of Hutchison's five. The winners then played A. McWilliams' team with the same result, the score being 6—0, thus making two wins in one evening.

The boys are taking a great interest in the game, and the same teams will line up on Tuesday, this evening after class being given up to the game.

Every Thursday evening, beginning on Oct. 8th and running until Dec. 10th, a series of athletic events will be run off, one event each evening, for which three silver medals have been donated for the first three boys making the highest number of points at the finish. The events are as follows:

50 yards on the track.
220 yards on the track.
One mile on the track.
Running high jump.
Running broad jump.
Standing high jump.
Standing broad jump.
60 yard potato race.
Fence vault.
Eight pound shot put.

This ought to give the boys a great chance to develop along this line and also awaken a spirit of friendly competition.

VITAL STATISTICS FOR MONTH OF SEPTEMBER

The vital statistics as registered at the City Clerk's office for the month of September show an increase in the number of births and deaths and a falling off in the number of marriages as compared with corresponding month last year. Following are the figures:

Births	44	52
Marriages	22	23

THE ST. ANDREWS ARE RAISING A KICK

"Peterborough are showing a very selfish disposition in the Ontario championship games with St. Andrews, winners of the Senior Amateur League of this city. It was arranged to play the first game in Peterborough, the second in Lindsay and if necessary a third in Cobourg. After the Saints' performance in Peterborough, the latter refused to play in Lindsay and wish all games to be played on their own sand pit. The Saints, like good sports, after losing the first to Peterborough, in Peterborough, will go back a week from to-morrow and indeed it is hoped they will trim the poor sports good and proper."—Toronto World.

In connection with the above, "Corney" Burns of the local team, discussed the question with an Examiner reporter this afternoon. "Mr. Atcheson," he said, "manager of the St. Andrews team telephoned to me last Wednesday night about the second game to be played in Lindsay to-day. He said he had his team all ready to go to the Scugog town, but I told him that I did not think we could make enough money up there (on account of the weather at present) to clear expenses. He told me to wait until a week from Saturday and we would play them the second game. He said to me over the 'phone that he would be perfectly satisfied. Now, as far as us wanting to play all the games on "our own sand-pit" is concerned, he is not telling what is the truth, because I wanted to play the second game on their own grounds in Toronto to-morrow, but he told me he did not think there was enough money in it to play the game on account of the other Senior League playing off their final games. But as far as we are concerned about the matter we will play them any time and place they wish to name and will not go behind the fence to say so. It seems very much as though the St. Andrews team are much annoyed over the way they were used up here last Saturday; they are not used to getting such a trimming, but what can they expect when they come up to a good baseball town like Peterborough?"

Engineer Found Dead.

Galt, Oct. 2.—Tobias Andrich of Paris, aged 56, the engineer at the G.V.R. power-house, about eleven miles from Galt, was found dead at his post about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Ordered Strikers Out.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 2.—At McAdam Junction, a divisional point on the C.P.R., practically all the railway employes reside in houses owned by the company. Wednesday all the men now on strike were ordered to vacate the premises immediately, and the houses will be occupied by strike-breakers.

Three Die In Wreck.

The trains met on a curve.

Morrison, together with Chief Calbeck and assistants and Inspector Blackwell, made a thorough round of the highways here Wednesday afternoon, and the result is 27 "blind pigs" in the toils. The Wheat Blockade Has Come Early In The West

Tie Up of Traffic Six Weeks Earlier in the Season Than Ever Before Owing to the Bountiful Harvest and Eagerness to Market Grain —Elevators Are Full

THE CAR SUPPLY SCARCE

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 2, Special — Loud calls for more cars from dozens of stations on the prairies mean that the inevitable wheat blockade has come.

The situation does not cause any surprise among those who have watched the course of events and the only question has been as to the time when the congestion would probably prove most serious. A blockade in the third week of September is a little previous. There would be nothing extraordinary for Western Canada in a tie-up of the grain traffic in November.

The season of 1908 is remarkable, however, in so far as the crop developments are concerned and the car famine is only playing its part in the drama of progress by appearing in September.

The latest synopsis of reports of Western conditions from agents of the Department of the Interior, continue to furnish acceptable news to the world at large. From Manitoba to the coast everything points to a most satisfactory result of the recent harvest which is now going through the threshing stage, preparatory to the final results.

From Alberta is received the usual exhilarating report that the weather over there is "All sunshine." With this comes bumper crops and big prices, notably in one place, where wheat reached the dollar mark, and oats raised from English oat seed have realized 70 bushels to the acre.

From Saskatchewan comes also interesting reports of cheering results of a bountiful harvest. Such has been the rush at Moose Jaw that a fear is expressed that a scarcity of cars may cause trouble. At this point the elevators are all full and a great demand is made for cars which are not available.

In another place it is reported that the elevators are full and also every building that could be used to store the grain is has been utilized, including a school building.

From Redvers, in Saskatchewan, stock that has been loaded on the cars has remained on the siding for some weeks, the railway company being unable to remove the cars. From another place it is reported that stock cars cannot be obtained, and that quantities of stock are going held waiting for shipment.

In Manitoba there appears to be no trouble with the railroads and a good supply of cars is reported.

WHEAT BEING MARKETED RAPIDLY

As Season Advances Contrast With Last Year Becomes More Noticeable

Examiner Special

Hamilton, Oct. 2.—As the season advances the contrast between the shipments of wheat this year and last becomes the more striking. Figures which have just been given out by the department of the fourth vice-president of the C. P. R. show that between the 1st and 26th September the quantity of wheat marketed at the elevators on the C. P. R. system west of Winnipeg amounted to 10,300,000 bushels. During the same twenty-six days last year the western farmers marketed just a trifle less than a million bushels. The splendid prices which the wheat commands in the grain markets of the world—a dollar a bushel and over—are acting like a magnet on the farmers, who are drawing the wheat as fast as teams can carry it to the railway elevators.

With ten times the quantity marketed it becomes exceedingly interesting to observe what the movement is east of Winnipeg. The fourth vice-president's figures show that on the same twenty-six days four thousand and nineteen cars were loaded as against one thousand and thirty-six in the same period last year.

A REVOLUTION IN TRANSPORTATION

Long ere the agricultural nuclei now dotting the great southern and central plains of Alberta and Saskatchewan shall have coalesced and formed compact communities of prosperous farmers, the country will have entirely outgrown the present and presently projected railway facilities. Land can and will be brought under cultivation far more rapidly than railways can be constructed.

The multiplication of farms each year increasing in cultivated area will soon create what may be likened to a mighty ocean of grain which, denied an outlet by present and projected railways, will burst its bounds and, forcing a way by every channel of least resistance, will seek the salt seas first by many newer railways, and finally on improved natural waterways.

During the six months of the year when the eastern outlets by Lake Superior and Hudson Bay are blockaded by ice, the crops will pour through the passes of the western mountains to the Pacific and, finding their way through the Panama Canal, reach the European markets. But at last the level of production will rise so high above the ability of railways to drain it away, as to compel the construction of canals connecting Lake Winnipeg with Lake Superior and with Hudson Bay, as outlets for the products of the eastern prairies; while those of Alberta and Peace River, descending the river to Lake Athabasca, thence will find their way, at first by rail, and in due time by canal, to the Bay. Possibly the northwestern crops may even find vent down the MacKenzie to the Arctic Ocean, and thence to the Pacific by Behring Sea.

The completion of the canalization of the Mississippi Valley by the United States (for even there railways have been found inadequate to meet the increasing needs of transportation) will afford to the crops of the southern plains cheap all-the-year-round access to the markets of the world by the Gulf of Mexico.

Meanwhile great cities will grow along the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains, set opposite the passes affording the easiest gradients to and from the Pacific Coast. Calgary and Edmonton already flourish and are destined to increase exceedingly; but further north there will certainly arise the city yet unborn and as yet conceived only by the optimist. In the upper Peace River Valley, Peace City, from its commanding position on the natural pass through the mountains and on the shortest route from ocean to ocean via Hudson Bay, as well as by its situation at the head of the thousands of miles of navigable waterways so bountifully provided by Providence to tap the wealth of the great Northland, will become one of the greatest commercial centres in Canada.

Turning now from the contemplation of these vast possibilities of the future to the pressing needs of the present day, we rejoice that our long hoped for outlet by the way of Hudson Bay and Straits is about to be opened by the Dominion Government. In connection with this I may be allowed to quote from my address at the Winnipeg Old Timers' banquet in 1906: "It is remarkable that we, the sons of the mighty nation that rules the waves, which by sea power has carried her commerce and founded nations yet to be all around the globe, should permit ourselves so be lulled into forgetfulness of the fact that the old-timers who preceded us gained and retained this country for the glorious British flag by following the path of empire provided by Providence through Hudson Straits and Bay to the heart of the British possessions in North America.

"No nation debarred from free access to the world's great sea-way can become permanently great, however vast its inland area. What Russia has been and still is always ready to pour out her blood and treasure for—a free seaboard—has been granted as a gift by God to our favoured land. What the White Sea is to Northern Russia; what the Baltic is to Germany, Russia and Sweden; what the Gulf of St. Lawrence is to Eastern Canada, that Hudson Bay can and will be to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

"Neither by towering iceberg nor by crushing floe has our way to the Bay been barred; but by powers behind the throne, who dread competition with a route which will annihilate one thousand miles of distance between us and our ultimate market in Europe. Even when they concede the route, which has been tried and tested by small sailing craft for centuries, to be practicable, they say that it would divert the course of trade from older Canada which poured out its wealth to develop the west. To which we have replied that Canada has become the great and prosperous and industrial nation that she is to-day almost entirely through the growth of her western territories, which have done for her what the colonies have done for Great Britain, and what the Western States have done for the Eastern States of the American Union. That whatever enriches the west must also enrich Eastern Canada, and that no one thing under national control could possibly have such tremendous influence in that way as the utilization of the Hudson's Bay route to the markets beyond the seas."

This address attracted much attention and approbation throughout the west at the time, reviving old aspirations and hopes, which are now about to be fulfilled by the determination of the Dominion Government to speedily open and operate this great natural outlet, realizing the dream of the poet, Charles Mair:

"Open the Bay, which o'er the northland broods,
Dumb, yet in labour with a mighty
fate!
Open the Bay! Humanity intrudes,
And greets, prophetic, round its cold,
Pudic,
In eager thought, and will no longer wait.

"Open the Bay! The myriad prairies
call;
Let homesteads rise and comforts
multiply;
Give to the world the shortest route
of all.
Let justice triumph though the heavens should fall!
This is the voice of reason—manhood's cry."

At this stage of the history of the west, the most natural preference that can be given to British trade, and the greatest boon that can be conferred on the western farmer will be that afforded by opening the Bay!

ISAAC COWIE,

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.

PETERBORO DEPUTATION FOR LINDSAY

To Investigate the Ozone Filtration Plant When Completed

According to a letter received by Mr. Ray, secretary of the Water Commission, from City Clerk Armstrong, of Peterborough, a deputation is being arranged for in that city to visit Lindsay as soon as the ozone filtration plant is ready, for the purpose of inspecting it.

It will be remembered that previous to the installation of the local plant Mr. Bridge went to Peterborough and brought the matter up before the Board there. They assured him that his system would receive due consideration before they made any change in their present plant. The commissioners of that city seem to be very much interested in the ozoning process and no doubt will follow Lindsay's example and be the next municipality to install the system.—Lindsay Free Press.

There will be a full list of events, and some medals have already been donated for the boys winning the highest number of points.

The membership campaign, which is now going on, will be continued until Saturday night instead of Thursday night as before stated.

Mr. Evans says the prospects for the work among the boys for the coming season are very bright, and when asked regarding the interest the boys themselves took in the rooms, he replied that the interest is growing steadily, and the special features along all lines of the work would be introduced, and he expects that with the co-operation of the parents, a great work may be done among the boys of the city.

BISHOP O'CONNOR VISITS KIRKFIELD

Pastoral Call on Saturday and Sunday Last—Solemn Service Held

Kirkfield, Oct. 2.—His Lordship Bishop O'Connor made his pastoral visit to Victoria Road and Kirkfield parish Saturday and Sunday last. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor said the early mass in Kirkfield, and gave a most practical instruction. At 10.30 o'clock Father O'Sullivan said High mass at Victoria Road, after which His Lordship preached a most eloquent sermon, taking for his text, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Galatians, 6.7. After the sermon Bishop O'Connor said he was very much delighted at the great improvements made since his last visit to the parish, and highly appreciated the innumerable efforts put forth by the pastor, Father O'Sullivan. His Lordship spoke in most praiseworthy terms of the chief benefactress and the co-operation of the whole parish.

Miss Gallagher sang the solemn high mass. Solos were beautifully rendered by Miss Shields, accompanied by Miss Graham, which was followed by the confirmation of fifty children, who marched from the presbytery to the church singing "Come, Holy Ghost," the little girls looking very sweet in their wreaths and veils.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament took place at four o'clock p.m. at which Father O'Sullivan addressed the children.

REVIVAL MEETINGS TO BEGIN

Will be Held Next Week by the Salvation Army For Five Days

Next Wednesday the Salvation Army will begin a revival campaign which will be continued until Monday the 12th. Brig. Roberts will be in charge of the meetings and will be assisted by Ensign Sheard of Toronto. The latter is a splendid singer and will take the outside meetings. Brig. Roberts is not as robust as he has been in the past and suffered a breakdown some time ago. As a result he has not taken any of the outside meetings. Further particulars of the campaign will be announced later.

A MAIL BAG MISSED AT KENDRY'S

Matter Reported to Toronto—Trouble Afloat

During the last few days the C.P.R. express trains have been missing the mail bag at Kendry station. Last Saturday, Wednesday and Thursday they failed in their duty, and Dr. Marsh states that the matter has been reported to Toronto, and there is likely to be trouble for the careless parties. The villagers at Springville who are most anxious to have the service regularly maintained are making vigourous requests that this be done, and it is likely that they will continue in this respect until they receive satisfactory attention.

WEDDING BELLS

SULLIVAN—McCORMACK

Miss Lorene Sullivan was married on Wednesday morning to William H. McCormack of Toronto. The ceremony was performed at St. Francis' Church by Rev. Father W. McCann. The bride was given away by her step-father, Mr. Samuel Clancy, while her sister Margaret attended her, and the bridegroom was supported by Mr. John Primeau, of Lindsay. The bride wore a dress of white silk organdie, with hat to match, and the bridesmaid was dressed in figured silk colienne. After breakfast Mr. and Mrs McCormack left on the 9 o'clock train for the East, and on their return they will reside in Toronto.

ADAMS—LEAN

St. John's Church, Norway, was the scene of a pretty wedding recently, when Dr. G. Arthur M. Adams, the youngest son of Dr. J. G. Adams, 86 Hazelton avenue, was married to May, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. Lean, Harwood. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Oliver E. Newton, and Miss Ella H. Farr played the wedding march. The choir, consisting of ten little girls in white, friends of the bride, sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." The bride, who wore white satin trimmed with Irish lace, came in leaning on the arm of her cousin, Mr. Gunnow, of Cobourg, who gave her away. Her tulle veil was draped over a coronet of natural lilies-of-the-valley and she carried a white prayer-book, which, with a pearl and diamond ring, was the gift of the groom. Miss Olive E. Hutton of West Toronto was bridesmaid and wore a pale blue silk voile, with garniture of bebe Irish lace and point d'esprit, white hat with pink roses and blue velvet ribbon, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. She wore the groom's gift, a pearl crescent pin. The groom's gift to the usher, Mr. Wm. Drope, of Harwood, was a pearl stick pin. While the bride and bridegroom were signing the register, Mr. Richard Clapperton sang "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet, Oh Holy." The bride's going-away dress was of navy blue cloth, with plumed hat to match. On their return from a short honeymoon Dr. and Mrs. Adams will reside in West Toronto.

THE FIRST TASTE OF THE COLD WEATHER

Has Brought Out Furs—Radiators Again in Favour

The cold weather has brought out milady's furs, sounding for this season the knell of the peek-a-boo. But that is not the only thing the October winds have done. There is trouble in those offices where the furnace is not yet in working order, and the stenographers and office are not of the most sunshiny disposition.

PETERBOROUGH BOYS LEAVING FOR WEST

Messrs. Ernest and Charles Bellingham of Bridgenorth, left Tuesday morning for Davidson, Sask., where they have secured good positions with Mr. I J Rosebrough. The boys will be greatly missed from the village as they have made many friends with the villagers. "Mike" will be missed in the city as badly as in Bridgenorth as he was an all round sport. He played goal for Bridgenorth team last winter.

FINE FURS

USUALLY the intending buyer of furs does not hesitate long in thinking as to which is the best house to buy Furs from. Lech's will be the first thought, and why? Because it is the house carrying the finest grade of manufactured Furs and the public award of reliability which is the one essential to safeguard the buyer in a purchase. We will be pleased to show styles to all who will call.

THE SECOND ADDRESS OF HON. J. R. STRATTON TO THE ELECTORS OF THE ELECTORAL DIVISION OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—In my first address to you, I aimed to point out what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and of the Dominion in promoting what may be described as the local interests of West Peterborough, in the provision of local advantages to meet local needs, and serve public interests.

I now wish to suggest some of the many reasons why the present Government should be sustained, and given an opportunity of continuing the great work it has accomplished for Canada as a whole. There is not a city resident, nor dweller in the suburbs, not a labourer, nor an artisan, not a mechanic, nor a manufacturer, nor anybody in any walk of life, that has not enjoyed more prosperity, had his welfare improved, his business benefitted, during the twelve years of rule of the present Liberal Government, which is now appealing for a renewal of its stewardship.

There is not a farmer in Peterborough county, who does not know that every farm, properly managed, has increased in value, and every farmer in prosperity, in the twelve years of Liberal rule. There is not a farmer who does not know that general conditions have been vastly improved; who does not know to what a general extent the clear deed for the farm has replaced the farm mortgage; new buildings replaced dilapidated structures; home comforts increased, and general conditions of well-being improved.

It is therefore incumbent upon me to present as concise a view as possible of the record of the Liberal Government, whose supporter I am, to set forth what it has done in the twelve years of its trusteeship to promote the general welfare of Canada.

To emphasize this record, the condition of the country previous to the Liberal Government assuming power, may be recalled. It is no exaggeration to say that at that time the country was practically at a standstill; that business was dormant; our industries languishing; manufacturers dissatisfied; the Conservative Government was fighting amongst themselves, and had ceased to effectively govern. Our finances were at low-water mark; expenditure was running ahead of receipts, deficits were almost annual, the national debt advancing, the country torn by dissensions and the outlook gloomy.

The first notable action of the Liberal Government, as a necessary preliminary to national progress, was to restore peace and harmony among the people—by the satisfactory and lasting settlement of a burning question. Peace having thus been restored, the Liberal Government was free to enter upon the work of nation-building.

The tariff, which, under previous administrations, was not giving satisfactory results, either to the people affected, or in the way of revenue, was readjusted with careful consideration of all interests, the consumer as well as the producer. The farmer was helped by having binder twine, barbed wire, Indian corn, cream separators, and articles of staple necessity, placed on the untaxed list of imports. Manufacturers, and through them the wage-earners, were helped by removal, or reduction, of duties on raw material used in manufacturing.

The result was an immediate improvement in the condition of all national interests; prosperity resumed its reign, trade became active, employment plentiful, wages increased, and a rate of good growth taken on which can only be understood by recalling some of the records.

Under the revised tariff, our revenue, even under a tariff lowered on an average of $18.28 per $100, at the close of Conservative rule to an average of $15.66 per $100, under Liberal rule, increased from thirty-six millions a year, in 1896, to ninety-six millions in 1908.

The capital invested in manufacturing establishments increased from $446,916,487 in 1900, to $833,916,155 in 1905, or over seventy million dollars per year.

The wages paid to labour in factories, increased from $113,249,350 in 1900, to $162,155,578 in 1905, or nearly ten million dollars per year.

The value of products of manufacturing establishments grew from $481,053,375, in 1900, to $706,446,578 in 1905, the increase in the manufactured output of the city of Peterborough in that period amounting to eleven millions odd, being far the greatest proportion of increase of any one place in the Dominion.

The total foreign trade—imports and exports—has in the past twelve years of Liberal administration amounted to the tremendous total of 5,152 millions of dollars.

The yearly growth of the total foreign trade of Canada is shown by the fact that it grew from $239,025,360 in 1896, to $650,738,200 in 1908.

In twelve years the farmers of Canada have received for the products of their farms sent abroad more than a thousand million dollars, and the exports of farm products have increased from $50,592,525 in 1896, to $121,171,199 in 1908.

The value of the exported products of our mines has increased from $8,059,650 in 1896, to $30,117,133 in 1908.

Forest products have increased in value of exports from $27,175,686, in 1906, to $44,170,470 in 1908.

In 1896, Canadian bank discounts the index of commercial and industrial activity, amounted to $224,507,301; they had grown to $584,732,914 in 1908—more than doubled.

The people's deposits in chartered banks and savings banks, have grown from $245,029,143 in 1896, to $630,126,232 in 1908.

The increase in tonnage carried in 1908 by Canadian railways (another index of commercial and industrial activity) was more than fifteen millions greater than the total tonnage carried in 1896, which was 24,266,825 tons as against 68,866,189 tons in 1908.

There was an increase in the export value of bacon and hams from $18,827,928 in twelve Conservative years, to $135,156,321 in the twelve Liberal years; the increase for the same period in butter export values was from $10,513,348, to more than five times—$51,680,095; in cheese, from $127,611,428, to $247,790,532; in wheat, from $45,338,791 to $121,677,659, or nearly five-fold.

In the five years of Liberal rule—from 1901 to 1905—the population of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, increased from 419,512 to 808,863. In the last two years immigration and settlement have so rapidly advanced that the population of these provinces must be well beyond the million mark, for since January 1, 1907, immigrants to the number of 1,219,943 have come into Canada.

Not only have these immigrants the very great value of a million increase of population, but the effects they brought into Canada, exclusive of personal baggage and cash, amounted to $64,442,532, which is fourteen millions more than the total exports of farm products under Conservative rule in 1896.

In 1900 the number of farms worked in these provinces was 54,625; these had increased to 120,439 four years later—1906.

In eighteen years the Conservative Government voted 56 million acres of land to railway companies, or enough to supply 411,000 homesteads of 160 acres each, whereas, in contrast, in twelve years since coming into power the Liberal Government has not given away one acre of land to a railway. The land has been reserved for the settlers, who got 35 million acres in homesteads.

This work of western development, and the increase of population, have benefitted the east; every new household creates fresh demands upon the manufactured and commercial products of eastern Canada, giving increased work to factories and increased employment to working men.

The prosperity, the all-round quickened activity of national life in Canada attendant upon Liberal rule, has given employment to Canadians at home or found homes for them in the west. This is in strong contrast to the do-nothing immigration policy of the previous Government which could not retain the immigrants brought in nor present conditions attractive enough to keep native-born population at home, nor stop the exodus of the flower of Canadian youth to the United States by the million.

The British preference, or preferential tariff, extended to Great Britain, showed the Liberal Government to represent the party of real loyalty—practical loyalty—to the empire. The result of this gift was a splendid advertisement of Canada, and secured British good-will, with the direct results that it substantially favoured the Canadian consumer, increased imports from Great Britain—three-fold—from $32,894,505 in 1896, to $94,362,383, in 1908— and doubled Canadian exports to Great Britain—from $62,717,941 in 1896, to $126,194,124, in 1908.

This preference was extended to most of the British colonies and, in return, Canada secured a preference in New Zealand, South Africa and Barbadoes, with the result that British Columbia canneries captured nearly the whole trade of New Zealand, and shut out the canneries of the United States; and Canada's example has been followed by nearly all the British colonies.

The Liberal Government passed anti-combine legislation, to prevent trade combines from raising prices contrary to the public interests.

Such a record of achievement on the more material side, on the part of the Liberal Government, amply justifies my appeal for your support to aid in retaining it in a position to continue the splendid service that has been given.

It is not, however, only in material matters, but in matters redounding to the credit of Canada, both at home and abroad, and in providing conditions for the general advantage of the people, that the Liberal Government has done work worthy of the practical recognition involved in its being given another lease of power.

Under the Liberal Government, the French treaty was negotiated by Canadian statesmen, without the help of British statesmen, subject, however, to the approval of the Home Government—a long step forward in Canadian nation-building.

The reign of the Liberal Government has been marked by unprecedented development of transportation facilities—the keynote of Canadian development, progress and prosperity. As a general result, the great bulk of the grain trade of the interior west of the continent is passing through Canadian channels, and New York and other American ports are alarmed at the formidable competition of the Canadian St. Lawrence route.

This condition was brought about by the completion of the enlargement of the St. Lawrence and Welland canal systems to a depth of 14 feet, the equipment of grain shipping harbours on Lake Superior and Georgian Bay, Lake Huron and Lake Erie; the improvement of Montreal, St. John and Halifax harbours, the deepening of the ship channel from Montreal to the Gulf, the extension of telegraph systems down the coast, the abolition of canal tolls, and the making of the St. Lawrence a safe route for ocean ships by day or night.

These great works have not only made the St. Lawrence the grain route of the continent, but directly benefitted shippers and producers—general merchandise and farm products. Last year the saving on reduced insurance rates, caused by the improvements made in the St. Lawrence by the Government, amounted to nearly a million dollars—$922,000.

In the last twelve years, the Liberal Government has expended on transportation; in improving the facilities for marketing the products of factories and farms, the large sum of $121,215,115—on canals, twenty-six millions; on Government railways thirty-one millions; on Montreal harbour and St. Lawrence ship channel, seven millions; on the chief lake harbours, two millions; in aid of the construction and extension of railways, twenty-one millions; and, so far, twenty-seven millions on Transcontinental Railway construction, have been advanced for construction, and upon which, after seven years, the Grand Trunk Pacific will pay the Dominion interest at the rate of three per cent.

In aiding railways to open up the country to development, the Liberal Government have simply invested money. The Conservative way was to give bonuses outright. The Liberal way is to make no gift, a condition of the Liberal grants being that the railways must regard them as a loan and pay in return, by the carrying of mails, an equivalent to a fair rate of interest.

The necessity of the Grand Trunk Pacific is emphasized by reasons of the conditions existing to-day. The movement of western wheat to the market is at this moment impeded by lack of cars, showing the need of more railway service. To meet conditions which will become more pressing as settlement and crop production will increase, through the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Government has decided upon building the Hudson Bay Railway, as another wheat outlet that in the open season will shorten the distance to Liverpool by thousands of miles. And the Government shows its wisdom by making the railway build itself—by providing for the cost by the sale of lands, now valueless, but made valuable by the building of the line itself.

Having regard to the future of this country, no calculation can estimate the tremendous benefits that are accruing, and will accrue to Canada, through the bold and business-like development of our transportation facilities, by the Liberal Government.

The Liberal Government conceived, and is constructing, the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will practically double the settled and cropped area of Canada, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, over a belt 200 miles wide through the heart of New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, and western Canada. It will open up millions upon millions of new territory for settlement and development; it will give development and competition in transportation to 1200 miles of grain-growing country in the west. The Transcontinental Railway, which will be completed in three or four years, will, at least, duplicate the tremendous development work accomplished by the Canadian Pacific in building up the resources and widening the sweep of Canada's commerce.

The Liberal Government's subsidy of $3,630,000 to the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, secured the speedy construction of a line that opened up the rich mineral Kootenay district, of British Columbia, covered it with thriving towns, villages and mining camps, diverted trade from the United States, and opened up a market for western farm produce. It did more. A condition of the subsidy was a reduction of freight rates by the Canadian Pacific, which built the Crow's Nest line; and this reduction, on wheat alone, saved the farmers in five years, $5,750,000, or $20,0000 more than the amount of the subsidy, not to speak of the vast indirect benefit, a saving and benefit that are to continue for all time.

The Liberal Government established the Railway Commission, whose work is to continually arbitrate between railways and customers, and to deal with and settle freight and other rates. Last session telegraph and telephone lines were brought under the Commission, and now there is assured to the public in respect of these public utilities, all the rights, privileges and advantages that could come from public ownership, and that, too, without incurring a tremendous financial liability for purchase and operation.

The Liberal Government, in its work for Agriculture, has given farming a vital organization, and made the farming interests of Canada one vast co-operative industry. Cold storage for transportation of perishable products and efficient supervision in transit, have resulted in placing Canadian farm, garden, dairy and orchard products upon the British markets in their prime original quality, with a splendid reputation and greatly increased prices.

An example of advanced legislation is the Liberal Government's old age pension act, which brings within the reach of every man and woman in Canada a means for making provision for old age.

The Liberal Government's interest in Labour is shown, not only in the broad conditions provided for creating prosperity and industrial activity, and opportunities for employment, but in providing more specific benefits. This is shown in the abolition of the sweating system, so far as concerns Government contracts; the adoption of a fair wage scale for Government contracts; the establishment of a Department of Labour to be placed in charge of a Minister of its own; the publication of the Labour Gazette; the passing of the Lemieux Act, which though only operative since March of last year, has up to August last, been instrumental in amicable settlement of nearly forty strikes, involving over 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and satisfactory arrangements were made for the limitation and practical cessation of Oriental immigration.

The Liberal Government's adoption of a revenue tariff that produced revenue, made it financially possible to meet the pressing demands of the provinces for increased subsidies, amounting to nearly five million dollars a year of the people's money returned directly to the people for provincial purposes.

The Liberal Government's management of the Post Office is a triumph of business administration. With a reduction in postage rate of over one-third, and with a vastly increased and improved service, a deficit of $750,000 in 1896 was converted into a surplus which steadily increased year by year till this year it reached the large amount of $1,101,827. Such a fruit of good management permitted the Government to initiate another great postal reform—rural mail delivery—that is free mail delivery to farmers, and before the year is out it will be in operation.

The splendid financial administration of the Liberal Government may be summarized in a few words—we have paid our way, and spent large sums in great public works for the development of the country, without appreciably adding to the public debt, and wihout increasing—but actually reducing—the taxation of the people. Customs taxation was reduced from $18.28 per $100, in 1896, to $15.66 per $100 in 1907, not to mention over one-third reduction in postage rates. If the Conservative average of taxation had been in force since 1896, fifty millions more customs duties would have been paid. The Liberal period of rule has been a reign of surpluses—totalling over one hundred and thirteen millions, or about nine and a half million dollars per year. Conservative revenue averaged thirty six million dollars per year for twelve years ending with 1896. Liberal revenue showed an increase every year till the last fiscal year, when it reached $96,054,905. In the twelve years the expenditure had only grown from $36,949,142, in 1896, to $76,061,451, in 1908.

The expenditure has only kept pace with the progress of Canada, and the Liberal Government has made generous expenditure on public works, which will return to the people a thousand fold.

The financial condition of Canada is sound. Her securities list on a par with securities guaranteed by the British Government, and the confidence of British capitalists is shown by the fact that in the first seven months of this year, British money to aid Canadian development was sent in from England to the amount of 143 millions of dollars.

Among the acts of the Government to advance Canada, the Liberal Government has established an assay office in British Columbia, and the establishment of a Canadian mint, in which our gold and silver coins are produced, adds to our dignity as a nation, and is also a source of profit.

The Liberal Government has enacted legislation concerning the observance of the Lord's Day.

The Liberal Government has appointed civil service commissioners to provide for eliminating political influence in appointments to the civil service.

The Government, acting on the principle that if Canada maintains a Militia, it must be the best, has instituted a great many reforms. New branches of service have been established; the pay of the militia has been increased from 50 cents per day to a possible $1.00; a permanent training camp has been established at Petawawa rifle ranges, and armouries—including one in Peterborough—have been established and built, and the defence of the country amply provided for. The Government has established a rifle factory in Canada, and the "Ross Rifle," to arm the Canadian militia, and pronounced by British experts as the best arm of precision now made, is a "made in Canada" article.

In presenting the foregoing truly remarkable record of achievements, only the salient points of merit have been indicated. A book would be required to unfold it in detail. But enough is shown to amply justify an appeal to the people for a renewal of confidence in a Government which in the short space of twelve years, has brought Canada into a position of prominence in the eyes of the world, has conquered the favour of the Mother Land; has brought Canada from being a timorous dependency, over-awed by hostile tariff-makers in the United States, to the rank of a nation, making her own treaties, coining her own money, a nation full of self reliance and confidence in a future of magnificent realization, for which the foundations have been laid strong and deep by the Liberal Government of the Dominion, whose stewardship is now under review, with confidence that it will meet popular approval.

Such a Government, I have the honour of supporting, and soliciting you to support, in the person of the Liberal candidate. If I am honoured by your confidence, I can only promise that I will endeavour, to the best of my ability, to repeat the efforts to serve West Peterborough and the country, which I have exerted in the course of my past representative relations, with a single eye to serving and promoting the best interests of Peterborough—city and county.

I have the honour to remain, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN CANADA ARE ONCE MORE ON THE UPTURN

Statistics From Eleven Centres Show Increasing Activity—Outlook Highly Encouraging

AN EXPANSION MOVEMENT

Activity in the building industries is on the ascendancy. Reports from the various representative centres of Canada show that despite the falling off during the earlier part of the year, conditions are rapidly improving, and the indications are that the remainder of 1908 will probably break all records in fall building.

The financial slump that came down upon us so suddenly last October had a tendency to bring an abrupt stop to the remarkable wave of expansion that had swept over the country, and although no real causes for anxiety were evident, general confidence seemed to be shaken, and the financial institutions of the country became cautious and began a paring down process on industrial loans. The result was that one of the first branches of business to be affected was the building industry, and when the spring of 1908 opened up it was found that because of financial difficulties a large number of building projects had to be postponed.

The "bug-bear," "tight money," however, has turned out like the dog that barks loud, but never bites, and confidence has been rapidly restored, and we find that building in August in 1908 in almost every city in Canada has shown a remarkable increase over that of the same period of 1907, which in most cases was considered a record-breaking year.

This is a healthy indication, in so far as there is no truer barometer of the actual condition of industrial prosperity than building. A man cannot build without he has a surplus of cash, or is enabled to finance. At all events, whenever a building is constructed it is evidence that an available surplus of cash exists somewhere.

To determine with a fair degree of accuracy the exact conditions that exist throughout the country generally, "Construction" has secured statistics from eleven representative cities of the Dominion, showing the aggregate cost of buildings for which permits were issued for August, 1908, as compared with August, 1907, and the aggregate cost of buildings for which permits were issued for the first eight months of 1908, as compared with 1907.

In eleven cities reported in the table below, the cost of buildings for the first eight months of 1908 was $24,124,915, as compared with $32,959,089 for the same period of 1907, thus showing a decrease of 26.8+ per cent.

In nine cities for which figures were secured for the month of August, the aggregate cost of buildings for August, 1908, was $3,854,984, as compared with $3,194,536 for the corresponding month of 1907, thus showing an increase of 20.67 per cent.

From this it can be seen, that Canada's principal centres have turned a decrease of 26.84 per cent. for the first eight months of 1908 into an increase of 20.67 per cent. for the month of August, 1908, as compared with the same periods of 1907.

It will be noted that Regina shows the largest increase (329.13 per cent.); Toronto the smallest increase (6.06 per cent.); Vancouver the largest decrease (23.96 per cent., and St. John, N.B., the smallest decrease (19.06 per cent.) for the month of August.

Fort William has the largest increase (90.15 per cent.); Edmonton the smallest increase (8.5 per cent.); Montreal the largest decrease (50.32 per cent.), and Winnipeg the smallest decrease (27.3 per cent.) for the first eight months of the year.

In view of the general opinion that Winnipeg suffered most from the money stringency, it is worthy of note that the decrease in her building was much lower than that of any of our larger eastern cities.

Only three of the cities reported show a decrease for August, viz.,—Vancouver, Calgary and St. John, N. B., while only three show an increase for the first eight months of the year, viz.,—Vancouver, Edmonton and Fort William.

Reports as to prospects for the remainder of the year were generally bright, and it seems to be the consensus of opinion that the year will finish well. There seems to be a large amount of building that was contemplated early in the year, and for financial reasons had to be postponed, that is being proceeded with this fall.

Reports from the various cities as to the outlook for the future were as follows: Montreal, "Good"; Toronto, "Good"; Vancouver, "The indications are for a busy time for the next four months"; Winnipeg, "Fair"; Fort William, "Good"; Hamilton, "Fair"; Edmonton, "Looks bright, should close at end of year near the $3,000,000 mark"; Regina, "Fairly bright"; Calgary, "Very good"; St. John, N.B., "No change for better this season, prospects look bright for next year."—Construction.

The Spoilers.

By REX E. BEACH.

Copyright, 1906, by Rex E. Beach.

A wrenched and doubled mass of zinc had hurtled out of the heavens and struck some one down. The choking hoarseness of the man's appeal told the story, and those about him broke into flight to escape what might follow, to escape this danger they could not see but which swooped out of the blackness, above and against which there was no defense. They fled only to witness another and greater light behind them by which they saw themselves running, falling, groveling. This time they were hurled from their balance by a concussion which dwarfed the two preceding ones. Some few stood still, staring at the rolling smoke bank as it was revealed by the explosion, their eyes gleaming white, while others buried their faces in their bent arms as if to shut out the hellish glare, or to shield themselves from a blow.

Out in the heart of the chaos rang a voice loud and clear:

"Beware the next blast!"

At the same instant the girdle of sharpshooters rose up, smiting the air with their cries and charged in like madmen through the rain of detritus. They fired as they came, but it was unnecessary, for there was no longer a fight. It was a rout. The defenders, feeling they had escaped destruction only by a happy chance in leaving the bunk house the instant they did, were not minded to tarry here where the heavens fell upon their heads. To augment their consternation, the horses had broken from their stalls and were plunging through the confusion. Fear swept over the men, blind, unreasoning, contagious, and they rushed out into the night, colliding with their enemies, overrunning them in the panic to quit this spot. Some dashed off the bluff and fell among the pits and sluices. Others ran up the mountain side, and cowered in the brush like quail.

As the "Stranglers" assembled their prisoners near the ruins, they heard wounded men moaning in the darkness, so lit torches and searched out the stricken ones. Glenister came running through the smoke pall, revolver in hand, crying:

"Has any one seen McNamara?" No one had, and when they were later assembled to take stock of their injuries he was greeted by Dextry's gleeful announcement:

"That's the dopes of a fight. We ain't got so much as a cold sore among us."

"We have captured fourteen," another announced, "and there may be more out yonder in the brush."

Glenister noted with growing surprise that not one of the prisoners flinched up beneath the glaring torches were the army "blue." They were miners all, employees and ruffians gathered from the camp. Where, he wondered, were the soldiers?

"Beware the next blast!"

"Didn't you have troops from the barracks to help you?" he asked.

"Not a troop. We haven't seen a soldier since we've been working."

At this the young leader became alarmed. Had this whole attack miscarried? Had this been no clash with the United States forces, after all? If so, the news would never reach Washington, and instead of accomplishing his end, he and his friends had thrust themselves into the realms of outlawry, where the soldiers could be employed against them with impunity, where prices would rest upon their heads. Innocent blood had been shed, court property destroyed. McNamara had them where he wanted them at last. They were at bay.

The unwounded prisoners were taken to the boundaries of the Midas and released with such warnings as the imagination of Dextry could conjure up. Then Glenister assembled his men, speaking to them plainly:

"Boys, this is no victory. In fact, we're worse off than we were before and our biggest fight is coming. There's a chance to get away now before daylight and before we're recognized, but if we're seen here at sunup we'll have to stay and fight. Soldiers will be sent against us, but if we hold out, and the struggle is fierce enough, it may reach to Washington. This will be a different kind of fighting now, though. It will be warfare pure and simple. How many of you will stick?"

"All of us," said they in unison, and, accordingly, preparations for a siege were begun. Barricades were built, ruins removed, buildings transformed into blockhouses, and all through the turbulent night the tired men labored till ready to drop, led always by the young giant, who seemed without fatigue.

It was perhaps four hours after midnight when a man sought him out.

"Somebody's callin' you on the assay office telephone—says it's life or death."

Glenister hurried to the building, which had escaped the shock of the explosions, and, taking down the receiver, was answered by Cherry Malotte.

"Thank God, you're safe!" she began. "The men have just come in and the whole town is awake over the riot. They say you've killed ten people in the fight. Is it true?"

He explained to her briefly that all was well, but she broke in:

"Wait, wait! McNamara has called for troops and you'll all be shot. Oh, what a terrible night it has been! I haven't been to bed. I'm going mad. Now, listen carefully: Yesterday Helen went with Struve to the Sign of the Sled and she hasn't come back."

The man at the end of the wire cried out at this, then choked back his words to hear what followed. His free hand began making strange, futile motions as though he traced patterns in the air.

"I can't raise the roadhouse on the wire and—something dreadful has happened I know."

"What made her go?" he shouted.

"To save you," came Cherry's faint reply. "If you love her, ride fast to the Sign of the Sled or you'll be too late. The Bronco Kid has gone there"—

At that name Roy crashed the instrument to its hook and burst out of the shanty, calling loudly to his men.

"What's up?"

"Where are you going?"

"To the Sign of the Sled," he panted. "We've stood by you, Glenister, and you can't quit us like this," said one angrily. "The trail to town is good, and we'll take it if you do." Roy saw they feared he was deserting, feared that he had heard some alarming rumor of which they did not know.

"We'll let the mine go, boys, for I can't ask you to do what I refuse to do myself, and yet it's not fear that's sending me. There's a woman in danger, and I must go. She courted ruin to save us all, risked her honor to try and right a wrong—and—I'm afraid of what has happened while we were fighting here. I don't ask you to stay till I come back—it wouldn't be square, and you'd better go while you have a chance. As for me—I gave up the old claim once—I can do it again." He swung himself to the horse's back, settled into the saddle and rode out through the lane of belted men.

CHAPTER XX.

As Helen and her companion ascended the mountain, scarred and swept by the tempest of the previous night, they heard, far below, the swollen torrent brawling in its bowlder ridden bed, while behind them the angry ocean spread southward to a blood red horizon. Ahead, the bleak mountains brooded over forbidding valleys; to the west a buffused sun glared sullenly, painting the high piled clouds with the gorgeous hues of a stormy sunset. To Helen the wild scene seemed dyed with the colors of flame and blood and steel.

"That rain raised the deuce with the trails," said Struve, as they picked their way past an unsightly "slip" whence a part of the overhanging mountain, loosened by the deluge, had slid into the gulch. "Another storm like that would wash out these roads completely."

Even in the daylight it was no easy task to avoid these danger spots, for the horses floundered on the muddy soil. Vaguely the girl wondered how she would find her way back in the darkness, as she had planned. She said little as they approached the roadhouse, for the thoughts within her brain were not pleasant.

The man was dozing when Struve entered the roadhouse, but he sprang to his feet at the sound of the door and stood blinking in the light of the candle which he turned to her.

"Now for the bargain, eh?"

"Ask the man to remove those dishes," she said as she untied the parcel with clumsy fingers.

"I sent him away two hours ago," said Struve, arising as if to come to her. She shrank back, but he only leaned across, gathered up the four corners of the tablecloth and, twisting them together, carried the whole thing out, the dishes crashing and jangling as he threw his burden recklessly into the kitchen. Then he returned and stood with his back to the stove, staring at her while she perused the contents of the papers, which were more voluminous than she had supposed.

For a long time the girl pored over the documents. The purport of the papers was only too obvious, and as she read the proof of her uncle's guilt stood out clear and damning. There was no possibility of mistake. The whole wretched plot stood out plain, its darkest infamies revealed.

In spite of the cruelty of her disillusionment Helen was nevertheless exalted with the fierce ecstasy of power, with the knowledge that justice would at last be rendered. It would be her triumph and her expiation that she, who had been the unwitting tool of this miserable clique, would be the one through whom restitution was made. She arose with her eyes gleaming and lips set.

"It is here."

"Of course it is. Enough to convict us all. It means the penitentiary for your precious uncle and your lover." He stretched his chin upward at the mention as though to free his throat from an invisible clutch. "Yes, your lover particularly, for he's the real one. That's why I brought you here. He'll marry you, but I'll be the best man." The timbre of his voice was unpleasant.

"Come, let us go," she said.

"Go," he chuckled mirthlessly. "That's a fine example of unconscious humor."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, first, no human being could find his way down to the coast in this tempest; second—but, by the way, let me explain something in these papers while I think of it." He spoke casually and stepped forward, reaching for the package, which she was about to give up, when something prompted her to snatch it behind her back, and it was well she did, for his hand was but a few inches away. He was no match for her quickness, however, and she glided around the table, thrusting the papers into the front of her dress. The sudden contact with Cherry's revolver gave her a certain comfort. She spoke now with determination.

"I intend to leave here at once. Will you bring my horse? Very well, I shall do it myself."

She turned, but his indolence vanished like a flash, and, springing in front of the door, he barred her way.

"Hold on, lady. You ought to understand without my saying any more. Why did I bring you here? Why did I plan this little party? Why did I send that man away? Just to give you the proof of my complicity in a crime, I suppose. Well, hardly. You won't leave here tonight. And when you do you won't carry those papers. My own safety depends on that, and I am selfish, so don't get me started. Listen!" They caught the wail of the night crying as though hungry for sacrifice. "No, you'll stay here and"—

He broke off abruptly, for Helen had stepped to the telephone and taken down the receiver. He leaped, snatched it from her and then, tearing the instrument loose from the wall, raised it above his head, dashed it upon the floor and sprang toward her, but she wrenched herself free and fled across the room. The man's white hair was wildly tumbled, his face was purple, and his neck and throat showed swollen, throbbing veins. He stood still, however, and his lips cracked into his ever present, cautious smile.

"Now, don't let's fight about this. It's no use, for I've played to win. You have your proof—now I'll have my price—or else I'll take it. Think over which it will be while I lock up."

Far down the mountain side a man was urging a broken pony recklessly along the trail. The beast was blown and spent, its knees weak and bending, yet the rider forced it as though behind him yelled a thousand devils, spurring headlong through gully and ford, up steep slopes and down invisible ravines. Sometimes the animal stumbled and fell with its master, sometimes they arose together, but the man was heedless of all except his haste, insensible to the rain, which smote him blindingly, and to the wind, which seized him savagely upon the ridges or gasped at him in the gullies with exhausted malice. At last he gained the plateau and saw the roadhouse light beneath, so drove his heels into the flanks of the wind broken creature, which lunged forward gamely. He felt the pony rear and drop away beneath him, pawing and scrambling, and instinctively kicked his feet free from the stirrups, striving to throw himself out of the saddle and clear of the thrashing hoofs. It seemed that he turned over in the air before something smote him, and he lay still, his gaunt, dark face upturned to the rain, while about him the storm screamed exultantly.

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. THE DOCTORS SAID "THERE MUST BE AN OPERATION"

"Fruit-a-tives" Saved Mrs. McCready Untold Suffering and Almost Certain Death.

"Publish this for humanity's sake," writes Mr. C. McCready, of Putnam, Ont., in his letter to the owners of "Fruit-a-tives". Physicians said that only an operation could save his wife's life. But again "Fruit-a-tives" proved its wonderful powers. The doctors were wrong—Mrs. McCready is to-day well and strong—and "Fruit-a-tives" have made friends of every one for miles around Putnam.

"Dear Sirs,—My wife suffered for over a year from Indigestion and Bowel trouble. Several doctors treated her for this trouble and advised her that only an operation would save her life, as they stated it was a tumor that was causing the trouble. The operation was to cost $100.00 and, while she was debating in her own mind about being operated on, she was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" which I procured for her from our local merchant. From the first box she improved, and after having taken four boxes she is completely cured and is now as well as ever.

I decided then that "Fruit-a-tives" was the most wonderful remedy in the world and it certainly saved my wife's life. She still takes one tablet every night, we also give them to the children with excellent results, and they have to thank "Fruit-a-tives" for the fact that their mother is now with them, they fully expected she would be in her grave. Publish this for humanity's sake."

(Sgd.) C. McCready.

For Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Constipation and Biliousness—for all troubles due to defective action of Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, "Fruit-a-tives" is a certain cure. These tablets are made of fruit juices and tonics, are pleasant to take and quick to act. Trial size, 25c—regular size, 50c a box or 6 for $2.50.

STUBBORN INDIGESTION

One Who Had Suffered for Years Cured by Dr. William's Pink Pills

The symptoms of stomach trouble vary. Some victims have a ravenous appetite, while others loathe the sight of food. Often there is a feeling as of weight on the chest, a full feeling in the throat. With others there is an intense pain and feeling of nausea after eating. Sometimes gas presses on the heart and leads the sufferer to think he has heart disease. Sick headaches is another frequent and distressing symptom.

Mr. Alex. McKay, McLellan's Mountain, N.S., says:—"For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which was gradually growing worse and worse, and it would be impossible for me to tell how much suffering I endured. At different times I had treatment from three good doctors but it did not help me in the least. Then I began trying all sorts of advertised medicines and took ten packages of one medicine specially intended for dyspepsia, but with no better results. I had practically come to regard myself as incurable, and to feel that I would be a continuous sufferer, when one day I read in a newspaper of the cure of indigestion through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I made up my mind to give them a trial. I had used nearly five boxes before they began to help me, but I do not wonder at this as my case was so bad. I used in all a dozen boxes of the pills, and they cured me completely. I can now eat anything we raise on the farm for man to eat and have no longer the pains and discomfort I had endured for years. It is several years now since I was cured, and I have never felt a symptom of indigestion since. I am well known in this locality and you are quite at liberty to use what I say in the hope that it will benefit some other sufferer."

All medicine dealers sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Constitution.

The first draft of the constitution contained an enumeration of the states by name after the word "people"—as "We, the people of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Virginia"—but it became impossible to retain this form after the adoption of the seventh and last article, which provided that the ratification by nine states should be sufficient to establish the constitution as between them, and for the plain reason that it was impossible to determine whether all the states would ratify or, if they failed, which they would be; or, if nine should ratify, how to designate them. No alternative was thus left but to omit the enumeration and to insert in its place "United States."—New York American.
